THE GOOD OLD SUN

W. LYMAN HUME, Esq., M.D., says:

I took my last policy in the "Sun Life" five years ago. You may think how agreeably surprised I was to receive your letter of the 28th ult., informing me that my share of the profits earned by my Policy during the last five years amounted to $205.80 IN CASH; or if I preferred they would give me $46.65 a year for for the next five years, to be used as an annual reduction of my yearly premium; or better still they would increase my policy by $311.00, making it worth $5,311 instead of $5,000, upon which I would continue to pay the old premium. This is the option I have chosen.

Suppose that instead of insuring I had placed the amount of my premium $277.75, in the Bank each year, and had allowed the interest to be compounded for five years at three per cent., the interest allowed by all safe, conservative Banks. What would be the results? To-day I should receive $130.11 as the accumulated interest from the Bank, instead of $205.80 from the "Sun Life," a difference of $75.70; but in addition to this the Company has carried the risk on my life for $5,000, which they might have been called at any time to pay.

This is in marked contrast with the so-called Fraternal Societies. I have a policy of $1,000 in one of the best of them; I was notified the other day that my policy would be reduced one-half, or my premium doubled. The "Sun" increases my policy, or reduces my premium; the Fraternal Society reduces my policy or increases my premium; it should not be a difficult matter to choose which is the better system of the two.

The "Good Old Sun," may it never set except to rise again with increased effulgence!

"What have you discovered?"

"This." She handed me a small slip of paper. "I found it inside the lining of the little leather box."

"A cipher!" I cried, sharing some of her excitement.

The bit of paper, perhaps three inches long by an inch wide, was of almost parchment-like fineness and bore a number of peculiar characters written in black ink. At the first glance it suggested a safe combination; but after a minute's intent examination, during which the girl could scarcely restrain her eager impatience, I was obliged to forego that idea.

"Good for you!" was my admiring tribute. The color heightened in her cheeks. "I wonder, now, since you were keen enough to find it, whether you can make anything of it? Honestly—do you know—when I examined that box I never thought to look under the lining."

"It's Greek to me," she said.

"To me, too. I'd give a good deal to know what those hieroglyphs mean."

She clapped her hands with sudden delight.

"My!" she exclaimed, "it's just like a story! Isn't this what you call a cryptograph? It tells where a hidden treasure is, does it not?"

Glancing at her beautiful, animated countenance, I answered truthfully, "Yes"; but added, "It at least points me to a treasure that is unattainable."

For an instant she was puzzled, then she bent suddenly over the cipher and asked no more questions.

We had gone in to the big library table, where, with heads pleasantly close together, we studied in silence the seemingly meaningless characters. But after some minutes devoted to this exercise, we were constrained to give it up as hopeless. This is what the paper bore:

(10) 4→ 13← 17→ 11→ 5← (10)

"I'm afraid I shall prove to be a very indifferent assistant," she lamented, with a rueful little laugh. "I didn't deserve your commendation even for finding the cipher, because, while I was examining the box I was too intent on listening to you and that dreadful Burk creature to heed what I was doing. I felt the paper crackle, and then saw a corner of it through one of the rents in the faded blue satin."

"Never mind now. Maybe we shall understand it later. Some ciphers, you know, are to be read only in connection with something else; I think this is such a one. Let's put it away and take up something that I know you can help me with.

"That faded card"—I pointed to it lying upon the table, and noted that her face instantly grew grave—"why did you start so when you first looked at it—just as we heard Burke on the porch?"

She regarded me steadily.

"Mr. Swift, that is my aunt's handwriting—her name."

"Do you mean Mrs. Fluette?" I was in truth unprepared for this blunt announcement.

"Yes," she replied simply.

I believe the first effect of this disclosure was no more than an uneasy, apprehensive feeling; but in a flash the possibilities entailed began to occur to me, and I was left groping for words.

During the silence that followed I vainly tried to arrange my thoughts; the color slowly faded from Miss Cooper's face, and by and by she averted it from mine. I knew that our minds were working in parallel currents; I knew without looking at her that she was anxious and trembling.

At last I secured a grip upon myself, and I addressed her with decision.

"You believe I will do what is right, do you not?"

"Yes," she murmured, without looking up.

"Then I fear that our pact is to be short-lived, after all. This cursed tragedy is twining its tentacles nearer home than either of us dreamt of."

What, in the bitterness of my own reflections, was I allowing myself to say! I silently cursed myself for a blundering fool. The girl's gray face, the pinched look of it, frightened me. I started from my chair.

"Miss Cooper!"

For her head had dropped forward upon one curved arm, and she was shaken by a storm of tears.

CHAPTER III.

Disclosures

After some minutes of miserable waiting on my part, the storm spent itself; she sat upright again, dried her eyes upon a bit of handkerchief, and spoke—quite calmly, but terribly in earnest.

"Mr. Swift, I know what your inference is—that Uncle Alfred must be in some way involved—but you don't know all the significance of the flash of understanding that so overwhelmed me. The idea that there could ever have been a love affair between Aunt Clara and Mr. Page is astounding enough"—she glanced at the card—"eighteen fifty-seven: why, she was only a mere slip of a girl then; much younger than I am now!"

It was patent that the revelation had startled and thrilled her; however, there was a more insistent, underlying trouble struggling for expression.

"But—Mr. Swift—do you think that this wheat deal has hurt Uncle Alfred financially?"

Poor child! One could not smile at the simplicity of such a question. I now thought I knew the foundation of this new fear that was gripping at her heart. But I didn't—not entirely; there was another surprise in store for me.

"It is very likely," I soberly made answer.

For all I knew to the contrary, his entire fortune might have been wiped out in the crash; he might have been beggared, stripped utterly; although, since he had not engineered the corner single-handed, he would be obliged to meet only his proportion of the total loss, whatever that might be. An outsider might only guess.

"It is not charitable to think or speak ill of the dead," she was saying, "but, oh! what a cruel, pitiless man Mr. Page was. Think of the long years of persecution Uncle Alfred has had to endure."

But I was regarding the matter from quite a different point of view. I was thinking rather of that broken wheat corner as the culminating stroke of an implacable enemy; of the probability that the rifled safe contained more love-tokens similar to the card—so many more, in fact, that the thief did not miss the one he had lost. I was thinking that the warfare between the two men had its inception much further back in the past than anybody had ever imagined, and that it was no longer strange why Page had wrested the ruby from his rival. One must consider Fluette's passion for collecting rare gems to appreciate to the full the consummate malice of that coup.

This disturbed pondering, however, carried me round in a circle. If there had been love-tokens in the safe from Clara Cooper, Alfred Fluette was the only man living who would have any interest in getting them from Page. Again, if Page's hatred of Fluette was so intense that he would part with a fortune merely to deprive his rival of a coveted jewel, would he give this same jewel to a nephew for whom he entertained no liking, knowing that the jewel was destined for his enemy, simply upon that nephew's demand? Why, the bare grouping of the facts discredited Maillot's story; he was left in a worse plight than before.

I trust it is at least clear how heterogeneous were the elements of this crime.

And then—to start swinging round the circle once more—if Alfred Fluette was entirely blameless of Felix Page's murder, the tragedy could not have occurred at a more unfortunate time for him. Considering all the circumstances, it would be no great strain upon the credulity to picture Fluette, driven to desperation, ridding himself of the foe that had hounded him to ruin.

There was nothing else for me to do except follow these avenues to the end; but whichever was the right one, that end must be bitter. I met the piteous look in Genevieve Cooper's eyes, and my heart sank.

I have often been told that when I want it to be my countenance is illegible; assuredly, at this moment it was not my desire that she should glimpse the tumult of thought and emotion to which I was a prey; but I have reasons, numberless as the sands of the sea, for knowing that it never was indecipherable to the bright blue eyes now searching it so earnestly.

All at once Miss Cooper was on her feet, the shadow of a great dread darkening her countenance; her voice trembled like the voice of a little child that is afraid. Her next words supplied more definite knowledge respecting her uncle's financial condition.

"I told you that both my parents died when I was an infant, Mr. Swift; they did not leave me entirely penniless. Uncle Alfred is the guardian of my estate—my personal guardian, too—and he—my God, I can't say it!"

"Perhaps," said I, gently, "I can surmise what you can't bring yourself to put into words: is it that he may be unable to strictly account for his trust?"

"No—that's not it—not exactly," she said, with manifest effort. "But it is almost as bad.

"I was of age the fifth of last month—December—and on that day Uncle Alfred came to me in great distress. He told me that he was expecting any day—almost any hour—that a demand would be made upon him for an enormous sum of money; a demand that he would have to meet promptly or go down in utter ruin. He told me that his own affairs were in such shape that he couldn't raise near the amount of the demand, and that he would be obliged to eke it out with my patrimony.

"I don't know whether or not the demand has ever been made; I don't know whether or not he has used any of my fortune—it isn't much; but he is welcome to every penny of it, for he has always been good and kind and generous. I have never asked him for an accounting, nor has he volunteered one. I simply don't know what to think. If he is in such desperate straits it is inevitable that his name will be linked with this crime. Poor Belle! Poor Aunt Clara!"

I could not dispute the reasonableness of her conclusion; her own mind had already linked the man with the crime. But what was the nature of the demand he was expecting? Her disclosure was mystifying. It was not probable that he had anticipated failure for his Board of Trade operations at such an early date.

"It was a foolish step, my coming here to see you," Miss Cooper complained heartbrokenly; "it places me in a bitterly cruel position. Knowing what I do now, if I remain silent I may be to blame for Belle suffering through Royal's unjust accusation; if I speak I will be treacherous to the very heart that has fostered me."

HANISH A WITNESS

Head of Mazdaznan Figures In Trial In Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—Against his desire, Ottoman Zar Adusht Hanish, head of the Mazdaznan cult, was yesterday called to the witness stand before Judge Pinkney in the juvenile court, where Charles R. Lindsay is seeking to gain possession of his nephew, William Lindsay, heir to an estate in Philadelphia, who was taken from the "Temple," of the Mazdaznans in December and placed in the custody of the court.

The boy was not in court, neither was his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth V. Lindsay, and the attorney declared that he did not know the whereabouts of the lad, and added that he had been made the victim of a conspiracy to prevent the boy being brought into court.

The Mazdaznan cult is said to be a revival of the ancient Persian fire worshippers, and many forms of ceremonies, together with posturing and breathing exercises, are said to be in its ritual.

Lindsay complained to the court that the Mazdaznan Temple was not a proper place for a small boy, even though his mother was there.

On the witness stand the head of the cult was asked questions regarding the practices at the temple over which he presides.

A number of women members of the cult objected to the presence of photographers in the court-room, and they were ordered to put away their cameras.

Hanish said he had received the title of "doctor" from a medical college and the title "reverend" from the Association of Mazdaznan. He denied that at any time he had control or custody of the boy.

The Mazdaznan leader was asked concerning trips to Montreal, Los Angeles and Salt Lake City, which he had made, accompanied by the Lindsay boy. Hanish said the boy's mother paid the expenses of the lad and that she was a member of his church.

Hanish said the boy called him doctor and sometimes "master" and that Mrs. Lindsay also used the latter title in addressing him.

He emphatically declared he had not seen William Lindsay since he was taken from the Mazdaznan Temple in December at the order of the court.

Shoe Machinery Case.

Montreal, Jan. 5.—A vast amount of technical evidence as to different machines and the relative cost of buying outright and leasing machines from the United Shoe Machinery Co. was given yesterday afternoon at the session of the commission investigating the charges against the latter company.

George A. Fortin of the Scout Shoe Co., Ltd., was on the stand all afternoon. Among other things he said that his company was operating throughout with machines secured from independent companies and that they considered they got better results in this way, because by buying the machines outright they were paid for within about four years, and their lifetime was approximately twenty years, while by doing business with the United Shoe Machinery Co. they had to pay leases and royalties and never owned the machines. The leasing system was slightly higher to manufacturers, he thought.

By-Products Profitable.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—By-products yield 97 per cent. of the profits of the packing business, according to figures given by Wm, D. Miles, formerly general manager of the Armour Packing Co. of Kansas City, who concluded his testimony yesterday in the trial of the ten Chicago packers, charged with criminal violation of the Sherman law. He gave the company's net profits for 1899 as $202,875 in the dressed beef department, based on the slaughter of 204,820 animals.

An analysis of these figures showed that the company made but three cents profits on dressed meat of each steer killed, while the fat of each animal yielded a profit of 42 cents. The profit on hides was 37 cents a head and 18 cents profit was obtained from the glue manufactured from the hoofs.

COMMITTEES OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION

Mr. John Crane is Re-elected Chairman for This Year

The inaugural meeting of the Board of education was held last evening, all the members being present. The session was very short and by a unanimous vote Mr. John Crane was returned as chairman for the coming year. The appointment was a popular one and the chairman was applauded as he again took his place at the head of the table. The appointment of the standing committees for the year followed, the committee to draft out the standing committees on motion of Dr. Burnham being Messrs. T. H. Adams, Col. Miller, L. M. Hayes, K.C., and W. H. Hill.

FINANCE COMMITTEE

Chairman, T. H. Adams; L. M. Hayes, K.C., V. Eastwood and Dr. Morrison.

PROPERTY COMMITTEE

COMMITTEE ON APPOINTMENTS

Chairman, W. H. Hill, and the whole Board.

SUPERVISION COMMITTEE

Chairman, Dr. Morrison, B. F. Ackerman, Dr. Burnham, and W. H. Hill.

A deputation of Messrs. F. W. Doan and Geo. Powell waited upon the Board to complain of the action of the Inspector of public schools, and Mr. R. F. Downey, principal of the Central school, who transferred nine pupils from the Central school to the Queen Alexandra owing to over-crowding at the former school. The children of the two gentlemen were among those who had been transferred and the deputation felt that it was rather a hardship to have the children travel the long distance extra which the change has necessitated. The rooms from which the children were transferred were over-crowded and this forced the inspector to make the transfer.

Mr. W. H. Hill explained the difficulty to the two gentlemen, and moved that the matter be left in the hands of the supervision committee and this was decided. The difficulty would have the careful consideration of the Board and, if possible, a remedy affected.

The matter of having a group photo of the Board hung in the board room was discussed and generally favored

SUCCESSFUL W. A. A. RECITAL

The Assembly Hall of the Public Library Building was filled with an appreciative and cultured audience last evening, who had gathered to hear that gifted newspaper lady, "Katherine Hall" of the Mail & Empire staff, or as she is known to her friends Miss Annie Warnock. The program as given by Miss Warnock and Mrs. Alice Roger Collins, was a rare treat. The Women's Art Association are to be congratulated on the success of the affair, and to be commended for affording an opportunity to the people of Peterboro of hearing these two delightful entertainers.

Miss Warnock is endeavoring to arouse a patriotic interest amongst Canadians in our own folk love and songs. and advocated a wider knowledge of our Canadian poets and authors. The many excerpts that Miss Warnock gave her audience last evening, showed surely that our own poets, composers and authors were worthy of first place in our esteem Miss Warnock gave as her first number a sketch of the history of Indian tribal melodies, telling in a most interesting manner of the lives and legends of the early peoples of this part of America. To accompaniment played with much sympathy by Mrs. Collins. Miss Warnock sang three Indian songs, "Green Corn Dance," "The White Dawn" and "Love Song." Then followed a short sketch of the Habitant songs, and in these Miss Warnock's delightful soprano voice appeared to the best advantage. "Ma Patrie," the much loved song of the habitant, and made famous by Madame Albani, was perhaps the best number.

Leaving the national songs, Miss Warnock gave several selections by different composers , showing the versatility of her vocal talent, and the variety of themes produced by our own countrywoman—three of the compositions of Mrs. Alice Roger Collins were given, and received hearty applause, as did also a song, the music of which was written by J. W. Garvin a former resident of Peterborough, and the words by Miss Ethelwyn Weatherald. On the whole it was pleasing to the audience to find that our Canadian talent were worthy of the highest respect, and it is to be hoped that greater recognition awaited them than ever before.

Mrs. Alice Roger Collins is ever a favorite with Peterborough audiences, who always thoroughly enjoy her numbers. We have so few solo pianists in the city that we are proud to claim Mrs. Collins as our own, even though she is at present a resident of Mount Forest. Her selections were La Truite, by Schubert Heller, Prelude in E. minor, by Mendelssohn, and "Liebestraum," by Liszt.

The second part of the programme consisted of a number of short selections from Canadian poets, given by Miss Warnock. Most of the numbers were familiar to the audience, poems by Charles G. D. Roberts, Tom McInnes, of Ottawa; Arthur Stringer, Robert W. Service, of the Yukon, and Miss Isabella Valency Crawford.

Four persons were frozen to death in a blizzard in Western Kansas.

PETERBORO JUNIORS OPEN SEASON WITH 9-8 WIN FROM THE HUSKY COBOURG TEAM

Locals Scored Early and Led at the Half by 5-1—A Good Team That Will Improve.

Looking over that O.H.A. game at the rink last night, sizing up the two teams and taking everything into consideration, the local youngsters deserved to win, and win they did by the margin of a goal, which is as good as one hundred. The score was 9—8 with the half time tally standing at 5—1 for Captain Hall's graduates from the Mercantile and Bank League. No less than five of the Cobourg team played the game for the Car Works town last season and were seen in action before a Peterborough crowd. On the other hand six of the seven locals, Dwyer, Milloy, Kennealley, Cook, Clancy and Weir, made their debut into O.H.A hockey and of each it can be said, he made good.

The Cobourg bunch trotted out onto the ice showing plenty of action, in their new uniforms. They looked big and were big, head and shoulders it was seen, over several of the Colts, when they made their appearance.

Some unknown wag passed the remark that the local outfit should be sold before any money was lost on the team, but there was a surprise in store, for when the teams broke away about 8.30 and found their bearings the Peterborough youths showed such speed that they had the visitors faded.

And they kept pegging away until the rest came, with the Petes. four goals to the good. Only once had Captain Freeman's seven found a hole and bulged the netting.

The story was different in the second half, the Petes tallying 4 to 7, by the red and white brigade. At times the visitors had the locals on the run. Again the condition of affairs was just the opposite for the Colts despite the bumps handed out to them, came back every time. It was long chances that gave their opponents the majority; they would not play the puck to the goal as did the Petes, but shot and lifted from far outside the defence, sometimes from middle ice and the puck being dead on the nets, invariably found the mark, for they were difficult for Dwyer to handle. At that he stopped a number of possible scores.

On the showing last night the fans should be proud of the junior team. The boys made mistakes as was expected, but to win in the face of such opposition, such as Cobourg presented was highly creditable to them.

Prominent throughout the game was Rollie Weir, the Keene City Leaguer. Previous to this game he had worn his skates but once. To him fell the honors of scoring the first goal. He was all over the ice and bids fair to win his spurs in this his first year of O.H.A. hockey.

Now, there were a whole lot of people who thought Art Hall should have been standing around the front of the Cobourg nets all right, but he didn't because it was the first game, the team had no definite team work and he therefore did a lot of the helping-hand brand of hockey. Hall played a hard steady game last night and can and will play better as he gets his team working together. Then it will be time for him to handle the centre ice job.

Both Clancy and Cook played the boards in grand style. Clancy had the advantage by being delegated to a position at which he was more at home, while Cook was handicapped in being placed at right wing. Cook was banged about throughout the contest, but never once did he quit. He showed his worth to a hockey team by his unselfishness in passing the puck and in him the locals have good material.

Milloy and Keneally made everyone stop and take notice. They broke up many assaults on the net and rushed effectively, each scoring alone. Their practice of sending the puck down the ice will cease by practice and in this pair the Colts have a strong defence.

Dwyer looked good. He handled a lot of dribbles in the first half, any one of which was liable to find its way past experienced goal tenders. In the second half on one particular occasion with two men in on him, he blocked a dead shot and altogether as a new comer, and it being his first appearance, he made a satisfactory showing.

The team will improve greatly as the season advances. Probably 75 per cent of the fans last night before the game commenced had their doubts as to how long the locals would stand off their heavier and more promising looking opponents. But after all, it isn't the uniforms or the looks which counts.

Harvey Sproule re-appeared on the scene of hostilities and handled the game well. He had to keep both eyes wide open and his work was satisfactory. He fell on one occasion and injured his arm though not seriously.

Of the Cobourg team Freeman was the most prominent, particularly in the second half, when owing to his good work, the team appeared to grow stronger. Gray at centre and Hinman at left also showed up well.

The teams were;

Peterboro.		Cobourg.

Horsemen Can Use Grounds if They Pay Up

Mr. J. J. Mr. Turner refutes any intention on the part of the committee to pull against the turf people. The terms offered were $50 for three months, but once inquiring over the telephone and being told what the proposition was, none of the horsemen again met Mr. Turner with a view of making arrangements. INDIAN HOLDS HIS OWN

RED MAN IS NOT DISAPPEARING, SAYS FRANK PEDLEY.

Reports From the Agencies Throughout Canada Show That Numbers Show a Net Gain—Bloods In Saskatchewan Are High Class Farmers and Are Getting Rich—One Runs a Coal Mine—Others Improving.

There are living within the limits of Canada one hundred and eight thousand aborigines—the remnant of the people on the spot when the white men came, who were then, and for many years afterwards, the lords of forest and lake, but who to-day are, for the most part, wards of the nation. They are the Indians, who number 103,661, and the Eskimos, of whom there is estimated to be 4,600. It is that one hundred and three thousand, six hundred and sixty-one Indians who are here under consideration.

In the Eastern Provinces, from Prince Edward Island to the head of the Great Lakes there are 38,078; and from the head of the Lakes to the Pacific Coast and the shores of the Arctic Ocean the Indian population numbers 65,583. British Columbia leads with an Indian population of 24,581, while Ontario is a close second, 22,496. Outside the provinces, that is in the Yukon, Ungava, and the territories north of Alberta and Saskatchewan, there are only seventeen thousand Indians. Were all these Indians given direct representation in the House of Commons, like other elements of the population, they are sufficiently numerous to be entitled to at least three members, or more than half as many as has the city of Toronto.

During the past year the births among Indians have exceeded deaths by a few more than three hundred, so that there has been a small net gain.

"The prevailing notion," states the report of Mr. Frank Pedley, deputy superintendent of Indian Affairs, "that the Indian population is gradually disappearing is not sustained by statistics, and in any locality where the Indians have passed through the period of exhaustion that must be met by any aboriginal race in contact with civilization, it is found that the population is either stable or upon the increase."

During the middle of the last century the gloomy prediction was made that the Iroquois, the people of the Six Nations, were doomed to speedy and total extinction. The prediction has not been fulfilled. In 1880 they numbered 3,204; to-day they number 4,402. Of course, this is the most favorable case possible, for of all our Indians none surpassed the Iroquois in intelligence. On their reserves on the Bay of Quinte, near Brantford and at other places, they are industrious, progressive, and prosperous farmers.

Taking the race as a whole, if it is to survive, it must be as an agricultural people. And this is true even of the Indians of the West, which offered the last opportunities for the free but wretched life of the savage hunter. It is now many years since the buffalo disappeared from the plains, and the rapid development of the past few years has already made even smaller game scarce. The Indian can no longer look to his rifle to procure his food, nor to his traps for the furs with which he has been accustomed to procure the other things necessary to existence. He must learn to cultivate the soil, or disappear.

It is, therefore, the aim of the Department of Indian Affairs to promote agriculture among the Indians; and it is gratifying that their efforts in this direction are meeting with considerable success. A race of hunters and loafers cannot be made into farmers in a generation or two; but that a large number of these people are turning slowly in this direction is something, and probably all that can be reasonably expected.

The report shows that last year our Indians had 58,550 acres under crop; that their grain and root crops yielded 1,494,452 bushels, and their meadows 123,198 tons of hay, the total value of their farm products amounting to $1,460,462.

In wages the Indians earned $1,540,000; their fishing yielded $691,629; their hunting and trapping $819,424, and various other industries, $852,944.

Respecting our eastern Indians there is little new to report. The general trend is upward, one proposed improvement being the introduction of agriculture among the Micmacs of Nova Scotia.

It is in the west that most is hoped for, where many bands, occupy large reservations of fertile soil which only needs the application of intelligent labor to make it yield like the white man's farm.

A typical prosperous and promising band is that of the Blood Indians, whose reservation is between the Belly and the St. Mary's River, near Macleod, Alberta. The Bloods were once great warriors; they are now among the best red-farmers of the west. The reservation contains 354,000 acres of excellent land, and its population numbers 1,132. The principal occupations of this people are cattle-raising, general farming, haymaking, and freighting. One of the tribe, Blackhorse by name, operates a coal mine from which he derives sufficient income to support his large family.

The Bloods have their own threshing outfit, a separator with latest attachments having been purchased with tribal funds for operation with one of the large traction engines. Stack-threshing is the method followed, each Indian's farm being threshed separately, the spout of the separator emptying direct into portable granaries, of which each farmer has one or two according to the bulk of his crop."

This is an especially promising case, and only a few reservations have made as great progress as that of the Bloods. Yet nearly all the reports of agencies in the west show that some progress in farming has been achieved.—Montreal Standard.

Snpplied Successful Musical Program in the Village Hall

Seven members of the George street Methodist Sunday school orchestra drove down to Westwood last evening and supplied a highly successful program of musical numbers in the village hall, under the auspices of the Bible class of the Presbyterian church. The performers acquitted themselves very creditably and the large attendance that crowded the hall to the doors was very enthusiastic in applause.

The program consisted of orchestra selections, quartets, solos, and instrumental numbers by the following:—Miss Lizzie Smith, Miss Hazel Pentland, Wm. Miller, W. H. Cunningham, E. Walton, Jos. P. Zepp and B. Hackett.

REPORTED TO BE CHOLERA

Paris, Jan. 5—Many people here believe that the epidemic among vagrants in Berlin was undoubtedly Asiatic cholera, and that it was probably introduced to the German capital by way of Hamburg through immigrants. Medical men hesitate to give an opinion. They point out, however, that th esanitary precautions which have been taken by the Berlin authorities are exactly the same as would be taken for cholera. It is possible, French physicians say, that th edisease is the pneumoniac plague, which raged with great virulence in Manchuria about a year ago. A person of the highest authority, who refused to allow his name to be used, told a correspondent today that the Berlin disease was surely cholera.

DAIRY BUSINESS OF PAST SEASON

Campbellford, Jan. 4 — Five hundred men interested in the production of cheese and butter in eastern Ontario were in attendance at the thirty-fifth annual convention of the Dairymen's Association of Eastern Ontario, which opened here this morning.

In his opening address, President Henry Glendinning of Manilla said that during the eleven months ending November 30, 1911, there were exported from Canada 1,659,261 boxes of cheese valued at $18,067,450, and 134,600 packages of butter valued at $1,732,3 0. This was an increase of $1,395,607 in butter over the entire year of 1910. "We should remember that our exprt trade is only about 25 per cent. of our total dairy production," sai dhe. "and that the home consumption of milk, butter and cheese is growing every year. The public are realizing more and more the value of milk and its products as a food."

Chateau Laurier.

In keeping with the general surroundings of the Chateau Laurier, the new $2,000,000.00 hotel, constructed by the Grand Trunk Railway System, at Ottawa, the pictures for the bedrooms have been purchased, and consist of some of the best reproductions of famous masterpieces from the London, Paris, and Berlin galleries. They will be framed in moulding that will harmonize with the fittings of the several floors, including Louis XV, Louis XVI, and Colonial styles. Care and great taste have been used in the selection of the pictures, so that they will add to the cheerfulness of this magnificent hotel.

In connection with the "Chateau Laurier," the new $2,000,000 Grand Trunk Railway hotel at Ottawa, it has been decided to establish an ice-freezing plant, and the Forbes System of sterilization. This means that every drop of water that comes into the hotel for any purpose is first filtered twice, then sterilized and cooled, rendering it not only absolutely pure from all sanitary standpoints, but clear and free from any coloration.

As regards ice, the water from which it is made will be first filtered twice, then converted into steam, then condensed and frozen, rendering the ice not only absolutely pure but a beautiful clear transparent crystal.

FIRE BUG AT WORK IN TORONTO

Toronto, Jan. 4.—That two newspaper offices should be set afire twice within an hour is a question that has set the police working. Both the Mail and Empire and the Globe offices were fired between midnight and one o'clock.

In neither case was there any particular damage done, but had it not been for the presence of the staff of both papers at the time needed the results might have been serious.

SERMONETTES from OLD SAWS

BY TABITHA

"There is no Folly Like Being in Love"

But oh the paradise! What matters even though it may be that of a fool and after all are we not entitled to it because too often, it is all too short.

The person who has no sentiment should really not be allowed to cumber this beautiful earth.

It is sentiment often which gives us such lofty aspirations, the powers of sacrifice, and is the basis upon which organized work (at least women) for the amelioration of the sufferings of poor humanity is founded.

But there, I want to speak of the glorious folly of being love. We are young we believe that every person is sincere, that every little endearing term is genuine and is being spoken for the first time to us. How our hearts are filled to overflowing with glowing fire as our memories recall little acts of courtesy or attention and, of the little boxes of treasure little ribbons, or sweet little faded flowers, which mean so much.

Yesterday I was the guest at luncheon of a boy scarcely half my age. We were to lunch, do a little shopping, pick up a young girl, and go on to a matinee.

Who ever invented that saying, anyway? No wonder his name has perished.

I have been dined and wined most sumptuously by some of the great ones in this world, but I do not think I shall ever cease to remember the pleasure of this day, carried back as I was to the most beautiful time in one's life, to that time when all the world is before one and when one has not yet learned, that things are not really what they seem.

I was handed about by this dear boy as if I were indeed a grand duchess, paid pretty little, compliments, served with the most dainty tid-bits on the menu, and once more I was young living it all over again.

The shopping which was such a dreadful secret, was to select a beautiful trinket for his ladylove, and as he tucked his hand under my arm to take me through the crowded thoroughfare, he was all anxiety lest I should not like this girl whom he loved so dearly. Not like her! One would indeed have to be lost to everything that is meant to be fine human nature, if she could not love the girl of such a lover. The dear dear happy children, how I prayed that the true inwardness of life might always be kept from the knowledge of these two, and that they might dream on.

What a wonderful gift our blessed Lord bestows upon those to whom He gives children, the greatest of all humanizers—children in whose lives we re-live our own, trusting young things, who show us what this world was meant to be had sin never entered into it.

No, being in love is not a folly, and if it is, may God flood the world with this folly, which softens our hearts to others, gives to us a vision of hope and the world beautiful and a trust and faith in those about us which must make even the angels glad.

That glimpse backward given to me yesterday will help to cheer many a sad hour when seeing the seamy side of life in circles, both high and low, has all but destroyed my faith in humanity. Again no; love it not folly. The Great Maker of the stars and the worlds called Himself Love because that is the attribute He meant should characterize us and fill our lives.

A COW DISCOVERED BY COW TESTING

This is a six year old grade Ayrshire owned by Louis Brown, of Norwood, who offered to sell her for $20 before he started testing his cows, as he did not like her appearance. In ten months this cow gave 9435 lbs. milk, with an average test of 4.27 per cent., thus producing over 402 lbs. fat or 483 1-2 lbs. butter. Valuing the butter at 25 cents per lb. this cow brought in for her owner over $120.

Bright Detectives.

An ingenious Brentford (Eng.) detective has been filling the role of a barber whilst in the execution of his duty. In a betting case at Brentford the officer told a greatly-amused court that he went to the shop of one of the prisoners, a hair-dresser, took off his coat, pulled up his sleevs, put on a white apron, and began work as a barber. He received several betting-slips and various sums of money, and thus obtained the evidence he required.

A police sergeant at Dulwich lately, in order to keep observation on a house, masqueraded as a chair-mender, and on another occasion he donned a grey beard and pretended to be an aged man. He obliged counsel for the defence, after some natural hesitation, by giving to the court a very successful imitation of an old man's cracked and piping voice. He was very evidently a master of "make-up," and ought to have been on the stage rather than on the beat.

Another police sergeant in Walworth figured as a costermonger, with donkey and barrow complete. It was related in court how his raucous voice roused the neighborhood, and how he seemed to copy the characteristic twists and turns of the voice peculiar to the coster to perfection. He certainly "took in" the man he wished to observe, for he was able to drive his donkey close up to him, observe his conduct, and later to arrest him

A Volunteer "Cop."

Members of the Liverpool Police Force attached to the Brock Road district have the assistance of a volunteer police dog, which belongs to a local publican. Regularly every night the dog, a large retriever, walks into the police station, just as the night men are going on duty, and takes up the patrol with one of the uniformed constables. It will have nothing to do with an officer in plain clothes. On several occasions the dog has proved exceedingly tactful and useful. When the officers comes off duty in the morning the dog runs away home, but when the hour for resuming in the evening arrives he is at the police station to the minute to go upon his beat.

People Who Don't Laugh.

Laughter is unknown among the Veddahs of Ceylon. They are the most solemn people in the world. When a traveler asked some of them why their people never gave indication of mirth, they replied that they never saw anything to laugh at.

On the other hand, some savages appear to have a more robust sense of humor than their civilized brethren. Dr. Livingstone tells of an African tribe who, when dressed in clothes for the first time, "rolled about on the ground in uncontrollable fits of laughter."

The Bojars of Russia.

Bojars held exclusively the highest military and civic offices in Russia and were so universally looked up to by the mass of the people that the most powerful rulers, even Ivan the Cruel, considered it prudent to use this form of expression in the ukases: "The emperor has ordered it; the Bojars have approved it."

Woman's World

Baroness Uchida a Bryn Mawr Girl.

BARONESS UCHIDA, WIFE OF JAPANESE AMBASSADOR.

When the young Baron Uchida received his appointment as ambassador from Japan to our country and took up his work at Washington all sorts of complimentary things were said about the cleverness of this enterprising modern who ably represents the new Japan. Those who knew him closely added that much of his success was due to his remarkable wife.

She is a native Japanese woman, but her education was American, Bryn Mawr college being her alma mater. Twelve years ago she became the Baroness Uchida, and since then she has followed the changes of diplomatic service, having lived in Peking, New York and Vienna before the Washington appointment took place.

She stands for the most advanced movement among Japanese women, being both a student and a broad thinker, keenly interested in current affairs of world interest. She is interested in the growing number of young girls from her native country who are being sent abroad to prepare themselves for various professions, and these girls know when they come her way that they have a friend in the loyal baroness.

Teaching, medicine and nursing, she says, are the most important professions which her countrywomen are taking up. She has great pride in the woman's university in Tokyo, which has over a thousand students and gives the girls excellent opportunities to prepare themselves for professional careers.

SPECULATION IN RUGS.

Many Women Are Expert Buyers of Oriental Treasures.

Oriental rugs after a certain amount of wear and tear begin to show the warp and sometimes rip. When this state of shabbiness is reached the sooner they are taken in hand the better. Carpet threads in rug colors may be procured in hanks in various places, and a few hours spent in darning and then matching out the design in the over and over sampler stitch makes the rug as good as new. With carefully selected colors for the matching the mended parts will hardly be noticeable. If this simple precaution is not taken the rug becomes unfit for use and either has to be sent to a professional rug maker or repairer or else sold as secondhand.

Oddly enough, however, time lends so much increase in value to some oriental rugs that even in a ragged and worn condition they will bring at an auction double their original price. There they are, of course, quoted as "antiques" by catalogue and auctioneer, a description which their condition certainly justifies.

The last thirty years have seen great advances in rug values, and instances are quoted of rugs which having been bought three decades ago for $300 are now valued at $2,000.

Rug collecting has more opportunities for large profits when reselling than most ventures into which the fair sex may go without censure, and as most women have good taste where floor coverings are concerned they rarely choose anything that will not bring at least the full price paid when they want to realize upon it.

The woman expert in rugs soon sees in her mind's eye just how a bedraggled, soiled old rug can be made to look as it hangs beside the auctioneer, and many a dealer knowing this bids only on rugs that some well known woman buyer starts to bid for. Great treasures have been secured in this way that brought immense gain in a short space of time by resale.

A Smart Effect.

A girl with an assortment of jabots and frills should study the colors most becoming to her and fashion a number of odd tailor bows and knots of velvet and ribbon to pin at her throat as a sort of fastening for the neckwear. She will be surprised at the smart effect given by the touch of color.

Canadian Club Heard Fine Speaker on an Interesting Subject.

The gathering of the Canadian Club last evening was not extremely large in numbers, but those who embraced the opportunity of hearing Mr. H. B. Ames, M.P., of Montreal, speak to the Club, were highly delighted with his address. The banquet and address, as usual, were held in the banquet room of the Oriental.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., was seated to the right of the speaker at the head of the table, with J. E. L. Goodwill, president of the club, on the left.

AUSTRALIAN CONDITIONS.

Mr. Ames' address was intensely interesting, and he confined his remarks principally to an exposition of the conditions both civil and political, prevailing in the continent of Australia. From a personal visit to that continent, and by a close and thorough observation of the country he was in a position to speak very intelligently and accurately of his subject

"The discovery of gold in Australia," said Mr. Ames, was the main reason of the great influx in the population of Australia. Since its discovery vast wealth has been extracted out of these rich gold fields. The surface gold, however, was exhausted after a time, and the thousands of miners were compelled to return to the city, who now compose the working population of the cities of the continent. "One is struck as soon as he goes to Australia by the great size and importance of its cities" he said. "One finds evidences of great culture and taste, wide, well paved streets, and a very large percentage of the population of the continent dwell in the cities. How did this fact come about? Principally through the magnificent harbors that are scattered along the coast line. Settlement came in originally at these points. In time the settlement began to flow inward, and good roads were constructed, many by convict labor. Sydney became the leading centre, and railroads were commenced, and they were dominated by the terminus at Sydney. The city grew until it contained half the population. Similar proceedings occurred at other of these cities on the coast, and separate railroads were built emanating from these various cities. Trade unions were organized, and these unions brought their influence to bear on the manufactures from which came the eight hour day. For about eight or ten years there were very unstable conditions in Australia, and premiers did not hold office for any lengthy period of time. The Labor people were in absolute control of the commonwealth of the legislature of the land.

AUSTRALIAN LEGISLATION.

Mr. Ames went on to speak of legislation in the country. It is the result of careful investigation, and everything had evolved from much thought on the part of the government. Their legislation was essentially progressive. Their laws were particularly suitable for their own country, and if they were transplanted to this country would be altogether inadequate and radical.

The manufacturer was compelled to guard carefully the interests of his employes, and the standard rate of wages is rigidly enforced. This matter was looked after by what is called a wages board, who set the rate of wages. The man who was willing to pay good wages was always protected against the man who inclined not to, and this protection was essentially just. If the man pays below the minimum set for him he was hauled into the courts and subjected to a heavy fine.

"When the Labor party found that they were liable to come into control of the government, they made common cause with the farming community, with the result that conditions for the farmer were greatly benefited. They thereby won for themselves the support of the great majority of the farmers."

STRONG LABOR PARTY.

Then the Labor party got themselves in strongly by advocating woman suffrage, and both men and women voted. This greatly strengthed the Labor party. The women vote on moral issues was a strong factor on the voting in Australia, and they decided many an issue.

Mr. Ames spoke highly of the sincerity and fearlessness of the labor leaders of Australia. From personal conversation he was greatly impressed by their desire to further labor legislation in the country.

Australia was not, however, advancing in immigration. The country had been called the "workingman's Paradise." Education in Australia was free and compulsory. They have the very best universities and schools, and education was as nearly free as possible for it to reach. The ordinary Australian city was magnificently equipped with institutions for a man to educate himself. Physical culture was greatly encouraged and it was a splendid place for sport, horse-racing being a favorite amusement. Adelaide, for instance, was laid out in a rectangle. Around this rectangle was a strip, or public domain. This belt is reserved solely as a play ground for the people of Adelaide. The grim underlying determination to keep Australia a white country, free from the yellow peril, was undoubtedly the most striking feature noticed in the people of Australia. They were firmly determined to keep the yellow race out, and Japanese were admitted only under a very heavy head tax. They were also building stragetic roads for the purpose of hurrying troops from one point to another to repel attacks, if ever necessary. Military training in the schools was strictly enforced, and there were 80,000 cadets in the schools of the land. On the water they were active. They have pledged themselves to an expenditure of $2,000,000 for the maintenance of naval forces.

The speaker remarked that he favored a similar policy for Canada, and personally he felt that a combination of Canada, New Zealand and Australia on such a matter would allow a large portion of the British fleet to be withdrawn from the protection of their interests.

Mr. Ames referred to the frequent droughts in Australia, which cannot be helped, and which are a source of much damage to the country.

Australia was capable of producing 350,000 bushels of wheat, if necessary, and the country was very rich, although principally in its gold output.

"Australia, however," said Mr. Ames, "with all its advantages can never usurp the place that Canada occupies in the hearts of Canadians."

Mr. Ames' address was heartily applauded. His clear and able manner of delivery was a noticeable feature, and his address was easily followed, and he described conditions in the country in a logical manner.

At the conclusion of his address several of the club members were given an opportunity of asking questions of Mr. Ames relative to the country, to which he replied in a satisfactory manner.

Mr. J. E. L. Goodwill, in a most appropriate and neat manner, conveyed to the speaker the thanks of the club, and the singing of the National Anthem brought the affair to a close.

RIOTING IN MILITARY CAMP

London, Jan. 5.—Some of the London evening papers created a mild sensation by lurid reports of rioting in the military camp at Longmoor, near Aldershot, in the course of which, it was said, shots were fired and a pugilistic combat took place between a private and an officer. Investigation shows that, while the rioting did not proceed to such extremeties, there was a pretty shindy, in which men of the Yorkshire regiment and men of the Scoth and Irish regiments fought with bayonets; while a Welsh regiment was called in to quell the fray.

REVOLVER FOUND ON YOUTH WHO WAS ARRESTED

Juvenile Faces Charge of Stealing Money and Watch

Another clever capture of a youthful burglar was made by Chief Chilton Wednesday afternoon. It is obvious that the low schemes of the burglar, gum shoe man, horse thief, or fake railroad promoter, must end when Lindsay is reached.

The chief had little to work on in this present case, as no traces had been left by the thief in any of his excursions in and out of the business houses by which to form a clue.

Mr. Harry Applebaum, a Kent street clothing merchant's premises were entered by the boy on four different occasions, taking in all a total sum of $7.23, and a gold-filled watch.

The youth also entered the barber shop of Wm. Colvin on two or more occasions, and took from his cash desk about $1.25.

Chief Chilton on interviewing Mr. Colvin, concluded it was some one who was conversant with the working of things around the barber shop, and at once gave it as his opinion that the newsboy who delivers the evening paper was the guilty party. Hunting up the boy the latter at once gave the story of his many entries into the two business places in detail to the officer, who placed him under arrest.

When searched at the police station he had a .32 calibre revolver and the stolen watch in his possession.—Warder.

MR. H.M. GILCHRIST LEAVING THE CITY FOR TORONTO

Has Accepted General Secretaryship of Broadview Y.M.C.A.

Y.M.C.A. members, church workers and a large number of friends will regret to learn that Mr. H. M. Gilchrist, who for the past year and nine months has most acceptably filled the position of General Secretary, is to leave the city about February 1st. He has accepted a similar position with the Broadview Y.M.C.A., Toronto, which, when completed in March, will be probably the most complete institution of its kind in Canada. The new building under construction was made possible by the amalgamation of the Broadway Boys' Institute with the Y.M.C.A. It has at present a large membership of boys and the senior membership is to be inaugurated.

Mr. Gilchrist has been very successful with his work here, and his efforts are well known outside of the Y.M.C.A., for he gave freely of any time possible to assist in any social or religious work of the city. With the boys at the "Y" he has been popular, and in losing Mr. Gilchrist the Y.M.C.A. Board has sustained a real loss.

HEAVY LOSSES IN BATTLE AT HANKOW

Imperial Army Reported to Have Lost Seven Hundred Men.

Two Trains Carrying Troops Destroyed and Occupants Attacked.

Pekin, Jan. 6.—Seven hundred Imperial troops are reported to have been killed or wounded Thursday in a battle near Hankow, Province of Hupeh, with the revolutionists. The Imperial forces were evacuating the city when two of their trains were destroyed. From these trains 1,000 troops, independent of their commanders, were making an effort to return to Hankow. The revolutionists, however, attacked them vigorously, inflicting heavy loss.

This information reached Pekin yesterday in a consular report from Hankow. The report added that there was a conference in Hankow yesterday between the Imperialists and revolutionists, but that no agreement was reached.

It is believed here that the fighting will be resumed to-day. Government reinforcements are being rushed toward Hankow over the Tientsin-Pukow Railway. The Imperial commander reports a battle near Hwangpei, a short distance north of Hankow.

The 3,000 Imperial Government troops, who were ordered from Paoting and Shih-Kaichwang to assist in the suppression of the mutiny of Chinese troops at Lanchow, arrived there Thursday evening. There was considerable fighting in the city during the night. The telegraphs were cut and the rail trains suspended until noon yesterday.

The commandant at Lanchow telegraphed to the legations in Pekin yesterday that only a portion of the 20th division of the Imperial army created the recent trouble. The mutineers have since been subdued and punished, and order has been completely restored. There is, he says, no cause for further alarm. The train service and the telegraphs are resuming immediately. The mutineers, the commandant declares, forged his name in sending telegrams to the foreign legations and the consuls.

The Imperial Government troops are now concentrating at Lanchow for the purpose of maintaining order and making preparations to meet a possible landing of revolutionists from Canton.

There is a marked revival of uneasiness in Northern China. The Imperial Government is circulating full reports of the negotiations with the rebels at Shanghai, showing that the revolutionists resent the Premier's determination not to accept Tang Shao Yi's arrangements in regard to the national convention to decide on the future form of government in China.

Yuan Shi Kai and Wu Ting Fang, realizing that telegraphic negotiations are unsatisfactory, are now trying to persuade each other to visit the rival headquarters and conclude an agreement.

Consular telegrams received here from Chung King state that at Chengtu, the capital of the provinec of Sechuen, the greatest disorder prevails. According to these telegrams the viceroy of the province, Chao Erh Feng, who was reported Thursday to have recaptured Chengtu, took refuge in his official residence on Dec. 20, but the revolutionaries seized and executed him, as well as the general of the Imperial troops.

Japan Continues Neutral.

Tokio, Jan. 6.—The development at Shanghai are deeply deplored here. It is generally believed that Yuan Shi Kai has been playing a double game from the first, and now finds his plans frustrated by the election of Sun Yat Sen as president of the provisional government. Japan continues a policy of strict neutrality in China.

A report from Pekin that Yuan had applied to Japan for help is discredited in Tokio. Even if it were true the belief prevails here that it would be premature for any power to forsake neutrality at this juncture, except it were preparing against emergencies which might arise through the Manchus turning against Yuan.

REDUCING TAX WITH PROFITS

Berlin, Jan 6.—The new city council will start its business for 1912 with about $10,000 in the treasury, $9,000 of which will be applied toward keeping down the tax rate for this year. Town Treasurer Huber has been notified by the light commission authorities that $7,100 will be paid out of the profits of the light and power plant for 1911 and handed over to the town treasury. This amount is equivalent to one mill of assessment. The rate for 1911 was 22 mills and a reduction of two mills for the current year is predicted, notwithstanding increased expenditures for the new school.

Rescue Houses Established.

Winnipeg, Jan. 6.—The Presbyterian Church has purchased an eleven-room house to be used as a rescue home for young women desiring to escape from a life in the "segregated district." This is a part of the scheme to establish a chain of such homes all over Canada. One has been in operation in Toronto for several months and others are to be established at Montreal, Halifax and Vancouver.

Trains Delayed at Tunnel.

Sarnia, Jan. 6.—The breaking of one of the overhead feed wires in the Sarnia Tunnel here yesterday kept all trains from one to three hours late.

The Winnipeg train was five hours late, and also the trains from Port Huron and Chicago were from two to three hours behind time.

Minister Suing City.

Toronto, Jan. 6.—Rev. Prof. Jos. H. James of Burley, Eng., has issued a writ against the City of Toronto for $20,000, claiming damages to that extent for a broken knee cap sustained while he was attending the ecumenical council here. He fell into an excavation made by the Hydro-electric system on Queen street. The writ was issued yesterday morning by the firm of Rowell, Reid, Wilkie & Wood.

EXPRESS LOOTED

Masked Men Enter and Rob Mail Train in California.

Reading, Cal., Jan. 6.—The mail car of the Oregon Express, on the Southern Pacific, was robbed early yesterday of all eastern registered mail by two masked men. Three mail clerks were bound and gagged by the robbers, who entered the car while the train was between Redding and Red Bluff. The train pulled into Redding at 6.40 a.m., and the robbers, carrying their loot, dropped off and escaped.

The train left San Francisco at 8.20 Thursday night. When it stopped at Red Bluff, 35 miles south of this city, early yesterday, mail sacks were thrown out and others taken on. One of the three mail clerks was about to leave the car, when the two bandits moved past him into the car and closed the door.

"This is a hold-up," coolly responded one of the men, covering the trio with a revolver. Rhein, R. B. Warner and their assistant, were bound and gagged by the second bandit.

When the train reached Cottonwood, 17 miles north of Red Bluff, the bandits acted as clerks in exchanging mail, without arousing suspicion. At Anderson, five miles further, they repeated the performance, showing familiarity with the clerks' duties.

When the train stopped at Redding at 6.40, Geo. Westlake, the local clerk, was waiting to receive the mail. The bandits threw open the doors on each side of the car and walked in opposite directions. Westlake thought they were the regular mail clerks.

He threw a sack into the mail car and was surprise that no one received it. A moment later he heard a feeble cry and discovered the plight of the clerks. Mail sacks had been piled on them, but Rhein had managed to loosen his gag.

Strewn over the floor was the wrappings of hundreds of mail packages. Every sack of registered mail had been looted. Posses are seeking the bandits.

CHARGED WITH TWO MURDERS

Indian and His Wife Are Arrested at Port Lambton.

Chatham, Jan. 6.—Stephen Kiyoshk and his wife, Indians, were arrested on Thursday afternoon and lodged in Port Lambton lock-up charged with the murder of Charles Nahdee and Adam Johns, Indians, on Walpole Island. This action followed the finding of the bodies of both victims in the St. Clair River. Coroner Ferguson of Courtright is arranging for an inquest, which will be held on the island on Saturday, provided the necessary witnesses can be summoned, and also for a post-mortem on the bodies.

As a result of investigation the authorities now claim to believe that Kiyoshk, believing his wife had been intimate with the two men, went to their cabin on Squirrel Island, fired through the window, killing Johns, and then, entering the cabin, pursued Nahdee to the upper story of the cabin, blowing out his brains with a shotgun. The bodies, it is thought, were then dragged to a rowboat, conveyed to a point opposite Sloman's Landing on the Michigan shore, and there dumped into the river. The cabin where the double murder was committed is in an isolated spot, surrounded by thick woods.

The crime was first discovered on Wednesday morning, when neighbors, knocking at the door and receiving no response, entered and found evidences of a terrible struggle. Outside bloodstains on the snow showed where the bodies had been dragged toward the river. Afterwards Kiyoshk's boat was found concealed nearly opposite the spot where the bodies were later discovered. It was remembered that Kiyoshk and his wife had not been seen since New Year's night. Kiyoshk was captured at dusk by the Island police while endeavoring to cross to the mainland. The woman was arrested at the home of her father on Walpole Island.

COLD SPELL IS GENERAL

Low Temperatures Reported all Over the Continent.

Very Cold in the West—34 Below at Winnipeg.

Toronto, Jan. 6.—At 11 o'clock last night the forecasters at the observatory could see nothing in sight for Ontario but coldness, until Sunday morning, when a change "for better or for worse" might be expected.

"It will be cold all over the province to-day," said the man at the observatory. "There is a strong cold wave all over the Dominion, and it is very cold in Western Canada. It was 34 below in the afternoon, and 26 below there last night. These conditions are general throughout Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Regina yesterday registered 35 degrees below, with 40 below at a late hour in the afternoon."

Toronto registered 8 below at midnight.

Down in old New York the people are also huddling about the fireside, or else flocking close in the restaurants where hearty food and red wine bedeck the tables. It was 10 above in Manhattan last night, and no prospects for heat are in sight.

But down in Jacksonville, Florida. There it is the people are, perhaps, beginning to look for the palm leaf fans, and the ice cold lemonade. It was 42 degrees above at Jacksonville last night.

Miner Frozen to Death.

Pottsville, Pa., Jan. 6.—The coldest weather of the winter was experienced in this section yesterday, the thermometer in the mountain districts registered four degrees below zero. Fred Rice, a miner, was overcome by the cold while on his way to work and frozen to death.

Affects Natural Gas Pressure.

Galt, Jan. 6.—Thursday night marked the severest weather of this season, with a stiff snowstorm and severe frost. Yesterday morning the thermometer registered 10 below. The cold has had a serious effect on the pressure of the natural gas, so that the supply has been inadequate and much loss and inconvenience occasioned.

Four Below at Detroit.

Detriot, Jan. 6.—With a minimum temperature of four degrees below zero between 6 and 8 o'clock yesterday morning, and a maximum of only 4 above during the day, this was the coldest day recorded by the Detroit weather bureau since 1907. Many places up state reported the mercury down to 16 below, with heavy snow and high winds seriously impeding steam and electric railroad traffic.

Lowest In Eight Years.

Toledo, Jan. 6.—Four degrees below zero is what the Government thermometer registered at 7 o'clock yesterday morning. This is the lowest point reached here in eight years.

Lineman Blown From Pole.

Edward Dosher, 40, a lineman, his hands numbed, was blown from a telephone pole and sustained injuries in a 35-foot fall from which he died later.

John Zeigler, 50, chilled and despondent, cut his throat and ankles with a pocketknife on the rear steps of an East 57th street house. He is expected to die.

NATIONS AT PEACE

Special to the Review.

Paris Jan. 6—"The "Petit Journal" claims to have the authority for the statement that representatives of Italay and Turkey, in a conference here, have practically agreed upon peace, under which Turkey relinquishes Tripoli and Cyrenaica, Mohammedans in these countries must pay Turkey's war indemnity.

Rival Steamship Line.

Toronto, Jan. 6.—That the R. & O. Steamship Co. is to have a rival on Lake Ontario seems to be the prevalent opinion among steamboat men at the present time.

The recent increase in the authorized capital stock of the Niagara Navigation Co. from one million to three million dollars and following the purchase of the Hamilton boats, it looks very much like an effort on the part of the N. N. Co to control the steamboat business on Lake Ontario.

Hamburg Liner Released.

New York, Jan. 6.—The Hamburg-American Line steamer Prinz Joachim, which went on the rocks at Atwood Bay, in the Bahamas, several weeks ago, was extricated from her position yesterday and will proceed under her own power, after making temporary repairs, to an Atlantic coast port, according to a wireless despatch received here yesterday afternoon by E. L. Boas, resident director and general manager of the line.

BOSTON MINISTER CONFESSES TO MURDER OF AVIS LINNELL

Discarded His Sweetheart to Become Engaged to Wealthy Member of Congregation.

Poison Was Administered to Young Girl who Was Found Dying in a Bathroom.

(Special to the Review)

Boston, Mass., Jan. 6.—Rev. Mr. Richeson has made a full confession admitting that he killed his former sweetheart, Avis Linnell.

Richeson was due to go to trial on the murder trial on Jan. 15.

Avis Linnell, the pretty little choir singer, was found dying in a bathroom of her apartment in the Young Women's Christian Association in Boston. Oct. 14. The county medical examiner found that death was due to poisoning by cyanide of potassium. Richeson had previously been engaged to marry the girl, but had just announced his engagement to Miss Violet Edmands, daughter of the Chestnut Hill millionaire. He was arrested at the Edmands home on Oct 20 on the testimony of Wm. Hahn a Newton Centre druggist, who told the police that Richeson had bought a quantity of potassium bromide a few days before the murder of the girl, saying that he wanted to kill a dog.

KEEP IT SECRET.

Druggist Hahn said that Richeson had asked him to keep the fact of the purchase of the poison secret.

Through a source of developments subsequent to the arraignment of the pastor, the congregation of the Immanuel Baptist church in Cambridge stood loyal to the minister and repeatedly refused to accept his resignation. Finally when he was indicted for murder the resignation was accepted.

Every element of mystery possible to conjecture is woven into the story of the life of Richeson and the death of Avis Linnell. It began in a little love affair back in the Cape Cod village of Hyannis and ended in the girl's tragic death in Boston. The story runs the gamut of human emotions.

Two years ago, when Rev. Mr. Richeson graduated only a few months from the Newton Theological seminary, he was called to the pastorate of the Hyannis Baptist church, where Avis Linnell was one of the prettiest young belles.

A SOCIAL FAVORITE.

Richeson soon became a social favorite in the village, and it caused no comment that he was seen constantly with Miss Linnell. There never was a formal announcement of an engagement.

Miss Linnell joined the church. Richeson baptized her. In 1910, the girl began wearing a handsome diamond engagement ring. She told her friends she was to marry Richeson in October, 1911.

Meantime there came dissension in Richeson's church. In April, 1910, he resigned and came to Boston. Then he received a call to the ultra-fashionable Immanuel Baptist church in Cambridge.

Then Avis Linnell came to Boston and entered the Conservatory of Music. She told her friends she wanted to fit herself to assist her future husband.

Then Richeson met Miss Violet Edmands. It is said Miss Linnell never knew of Richeson's engagement to Miss Edmands, though it was publicly announced in March, 1911.

A Martyr To Science.

Zurich, Switzerland, Jan. 6.—Dr. Simon, the bacteriologist, died here yesterday as a result of having been bitten by an inoculated mouse, with which he was experimenting in an endeavor to find a serum for curing blood poisoning.

Dr. Simon was a son-in-law of Herr Bebel, the social leader in the German Reichstag.

Jail Damaged by Fire.

Vancouver, Jan. 6.—The Victoria provincial jail was badly damaged by fire yesterday. The loss is probably $50,000. All the men have been removed. All the jails are now overcrowded.

SERIOUS BLOCKADE CAUSED BY STRIKE

Tong War In New York.

New York, Jan. 6.—In what is believed to be a renewal of hostilities between the Hip Sing Tong and the Ong Leong Tong, Chinese secret societies, in Chinatown last night, Leong You, vice-president of the Hip Sing Tong, was shot and killed, and Chong Pon Sing, president of that organization, was seriously wounded. Two Chinamen, who the police say were identified as the men who did the shooting, were arrested. The shooting occurred in a store conducted by Mock Duck, one of the best known of Chinatown's characters, on Pell street.

C.N.R. Anxious.

Montreal, Jan. 6.—The Canadian Northern Railway Co. sent an urgent letter to the City Hall yesterday, asking the mayor and controllers to at once meet the representatives of the company in order to arrange for the entrance of the company into the city.

The mayor has convened a special meeting of the Board of Control for Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock to discuss the great project.

FOUR PERSONS WERE KILLED

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 6.—Four persons were fatally injured while another was seriously hurt here last night when a South Bellevue street car jumped from the central bridge, which connects the city with Newport, Ky. The car landed on Front street after turning a somersault in its drop of fifty-five feet to the pavement below.

The fatally injured are: Harry Wessing, Newport, Ky., conductor of the car, skull fractured and internally injured; Benton Schroll, secretary-treasurer of the Central Bridge Co., Newport, Ky., skull fractured, internal injuries and broken bones; Edward Hapfel, Cincinnati, skull fractured and contusions of the body; Harry Finnan, Covington, Ky., motorman of the car, skull fractured and both legs broken.

Samuel Hollow, Newport Ky., the only other passenger, sustained scalp wounds and a contused body, but will recover.

The car left the tracks after crossing the Ohio River at a sharp curve in the bridge. It was making its first trip of the night from the barns in Newport, which accounts for the small number of passengers aboard.

Boston, Jan. 6.—With wharves piled high with merchandise, loaded steamers arriving with no hands to unload the freight, partially empty steamers sailing and agents contemplating turning their boats toward other parts, the longshoremen's strike for a ten-cent increase in wages assumed a serious aspect last night, so far as Boston's foreign commerce is concerned.

It is estimated that 2,800 men left work at midnight Thursday and, despite the efforts of the city and state officials, who held several conferences with the steamship agents and the union leaders, the strike at sunset yesterday showed no signs of breaking up. It was even intimated that it might extend to the freight handlers, who take care of the cargoes of coastwise steamers, but last evening these men were still at work.

With the stroke of midnight Thursday the men ceased work. The steamer Devonian had her grain on board, but 30 carloads of merchandise remained on the dock. She sailed with half her cargo at noon yesterday for Liverpool. The Cambrian is scheduled to sail for London on Sunday, but will have only a few tons on board. The Loterdijk arrived yesterday from Rotterdam and will probably be ordered to Philadelphia to unload, while the Galileo is expected to-day from Hull and will also be diverted. The Michigan, which is in port from Liverpool, may be unloaded by Italians.

Mayor Fitzgerald, Chairman Bancroft, of the newly-created dock commission, and President Smith of the Chamber of Commerce, were active during the day in an effort to bring about a compromise by conferences with foreign steamship agents and union officials.

It was stated by the longshoremen's union leaders that they were willing to submit the claims to arbitration, but did not care to have the State Arbitration Board act. On the other hand, the steamship companies asserted that the men had left work without notice and that overtures looking to a settlement should come from them.

HORSE'S LEG SWELLED

Animal Was Too Sore and Lame to Work—Quickly Cured by "Nerviline."

"I have had a long experience in treating horses, and I can safely say that I know of no liniment for strains, sprains, and swelling that is so useful around the stable as Nerviline." Thus writes Mr. Joshua E. Murchison, from his home, Crofts Hill P. O. I had a fine young mare that wrenched her right fore leg, and from the shoulder down she was stiff, sore, and swollen. I applied Nerviline, and it worked like a charm; in fact, that mare was in shape to work a day after I used Nerviline.

Nerviline is a Trusty Liniment

"We have used Nerviline on our farm for twenty-five years and never found it wanting. For man or beast it is a wonderful liniment."

We have received nearly five thousand letters, recommending Nerviline as a general household liniment, as an all-round cure for aches and pains. One million bottles used each year. Try it yourself. Large bottles of Nerviline 50c; trial size, 25c. All dealers, or The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

WEAK OPPOSITIONS

Out of the nine provinces in Canada, five now have Conservative governments. Prince Edward Island, the latest to fall in line with the Conservatives, did so in no uncertain manner. Only two out of thirty constituencies returned Liberals. Those under Conservative rule are Ontario, Manitoba, British Columbia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. Those in the Liberal column are Quebec, Nova Scotia and Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Not one of the nine Canadian provinces can boast of a strong opposition. All the provincial governments in power have sweeping majorities. In P.E.I the opposition is almost annihilated. Such also is the case in British Columbia, Nova Scotia and in Manitoba. In the two prairie provinces, Alberta and Saskatchewan, the opposition in no case have a numerical strength of equal to 50 per cent of the government forces. New Brunswick has perhaps, the least difference in numbers and worked along under a coalition government for a time, but the Conservatives rule the roost now, the Liberal Opposition being a weak one. In Ontario the opposition numbers only about 20 per cent of the entire assembly, while in Quebec the opposition is numerically about two-fifths the strength of the government.

This state of affairs is to be regretted, as a strong opposition has a tendency to make a government more careful in handling the affairs of a province. A strong critic does much to eliminate the element of politicians who propose things, through the temptation of an overstrong majority, that are not in the best interests of the province.

SPREADING OF DISEASE

An American exchange says much disease is spread through unsanitary and unclean kitchens in hotels and restaurants, and advocates an inspection by health inspectors at least once every three months to see that the kitchens are in proper condition for the preparation of cleanly food. The question is an important one, and could well be taken up by all municipalities. Many places have flashy dining rooms, etc., but the kitchen is let take care of itself with the result that the food is prepared under anything, but sanitary conditions. Pure food, properly prepared in clean surroundings, is as absolutely essential as pure air to good health.

Are the kitchens in Peterborough hotels and restaurants in good sanitary condition? The health board should see to it that they are, and if not should take steps to protect the public in this respect.

SOME IMMIGRATION FIGURES

Of the 91,972,226 citizens of the United States at the time of the last census, 13,342,500 were of foreign birth. This means that one out of every seven devoted to the Stars and Stripes is acquired and not innate. Of this 13,342,500 Germany has supplied 2,499,200; Russia, 7,577,300; Ireland, 1,351,000, and Italy 1,341,000. Canada and Newfoundland came fifth in the list of contributors, with 1,198,000.

In 1910, eighteen per cent. of the total immigration came from Germany, nearly thirteen per cent. from Russia, twelve per cent. from Austria, ten per cent. from Italy, and the same proportion from Ireland. Canada and Newfoundland come eighth on the list with an even nine per cent., being two-tenths per cent. behind Great Britain. Twenty-eight per cent. of the new-comers were English-speaking, as compared with thirty-nine per cent. in 1900. Thirty-five per cent. came from the hinterland of Europe,—Russia, Austria and Italy—as compared with fifteen per cent ten years later.

Figures show that the United States is drawing considerably less of the cream of immigration and now getting more of the poorer class of settlers, no doubt due to the fact that many of the better class of immigrants that used to migrate to the States are now heading right through to the Canadian West.

U.S. immigration statistics show that there is a falling off of eleven per cent. in the tide from Great Britain and Ireland, or nine per cent. in that from Germany, and two and a half per cent. from Canada.

The Treating System

(Guelph Mercury.)

Advocates of temperance reforms, whether they be local optionists, or provincial prohibitionists, are apt to overlook the dealing with one of the most prolific causes of drunkenness, in the prevalence of the treating system.

Very few men there are who, on their own initiative, and with no urging whatever, will go single-handed and imbibe to the extent of intoxication. Very few, if any young men would go alone into a bar for their first drink. It is in the groups of genial spirits, and in the company of so-called good fellows that the drinking system is deeply rooted.

If it were made an offence, punishable in the first instance with a jailheavy fine, and after with a jail term for one man to buy a drink for another, there would, no doubt, be a marked decrease in the drinking habit.

The Paternoster Ruby

By Charles Edmond Walk.

Supplied exclusively in Canada by the British & Colonial Press, Limited, Toronto.

I am glad that my chief's cold, unfeeling eye did not rest upon me at that moment. Her distress was mine. And I could not turn aside from the way which was opening so plainly before me.

Here, now, I had two motives for the murder: Fluette's mad desire for the ruby and, since the ashes of old romance had been so ruthlessly stirred, the most powerful of all human motives—jealousy.

It was possible, too, that a third person had been in the house last night; but if so, one of the two men had lied. The bit of candle found by me on the rear stairs had adhered to somebody's shoe while still plastic; if either Burke or Maillot had used these stairs at or about the time of the murder, then both had studiously kept the fact from me. It was possible that one of the two could have made fast the front door behind a fugitive, without the other's knowledge; Burke, for example, before he summoned Maillot.

But my chief concern now was for this sorely distressed girl. She had told but the bare truth; her position could scarcely be more cruel. Her eyes followed me with an expression of such tragic helplessness that I knew the issue was left for me to decide. I sprang up and commenced walking the floor. It was a long time before I could make up my mind just what to say, and during my troubled cogitation there was not an interruption, not a sound, from her.

By and by I paused, and stood looking down into the wistful face.

"Miss Cooper," I began, "it seems that you trust me, and, believe me, I'm keenly sensible of the responsibility. I shall ask nothing of you which I think you can't freely perform; nothing that is not for the best interests of all concerned—all for whom you care, I mean."

She interrupted me.

"Sit down—here where you were before; it will not seem so much like your talking to me from a distance."

I obeyed. The chairs were quite close together.

"It seems to me," I went on, "that we should continue in the direction that has been pointed out for us; follow the light, however dim. There is a mystery here, and we are just now only skimming the surface of it; let's plunge below and see if we can't bring up at least part of the truth.

"It is hard to believe that Alfred Fluette has been instrumental in Felix Page's death, even indirectly, but harder, more unjust to him, to pause without dissipating the cloud we have unexpectedly cast over him. The temptation to scrutinize his conduct and bearing is irresistible. Is it not better to lay bare all the facts, than to leave matters in the equivocal condition they now are?"

"You mean," she murmured brokenly, "you mean that—now—after what has happened between us—the duty of pressing forward at whatever cost is far more imperative than any other obligation that I may be under; that the innocent must not be sacrificed to shield the guilty."

That was precisely what I meant but I lacked the courage to tell her.

"My dear Miss Cooper!" I said, in a voice as tremulous with emotion as her own.

"I trust you," she said simply.

I knew not what to say; her faith in me was manifestly so boundless that I was humbled to the earth. And yesterday we were ignorant of each other's very existence! Stressful circumstance can level the conventions with amazing swiftness.

"You are trembling," she whispered presently. "I am making what would be a commonplace matter very difficult for you."

"No—no!" I protested. "I feel for you; I can't tell you how much."

"Don't think of me," she again whispered, her look averted.

"I can think of nothing else," said I. My teeth suddenly clenched, and I bent toward her.

"I'll not allow this thing!" I undertoned in a savage outburst, recognizing the futility of my anger even as I spoke. "I shall not allow you to become further involved in this thing. Whatever the cost, I shall shield you."

A pitiful smile stirred her lips.

"You have shown me my duty," she said, with gentle firmness; "you can't dissuade me now."

What do words avail at such a time? I loved this splendid girl, and my heart ached for her. I was almost swept from my balance by a sudden mad yearning to take her in my arms and try to comfort her.

Yes, I loved her; there is no use in holding back the confession; else where would be my great personal interest and concern in the death of Felix Page?

Yet I did not protest further; remonstrance would avail me nothing. Gently as she had spoken, it was driven home to me that she had expressed a determination which no power in heaven or on earth below could change.

Another long silence followed, during which I as well as she was stirred by the most conflicting emotions. At last, though, I too began to see my way clear. Matters could not be helped any by either of us shirking the least part of a responsibility which had, within the last few minutes, become sweetly mutual. How anxious I was to spare her!

The silence was broken by Genevieve abruptly rising.

"I must really go," she announced, hurriedly. She was the least bit flurried, and there was a wonderful soft light in their handsome eyes that had not been there when she came. As she passed me she lightly brushed my shoulder with the gloved tips of her one hand.

"I am no longer cast-down," I heard her murmur; "I know you will do—what is right."

She lingered, expectant and more cheerful.

"I can't let you go like this"—I was steady enough now. She moved again to the chair she had just vacated, and I released the slim, soft fingers.

"There is one thing we haven't considered," I pursued, "and that is Mr. Alexander Burke. You say Mr. Fluette despises him: if he does, it is not without warrant, I'd be willing to swear. What that fellow's game is I can't just at this time conceive, but I'm confident that he's playing one of some kind—a deep one, too. If he is, the potentialities are endless with such a cunning, unscrupulous rascal.

"I'm satisfied, moreover, that he has lied to me. According to his statement, no one was in this house last night besides himself, Mr. Page, and Royal Maillot. Between him and Maillot I give the latter the preference, for, if the stories of both are true on any one point, it is that Burke was up and about before and during the time the murder was committed. Burke is consequently in the best position to know who was or was not in the house.

"Now I have a particular reason for thinking that this is one phase of the matter about which he has lied. Should it be that some one else was here—some one that we knew nothing about—why, that would put an entirely different complexion upon the affair."

"Suppose," she propounded evenly, "that it was Uncle Alfred?"

I looked at her earnestly.

"You don't know that he was here," was my sober comment.

"No."

"Well, then, what's the use of borrowing trouble?"

"It's very silly—especially as I have trouble enough as it is."

With an impulsive movement, she thrust one little gloved hand into mine.

"I am still your assistant," she affirmed, striving hard to be gay, "if you will have me now. Together we will drive the trouble away."

I caught the other hand, and held the two of them together. She permitted the caress for a moment—for caress it was—then drew her hands away.

"Good-bye," she said faintly, without looking up.

But I got my hat and coat and walked down to the gate with her. Of a sudden, after we reached the walk, she moved a pace or two away from me and halted. Her pretty face dimpled in a smile, and there was a gleam of mischief in the blue eyes. One can't be always melancholy.

"I suppose I'm a big goose," she said, "to have any faith in you; I'm thinking it's a case of misplaced confidence."

She waved a hand, gathered her skirts closely about her slender figure and tripped away through the snow.

I could not realize any portion of the past when she had not been near and dear to me.

CHAPTER XIV.

Riddles

I returned to the library and heaped the fireplace with coal. For an hour after Genevieve's departure I was utterly unable to concentrate my mind upon any congeries of fact that might be of the least possible use in unravelling the badly tangled skein presented by Felix Page's death; I could see nothing but the fine blue eyes clouded with trouble, and the sweet face under the shadow of her gnawing anxiety.

I fished up the cipher, flattened it upon the library table, and strove manfully to hold my vagrant attention to the task of interpreting its secret message. My thoughts straightway wandered back to Genevieve again.

Now that I was alone, it was inevitable that I should sum up the results of our conference. I did not blink the truth; the facts were plain, not susceptible of argument.

No matter what the future might have in store for Genevieve and me, whether it was replete with delicious promise, or whether the useless iron gate marked the parting of our ways, her intrusion must ever remain a cherished memory. But it would have been better for her peace of mind not to have sought me out. If she had not, she would have remained ignorant of the circumstance that she possessed any knowledge hurtful to her uncle; if she had remained away, the accusation that he had come to harm through her could never reproach her in after years.

Her errand had been impelled by a conviction that I would appreciate her more intimate knowledge of her cousin's lover. She knew that she could lay before me no tangible testimony in his behalf, but hoped that I could be made to sympathize with her estimate of his character.

Brantford issued 531 building permits last year.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

Severe gales yesterday swept the eastern portion of Malta, and many ships from Egypt and Greece were damaged.

Edward M. Creighton of Toronto will apply to Parliament for a divorce from his wife, Sarah E. Creighton, on the usual grounds.

Joseph Devine, found guilty of brutal assault on Charles Selby, the well-known Kingston foundry man, was fined $20 and costs or one month yesterday.

The Methodist Church will apply to Parliament for an act authorizing trustees of any Methodist congregation to administer property for endowment.

The barn and contents on the farm of Thomas Johnson, Howard-Oxford town line, was entirely destroyed by fire Thursday. Loss, $4,500; insurance, $2,500.

The Turkish Minister at Cettinje, Montenegro, has strongly protested against the concentration of troops on the Albanian frontier, and has demanded that it be stopped.

A syndicate, composed of Newman Erb and associates, already in control of a number of railroads in the west and northwest, is said to be negotiating for control of the Pere Marquette Railroad.

Michael Tremblay, an aged inmate of the Kingston House of Industry, who fell out of a window there Thursday morning, died in the General Hospital yesterday afternoon, never regaining consciousness.

The Federal Cabinet held a lengthy council meeting yesterday afternoon and finished the work on the estimates, completing the interior list. The appropriations for the year have now been all decided upon.

Vancouver shingle manufacturers yesterday petitioned the Federal Government to impose an import duty on shingles from the United States. Shingles are now imported duty free, and forty million came in last year.

No official information as to the Government's intention in regard to the Toronto custom house is available but it is understood that an appropriation exceeding half a million dollars is likely to be included in this year's estimates.

"A Chinese cook, who was being sent from Chengtu with a letter to missionaries in the interior, was caught by bandits and beheaded," was one of the items in a letter received by Rev. Dr. F. C. Stephenson of Toronto from Mrs. Kilbom.

Transfer Invalid

Ottawa, Jan. 6.—Word was received in the capital yesterday from Winnipeg to the effect that the commission appointed by the Manitoba Government of the St. Peter's reserve, near Winnipeg, had declared the transfer of the property from the Indians to other parties to be invalid.

The first objection to the sale was taken by G. H. Bradbury, Conservative member for Selkirk constituency, in which the reserve is so called. He contended in the House that the Indians had been tricked of their lands, which had been allowed to fall into the hands of speculators.

The commissioners reporting against the validity of the transaction, find that the Indians, as wards of the Government, were not legally qualified to dispose of the land. They also find that the vote was not properly taken, a majority of the Indians not having declared in favor of disposing of the lands.

Pageant at Calcutta.

Calcutta, Jan. 6.—King George and Queen Mary yesterday witnessed a great pageant in their honor. There were two processions—Mohammedan and Hindu—in which there were fifty elephants, hundreds of camels and horses and elaborate state cars. Many of the contingents had retainers equipped with ancient weapons. There was a gorgeous display of jewels. Hundreds of thousands of natives gave Their Majesties an ovation.

A Narrow Escape.

Kingston, Jan. 6.—F. Zimmerman, a Toronto traveler, came near being buried alive here yestterday afternoon. He was stepping off the veranda of the Iroquois Hotel and did not notice that a coal hole, where a carter was at work had been left open. He stepped into the hole and went down out of sight. Someone heard his groans and extricated him. His arms were above his head and he was wedged in, helpless. A bruise on his shin was the only injury he received.

THE GOOD OLD SUN

W. LYMAN HUME, Esq., M.D., says:

I took my last policy in the "Sun Life" five years ago. You may think how agreeably surprised I was to receive your letter of the 28th ult., informing me that my share of the profits earned by my Policy during the last five years amounted to $205.80 IN CASH; or if I preferred they would give me $46.65 a year for for the next five years, to be used as an annual reduction of my yearly premium; or better still they would increase my policy by $311.00, making it worth $5,311 instead of $5,000, upon which I would continue to pay the old premium. This is the option I have chosen.

Suppose that instead of insuring I had placed the amount of my premium $277.75, in the Bank each year, and had allowed the interest to be compounded for five years at three per cent., the interest allowed by all safe, conservative Banks. What would be the results? To-day I should receive $130.11 as the accumulated interest from the Bank, instead of $205.80 from the "Sun Life," a difference of $75.70; but in addition to this the Company has carried the risk on my life for $5,000, which they might have been called at any time to pay.

This is in marked contrast with the so-called Fraternal Societies. I have a policy of $1,000 in one of the best of them; I was notified the other day that my policy would be reduced one-half, or my premium doubled. The "Sun" increases my policy, or reduces my premium; the Fraternal Society reduces my policy or increases my premium; it should not be a difficult matter to choose which is the better system of the two.

The "Good Old Sun," may it never set except to rise again with increased effulgence!

HELPING HAND CLASS SOCIAL

The first social evening of the Helping-Hand Bible Class was held last night in the parlors of the Park street Baptist church. A good time was spent in social intercourse by all who attended. In spite of the many counter attractions a goodly number turned out, and why shouldn't they? The church was warm and comfortable, thanks to Janitor Brad y and the coal board. Parlor games were played. The boys sang merry songs. The old folks felt young again and all enjoyed the evening. A few lonely chaps turned up without company, including the pastor, and all were fined five cents which goes to help make the next social evening a greater success. The class meets to-morrow at 3 p.m.

SISTERS ARE VERY GRATEFUL

To Those Who Remembered the House of Providence Inmates

The Sisters of the House of Providence wish to thank those who so kindly contributed towards making the inmates of that institution enjoy the pleasures of the Christmas season These kind people (whose names appear below) did much towards making the aged and poor who are with us, forget for a while that they no longer know the delights of the home fireside, doubly delightful when the home is warmed and brightened by the Yule log, and, therefore, doubly missed by the homeless at this joyous season. It will be a reward to our good benefactors to know that the old people enjoyed the gifts and good things with a pleasure and a relish almost pathetic, for "The tragedy of age is not that we are old, but that we are young." Sergt. Instructor Fletcher, of the staff of the Royal school of Cavalry, Toronto, has been detailed to conduct a class of instruction at Peterborough, headquarters of 3rd Dragoons, to be held three nights a week commencing Monday 8th at 7 p.m., covering four or five weeks. Major Medd, the officer commanding "B" squadron, states those attending will be enabled to complete their qualification by a two weeks' attendance at the Cavalry school in Toronto, if they pass the required examinations instead of having to attend for six week's under ordinary circumstances. All concerned should avail themselves of the privilege. Major Medd stated to the Review to-day that he could furnish any further information required.

MARKET PRICES

High Prices Were Asked for Fowl To-day

There was an ordinary active market this morning and the hall was well crowded with eager buyers. Fowl was very scarce and this caused the prices to increase. Turkeys sold at $2.75 each, geese $1.50 and $1.75 each, chickens 70 and 75c. each, fresh eggs 40c. a dozen, white butter sold at 30c. and 32c. per lb. The outside market was large, consisting largely of beef and pork. Beef sold at 8 and 9 cents and pork 10 and 11 cents. Green maple wood sold for $5.50 a cord.

INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS

A public installation of officers took place last night in the Havelock I. O.O.F. District Deputy Grand Master W. E. Freeborn was in charge, and was assisted by Bro. George Cairns, P.G.; T. Duncan, P.G.; G. Gillespie, P.G.; B. Watt, P.G.; W. Savigny, P.G.; H. Campbell, P.G., and Bro. Bradshaw. Quite a number of friends of the lodge, including a good representation of ladies, attended and a very pleasant evening was spent by all.

COLD WEATHER MAKES MORE RELIEF CASES

Many Orders Issued for Needy Families This Month

The calls for relief have been very heavy this month reported Relief Officer Miller to a Review representative to-day. Although the month is not far advanced, I have issued a large number of orders for groceries alone to be delivered to needy families. The late cold weather necessitating more fuel, is responsible for many calls for wood also.

Last evening the officer investigated the case of an unfortunate family where the mother was ill and a family of seven children and the husband were in the house. The head of the house was unable to procure work and the family were badly in need of assistance.

A number of gentlemen friends of Mr. E. G. Patterson called at his home on Hunter street last night and Mr. W. H. Denham on their behalf read an address and made the presentation of a silver tea service to Mr. and Mrs. Patterson, it being their silver wedding anniversary.

It was a surprise for Mr. and Mrs. Patterson, and the former acknowledged the kindness of their friends, and referred to the kindly sentiments of esteem and goodwill expressed in the address.

The visitors were entertained during the evening, which was enjoyed by all.

TEMPERATURE AT SKIDOO MARK

It Was Twenty-Three Below Zero at Daybreak

No wonder that water pipes were frozen tight this morning, and window panes were coated with ice. The temperature was only 23 below zero Mr. Walter Peters, the local official recorder stated that his thermometer registered 23 below at daybreak, the coldest period and that after that it gradually began to rise.

Many people are unaware also that the temperature had not been below zero mark so far this winter up to last night.

Last winter up to this date the mercury had dropped below nearly a score of times.

The cold spell was prophesied in yesterday's papers to last several days.

SOME REGRET HIS DEPARTURE

Former Church Worker and Insurance Agent Borrowed Money

Charles Greene, the former local Sunday school superintendent and choir member and insurance agent, who was reported to have eloped with an Oshawa "grass" widow, seems to have borne somewhat of a reputation in this city. It is learned that he was in the habit of borrowing sums of money from his friends and in some cases never making good the amounts borrowed. At one time shortly before leaving the city last spring he was stricken with a severe illness at his boarding house, but preferred not to go to the hospital. His land-lady nursed him carefully through his prostration, but Mr. Greene is reported to have left her place, her debtor for the sum of $50. Mr. Finch Miller also narrowly escaped being trimmed to the sum of $20.

A letter was written to the minister of the church of which the absent man belonged, in this city from his wife in the Old Country, the contents of which had some reference to her husband.

He bore himself very decorously while in Peterborough, and in Park street church was a superintendent of the Sunday school, and previous to that a member of Murray street choir.

LEAD MINE IN GALWAY

Five Hundred Tons Are Ready for the Smelter

A smelter is to be installed at the Galway lead mine, where the Union Creek Mining Co., the owners of the property, have about 500 tons of pure lead ready for the smelter. A recent assay shows, in addition to enormous quantities of lead, about of silver to the ton.

The smelter will turn out about fifteen tons of pure lead per day, which sells for some $65 per ton and is entitled to a government bounty of $1 per ton additional.

The lead will be teamed to Kinmount, a distance of about four miles, where it will be shipped by rail.

The old Galway mine was formerly owned by the late John Burnham, who did some developing work, but not sufficient to uncover the rich deposits of lead and silver. A recent sample, weighing about two pounds, contained eighty per cent. pure lead.

SHE HAD CONSTANT PAIN

Until Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Dewittville, N.Y.—"Before I started to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I suffered nearly all the time with headaches, backaches, and bearing down pains, and had a continuous pain in my left side. It made me sick if I tried to walk much, and my back was so weak that I was obliged to wear corsets all the time. But now I do not have any of these troubles. I have a fine strong baby daughter now, which I did not have before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—MRS. A. A. GILES, Route 44, Dewittville, N.Y.

The above is only one of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which prove beyond a doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, actually does cure these obstinate diseases of women, and that every such suffering woman owes it to herself to at least give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation, or giving up hope of recovery.

Mrs. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health and her advice is free.

RECEIPTS OF SALE OF STAMPS AND CALENDARS

Total for the Health Association Was $298,50

The committee of ladies of the Peterborough Health Association, who had charge of the sale of Christmas calendars and stamps, in aid of this organization, has realized a handsome sum towards assisting in the carrying out of the objects for which the association has been formed. The stamps brought $180 and the calendars yielded $118.50 making the total of $298.50. In the sale of the stamps the school children worked very earnestly, especially those of the South Central, who excelled all others. This school sold nearly seven thousand, one pupil, who is deserving of honorable mention, selling two hundred and seventy-five.

The Association is indebted to the citizens of Peterborough for the generous response to this, the first appeal. It is indeed encouraging and is an evidence that the people are heartily in accord with its worthy objects. The sale this last Christmas serves two purposes. The first one of course was the stimulating of the funds, and the second that of advertising the Association. Many citizens were not aware that there was a Health Association in this city until they were asked to buy the calendars and stemps, personally and through the appeals made from time to time in the daily papers. In this connection the press is to be heartily thanked for their readiness in giving space to appeals for assistance in this praiseworthy enterprise.

"LOVES YOUNG DREAM",

A Comedy That Pleases—At the Grand Tuesday Night

Fiske O'Hara, the sweet-singing Irish comedian, and an exceptionally strong supporting comedy opened a week's engagement in the Lyceum theatre, Sunday, in a romantic drama of Old Erin by Theodore Bury Sayre, appropriately labeled, "Love's Young Dream." It's excellent entertainment and it is not wanting in diversity. If it's excitement you are looking for, there is plenty of action in the four acts of the play; if you like pretty stage pictures—and who does not?— you will be more than pleased, an dif you are fond of music with your drama, then you cannot afford to miss hearing Fiske O'Hara sing "My Own Irish Girl," or "Come Back to Erin." The comedy is always interesting and quite enjoyable.

Mr. O'Hara has the part of a young physician, whose suit to Nora McNamara is frowned upon by her guardian and also by Colonel Richard Lovell, an English officer, who himself loves Nora. Carroll and Nora elope, but are discovered at the inn, and Carroll is informed that unless relinquishes all claim to Nira a certain secret regarding his father will be disclosed. Carroll gives up the girl, but recovers her again when the coach in which she is being carried away is stranded at midnight, and by defeating Lovell in a duel, saves his father and wins Nora.

Mr. O'Hara is a good actor and possesses a winning personality. One of his new songs this year is "My Own Irish Girl," an Irish melody of real beauty. Of the others, Arthur Hoops, Marie Quinn, Dan Morris Sullivan and J. P. Sullivan prove most effective. The staging has been done elaborately and well.

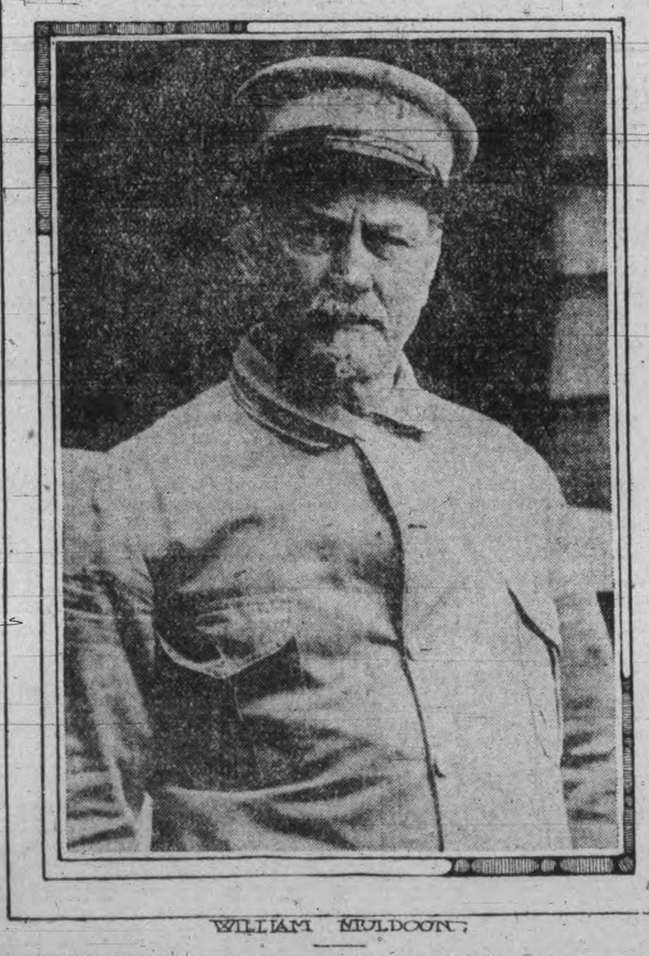
MOVING PICTURES IN COLOR

Splendid Views of the Pageant of the Coronation—Motor Boat Races Shown

If you have not seen the kinemacolor pictures at the Opera House you will be sorry, for they are indeed wonderful, and well worth seeing once or oftener. Apart from their educational value, there is an interest in the vivid reproduction of the actual events given in such a way that is not easily forgotten. If those who were not able to be in England personally during the coronation festivities and they number not a few, the pictures are a revelation of the splendor and magnificence of the spectacle. Then there are scenes given from the different camps of the visiting contingents of troops. Those of the Indian regiment being amongst the most interesting. The pictures, showing everything in colors, were beautiful. Nothing like them has ever been shown here and to miss seeing them would be a shame.

Mr. Sydney Herbert explains in a clear and entertaining manner the theme of the picture and the incidents shown. Motor boat enthusiasts will especially enjoy the motor boat races and one can almost feel the roll of the water so vivid are the pictures. See them for yourself to-night, the last opportunity you will have.

SAYS THAT AMERICAN RACE IS DEGENERATING



WILLIAM MULDOON.

William C. Muldoon, the famous trainer and conditioner of men, says the American race is rapidly degenerating. The man who has made his money by treating the wealthy men of America and by bringing their physical condition up to a standard where they could return to their duties declared spiritedly that "money hogs and money madness are the twin causes of the decay."

"The corroding influence of this greed for wealth has been felt in every walk of life," continued Mr. Muldoon. "Take the men who have achieved vast wealth—I get them, lots of them, worn out, dissipated, crazy by their perpetual struggle for more money. They are burnt out, body and soul, and their children are worse."

PETERBORO SEVEN WALLOPED LINDSAY IN INTERMEDIATE GO

Locals Had Better of the Argument Through-out---Half Time Score 4-1; Final 13-1.

Peterboro Intermediates had their first contract of the season last night and disposed of the Lindsay contribution to the Intermediate series in rather easy fashion. The score of 13-1 to a great extent indicates the play. Lindsay never had a chance to win. Peter Spratt, of the St. Michael's College champions, was the only dangerous man and in the first half his measure was taken. That ended Pete for the night. Bill Stoddard the veteran of Mudville attempted to come back but couldn't turn the trick, He is not the player of other years and besides he had too fort a proposition, against which to attempt to bring about his rejuvenation.

The crowd which comfortably filled the rink, included about one hundred rooters who came on the special from Scugogville, and the game made a very interesting bill o'fare for the first of the series. Neither team was at its best, but at that the locals had the edge all the time. Lindsay tried hard enough bu tthe odd were too big. Plenty of shots were sent in the direction of Derocher, but Leonidas was right on hand throughout the engagement. He stopped all kinds but his work was made somewhat easier by the effective blocking of his defence men, Bearrs and Bond. This pair actually had the visitors scared. When any team shoots from centre ice or outside the opposing defence there is always a reason. The business like manner in which Bond and Bearrs disposed of the enemy began to figure conspicuously in the game, not many minutes after referee Sproule sent the teams away, about 8.45 and Mr. Spratt was the man who was marked. His lightning like rushes were nipped at the right moment and very soon it was all over so far as he was concerned. Stoddard could not get going with Park and Giroux rambling around and the remainder of the team was easy.

Better hockey has been seen and will be seen again, but nevertheless the crowd liked the contest which was made up of all kinds of hockey. Combination work was not conspicuous although both teams attempted this style of play. Lack of practice however, prevented much effective team work but any that was going went to Peterboro. The scoring in the majority of cases was from individual stunts such as Park, Coughlin and Kelly are capable of handing out and they are generally the kind that get to the fans.

In the first half the game was fairly evenly contested, but after the Petes got started, following the rest, Lindsay was faded for the night. On the showing, the locals should win in Lindsay.

The teams were—

	Peterboro
	Derocher
	Bond
	Bearrs
	Giroux
Coughlin	Park	Kelly
	O
Cote	Roberts	Cain
	Stoddard
	Spratt
	Payne
	Connor
	Lindsay

THE SCORING

Spratt as expected started to get busy after the face off and a shot from him following a nice rush was blocked by Derocher. It was nip and tuck for two minutes when Park and Kelly combined, the latter scoring. Bearrs drew first penalty. Again and again the Lindsay defence was worked overtime with success. Bearrs drew a second sentence and Kelly followed him. With that advantage, Lindsay fell down. Stoddard was given a term but nothing daunted, his team kept hammering away. Number two tally came after nice minutes of fast play, when Giroux worked a shot that beat Connors. Spratt got it back in one minute and Kelly took a counter in 30 seconds. Bond was chased and Derocher blocked several shots. Park took the next in seven minutes from the side and the score was Peterboro 4, Lindsay 1.

Just before the half was called Giroux was benched.

SECOND HALF

Coughlin drew first banishment and Kelly counted in two minutes. Bond was chased on two occasions during the next four minutes of play, and Park made the score 6-1 after 8 minutes. Coughlin had struck his gait and was working fine at right. He counted what looked like a goal, but it was not allowed, but in four minutes in a pretty sideshot he found the mark. Again with Kelly, he continued giving the shot to his partner and it was Peterboro 8, Lindsay 1.

There was nw nothing to it but the locals. Coughlin took another in 30 seconds and in another minute Bearrs went up close and the tally registered 10-1.

Thirty seconds more and Kelly brought more cheers. Bearrs was sent off again. In one minute, a Kelly, Park and Coughlin combination made the figures stand 12-1, Coughlin doing the registering, while the thirteenth counter was Parks as he shot with the assistance of Coughlin and Bearrs.

Penalties

Peterboro—Bearrs, 3; Bond, 3; Giroux, Kelly, Coughlin.
Lindsay—Stoddard.

FIRST SCORES

In the first game the Intermediates had last season, Len Dobson scored the first goal. It was an exhibition game with Argonauts. In the first league game Peterboro defeated Cobourg in Cobourg, and Fred Denison counted first for Peterboro after Cobourg had scored three times. In the first junior contest the locals ran away from Lindsay with a 17-3 score and it was Harold Matthews who found Lindsay's nets for Peterboro's first goal.

SPORT TALK

The record of each hockey player on the ice at Trenton will be taken this season and the cleanest player will receive a suit of clothes valued at $28.

If the "No Smoking" rule continues to be a dead letter at the hockey games, then this fine sport will run a risk of loosing many patrons. Already many Ottawa ladies have ceased to patronize the games because of the personal discomfort that has to be endured through sitting for two or three hours in an atmosphere thick with the fumes of all kinds of tobacco. Experience has shown Ottawa and other cities, that any sport which the ladies of a community do not patronize, whatever the cause of their non-patronage, will soon sink into a second class affair.

Three-fourths of those at a hockey game do not smoke. Fully half of those present are caused discomfort by the smking of others.

Then there is the players' side of it. Hockey is a game in which the players need every ounce of fresh air that they can obtain. Under present conditions the air that the players are forced to breathe is of a kind that no athlete can breathe and do his best. In certain extreme cases the breathing of such air might easily do harm both to player and spectator—Ottawa Journal.

AFTER TREATMENT

Peter E. Summers relates his experience: "I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, but received little benefit. I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the NEW METHOD TREATMENT and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and continue to do so.

Catarrhal Deafness

Successfully Treated By

Catarrhozone

Deafness is not so common as blindness, yet thousands are more o less afflicted by it, and their comfort seriously interfered with.

Catarrhal deafness manifests itself but slowly, yet it must be acknowledged that the great majority of those who become totally deaf might have averted this unfortunate condition if they had treated the catarrhal inflammation at its beginning.

The only remedy that can be safely employed for all forms of catarrhal deafness is Catarrhozone. You simply charge the air you breathe with this healing, soothing agent, and by forcing it gently through the ears destroy the germ life which keeps up the inflammation, and at the same time by the soothing, healing action it heals the inflamed surfaces of the middle ear.

CATARRHOZONE, to those who are just a little deaf, and are growing increasingly deaf, is an agent capable of affording the utmost satisfaction, and its use is attended without danger, and as the treatment can be carried on at home no person threatened with the affliction of deafness should postpone one moment in beginning its use.

From every part of the Dominion glowing accounts of the beneficial action it exerts upon catarrhal conditions of the middle ear have been sent in, and you will be resorting to the only method of cure, and the simplest method too, if you try Catarrhozone. Dealers everywhere sell it, 25c, 50c, and $1.00. By mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

To Enter Montreal.

Montreal, Jan. 6.—Back River is said to have a railway. The Joliette and Lake Manuan, which is to connect the Grand Trunk Pacific with Montreal, will enter the city by crossing that stream, a route entirely new among the city's railroad connections.

The road, although now known as the Joliette and Lake Manuan, will not be so designated when it is running into Montreal, but will have "Montreal," somewhere in its nameplate. The right to continue into Montreal was only recently acquired by Dominion charter.

Grading work is now being done on the line, and will probably be continued all winter. It is planned to have sixty miles of steel down by October next. The entire length of the road will be 240 miles.

Newfoundland Prosperous.

Montreal, Jan. 6.—That there is not a poor man in Newfoundland, that the year which has just gone into history has been perhaps the most prosperous in the annals of the country, and that prices for fish are "way up" were statements made yesterday by J. W. N. Johnstone, general manager and ticket agent of the Reid-Newfoundland Co., who is at the Windsor Hotel for the meeting of railway men, who are discussing the question of excursion fares for the summer months.

Apropos of the conference, Mr. Johnstone said that there would be but slight changes in the rates, and that he expected to leave for Boston to-day on the same business.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucuous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you may have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucuous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

FETCHING SASHES.

EMBROIDERED VELVET SASH.

We have sashes still, although summer has fled, the fashion being to use them on gowns of the afternoon and restaurant type. One such is illustrated here, the gown being carried out in gray and white marquisette with flounces of yellow veiled with black chiffon. The neck is finished with cuffs and a fichu of handsome embroidered net. The sash is of black velvet and is embroidered with roses in yellow silk. The embroidery appears both on the bow and the sash ends. The hat worn with this costume is lined with shirred satin and a band of black velvet and is trimmed with point de venise lace and plumes.

Thirteen.

Italians never use the number 13 in making up the numbers in their lotteries. The superstition of the people is against it. The Turks are so prejudiced against the word "thirteen" that it has been expunged from their vocabulary. No house in Paris bears the number 13, and persons called "quartorziennes" or "fourteens" are held in reserve there to make a fourteenth guest at dinner parties. The Norwegians never allow thirteen persons at table because Lok, the god of malice in the Norse mythology, once made the thirteenth guest at a celestial banquet and occasioned confusion.

bined with embroideries. Marquisette, cotton voiles, wash silk and cotton crapes are being used, as well as fine lawn and linen, for the foundation fabric of the winter lingerie. Owing to the cut of gowns princess slips are very popular. The brassiere continues in popularity, owing to the cut of corsets. A MODERN MIRACLE

He Had Eczema 25 Yeaas and Doctors Said "No Cure"

Yet Zam-Buk Has Worked Complete Cure

This is the experience of a man of high reputation, widely known in Montreal, and whose can readily be investigated. Mr. T. M. Marsh, the gentleman referred to, lives at 101 Delorimier Avenue, Montreal, and has lived there for years. For twenty-five years he has had eczema on his hands and wrists. The disease first started in red blotches, which itched, and when scratched became painful. Bad sores followed, which discharged, and the discharge spread the disease until his hands were one raw, painful mass of sores. This state of affairs continued for twenty-five years!

In that time four eminent medical men tried to cure him, and each gave up the case as hopeless. Naturally, Mr. Marsh tried remedies of all kinds, but he, also, at last gave it up. For two years he had to wear gloves day and night, so terrible was the pain, and itching when the air got to the sores.

Then came Zam-Buk! He tried it, just as he had tried hundreds of remedies before. But he soon found out that Zam-Buk was different. Within a few weeks there were distinct signs of benefit, and a little perseverence, with this great herbal balm resulted in what he had given up all hope of—a complete cure! And the cure was no temporary cure. It was permanent. He was cured nearly four years ago. Interviewed the other day, Mr. Marsh said: "The cure which Zam-Buk worked has been absolutely permanent. From the day that I was cured to the present moment I have had no trace of eczema, and I feel sure it will never return."

If you suffer from any skin trouble, cut out this article, write across it the name of this paper, and mail it, with one cent stamp to pay return postage, to Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. We will forward you by return a free trial box of Zam-Buk. All druggists and stores sell this famous remedy, 50c. box, or three for $1.25. Refuse harmful substitutes.

The Wonderful Flight of the Golden Plover.

Everybody knows that most of our birds come north to their nesting grounds in the spring and go south in the fall. Some of the longest journeys are made by the smallest birds.

A few species leave the far north in August and September, making enormous flights over the ocean to winter homes in the southern hemisphere. Thus the golden plover leaves Nova Scotia and flies without a stop straight to South America, wintering on the pampas of Argentina, a journey of some 5,000 miles, 2,500 being over the ocean, without a stop even for food. On the Pacific side the golden plover leaves the Aleutian islands and goes 2,500 miles to Hawaii without a rest and winters in the southern hemisphere from the Society islands to Australia. With this bird the northward trip is slow, and the eastern group crosses the continent of South America, Mexico, the great plains and across Canada to its arctic nesting grounds, while the western birds go up the Malay peninsula and along the Chinese and Siberian seaboard. Thus these birds make the enormous journey of 12,000 to 15,000 miles each year.—St. Nicholas.

Japanese Houses.

Japanese houses are built rather to resist earthquake than to withstand fire. They are exceedingly light bamboo or frame affairs. Instead of strong foundations firmly imbedded into the earth there are flat stones, on which the frame lightly rests at the corners. Such structures will survive earthquake shocks that would crumble to heaps houses more solidly built.

Within the house is simplicity itself. The cottage may contain one or a dozen rooms, at the owner's whim, at any moment when he chooses to let the curtains down. If he wishes to retire he can make his bedroom by drawing down around him, at any spot on the floor that suits his fancy, curtains made of paper. This material is translucent enough to admit light into the impromptu room without destroying its privacy. For a bed all the Japanese needs is a heavy quilt or two.

With the house everything is immaculately clean. A Japanese will not tolerate a dust collecting carpet tacked upon his floor. He prefers grass woven mats, which he can take up and clean every day. Cushions on the floor do duty as chairs, and about the only article of wood furniture in the house is the tiny table where the family drink their tea.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Game of Noted Men.

The hostess begins by saying: "I know a celebrated poet. The first part of his name is black, and the last is an elevation."

The player responding "Coleridge" in turn describes the name of some other noted person—for instance, Shakespeare—saying: "I know a noted author and poet. The first part of his name people do when they are cold, and the last part is a weapon of warfare." Give only the profession, nothing else. The following names readily lend themselves to this simple but instructive little game:

About Children.

One of the happiest holidays in the whole year in Switzerland is when the farmers bring their flocks down from the mountains where they have been all summer. School is closed, and the children go to meet them in processions, singing songs, ringing bells and waving flags. As a reward for their enthusiasm the farmers treat them to a dainty supper of sweets and cakes, which they are allowed only on holidays.

The children of Russia play marbles with the knuckle bones of sheep.

The King and the Cat.

An ancient courier owned a cat,
Handsome and sleek and tame.
The king, his master, gazed thereat
And coveted the same.

"Sir Beldon,"—'twas the king who spoke—
"Thy cat delights my eyes.
Give her to me and thou shalt have Whatever thou dost prize."

Sir Beldon then was sore of heart,
Yet he could not refuse.
He gave his cat unto the king.
"Now," said the monarch, "choose."

The knights they wondered what 'twould be.
The ladies wondered too.
Were theirs this chance they'd ask for lands
And castles not a few.

Sir Beldon knelt. "Oh, sire," said he,
"My dearest wish is that—
You've pledged your word to grant it, sire—
You give me back my cat."

THE OPPOSITIONIST.

He Is a Very Happy Care-Free Chap These Days.

The Oppositionist filled his well-cushioned armchair in the hotel rotunda like a sagged-down heap of humanity and overcoat, and the whole suggested a man taking his ease in his inn and not worrying about his digestion or the worst the clerk could do with his bill, says a writer in a humorous sketch in The Montreal Standard. He had just had his lunch, his mid-day meal which, if he were at home in Bunkerville, he would call dinner; and now in the laziest posture permissible in a hotel rotunda, he was enjoying his after-dinner smoke.

Now was the psychological moment for learning the man's thoughts respecting the change in his political fortune. How did he like being an Oppositionist, and how did the job compare with the other one of which he had been deprived by circumstances over which he had no control?

After offering him the greetings due a member of Parliament, in which politeness takes precedence over truth, and which inform him that everybody is pleased to see him back because his country needs his services. I ventured to propose my question—How did he like being an Oppositionist, and how did it compare with the other role?

"Sit down," said he. "Here, light up," and he handed me a cigar, which as it burned away I perceived was not quite up to the standard of quality of those he used to smoke when his seat was at the right of the Speaker. Perhaps there are Ministerial and Opposition cigars, as well as Ministerial and Opposition politics.

Through the cigar smoke we discussed the position of an Oppositionist, as one was able to see it after the smoke of the battle of the ballots had somewhat cleared away.

"How do I like being an Oppositionist?" said he. "Right here, within sight is your answer. You see me here, holding down this chair with as much ease and serenity as if I were a country hotelkeeper, and you see that fellow across there with a sort of factory made smile working over his countenance, trying to talk to six excited but very insistent men, and all the time skilfully edging them towards the door, so that a quick flank movement will enable him to escape to the street.

Well, the difference between my ease and the nothing I am doing, and his distress and care, indicates the difference between the life of an Oppositionist and that of a Ministerialist.

"That man is the Government supporter from the second riding of our country. I ate my lunch in peace, and peace followed me to my chair out here, where I am enjoying my cigar. He had to take three of his constituents to lunch, and the moment he stuck his nose outside the dining-room door he ran into an ambuscade composed of more constituents, each of whom wants something from the Government, and which their member, of course, must obtain for them — or incur their everlasting enmity and the enmity too of all their uncles, their cousins and their aunts.

When I was a Ministerialist I dreaded going home from Ottawa. I used to drop off the rear of the train and dodge across lots and through gardens, and get into the house by the woodshed, but after a time the honest and independent office and contract-seekers discovered my stratagem, and began to waylay me.

Now I alight at the station platform, swing up the main street as free as a schoolboy home for a holiday. The honest and independent electors now know I can do nothing to get 'Cousin Bill' a place in the customs house, or help to sell 'Uncle Josh's' timber to the Department of Public Works. So far as these matters are concerned I am a man who has been. I have lost influence, but I have also been relieved of a thousand and one annoyances.

Could Do That.

Col. Sam Hughes, who has made the awful discovery that swords imported from England, are really "made in Germany" is the sponsor of the following anecdote. It shows the extraordinary opinion some people hold concerning the public service. One of the gallant Colonel's constituents, who had been for some years a more or less eccentric character and was once confined in an asylum, called on him a few days ago. Col. Hughes courteously granted an interview, and his visitor said: "Well, Colonel, you've known me for years, and you know I'm generally thought to be crazy."

The Colonel nodded a smiling assent. "Well, what can I do for you?" he asked.

"Well," retorted the visitor, "I feel quite sure I could hold down a Government job!"—Saturday Night.

Doubles.

Hon. Richard McBride, Premier of British Columbia, and Mr. J. R. L. Starr, the Toronto lawyer, were in Ottawa recently on the same day; and it is said they were mistaken for each other several times. They are of about the same age and build, and have the same white, curly hair, and ruddy, healthy countenance.

Mr. McBride, however, has "a little on" his double. His hair is a little whiter, a little curlier, and a little longer. He is also a shade taller and a shade stouter. His manner, too, is a trifle more dramatic.

Nasty, Mean Man.

At a certain Ontario educational institution the "freshman" girls of this college year are said to be less noted for beauty than for intellect. The men and girl students had their first meeting as a body at a masked ball. A student, whose chief virtue is not gallantry, was asked how he had enjoyed himself at the ball.

"Well," he said, "I liked it all right till the girls took off their masks."

DOCTORS HAD GIVEN UP ALL HOPE

"Fruit-a-tives" saved my Life

RIVIÈRE À PIERRE, Q., May 9, 1910.

"I look upon my recovery as nothing short of a miracle. I was for eleven years, constantly suffering from Chronic Dyspepsia and Indigestion.

I was treated by several doctors and they simply did me no good. During the latter part of my illness, I was so thin that I weighed only 90 pounds, and I vomited everything I ate.

The doctors gave me up to die as the stomach trouble produced heart weakness and I was frequently unconscious. I received the Last Rites Of The Church.

At this time, a lady strongly urged me to try 'Fruit-a-tives'. When I had taken one box, I was much better and after three boxes, I was practically well again, and had gained 20 pounds. I have taken 13 boxes in all and now weigh 150 pounds and am well."

Madame ARTHUR TOURANGEAU.

"Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine in the world made of intensified fruit juices and always cures Indigestion. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size, 25c. At all dealers, or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

BOY SCOUTS NOT TO JOIN ENGLAND'S ARMED FORCES

Special to the Review.

London, Jan. 6.—Anti-Home Rule advocates characterize as treasonable the independent Boy scout movement being organized in southern Ireland.

One of the chief rules which the recruits must subscribe to is, "I promise to work for the independency of Ireland, never to join the army forces of England, and to obey my superior officer."

MABEL BARRISON SAID TO BE DYING

Star of the Blue Mouse Ill at Saranac Lake

New York, Jan. 5.—Miss Mabel Barrison, a well-known young comedy actress, is dying of tuberculosis at Sarnac Lake, according to advices received by friends here. She won considerable success two seasons ago as the star of "The Blue Mouse." She has been in the Adirondacks for three months, and previously spent a long period in Texas in search of health.

Miss Barrison, whose maiden name off the stage was Miss Eva Farrance, was brought up in Toronto and attended Ryerson School. For some time before going on the stage she was a type-setter in one of the local newspaper offices. An uncle, Walter Farrance, who is employed with the Grand Trunk, lives on Bathurst street. Since going on the stage Miss Barrison has visited Toronto a number of times, and was here two years ago in "The Blue Mouse."

Her husband, Joseph Howard, a vaudeville actor, is now playing in New York.

ROBIN NOT SUBJECT TO COLD FEET

Mr. F. Mitchell, of 489 Donegal street, says he knows a robin when he sees one, and that to-day at noon he witnessed the unusual sight of a robin feeding with a number of sparrows near his home. Mr. Mitchell in informing the Review of the incident to-day, further remarked that he saw a blackbird about one month ago.

TOMBS OF LABRADOR.

It may be a senseless sentiment that makes a man crave to lie at last where his resting place may be the care of his friends. There are few things more pathetic than a grave in a foreign land; there are few disasters avoided with more unconsidered expense and trouble. Passing last year through the hitherto untracked forests of the northland, five hundred miles above Toronto and within a quarter of that distance of James Bay, the sight of a lonely slab and rude picket fence threw a damper over the jolly journalists of the first passenger train that had ever rumbled over the line, says W. Lacy Amy in Toronto Saturday Night. But away up—or down, as the Newfoundlander calls it—along the bleak, barren, storm-swept east coast of Labrador, the grave is lonelier and more pathetic; the rough fence to keep off the husky is but one of the signs that it is Labrador.

When the fisherman feels the hand of death upon him, it is his greatest wish to be buried back in his Newfoundland whence he came, and when the light is fading, his last effort is to reach the Government steamer that plies up and down twice a month. The Government makes it one of its cares that the passage of the living man, however near his end, is provided for, and few are left to lie on that deserted northern coast. But now and then the dread white plague or one of the many dangers of the north snuff out a life before the dying wish can be gratified. And there he must be buried, in one of the two or three graveyards of the thousand-mile coast if posible, and if that cannot be, in any spot where enough soil to turn over has settled among the endless rocks of the coast.

It is at Cartwright, one of the leading ports of Labrador, and one of the two Hudson Bay posts, that the largest of the few graveyards is kept green and clean by the Hudson Bay officials. And this spot is one of the sights of Labrador. In it stands a low, square tombstone to the memory of the man who made Labrador possible, and who handed down to the world a history that is the most complete yet published of life in Labrador, and with all its hundred and forty years of age, still stands a model of detailed description of life and conditions. The graveyard crowns a hill a half-mile from the wharf, and the path to it is well-tracked and tended. The fence is the most imposing in all Labrador, an expense that is justified around such a man's grave.

It made no difference that the memory of the conduct of Cartwright as revealed in his own writings was not of a man who allowed his Christianity to embarrass him. There before us was the memorial of a brave Englishman, who sacrificed position and advantages in England to endure the terrors of a pitiless coast and climate and of innumerable foes.

A score of other slabs and boards mark the graves of others who have died far from home. Most of them have merely the name carved on them, but on some, the friends have attempted crude tribute. The tragedy of one man could only be guessed at from the inscription: "In memory of George Bird, who departed this life, June 16th, 1869, aged 91 years. I held my tongue and spake nothing. I kept silence, yea, even from good words; but it was pain and grief to me."

Poetry was the aim of some sorrowing friend on another stone:

"I have passed away from this world.
My friends know not how I have died.
May they also prepare for the same.
For they shortly shall lie by my side."

Sold His Sweetheart.

Toronto, Jan. 6.—"We have a case here," declared Mr. Adalia, police court interpreter, "in which a woman was sent over from Russia to marry a man who, on her arrival, sold her in this city for five dollars."

Mr. Adalia made the statement in connection with the case of Alex. Wolevitz, who was summoned for assaulting Miss Frances Kascoll of 15 Centre avenue.

The court adjourned the case a week, and the matter will be referred to the crown attorney, as it is a serious affair.

Ran Ashore In Storm.

Kingston, Jan. 6.—While trying to pick her way to Brophys Point, the steamer Wolfe Islander ran ashore in a fierce snow storm. The captain lost his bearings. Word was sent to Garden Island and the Calvin Company sent the tug Frontenac to the rescue. After several hours' hard work the vessel was released, undamaged. A span of ice is now stretched from Garden to Wolfe Island.

May End Lock-out.

Manchester, Eng., Jan. 6.—Sir Geo. R. Askwith, the Board of Trade's mediator in the settlement of industrial disputes, conferred yesterday with representatives of the cotton mills and their employes in an endeavor to bring about peace in the cotton mill lockout. The conference was productive of a basis of agreement which, however, requires ratification by the masters and the unions.

Civil Service Board Busy.

Ottawa, Jan. 6.—The Civil Service Inquiry Commission is settling down into its offices and will be busy for some time with the work of organization.

It is unlikely that the commission will appoint a general counsel. Instead, it will act as its own counsel and will save the expense. The next few days will be devoted to preliminary work and the formal investigation will not begin until next week. While nothing has been decided, it may commence with the Department of Public Works.

The commission ultimately may be expected to go west and investigate on the ground the work of the Department of the Interior.

Gen. Baden Powell will make a six-months' world tour to solidify the Boy Scout movement.

STAFF APPOINTED TO ADVISE NAVY

Preparations for War and Naval Tactics Will be Studied.

Will Tender Advice to First Sea Lord--Will Have no Authority.

London, Jan. 8.—The First Lord of the Admiralty, Winston Churchill, has made further important changes in addition to those initiated in November last, when Admiral Sir Francis Bridgeman, Vice-Admiral Prince Louis of Battenburg and Captain Wm. C. Pakenham became first, second and fourth sea lords respectively. An Admiralty memorandum issued yesterday, completes the naval reorganization by the creation of a naval war staff, of which Admiral Ernest Trowbridge, heretofore private secretary of the First Lord of the Admiralty, becomes chief.

Sir Francis J. S. Hopwood, formerly Under Secretary of State for Colonies, who was on the staff of King George, then Prince of Wales, during his visit to Canada in 1903, is appointed an additional Civil Lord of the Admiralty Board. Rear-Admiral David Beatty, who, in 1901 married Ethel Field, daughter of the late Marshall Field of Chicago, succeeds Admiral Trowbridge in the secretaryship.

Capt. Geo. A. Ballard, of the battleship Britannia, and Capt. Thomas Jackson, assistant director of naval intelligence, have been appointed directors of the operations division and the intelligence division, respectively.

Mr. Churchill, in a long explanatory statement, says that the war staff is to be the brain, applied continuously to scientific and speculative study of naval strategy and preparation, and will be organized from the existing elements in the three divisions—intelligence, operations and mobilization. These divisions will be combined under a flag officer as chief of staff. The war staff will have no executive authority. Its responsibilities will end with the tendering of advice to the First Sea Lord.

A complete list of the officers forming the staff, which will comprise most of the grades, will be promulgated soon.

Mr. Churchill further explains that the new Civil Lord will be the "buyer and business manager" of the navy, while there will be close co-operation between the naval staff and the war staff of the army.

Capt. Alex. L. Duff, director of naval mobilization, has been appointed head of the mobilization division of the new war staff. The cost of the staff will be provided by abolishing four official Admiralty yachts, thus saving about $175,000 annually.

FULL TEXT OF CONFESSION

Rev. Richeson Says He Suffered the Tortures of the Damned.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 8.—Following is the full text of the confession made by Rev. C. V. T. Richeson:

"Boston, Jan. 3, 1912.

"John L. Lee, Esq.:
"William A. Morse, Esq.:
"Philip R. Dunbar, Esq.:

"Gentlemen: Deeply penitent for my sin, and earnestly desiring, as far as in my power lies, to make atonement, I hereby confess that I am guilty of the offence of which I stand indicted.

"I am moved to this course by no inducement of self-benefit or leniency. Heinous as is my crime, God has not wholly abandoned me, and my conscience and manhood, however depraved and blighted, will not admit of my still further wronging by a public trial her whose pure young life I have destroyed. Under the lashings of remorse I have suffered and am suffering the tortures of the damned. In this I find a measure of comfort. In my mental anguish I recognize that there is still, by the mercy of the Master, some remnant of the Divine Spark of goodness still lingering with me. I could wish to live only because within some prison's walls I might, in some small measure, redeem my sinful part, help some other despairing soul, and, at last, find favor with my God.

"You are instructed to deliver this to the district attorney, or to the judge of the court.

"Sincerely yours,
"Clarence V. T. Richeson."

Just before noon Saturday the judges of the Supreme Court and the district attorney went into conference at the court house, and about an hour later representatives of the press were called to the office of William A. Morse, the leading counsel for the accused clergyman. Typewritten sheets containing the confession were handed to the newspaper men, and those who paused to ask for some further explanation were told that there was nothing more to be said at this time.

The fact that the confession was dated three days ago was also pointed out to the counsel, but they refused to comment upon it at this time.

Burned to Death.

Montreal, Jan. 8.—Three-year-old Albert Gingras upset a lamp in his home on St. Timothe street yesterday while his mother was out, and the blaze thus started burned his nine-months-old sister to death. The fire was soon controlled by the firemen before much damage was done.

Crashed Into Pole.

New York, Jan. 8.—Fred Plougher, conductor of a Gravenend avenue trolley car, was killed and five other persons seriously hurt when the car was derailed and crashed into a telegraph pole early yesterday.

The motorman, James Hughes, benumbed with cold, was thrown from his post while the car was taking a curve at high speed and the car went without a driver for four blocks before it jumped the tracks. Conductor Plougher dashed to the forward platform of the car to stop it, but as he reached the controller the car jumped and struck the pole, smashing in the front vestibule. The man was crushed and is believed to have died instantly.

DOUBLE MURDER

Aged Man and Wife Slain and Mutilated by Fanatic in New York.

New York, Jan. 8.—A case of double murder found in an east side house yesterday is one of the most shocking in detail of any since the Guldensuppe dismemberment and the "Jack-the-Ripper" series of crimes. Isaac Futerman, 80 years old, and his wife, Rachael, 72 years old, were found dead in their rooms at No. 101 Norfolk street, their bodies terribly mutilated.

The police believe that the aged couple were practically tortured to death, and in the absence of any well-established motive for such a crime, the police think the Futermans were victims of some religious maniac.

Futerman was a retired manufacturer, who had accumulated a small fortune, but he had always refused to leave the east side neighborhood, where he settled when he came from Russia many years ago. He was a zealous church worker and aided in founding a synagogue in his district, at which he and his wife have been regular attendants for many years. The couple lived alone, with three children living in other parts of the city.

One of these, Aaron Futerman, superintendent of a brass factory, discovered the bodies when he called at the house yesterday for his regular weekly visit. He and the police forced an entrance and found the father's body on a sofa and the mother's on a bed, both only partially dressed. There were deep gashes across both faces and bodies, and the eyes of both were terribly mutilated. The nature of the mutilation led the police to believe that it had been begun while the Futermans were alive, and that death had actually been caused by blows over the head which fractured both skulls.

The bodies bore finger prints which police experts took photographs of. The key to the door of their rooms was missing, and a small bag in which Mrs. Futerman is said to have carried money, tied about her neck, and jewelry which Mr. Futerman is said to have worn, could not be found, but the police did not believe that robbery was the motive of the crime. The murderer evidently locked the door behind him and took the key with him and left no trace of his identity except the bloody finger-prints on the bodies.

The son, Aaron Futerman, declared that the murder was a complete mystery to him, for he did not know that his father had an enemy in all the world. He said that what money the murderer could have secured was comparatively small, as his father kept practically all his money in a bank.

A large number of central office detectives were at work on the case last night, but up to a late hour they had run upon no good clue. The police believe that the murder occurred several days ago, as decomposition had set in slightly, the neighbors do not remember seeing the aged couple since January 3.

Boston, Jan 8 — District Attorney Pelletier will press for the sentence of death on Rev. Richeson, when the latter is arraigned late this afternoon. In an interview to-day, Pelletier declared Richeson confessed to the murder of Avis Linnell to escape from the electric chair and is relying on Governor Foss to commune the sentence to life imprisonment if the extreme penalty is imposed.

Miss Stone and her companion were rescued from the brigands by the payment of $65,000, raised by private subscription in this country. The sum asked first was $110,000.

FOUR PERSONS DEAD; POISON SUSPECTED

Mysterious Tragedy at Philadelphia — Police Investigating the Case — Was There Poison in Milk.

Philadelphia, Jan. 8.—Mystery surrounds the deaths of four persons whose bodies, fully clothed, were discovered yesterday in the second storey back room of the boarding-house of Mrs. Bridget Flanagan, No. 1,323 North Twenty-fourth street. Mrs. Flanagan, who was among the dead, was deserted by her husband ten days ago, but was said to have been in fairly prosperous circumstances. She was 38 years of age.

Her daughter Anne Flanagan, aged 10 years, and Joseph Flanagan, aged 15 months, an adopted child, died with her. The fourth body was that of Catharine Murray, aged 18 years, a boarder in the house, who recently came to this country from Ireland. Her room was on the third floor, but she had evidently decided to sleep with Mrs. Flanagan, because of the greater warmth of the latter's room.

The police officials and coroner, who are investigating the case, are unable to determine whether the deaths were caused by coal gas or whether the poison had been administered in milk, of which all four had partaken. The latter theory is supported by the finding of some crystals in an empty milk pitcher. These crystals have not yet been analyzed.

Mrs. Hannah Curran, a sister of Mrs. Flanagan, who came with her family, was also found seriously ill. She was removed to a hospital, where it is said that she is suffering from pneumonia. They are unable to say as yet whether or not she was poisoned.

NOTHING IN ALLIANCE YARN

Ottawa, Jan. 8.—A prompt, emphatic and comprehensive denial comes from Premier Borden and Hon. Robt. Rogers in regard to the story that they have been conducting negotiations with Roman Catholic archbishops with a view to an alliance between the Government and the heirarchy.

The story is regarded in Ministerial circles as a joke. It appears to have been imagined by an Ottawa man and to have no other foundation than the fact that Rev. Father Burke has been known to pay a couple of visits to Ottawa of late, that Premier Borden went to Montreal in connection with the public health conference, and while there was the guest of Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, and that on New Year's Day, Hon. Robert Rogers called at the palace of Archbishop Langevin, without, however, seeing the archbishop.

When Premier Borden was asked about the story he said briefly: "It is without foundation."

The regular meeting of the W.M.S. of George street church will be held Thursday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock in the church parlors.

Galway May Be a Port.

London, Jan. 8.—The establishment of Galway, Ireland, as a trans-atlantic port is advocated by Lord Killanin in the forthcoming issue of The Empire Review. He predicts a revival of the trade of the Irish port which was at one time second only to London as a port of the United Kingdom.

Steamers leaving Galway could get under way at full speed. The minimum loss of time would be the delay incident to the fog and traffic in the Irish Sea. The transatlantic ships built for high speed are delayed in the channel.

The harbor at Galway is wide, deep and free from obstructions, with two feasible channels leading to the sea, and the surrounding hills provide splendid shelter from storms.

PROROGATION BY EASTER

Ottawa, Jan. 8.—The House of Commons gets down to work again on Wednesday and will be in session, it is expected, until the end of March. The Government is practically ready with all its important legislation and has finished up the preparation of estimates for the year.

The session's work is already for the House and it is up to that body to take a long or short time over it. There have been some rumblings within the last few days indicating a desire on the part of the Opposition to get up a series of fights on those subjects, which it thinks the Government is least willing to have discussed. The friends of the Government say that there are no such questions and that the Opposition is perfectly welcome to go ahead. In any event there is a general expectation of prorogation by Easter.

FATALITY ON C.P.R. CROSSING

Glencoe, Ont., Jan. 8.—A double fatality occurred at the Canadian Pacific Railway crossing at North Glencoe Saturday night at midnight, when Henry and Walter Smith were struck and instantly killed by the Canadian Pacific express. Walter Smith, an employe of John Curnoe of London, had arrived by the Grand Trunk Limited Express, which was about three hours late, for a visit to his brother, Henry, a farmer of Mosa.

It is thought that they were heavily wrapped, as the night was very cold, and they did not hear the train. Their horse was killed and the bodies of the unfortunate brothers mangled almost beyond recognition. Walter was unmarried, while Henry leaves a young wife, the daughter of the late William Quick.

Rejected Suitor's Revenge.

Montreal, Jan. 8.—Because he was rejected as a suitor by fifteen-year-old Denise Sarrazin, who said that she would never marry an Italian, Victor Ruceppi, aged 23, attempted Saturday night to blow up the young girl's home with dynamite. The dynamite cartridge went through the lower storey of the house and exploded in the kitchen flat occupied by Joseph Cousineau. No one was hurt.

Ruceppi was arrested, later confessing. He will be arraigned to-day.

TRIBUTE TO KAISER CAUSES TROUBLE

Brutal Hangings at Tabriz.

Tabriz, Jan. 8.—Four more nationalists were hanged on Saturday near the Russian camp. The executions were carried out in a primitive and brutal manner. The ropes were placed around the necks of the condemned men and pulled sharply. Thus the victims were slowly strangled. Some of the victims lived fifteen minutes. No bandage covered the eyes, and in some case the arms and legs were unbound.

$30,000 Fire at Montreal.

Montreal, Jan. 8.—Fire broke out on the second floor of the factory of the Dominion Button factory on Visitation street at midnight last night, resulting in damage from fire, smoke and water to the building and stock of from $20,000 to $30,000. The entire second storey was gutted and the rest of the building badly damaged. The cause of the fire is unknown.

MORE AFRAID OF OBLATS

Montreal, Jan. 8.—Hon. Senator Legris tells in Le Pays yesterday why he sends his two sons to McGill University and replies to L'Action Sociale of Quebec, who claim that the Senator is hitched up with a Freemason, meaning, no doubt, G. Langlois, M.P.P., editor and proprietor of Le Pays. He says he does not care whether he had to do with Freemasons or not, all he wants is a sincere adherent to Liberalism.

The Senator points out that Sir John A. Macdonald was a man high up in the Masonic Order and asks what is the difference, as Sir John Macdonald was supported by the clergy of this province to a man. Then Senator Legris tells how an Oblat Father brutally assaulted his son Wilfrid while the latter was asleep in the dormitory, and that, although the boy lost an eye and carries a broken nose as a result of the attack, the college authorities pleaded that they were not responsible for the act of one of their number, and, consequently, Senator Legris affirms that he is more afraid of an Oblat than a Freemason, and regrets that his sons were not always at McGill.

NO TRUTH IN PEACE REPORTS

Italy and Turkey Will Fight it Out in Tripoli Says Government Organ

Special to the Review.

Rome, Jan. 8 — The "Corriere Ditalia," a newspaper usually reflecting government opinion, declares to-day that there is no truth in the rumors that peace is about to be declared in Tripoli.

MILDER WEATHER IS GENERAL

Special to the Review.

Toronto, Jan 8—Milder weather is general throughout the province with promise of snow. The official temperature in Toronto at noon, was eighteen above zero. In Chicago and New York, its much milder, but the churches will continue to allow homeless persons to sleep in their auditoriums for a week at least.

Nobody Pleased With the Remarks Made by Lord Lonsdale—France is Uneasy.

Berlin, Jan. 8.—The interview with the Earl of Lonsdale, concerning the German Emperor, published in The London Daily News, divides interest with the elections. The German newspapers carry long despatches, quoting Lord Lonsdale, but what comment has been elicited so far is unfavorable, with the recent Anglo-German difficulties fresh in mind.

The Post says that Lonsdale's references to the Emperor's greatness as a general or his genius for flattery were in the forst taste. The Emperor, added the paper, long since realized that he is no Frederick the Great, nor another Frederick William, the great elector, and has announced that if war came, although assuming nominal command of the army, he would refrain to the utmost from interfering with the professional leaders.

France Is Uneasy.

Paris, Jan. 8.—The uneasiness felt by French financiers and diplomats relative to Great Britain and Germany is again voiced in the leading article in The Temps. Yesterday concerning the Lord Lonsdale interview on the German Emperor, The Temps regrets these repeated attempts to force the feeling of friendship between the two countries. Lonsdale's efforts in that direction, it says, like others, has failed lamentably and only increases the spirit of bitterness. Germany no longer believes what Englishmen say. On the other hand, the paper points out, the projected augmentation of the German navy strikes a blow at English national security and the English national purse.

"The most glowing words of the Emperor," The Temps says, "will never advance the cause of peace an inch, so long as this national menace hangs over the head of Great Britain."

The newspapers also give prominence to the statement in a German newspaper by M. Pichon, ex-Minister of Foreign Affairs, that the new year does not augur well for the disciples of peace and that the horizon seems obscured by difficulties and complications.

COSTLY FIRE IN TORONTO

Several Firms Burned Out—Loss Will Total About $140,000

Toronto, Jan. 8.—Fire early Saturday evening and water did over $140,000 damage, it is estimated, to the premises and stock of the Boyd, Brumell Co., Ltd., fancy goods, 11 West Wellington street; Fowke Singer Co., Ltd., dry goods, 7 West Wellington; and the Merchants' Bank, 13 West Wellington.

The cause of the blaze is unknown. It appears to have started on the main floor of the Boyd, Brumell Co., near the elevator or at the foot of the elevator shaft, and was not extinguished until the $100,000 stock of the company was destroyed with their $20,000 building completely gutted, and the stock of the Robinson, Dale Co. damaged to the extent of $18,000 or $20,000 by water.

The stock of the Fowke Singer Co., 7 West Wellington street, was also damaged by water to the extent of about $2,000. The bank building suffered only slightly.

INSURANCE AGENT IS ARRESTED AT TORONTO

Had Office Here and is Wanted on Theft Charge.

Toronto police on Saturday arrested Frederick C. Carter, at the request of Chief Thompson, and Detective Newhall will bring the prisoner back to Peterborough, where in police court he will face a charge of theft, the information charging him with the theft of $30.

Carter for about three months was an agent of the Union Life Insurance Company, and had an office here. Last Friday, following a visit from an inspector of the company, it was found that the door of the office was unlocked, and the inspector discovered the key in the office.

Further investigation showed that the books showed a shortage of between $60 and $70, and Chief Thompson was notified. The arrest of the missing man followed on Friday.

THROWN FROM HIS SLEIGH

Edward Flaherty Met With Mishap This Morning

Edward Flaherty, the well-known carter, was thrown from his sleigh this morning at the corner of George and Charlotte streets, when the runner caught in the car tracks.

He was badly shaken up and received a nasty scalp wound, which, however, is not serious. His injuries received attention from Dr. C. H. Amys.

Many farmers around Kingston were engaged in fall plowing as late as Dec. 13.

Doctors Condemn Oily Liniments

The Public are Warned to Be Careful of These Strong-Smelling Oily Liniments Containing Harmful Acids, Ammonia, Etc.

Many people have clung to the old-fashioned idea that a thick, greasy liniment is the best kind. Doctors say not—and they know.

Recently a number of these white, oily liniments were analyzed, and they were found to contain an enormously high percentage of harmful acids, and such irritating chemicals as ammonia, etc. For the moment they may cause a warm sensation when first applied, but their continued use never cures rheumatism, and only deteriorates the skin, sets up inflammation and causes endless trouble.

When a doctor warns you to quit using a white, oily liniment—do so. He knows that a thick liniment can't penetrate, can't sink through the pores and reach the seat of the pain.

When asked his opinion a few days ago, Dr. Roberts stated that he considered a strong, penetrating, pain-subduing liniment such as "Nerviline," to be superior to any of the white, ammonia liniments. In his twenty-five years of practice he had witnessed cases of rheumatism, sciatica, and lumbago that simply would not respond to ordinary treatment—but Nerviline cured them. The same physician also spoke of the great advantages of keeping a preparation like Nerviline in the house always, because of cramps, diarrhoea, stomach disorders, earache, toothache, headache, and such minor ailments. Nerviline is a first-class cure. There is scarcely an ache or a pain, internal or external, that Nerviline won't cure. In thousands of homes no other pain-relieving medicine is used. Fifty years' continued success and the endorsement of the profession are proof that Nerviline is the liniment for the home.

UNION LABEL

BLANKET YOUR HORSE

Would you take it as a compliment if some one came up and accused you of cruelty? The average man would resent it quickly. And yet how many people countenance cruelty, and neglect to our four-footed friends. With severe weather like the present special attention should be paid to the patient horse, who, in addition to being overloaded and often harshly treated, is often exposed for long periods of time without adequate coverings. The public can help remedy this. If they see the rig of a certain firm, and the horse standing without a blanket, report this matter to the head of that firm. And if he has not supplied a blanket for this purpose he will soon "take a tumble" and do so. But in the majority of cases the driver is supplied with a blanket, but is too lazy to use it. These individuals should be made come to time and the only way to do it is to report them to their firms.

ALARMIST REPORTS

Alarmist reports are being spread broadcast from Ulster stating that the people are arming and drilling, getting ready to fight against home rule for Ireland if it should pass. These rumors are circulated every time there is a possibility of home rule being brought nearer by some political move in the old land, but in the end have usually turned out to be nothing more than a correspondent's dream. That the Unionists of Ulster are bitterly opposed to Irish self-government is beyond dispute, but they would hardly take steps that would mean certain bloodshed and suffering.

The Irish home rule measure in the meantime is going forward, and the fear expressed in some quarters that it will mean the disintegration of the Empire, does not appear to many people. The essence of the whole bill seems to be simply a matter of financial arrangement, which it is hoped will result in the better conduct of business between the two countries.

If the home rule measure is carried the proposed Irish administration have many reforms outlined in their platform. Among these are reforestration, reclamation of waste lands, development of fisheries, tillage and dairy farming, and the fostering of nascent industries, with the remodelling of the poor law system. All these reports, if carried out, should add to the peace and prosperity of Ireland. One wonders where all the opposition to the measure comes from, when the Customs revenue and excise will be still under the imperial parliament, and the home rule party pledged to the above reforms.

TALKING PEACE—PREPARING FOR WAR.

While peace conferences are being held, the nations are losing no time in preparing for war. Aeroplanes for dropping bombs, and bombs for making aeroplanes drop are the latest instruments of war. All Europe is getting ready for the scrap and when it comes all the powers will likely figure in the conflict. Many leading writers believe that a Franco-German war is close at hand. It is estimated that such a war would cost $750,000,000 a month or $9,000,000,000 a year. And the burden of this would fall on the taxpayer—the party who usually settles.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The opposition in P.E.I. consists of two Liberal members. Suppose both of these "ionlies" want to be leader, what will happen. Prospects of a deadlock look good.

German socialists are campaigning against the increase of armaments. If the rest of the planks of their platform was as good they would deserve hearty support.

The coal man is smiling and greeting his friends with "what beautiful weather," while the man who has to settle the fuel bill, is saying things that would make a parson weep.

Nineteen temporary clerks in the National Transcontinental Railway offices have been retired. Pretty tough at this time of the year. The men with the axe at Ottawa are certainly working overtime.

The kimemacolor pictures shown at the Grand during the past week, are magnificent and should prove of great educational value wherever shown. Parents should see that the young folks have an opportunity of seeing them on their return engagement.

A Russian in Toronto sold his sweetheart for $5 to another chap. Then the chap who paid for the girl proceeded to show his esteem for her by beating her. Now the police have taken a hand in the affair. Both chaps should be parcelled up and sold for a plugged nickel. They are not worth even that.

How Rev. Richeson could stand in his pulpit and urge his hearers to follow the straight and narrow path and at the same time hand out to a sweet girl, who trusted him absolutely, a death potion, which caused her intense agony, is one of life's mysteries which is hard to fathom.

Cotton's weekly, a socialist paper, says,—"The McNamaras were agents of capitalists exploiters. That is the real reason they were not hung." Great reasoning this. Just how leading labor men could be capitalist agents is something the average man will be puzzled to figure out.

Dr. Sun Yat Sen

Woodstock Sentinel Review.

A man whose career with be worth watching is Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the newly appointed president of China's new provisional government. He is apparently endowed with many of the qualities that make for genuine greatness. His patriotism apparently genuine; there does not seem to be any trace of selfishness in it. He has faith, he has courage, and he has ability. But his task is one of tremendous difficulty, and something, perhaps, much, will depend on whether the fates are favorable or otherwise.

THE GENUINE ALWAYS SUPERIOR TO THE IMITATION

The experienced buyer never permits the shrewd merchant to convince him that an imitation is superior to the genuine advertised article. In refusing a substitute he protects himself and the manufacturers who have expended enormous sums in giving the public information regarding their products.

Advertised articles have stood the test of public approval on their merits and materia's embracing their make-up. The mere fact that they are imitated is competent testimony of their worth.

You are safe in rejecting the article offered as "just as good."

The Paternoster Ruby

By Charles Edmond Walk.

Supplied exclusively in Canada by the British & Colonial Press, Limited, Toronto.

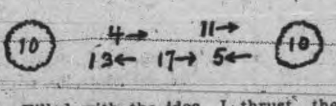
During her first visit to the house, with Belle, she had clearly recognized the seriousness of the young man's predicament, and that I would be governed only by the facts as I read them. Notwithstanding he was somewhat fiery and headstrong, if she could influence me to see that he was honest, sincere and straightforward, she felt hopeful that I would continue my investigation with a strong leaning in his favor.

Was ever a cipher so empty of all meaning! What addle-pate had conceived it? Why should he want to perpetrate anything so idiotic?

By her simplicity and singleness of purpose, however, she had innocently drawn my attention to her uncle; then, in a measure, she had verified my awakened suspicions. While Maillot and Felix Page were in the library, engrossed in their own affairs, could Alfred Fluette have been in the house?

Highly improbable as such a contingency might appear, still it was by no means impossible. "Suppose," Genevieve had asked me, "that it was Uncle Alfred?" Never, unless she herself had some reason to doubt and mistrust, would she have propounded that question. Had he been absent from home until an unwontedly late hour last night? Was his manner in the morning of a nature to draw attention to himself, so that, in the light of later developments, it had provoked her suspicions? I had purposely refrained from asking her any questions touching upon this possibility.

In a flash the image of Genevieve Cooper swam out of my thoughts. My whole attention become glued to the cipher. At each end of the two rows of numerals and arrrows was a peculiar crenellated design; it had struck me with a sudden sense of familiarity. Where had I ever seen anything similar or identical, that this odd symbol should penetrate into the midst of my absorption and force me unwittingly to try to recall the circumstance? Quite recently, I was sure—to-day—in this very house. My glance skirted the spacious library, darting from one object to another, but encountered nothing at all that in any way resembled it. Here was a subliminal reminder which my perception was dull to read.



Filled with the idea, I thrust the strip of parchment-like paper back into my pocketbook, and started eagerly upon another tour of the entire establishment. I paused in one room after another, examined each article in turn, but ended not a whit wiser than when I began.

Yet my belief in the correctness of the veiled mental impulse remained unshaken. The design was a facsimile of some object in this house; something my eyes had rested upon, albeit without the existence at the time of any occasion to fix it upon my mind; but conjure my brain as I would, I could not recall where or when.

When Stodger returned, I determined at last, I would set him at work searching for the odd symbol, or whatever it might be. When I made this resolve I was standing beside the old Walnut table at the head of Mr. Page's bed; with a forefinger I idly traced the design in the dust on the artificial leather cover, beside the imprecs made by the jewel-box.

My preoccupation was broken in upon by the arrival of the undertaker's men. It would not do—if the ruby was really beneath this roof—to grant any strangers unrestricted privileges of the house; at least not without keeping a heedful eye upon their movements. Alexander Burke, I shrewdly suspected, was equal to any subterfuge or ruse to obtain the jewel, and I did not mean to be caught napping.

No small responsibility is involved in safeguarding $500,000—the amount Maillot declared his uncle had paid for the ruby—particularly when the guardian himself does not know precisely where the treasure lies. It would not do to take any chances. Otherwise, if the amount had been materially less, or had been in a form not so easily disposed of about the person or by thrusting it into a convenient cranny, or, perhaps, even tossing it unseen through a window to a waiting confederate on the outside, my wisest course might have been to permit Burke, or whoever knew where the jewel was, to lead me to its hiding-place. But I must be vigilant, always alert; there would be little sleep for me until I had this extraordinary gem safe in my hands.

So I remained with the undertaker's men until they departed with the body.

As I turned to re-enter the house Stodger's portly form hove into view. He dropped into one of the library's big easy-chairs.

"Whew!" he gasped, "I'm a peach of a shadow, ain't I? Nice work for one of my build. Say! That fellow Burke—Alexander Stilwell—he's the—you know—most restless party I ever saw. If Fanshawe hadn't relieved me when he did I'd be worked down to about middle-weight by this time."

"Anything particular?" I inquired.

"Er—no. You know he came back here. Rest o' the time he spent dodging in and out of old Page's offices at the Drovers' National. Walk like a house afire for—m'm'm—maybe a block; next time maybe six blocks."

"Well?"

"Then he'd—ah—he'd turn round and walk back again."

"Not very interesting for you. But we know one thing for certain: he's uneasy. I have a far lighter task for you, though, than following the erratic movements of Mr. Alexander Burke."

And then I recounted for his benefit all that I knew respecting the ruby, declared my belief that it lay somewhere in the house, and, finally, outlined my plans for the immediate future.

"We'll divide the vigil between us, Stodger; you and I shall camp right here until that costly bauble comes to light. We'll have to keep our eyes open and our wits about us, too; I wouldn't be surprised at some tricky attempt to recover it at any time—especially during darkness."

After showing him the cipher and requesting that he be observant to find the counterpart of the two peculiar designs, I left him in charge of the house. Next I arranged that our meals be brought to us, after which I returned to town and held a long conference with my chief. This proved to be eminently satisfactory, inasmuch as he left the Page affair entirely in my hands.

Although I hoped that some new development would require another interview with Miss Cooper, absolutely nothing transpired until the next morning. During the rest of Wednesday afternoon—perhaps I forgot to mention that the murder was committed at about midnight Tuesday—and until late Wednesday night, Stodger and I prosecuted a diligent and systematic search for the ruby, the original of the design of the cipher, and for anything else that might bear upon the crime, but found nothing to reward our efforts. At a late hour we knocked off and sought the library's easy-chairs. After a while Stodger asked me for the cipher. When I dropped off to sleep he was industriously digging away at it, with many gasps and inarticulate exclamations.

Concerning the cipher, it is perhaps well to mention that I applied it to the door of the hidden safe on the chance that the opposed arrows indicated the different movements of the dial; but I discovered the combination to be much simpler. In fact, there were not sufficient tumblers in the dial to allow for so complicated a combination at all.

There remained the possibility that the numerals belonged to some other safe, though I did not think so: those two odd crenellated figures could have nothing in common with any permutation-lock. I had seen them; they were tantalizingly familiar; but where? And what meaning did those two figure "10's" bear? Here was a riddle for Œdipus.

The next morning—Thursday—Dr. De Breen conducted the inquest in the library. I mention this hearing solely because of a number of circumstances which occurred during the proceedings—although unrelated to them—and which have a bearing upon the story. As for the testimony itself, it was about as satisfactory as in most instances where little respecting the crime is definitely known.

Stodger and I had the burden of additional watchfulness imposed upon us; a number of people would be brought upon the scene, and each of us had to be present at some time during the hearing without leaving the house unguarded for a second.

"Looky here, Swift," Dr. De Breen buttonholed me, grabbing at his glasses, "what's in this case, anyhow? Have you got the man? 'Tisn't a woman, is it?" He cocked his head on one side, and favored me with a squinting regard.

"No, I haven't," I emphatically returned. "And what's more, I don't think you're going to hit upon him today. It isn't a woman, either."

"Don't say! But what have you?"

I displayed the cipher, at which he scowled ferociously for a second.

"It's a combination," he announced, decisively; "bet the cigars it's a combination—or direction of some sort."

"Sure thing. Perhaps, too, you'll tell me where I can try it out."

I shook my head. "You can search me. I thought you might tell me something; I can ask more questions about it myself right now than I can answer."

But I added my conviction that they were fac-similes of some detail of ornamentation I had seen in the house. I also told him where the cipher had been discovered—but not who had discovered it—and, in short, gave him a summary of the entire case. Before I was through he was grinning at me in a very superior and knowing way.

"Nice, bright sleuth, you," commented he, mockingly; "can't you see through a grindstone when there's a hole in it? Now, looky here, Swift; old Page kept the replica in the box as a blind; this cryptogram tells where the real ruby is.'"

I shrugged my shoulders; the idea was by no means novel. But it did not make matters any clearer.

"It must have been the ruby which he showed Maillot," I insisted. "That young man may not be much of a gem expert, but I don't think any mere paste imitation of a ruby would have inspired him to such a flight of vivid description as he indulged in when he talked with me yesterday morning. Guess again."

BACK TO THE LAND.

Near City Gardening Appeals to the Urban Citizen.

Appreciating land nowadays is becoming a peculiarity of city people in Canada. In a country with millions of acres yet unoccupied, or even reached by railways, we are confronted with the growing city where vacant lots are, if not unknown, at least inaccessible for even baseball; with fast-developing towns in the west staked off on the environs for future speculation; with farms selling in some cases for five hundred dollars an acre—if the land happens to be along a lake front anywhere within half an hour's ride of a city limit, says The Canadian Courier.

The paradox of the land is peculiar and it is becoming more acute. Seven miles west of the western limit of Toronto land sells not by the acre, but at twelve and fifteen dollars a foot. A mile or two east of Hamilton are the same conditions. In a few years Hamilton and Toronto will shake hands at twenty dollars a foot for country and suburban residences. So also are Winnipeg, Montreal and Vancouver surrounded by a belt of city farmers.

This may be a speculative value; but it is being paid. Every turn-over of a block of land means an increase in the average price. A few years ago land that sells now by the foot was sold by the lot. The man who bought three lots then is succeeded by the man who buys one lot; or he has sold two of his lots at so much a foot; and the inference is that the more people you can get on to a given area of land the greater the value of the land—which to the man desiring a comfortable, quiet life is an illusion.

So we persist in packing our towns and cities with people often at the expense of the rural parts. We build up big communities on small areas of high-priced land. The influence of the city community reaches out over the adjoining farm lands which go up in price for three reasons: sympathy with the value of town property, the rapid extension of the suburban subdivision, and the practical value of good land adjacent to a city for the market and fruit garden business.

Thus begins a backward movement to the land. City dwellers burdened with high rents and crowded quarters begin to acquire suburban and even country residences where the time and the money required for transportation do fall a margin below the cost of rent and of other items of living in the city.

The whole thing becomes a mathematical problem, whereby a man figures an hour each way on a suburban and street railway car as worth so much a week or a month to the extra cost of living in the town and allowing so much for the increase of comfort by living in the country.

One of the results of this backward movement is that the city man with a plot of land near his house learns to go gardening. He finds that with an hour a day in the summer he can tend his garden more or less, do a little casual hiring and produce vegetables and small fruits enough to supply his own tables with perhaps an occasional sale to friends of his in town.

The experience of some city men in keeping gardens and raising chickens would be of immense interest to farmers who have taken half a lifetime to discover that a real truck garden is absolutely necessary even on a farm; and of even more interest to the townsman who hankers to be delivered from the tyranny of monopolistic prices for vegetables and fruit. And it often happens that the townsman who turns himself to the problem of gardening is able to give lessons to the villager or the rural dweller who all his life surronunded by idle or half-idle land has to learn the real productive value of land from the man who has been living on the edge of a boulevard.

A Rugby Story.

Mr. Maitland McCarthy, ex-M.P., of Calgary, was formerly a great rugby football player.

A game was being played some years ago at Kingston between Queen's University and the Hamilton Tigers. The spectators kept crowding on the sidelines, and as the game was a hard one, McCarthy, who was the Tiger captain, lost his temper. He singled out a grey-bearded, elderly gentleman, and shouted at him: "Get out of here, whiskers; you ought to know better than crowd on the field like this!" Or words to that effect.

The elderly gentleman proved to be the late Principal Grant, and only the protection of the players saved Mac from being mobbed by the students, who had the greatest admiration for their president. As it was, the Tigers, as they drove from the field, were hooted and pelted with dirt and stones by the Queen's boys.

THE GOOD OLD SUN

W. LYMAN HUME, Esq., M.D., says:

I took my last policy in the "Sun Life" five years ago. You may think how agreeably surprised I was to receive your letter of the 28th ult., informing me that my share of the profits earned by my Policy during the last five years amounted to $205.80 IN CASH; or if I preferred they would give me $46.65 a year for for the next five years, to be used as an annual reduction of my yearly premium; or better still they would increase my policy by $311.00, making it worth $5,311 instead of $5,000, upon which I would continue to pay the old premium. This is the option I have chosen.

Suppose that instead of insuring I had placed the amount of my premium $277.75, in the Bank each year, and had allowed the interest to be compounded for five years at three per cent., the interest allowed by all safe, conservative Banks. What would be the results? To-day I should receive $130.11 as the accumulated interest from the Bank, instead of $205.80 from the "Sun Life," a difference of $75.70; but in addition to this the Company has carried the risk on my life for $5,000, which they might have been called at any time to pay.

This is in marked contrast with the so-called Fraternal Societies. I have a policy of $1,000 in one of the best of them; I was notified the other day that my policy would be reduced one-half, or my premium doubled. The "Sun" increases my policy, or reduces my premium; the Fraternal Society reduces my policy or increases my premium; it should not be a difficult matter to choose which is the better system of the two.

The "Good Old Sun," may it never set except to rise again with increased effulgence!

ADAMS' GREAT CASH REALIZATION SALE

393 George St. Peterborough

Owing to the backward season and the mild weather, the first of the year finds us with a very large amount of our Winter Goods that usually sell in November & December, still on hand. If these are carried over it means a serious loss to us, and we find that a clearance of at least

When necessity tells us to let go, we have sense enough to do so, and when the people find that the PRICE SLASHER AT ADAMS' was in earnest, we believe their intelligence will lead them to avail themselves of this opportunity to make the dollars do double duty.

POULTRY SHOW OPENING IN THE MARKET HALL

To-morrow will see the opening of the poultry show at the market hall when birds of all classes and varieties to the number of 1500 will be placed on exhibition for three days and Peterborough people should patronize this show liberally. As an advertising medium for the city the association is doing a grand work. This is evidenced by the fact that birds from all parts of Canada and some from the United States will be entered in the competition for the seventy-five specials and the large number of other prizes.

The show will be open both day and evening for the three days, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Mr. Jos. Bennett, of Toronto, will be on hand again as judge for the Poultry Show. Mr. Bennett besides doing his own work at the big Guelph show, finished the work of two American judges, who fell down on the heavy proposition before them.

School children will be admitted on Wednesday afternoon after school for five cents. They must, however, appear in a body to secure this low rate.

Mrs Dawson will lecture Wednesday afternoon and evening probably in the market hall.

There will be many exhibits of dressed poultry, and eggs which will be of a very interesting character.

Twelve pheasants will also be shown. These are the property of Chief Howard. Some game animals including a fox and coon, are also billed as exhibits. The fox is owned by Mr Steve Murphy, of Otonabee.

BOARD OF HEALTH AND ICE FROM THE LITTLE LAKE

The Board of Health is due to meet this week, probably to-morrow morning and it is likely that the question of ice cutting will be on the slate and receive a discussion.

Last year the Board decided to ask the local ice dealers to discontinue the harvesting of ice in Little Lake in the interests of the health of the city and now as another season is approaching it would appear that the question should receive further consideration and action.

YOUNGSTER LOST HIS BEARINGS

The little son of Deputy Sheriff, F. J. A. Hall, 512 Gilmour street lost his way yesterday afternoon while returning from Sunday school and was found by Joseph Stewart on George street crying bitterly from cold and fright. He was carrying his Sunday school books under his arm, and was going south on George street, having become confused as to which was the right street for him to travel to reach his home on Gilmour street. He told Mr. Stewart, who asked what was the matter that he was freezing but was able to tell his address and telephone number. Mr. Stewart took him over to the Oriental Hotel and phoned for his father who came down and claimed his own.

LOCAL OPTION AND PETERBORO

Is the City Prepared to Provide a Substitute

Problem of Hotel Accomodation to be Grappled With

To The Editor of The Review,

Sir—In view of the fact that the local option campaign for 1913 is about to begin in Peterborough, it behooves, I suppose, those who are in any capacity interested in the well being of the community, to add their quota. This will be my quota for doing so. Let me remark, for brevity's sake, that it may well be taken for granted that people are already convinced of the absurdity of all forms of waste, from war to whiskey. Surely it is not necessary at this late date to "explain" further the weaknesses of humanity — the misery, the absolutely untellable misery and damnation of it all. But what we do need to think of is the future of the travelling public and of the city commercially. It would be an easy matter, I assume, to take over all the hotels, and to abolish the sale of liquor therein. Instead therefore, of discussing further what really needs no further discussion, let us set ourselves to the very pressing need of providing hotel accomodation—that is, good hotel accomodation—against the date when the hotel keeper will have slipped out of business and the hotel owner will have turned his property into something else than a cheap boarding and lodging house, for that is what he and the city face to face with, or will be when local option passes. I am moved to take these remarks by what I have been told at Ottawa by the travelling public, who, without exception, say that hotel accomodation in local option localities is a crying shame, and is doing great damage to business—in fact causing the buying public to go to other centres where the ordinary comforts of life, still exist for the travelling public.

This then is the problem we, in Peterborough as elsewhere, have to grapple with. In Peterborough we have excellent hotel service and by no means too much of it. If we would preserve this for the benefit of the travelling public when local option comes let us buy it out now at invoice prices and keep the standard of accomodation where it is. In no other way is it possible or can it be done. Do not let us for the sake of doing good, recklessly plunge the city into disorganization. The question is fairly up to us. Are we prepared to provide a substitute? If not then the work of the local optionist is not well, but badly done. Let men come forward with a comprehensive scheme to take over the hoteids and I will hold up both my hands for him. In the interests of the public and of the city we must face this difficulty, and we cannot honestly do so by shirking it and producing confusion and commercial injury.

J. H. BURNHAM.

TROUBLE WITH HEATING SYSTEMS

The local plumbing establishments have had many calls during the past few days, the extremely cold weather having played havoc with water and heating systems. There was no morning service at St. Paul's church yesterday, on account of the frigid atmosphere prevailing in the church, caused by the bursting of pipes. Sunday school was also called off. Similar trouble was met with at other large buildings, while cases of pipe bursting in houses were many.

There are ninety inmates in the Industrial Home at Beeton.

CHAIRMEN OF COMMITTEES FOR THE 1912 COUNCIL

Mayor Bradburn Addresses the Council — Some Important Questions to be Considered.

CHAIRMEN FOR 1912
Board of Works—Ald. Buller.
Fire Water and Light—Ald. Johnston.
Manufacturers—Ald. Gillespie.
Finance—Ald. Anderson.
Property—Ald. Duncan.
Legal—Ald. Brown.

With all indications pointing to a favorable voyage, the new City Council for 1912, hauled up anchor at 11 o'clock this morning and set sail upon the sea of municipal administration for the ensuing year.

MAYOR'S ADDRESS

All the members of the Council were present with the new Mayor, W. H. Bradburn in the chair. The present outlook is very optimistic for a successful and progressive year in municipal circles and with the new and yet experienced blood in this year's Council the city is apparently in for a boom along all lines.

Mayor Bradburn addressed the city fathers from the throne, outlining concisely, yet thoroughly some of the matters which he hoped would be prosecuted to successful termination during the which, and which woul dcome before the Council for their careful consideration.

He commenced by welcoming back to their places the aldermen who found it unnecessary to go before the ratepayers at the recent election to be returned, and also expressed his pleasure at having Ald. G. N. Gordon, the only new man to Council work, with them for the year.

"If harmony exists" he added, a policy can be worked out that will prove of general benefit to this city.

PERMANENT SESSION

"The first matter that would be taken up, was the appointment of a permanent assessor for the city: a man, who could twelve months in the year, attend to the duties, and whose duties it would be to secure better results. While the adoption of such a scheme might not prove a great success the first year, it would undoubtedly work out successfully the second or thirda year of its existence.

PERMANENT STREETS

Another matter to be looked into would be that of having some permanent work done on the streets, which would embrace perhaps the main street from Brock to Charlotte or from Central Park to the C.P.R. station, or may be on Charlotte st, from George street to the Grand Trunk tracks, "It is time the City Council of this city took up the question," continued the Mayor, "and it would be a splendid advertisement in the eyes of stangers coming into the city." Before the plan could be tried however, some decisive moev must be made towards having the wooden poles removed from the streets, and if it did require a little financial expenditure, it would be money well spent. Then the matter of pavements woul dreceive careful confideration.

BRIDGE FOR EAST CITY

Bridge accomodation for the East ward was another matter that would come up. Prior to his nomination the Mayor stated that he had been consultation with certain financial men and had excellent grounds for believing that strong financial support could be secured in putting a new bridge across into East city. The present bridge might be removed as far south as Sherbrooke or Dalhousie streets, and a steel structure be erected at Hunter street.

He also hoped that the incoming manufacturers committee would make a special effort to secure new industries for Peterborough.

CHEAP POWER.

The question of cheaper power for lighting also was mentioned. This in view of the sweeping manner in which the hydro-electric by-law had been favorably voted upon, would have to be done by the Hydro-Electric Commission. "There is no reason why we should not have cheaper power through the Hydro-electric when we have the power available for it right inside of our corporation."

PAYMENT OF TAXES.

Another important matter in the platform of the Mayor for the year would be to advocate taxes being paid in three instalments instead of twice a year as is at present done, the payments perhaps to be made in June, August and November. This Mayor Bradburn considered would make it easier for the average man.

There were certain works taken up in last year's council by Mayor Morrow not yet completed, which would be brought before the attention of the Board at an early date. By working harmoniously together he felt sure that the best interests of the ciy would be guarded and that general good for the city would be accomplished and that they could make this "a banner year for Peterborough."

Ald. Duncan at the finish of the Mayor's remarks moved that the Council go into a committee of the whole to draft the standing committees for the year. The voting was done verbally and not by ballot.

Ald Buller was appointed chairman of the Board of Works, on motion f Ald. Gillespie and Anderson. An emendment was moved by Ald. Morgan and Graham, that Ald. Johnston be chairman, but the latter owing to the fact that he would be handicapped through lack of time to attend to the duties of the position, declined the nomination.

Ald. Johnston, on motion of Ald Gordon and Buller, was appointed chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

Ald. Gillespie, on motion of Ald. Buller and Johnston, was appointed chairman of the Manufacturers and Power Committee. The two committees were combined this year, on motion of Ald Buller and Gordon.

Ald Anderson was appointed chairman of the Finance Committee, on motion of Ald. Duncan and Johnston.

Ald. Duncan was again appointed chairman of the Property Committee on motion of Ald. Buller and Duffus, and Ald. Brown is chairman of the Legal Committee, on motion of Ald. Gillespie and Johnston.

THE SCIENCE OF THE MIND

Paper Read by Mr. R. J. Todd to Bible Class

At the "Helping Hand Bible Class" of Park street Baptist church yesterday a lengthy paper was read by Mr. R. J. Todd, Christian Science practitioner, on the subject, "The Science of the Mind," based on the great commandment, Mark 12, 30.

Mr Todd's address was very interesting and instructive, and was listened to with a great deal of pleasure by a large class of men, as a masterly exposition of the subject. The subject was divided into three parts. The duty of a man to his Creator; second, the method of worship; third, the results.

The first argument was that we must first know God aright; this includes the topic, "The Science of the Mind." Defined by Webster, science is "The compansation or understanding of truth or facts of the mind." For the definition of mind, Mr. Todd took the Bible and Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, by Mary B. G. Eddy, showing that the real mind is God, while the human, or carnal mind is in need of changing, is a counterfeit of the divine mind, a belief in another power besides God, called Adam in the Scriptures, Gen. 2nd chapter. This materialistic belief ruptures the brotherhood of man, as seen in the action of Cain slaying his brother Abel, the beginning of war in heaven—Rev. 12, 7.

This belief is seen and felt all down the ages in wars, famine, disease and death, and altogether it tries many methods to save itself, it utterly fails. Hence the need of Saviour, the true spiritual knowledge, or the Science of Mind. The speaker then showed that this knowledge began through Abraham, which he defined as faith in the divine life. This was seen in healing and saving power, through Elisha, Daniel and others recorded in the Old Testament. Later it was manifested through Mary in the child Jesus, God manifested in the flesh. Through many mighty works he proved man's at-one-ment with the Father, thus becoming a Way-shower. He threw off the flesh, leaving the works to be carried on by those who believe in Him. Through persecution and unbelief the healing power was lost, but was again rediscovered by Mrs. Eddy in 1866. The rule and application of the divine to the human thought she wrote in a book known as "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures." The proof of the redemptive and healing influence of this book, or the Science of Mind. Mr. Todd gave some of his own practical experience, showing that truth is the same yesterday, to-day and forever. He further declared that it was the Science of Mind which enabled John to see that eventually the "devil would be cast out of heaven, that death and hell would be cast into the lake of fire."—Rev. 20, 14.

This Mr. Todd explains as sin, disease, sorrow and death swallowed up in the infinite ocean of divine love; then heaven harmony would reign supreme here and now, as in the beginning. In concluding he quoted a hymn written by Charles Parsons. We give the last stanza:

Then open wide your heart
To Truth and Light and Love.
You then shall know your life is hid
With Christ in God above.

WHAT HAMILTON HAS TO SAY OF FISKE O'HARA

He Appears at "The Grand" Tomorrow Evening

The Grand Opera House was crowded twice yesterday twice from the first row in the pit to the gallery last row in the top gallery to witness Fiske O'Hara's last and most elaborate production, Love's Young Dream. This show is one of the finest Irish love stories that has been offered to a Hamilton audience for some time, and the two performances yesterday proved thrilling and enjoyable by tyrns to the large audiences as the situations of pathos and humor, smacking of the "ould sod," travelled rapidly end on end.

The story centres in the love affairs of Barry Carroll, a prominent young Irish physician, and Nora McNamara, a beautiful orphan, ward of a crafty and scheming old uncle. Nora's uncle, Ignatius Dwyer, has it all arranged that Nora shall marry Col. Richard Lovell, a British soldier stationed near the Carroll home. Barry and Nora elope, but are caught before they are united, and Nora is taken from Carroll on the understanding that she is to go abroad for three years. Carroll is made to give up a confession, written by his father, which makes the father an accomplice of smugglers, is shown to the son with the threat that it will be acted upon is Carroll does not agree to Nora going away for a period of three years. Later it develops that Nora is not to be sent abroad but is to be married by force to Lovell. By assuming the garb and habits of a highwayman Carroll forces Lovell to give up Nora and the signed confession, and the young lovers are married. The two villains are foiled at every turn of their crafty game.

The scenery used is beautiful and is matched by the handsome costumes, which are true to the period of the action of the play.

Not least in Love's Young Dream, of course, is the singing of Fiske O'Hraa. Mr. O'Hara is the possessor of a charming tenor voice, and his songs were, no doubt, largely responsible for the selling out of the house twice yesterday. His songs in this latest play are Love's Young Dream, My Own Irish Girl, Come Back to Erin, My Asthore, Jack the Jolly Plow Boy and Nora McNamara.

CLEAN KITCHENS

Mr. F. A. Jacobi, proprietor of the Peterborough restaurant, writes the Review as follows;—"I read your editorial on the question of clean kitchens in Saturday's paper with interest. You advocate the inspection of kitchens in hotels and restaurants to prevent the spread of disease. Now I have been always perfectly willing that anyone should visit my kitchen at any time and am satisfied that they will find no more sanitary or cleaner kitchen in Peterborough. I invite people to see my kitchen at any time. I believe, as your article says, food should be prepared under absolutely clean conditions."

LINDSAY JUNIORS SHOULD MAKE THE LOCALS TRAVEL

The Junior engagement at the rink to-morrow night ought to provide another good hockey match for the now enthused fans. Lindsay Juniors with the scalps of the Port Hopers dangling to their sticks are coming again. The line-up is practically the same as put the locals away at the Mudtown last season after the first game here had gone 17-3 for the Brock street puck chasers.

The Kingston Frontenac in their first game, Friday night, defeated Picton 8-5 on home ice. The Frontenacs are entirely a new team this season.

Lakefield has a Church hockey league, which is said to be meeting with good success.

With two O.H.A. teams, two teams in the Trent Valley League, a Mercantile league and a Bank league, there will be no scarcity of hockey matches at Brock street.

Owing to the fact of it being a twenty minutes practice to-night, only the following junior regulars are asked to turn out to night at seven o'clock. Dwyer Milloy, Kenneally, Weir, Hall, CClancy, Cook and Jerry oughlin. The Intermediates will take the remainder of the hour.

CHAMPIONS WON OUT BY ONLY ONE COUNTER

All Saints' and Marmora Met in Exhibition Game

All Saints Trent Valley League team went to Marmora for an exhibition game Saturday night and made a very creditable showing against the league champions, who lead at the half by 2—1 and finished ahead by the score of 4—3. The local seven's line-up was:—Goal, Latimer; point, Hatton; cover, Campbell; forwards, Allen, McPhee, Hillier and McPhee.

The first league game is at Havelock next Friday night. All players are wished at practice to-night between 7 and 8 at Brock street rink.

C.G.E. TOOL ROOM CAPTURE FIRST

The C.G.E. Tool Room champions defeated the Lock Works seven in the first Mercantile League game Saturday night by a score of 6—1, leading at the half by 4—1.

"Bud" Kelly handled the bell and made the teams play hockey all the time. Despite the number of tallies alainst him, "Happy" O'Toole worked well in the nets or the losers. Rahmal at point for the winners demonstrated that he could do other things besides peg shoots on the ball lot, and although it was his debut in the hockey game he made good.

The teams were:

The Clerks and C.G.E. Machine Shop play to-night between 10 and 11.

LINDSAY PRESS ON THE GAME

Post Calls Spratt as the Star of the Night

The Lindsay Warder gives Peterborough full credit for winning the game on Friday night. The Warder says;

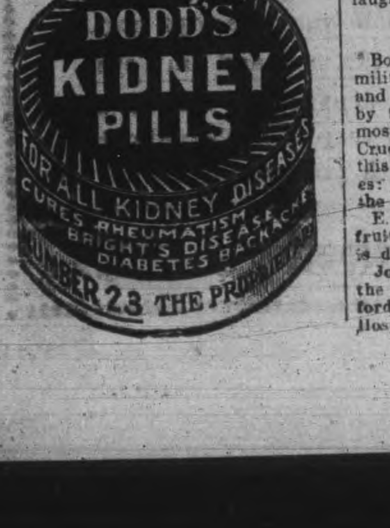
On the showing last night Peterborough had the better team; they were to a man heavier than the Lindsay seven, and furthermore (thanks to the painstaking care and attention of physical director "Tommy" Thompson, of the Peterborough Y. M. C. A.) they were in the pink of condition. In fact in order to be headed on their way to the championship of the district it will be a pretty fast seven which will be able to take their measure.

The Post has the following squeal:

Mr. Harvey Sproule, of Toronto, refereed the game, and detected mostly all of the rough stuff, although there were several nasty infractions of the hockey code which escaped his notice. As before mentioned, the Petes had the weight and knew how to use it, and as a result the locals got an unmerciful bumping. To the credit of the team be it said that they played a remarkably clean game, and were warmly congratulated by Peterborough fans. Bill Stoddard was the only Lindsay man ruled off. It was in the first half, and Bill's offence was of such a trivial nature that the referee might have overlooked it. Nine penalties were handed out to the Electric City players, Bearss and Bond being the worst offenders. Between them they visited the penal colony six times. These players were inclined to rough it, and well deserved the punishment meted out.

Woudn't this jar you?

Peter Spratt, the ex-St. Michael's College star, made his debut on a Lindsay intermediate team. He held down his position at point in brilliant style and made the fans sit up by his magnificent rushes the full length of the ice. Time again he eluded the Peterboro forwards and carried the puck to the nets, where he would be pounced upon by the weighty defence. He was easily the most dashing and finished player on the ice.



BARN BURNED AT OMEMEE

Mr. Thomas Rowan, of Omemee, sustained a serious loss by fire on Thursday night about 8.30 o'clock, when his stable was totally destroyed by the devouring element. The origin of the conflagration was the explosion of a lantern, which the owner was carrying in discharging his duties of feeding his cattle for the night. Two horses and three head of cattle were in the building at the time, which Mr. Rowan quickly liberated from their stalls, only in time to avert a more serious loss.

The building was worth about $250. Several tons of hay and grain were consumed.

Bright Detectives.

An ingenious Brentford (Eng.) detective has been filling the role of a barber whilst in the execution of his duty. In a betting case at Brentford the officer told a greatly-amused court that he went to the shop of one of the prisoners, a hair-dresser, took off his coat, pulled up his sleevs, put on a white apron, and began work as a barber. He received several betting-slips and various sums of money, and thus obtained the evidence he required.

A police sergeant at Dulwich lately, in order to keep observation on a house, masqueraded as a chair-mender, and on another occasion he donned a grey beard and pretended to be an aged man. He obliged counsel for the defence, after some natural hesitation, by giving to the court a very successful imitation of an old man's cracked and piping voice. He was very evidently a master of "make-up," and ought to have been on the stage rather than on the beat.

Another police sergeant in Walworth figured as a costermonger, with donkey and barrow complete. It was related in court how his raucous voice roused the neighborhood, and how he seemed to copy the characteristic twists and turns of the voice peculiar to the coster to perfection. He certainly "took in" the man he wished to observe, for he was able to drive his donkey close up to him, observe his conduct, and later to arrest him.

People Who Don't Laugh.

Laughter is unknown among the Veddahs of Ceylon. They are the most solemn people in the world. When a traveler asked some of them why their people never gave indication of mirth, they replied that they never saw anything to laugh at.

On the other hand, some savages appear to have a more robust sense of humor than their civilized brethren. Dr. Livingstone tells of an African tribe who, when dressed in clothes for the first time, "rolled about on the ground in uncontrollable fits of laughter."

The Bojars of Russia.

Bojars held exclusively the highest military and civic offices in Russia and were so universally looked up to by the mass of the people that the most powerful rulers, even Ivan the Cruel, considered it prudent to use this form of expression in the ukases: "The emperor has ordered it; the Bojars have approved it."

THE BEOTHUKS.

Three Indians, believed to be members of a strange Newfoundland tribe that was supposed to have become extinct as far back as 1829, have just been discovered. This old tribe was known as the Beothuks and the three members of it were found along the Penobscot river. One of them, a woman said to be nearly 100 years old, told the history of the lost tribe. In the opinion of experts the old squaw's information adds an important link which has been missing in anthropological history for nearly a century.

The Beothuks were first discovered in 1437 by the Cabots in Newfoundland. Three of them were captured and taken to London, where, through the fact that their bodies were dyed red, according to an ancient custom of their race, they caused the American Indian to be known as the "red-man." For this reason anthropologists have always regarded the Beothuks as exceedingly important to their science.

The last of the Beothuks to be seen alive was Shananditht. He died in St. John's, Nfld., in 1829. About this time, according to Dr. Speck, the ethnologist, a number of expeditions were made into the interior by men of science, with the hope of discovering some of the fast-dwindling tribe, who were noted for their intense hatred and fear of the white man and his civilization. They found some vacated camps, tepees, canoes, implements of warfare, cooking utensils and clothing, but no Beothuks.

"The disappearance of the Beothuks," declares Dr. Speck, "is one of the most remarkable and interesting mysteries in the history of the Indians. After the expeditions in 1829 into Newfoundland many of the Micmacs moved into Newfoundland, and it is possible that a few of the Beothuks, who had become separated from the body of their tribesmen, intermarried with the Micmacs and lost their identity.

"The Beothuks called themselves the Osagannas, and were known by traditions to the other tribes by this name. If you ask any of the other Indians anything about the Osagannas they will shrug their shoulders, point to the north and say: 'I don't know. Somewhere up north; heard of them.'

"From what little we have of their language from old records and my own small vocabulary, it seems that the Beothuk was an independent stock and tribe. They were not related to any other Indians about them, either in language or in race.

"The Beothuks had an annual ceremony which was participated in by the whole tribe at Red Lake, and at which they crushed quantities of a kind of red root and dyed their entire bodies. This was never washed off and ordinarily it lasted until the next annual ceremony."

No Summer In 1816.

The year 1816 in Canada was called the year without a summer, says a recent writer.

As the springtime approached nothing in the weather indicated the return of seed time, much less of harvest. Snows, heavy rains and cold winds prevailed incessantly, and during the entire season the sun arose each morning as though in a cloud of smoke, red and rayless, shedding little light or warmth and setting at night as behind a thick cloud of vapor, leaving hardly a trace of its having passed over the face of the earth. The frost never went off the ground until about the last of May. The farmers planted their crops, but the seed would hardly sprout, and when at last it came to the surface there was not warmth enough to cause anything to grow. During the month of June young birds were frozen to death in their nests, and so great was their destruction that for at least three years after very few birds visited the colder parts of the northern States. The woods and forests seemed deserted by them. Small fruit such as the juneberry ripened and rotted on the trees in the forests because of no birds to eat them.

Crops that required warmth, like corn, generally failed to mature, and only here and there in a few places that seemed especially protected did an ear ripen. The people after repeated hopes of a change in the weather settled down in almost despair. Large spots appeared on the face of the sun, as seen through the smoky atmosphere, distinctly visible with the naked eye; frosts prevailed every month of the whole year and almost daily, and in the few places where corn ripened was the only supply of seed for the next year, and it was held at exceedingly high figure with now and then an exception.

Using More Liquor.

The per capita consumption of spirits was .859 gallons, against .815 gallons in 1910; that of beer was 5.434 gallon, as against 5.276 gallons; that of wine .104 gallons, against .097 gallons; while the tobacco used grew from 2.940 pounds per capita to 3.011 pounds.

The total quantity of tobacco smoked was 18,903,322 pounds, against 17,961,279 pounds in 1910, and 17,217,710 pounds in 1909.

The cigarettes smoked reached the enormous total of 585,935,370, against 451,095,138 in 1910, and 356,758,130 in 1909.

The Greatest Missionary.

The warmest compliment paid recently to the Salvation Army was made by Hon. J. M. Gibson, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario. He was presiding at a mass meeting of the army in Massey Hall, Toronto, and, introducing Mrs. Bramwell Booth, he said:

"You do missionary work which the Christian Church confesses is not being done so thoroughly by their organizations. Now, I am not disparaging nor minimizing the work of the churches, but I do say that the Salvation Army is doing social work which is not being so effectively or successfully done by church organizations."

LONELY SABLE ISLAND

VISIT TO CANADA'S GRAVEYARD OF THE ATLANTIC.

On the Approach of the Steamer the Place Presents a Picture of Desolation But When One Lands the Islanders Are Seen to Be Happy and Busy—Many Wild Horses Roam About—Total Population Is 30.

I cannot imagine a more desolate picture than that presented by Sable Island from the deck of the steamer, says a writer in The Montreal Standard discussing the "graveyard of the Atlantic." Sand hills, averaging in height about forty feet above the sea level, covered with a heavy coarse brown grass for miles on either side of the main station. Only a few houses were visible—the Marconi and one or two lifeboat stations and the two lighthouses that tower up at the extremities of the island. For the rest one sees nothing more than sand and ever surging waters, that break and toss against the island shore.

But upon landing my first impression of Sable Island were quite dispelled, and in their place came the conviction that "The Graveyard of the Atlantic," was far from being the forsaken spot which it has so often been represented. In fact, I, like those who live there, found it decidedly fascinating, for there is a something, that cannot be explained which charms and delights every visitor to the Island. The climate is perfect, the thermometer registering many degrees higher than it does in Nova Scotia. Flowers of all kinds were growing in the garden that surrounds the superintendent's house, flowers that were as yet untouched by even the lightest frost.

The superintendent's home, a large and modern structure, stands at the west end of a little hollow about the sides of which are to be found the houses of those who live at the main station—the lifeboat crew, the light keeper and the stablemen.

The island is about twenty-eight miles long and one mile wide. The inhabitants number about thirty. Most of these are single men, though some of them are married and have their wives with them. In case of necessity, all the men upon the island are prepared to man the lifeboats and put out to the rescue.

The life-saving men receive the princely renumeration of $200 a year, in addition to board and lodging, and uniforms. I believe that in the case of a married man the amount is increased to $225.

There are four life-saving stations on the island, all of which are connected by telephone with the main station. Should a ship strand on the shoals that run out into the Atlantic for miles at either end of the island, the main station is communicated with, and the large lifeboats (there are also surf boats at each station) with the crew and the rocket guns are rushed to the scene of the disaster, drawn by the sturdy Sable ponies that are always in readiness.

Not a tree is to be found throughout the length and breadth of the island. Some years ago no less than eighty-four thousand trees were planted there. To-day not one remains. The fierce winds that sweep over the island have blown them all out of the sand and carried them far out into the broad Atlantic.

The wild horses, of which there are about three hundred, roam from one end of Sable Island to the other, and subsist upon the grass that grows in the sandy soil, if soil it can be called. When horses are wanted on the mainland, about thirty are rounded up, taken to the beach and either carried off in boats, or forced into the water and towed to the ship by the launch. Once alongside the steamer a belt is slipped under them and they are hoisted aboard, or, as more often happens, a noose is caught round their feet, attached to a boom, the donkey engine started and they are swung aboard in this manner and placed in the holds.

Cranberries are the chief agricultural product of the island, and barrels of them are annually shipped to the mainland. Potatoes, also, are raised with considerable success.

The island is governed by Superintendent Boutilier, who for nearly 30 years has administered justice and directed the affairs of this interesting yet dangerous strip of land.

Of course, Sable Island, like all well conducted islands, has its folk lore that has been handed down from father to son and from one boatman to another.

Many have heard of the old man in the lifeboat, the man who mysteriously makes his appearance in the bow seat when the life-saving crew are putting out to the rescue. Some say he is always with them on these occasions. Others say the story is a myth. Some say they have seen him. Others, men who have rowed with the boat for years, disavow the statement. However, whether it be true or false, the story is an interesting one, as are many of the "yarns" that are told.

Maurice Newan, "the father of Sable Island" is a mine of information. For over sixty years he has lived there, and vivid are the stories he can tell regarding the angry nights, and the frightful wrecks that followed with death in the wake. He can tell you how in the days before steamers plied to and fro across the Atlantic, the sailing vessels dashed themselves upon the shoals, and the crews made heroic rescues in boats that in these days of modern life-saving appliances would be considered unsafe in the lightest winds.

Mr. Newan, if you ask him, will narrate the story of the wreck of the German steamer in 1890, when Mr. Boutilier further demonstrated his bravery. For his heroic rescue he was presented with a gold watch by the German Emperor.

HIS STYLE PEN.

General Booth's Autograph in Queen's Book Was Mussy.

General Booth has been relating some interesting stories about royalty. On one occasion, preparatory to a visit to Copenhagen, he was anxious to enlist the sympathies of the Dowager-Empress of Russia, and addressed a letter to her sister, Queen Alexandra. He was summoned to Buckingham Palace, and while engaged in conversation with her Majesty Princess Victoria entered the room.

The princess placed an album before him with a request for his autograph. "This I consented to do," said the general, "and I pulled out my stylographic pen. But those stylographic pens (and here the general seemed highly amused, as memory recalled the incident) have a wonderful way of letting go their ink before the proper time, and it was so on that visit to Buckingham Palace. The ink was everywhere but in the proper place, and noticing my plight the Queen directed me to a place where I managed to sponge it off." The entry he made in the princess' album below his signature was: "Saved to save." Next day the Queen sent her album, and complying with her command he made a like entry therein.

When visiting the late King Edward, General Booth was asked by his Majesty, "And what do the clergy think of your work?" "I was taken aback as to what answer to make," recounted General Booth, "as I thought the King might repeat my reply to the first archbishop or bishop he met. Eventually I replied, 'They imitate us, your Majesty'."

Blind Stenographer.

Of late years the blind have accomplished many things which have aroused the admiration of the world, and provide striking testimony to the progress of the training of those suffering from that greatest of afflictions, loss of sight. The recent feat, however, of Maurice J Meyers, the blind shorthand writer and typist of the Birmingham Royal Institute for the Blind, stands out as one of the most extraordinary on record. He attended a recent conference on the treatment of the blind at Exeter as official stenographer and recorded all the discussions on the various papers. The conference lasted for five days and Mr. Meyes' notes, which were recorded on a narrow strip of paper, with which the embossed shorthand typewriter for the blind which Mr. Meyers used was fitted, extended to a length of two and a quarter miles.

Mr. Meyers, who can take notes at a speed of 158 words a minute, himself helped to formulate the Birmingham system of embossed shorthand. One of the most remarkable facts about Mr. Meyers is that he accomplished the difficult task of training himself as a blind shorthand writer after losing his sight, and after acting as a sighted stenographer to a firm of New York solicitors. It was after losing his sight that he returned to Birmingham, his native city, and went to the institute as a day pupil 14 years ago. Five year later he performed a similar feat to the one at Exeter, when he acted as official shorthand writer at the conference, which lasted the six sessions of an average duration of three hours each.

Doyen at St. Stephen's.

Lord Claud Hamilton, M.P., who has recently suffered a bereavement, Lady Claud Hamilton dying after a prolonged illness, is the doyen at St. Stephen's, although not actually the Father of the House of Commons.

He first entered Parliament in 1865 as member for Londonderry, exactly three years before Mr. Henry Chaplin first appeared at Westminster. Lord Claud's Parliamentary service, however, has not been anything like continuous, otherwise he would have been entitled to the appellation of Father of the House, a position now held by Mr. Thomas Burt, who has sat for the Morpeth Division since 1874.

Mr. Balfour first joined the House of Commons in the same year, and would now be entitled to be called its father but for the circumstance that he was out of Parliament two or three weeks between his rejection at Manchester and his re-election for the City of London. On the other hand Mr. Chamberlain has sat continuously since 1876, so that he is in reality the Father-elect of the House of Commons at the present time.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills Cured

"I think it should be the duty of the schools to teach children how to keep well," writes Miss Nannie E. Naydon, a well-known and highly esteemed resident of Bristol. "Ignorance of the laws of health and the use of improper remedies destroyed my vigor, and led me to the verge of invalidism. I was as a girl ruddy and strong. Nothing seemed to affect me until I was about thirty. Then gas began to form in the stomach. I suffered with bloating and a general failure in strength set in. If I went upstairs my breath hurt. My system was very irregular, and until I grew pretty bad I didn't pay much heed to my condition. Then I got blue, worried all the time, wakened in the night, and couldn't get to sleep again. None of the medicine I took helped me. One day I was reading of a very interesting case like mine cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I took the same treatment. It was just right—didn't physic me to death, but took hold of the weak, sick parts of my system, and set things right. It seems as if Dr. Hamilton's Pills have made me young again, and all my color, spirits, vigor, and health of former days have returned to stay."

Every girl and woman should use Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly. They help a woman in many ways. Beware of the dealer who asks you to take an inferior pill on which his profit is larger than on Dr. Hamilton's. Sold in yellow boxes, 25c per box, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone, Co., Kingston, Ont.

Calls Contribution Insane.

Ottawa, Jan. 8.—"Any contribution to these insane naval armaments is a backward step, and we should be careful in Canada," declared Dr. L. E. Horning, professor of Teutonic philology at Victoria University, Toronto, in the course of an address on the present day relations of England and Germany, before the Canadian Club, at its weekly luncheon, in the Grand Union Hotel, Saturday.

Of an optimistic nature were Dr. Horning's remarks regarding the relations between England and Germany. The close relationship of the two great nations in many lines made for peace to a greater extent than any fiscal difference of trouble with reference to colonization might counterbalance in the direction of war.

"It is not possible to think that these great Teutonic nations, with the same high ideals, the same love of home, justice, right and God, and the same high thought, can come to war," he said. "They cannot be separated and must be together if they are to continue their parts in the development of the world."

SOME THEORIES AND A BEAR TRAP

About Them All the Lovers Had Nothing to Say.

By C. B. LEWIS.

Uncle Peter Scott, farmer on the outskirts of the village of Hillside, had lost his good wife, and his daughter Jennie kept house for him. He had got to be fifty years old and finicky, while she had got to be twenty and was called one of the nicest girls in Adams county.

Tom Barlow, the youngest of the village merchants, agreed with all others. He had driven out to see Jennie on half a dozen occasions on Sunday afternoons, and it was whispered around that a marriage would come of it. The father had scratched his head and said nothing, but in his own mind he had regarded it as a good match.

All was going well when an interruption suddenly occurred. Mr. Barlow dealt in hoes, rakes and shovels as well as in dry goods and groceries. Uncle Peter bought a hoe of him and started into the cornfield one morning to make the dirt fly. The hoe pleased him, the air was balmy and the corn was knee high and still growing. He was humming to himself and wondering how long before he would lose Jennie when he pulled over a sod with his hoe and caught sight of a big fat mole underneath.

The life or death of that mole had little to do with the future prosperity of Adams county, but Uncle Peter jumped in with intent to slaughter. He made three or four blows with the hoe and finally one tremendous blow. The mole was immolated, but at the same time the handle of the hoe was broken and the old man fell forward and plowed his nose into the ground. He got up mad. He was mad at the mole, the hoe and himself, and he jumped up and down and used cuss words.

One does not remain mad at himself very long. He finds some one else to blame for the whole thing. In this case Uncle Peter put the calamity on the shoulders of Mr. Barlow. He had sold him a hoe handle that was weak in the back—sold it with intent to defraud and deceive. Uncle Peter had sold short tons of hay more than once, but when any one cheated him he looked upon it as a wrong to all humanity. He was near the roadside fence when he massacred the mole, and he had just got the dirt out of his mouth after the fall when a man he knew came driving along in his buggy.

He naturally asked what was the matter, and the old man cut loose. He called the merchant a cheat, fraud and swindler and vowed by the whiskers of his ancestors that he would never, never buy aught more of him. He wanted his words repeated, and they were.

When the father went up to the house after another hoe and the daughter asked what was the matter he had more to say about the merchant and something particular to say to her. He made more fuss about that broken hoe handle than the county commissioners had in building a bridge over Goose creek, and he ended off with:

"Now, you gal, listen to me. If that swindler ever sets foot on my land ag'in I'll c-r-u-s-h him as I would a-a-a mouse!"

Jennie argued and protested and tried to soothe, but the father was obdurate. He told her of the message he had sent to town, and she wrote a few lines of excuse to Mr. Barlow and sent them by a passing boy. That afternoon several persons had several theories to advance to themselves.

Uncle Peter held to his anger. His theory was that Mr. Barlow would drive out in the evening and try to get speech with Jennie and seek to excuse his disgraceful conduct in selling for 25 cents a hoe not worth a dime.

Jennie's theory was that the merchant would drive out with half a dozen hoes in his buggy and tell her father to take them all, but she feared the result. The old man was mad all through, and it always took him at least a week to get over one of his fits. Old Mrs. Davis, who lived just across the road, heard something about the broken hoe, and her theory was that there would be a row of some sort and that she would be there to hear and to see.

The merchant didn't have any particular theory. He simply made up his mind to drive out to Uncle Peter's and tell him to come in and help himself to hoes, rakes and shovels without stint.

Nothing further of moment happened during the day. It was after supper when Uncle Peter was milking the brindle cow that he got another theory. It might have worked well had not his daughter observed him half an hour later oiling up the springs of a bear trap that had hung in the barn for the last twenty years. Then she got a new theory. Her father hoped and intended that some one should walk into that trap. It must be the man who sold him the deceptive hoe that he was laying for. Old Mrs. Davis kept her eye on the Scott homestead between sundown and dark, and, though no tragedy took place, she turned to her husband and said:

"Andrew, something is goin' to happen. I feel it in my bones. I've got a theory that there's goin' to be awful doin's across the road tonight."

Father and daughter sat on the porch till the clock struck 9, and then the girl arose and entered the house to go to bed. That was his chance. He jumped down on the grass and ran for his bear trap and set it just inside the gate and ten minutes later was winding up the clock with an innocent expression of countenance calculated to deceive the cat.

"Now, why did father linger behind?" asked Jennie of herself as she went upstairs, and, poking her head out of a front window, she saw him engaged in some nefarious business on the path—something that she investigated fifteen minutes later and dragged to one side on the lawn.

The merchant had been detained. He had also forgotten that farmers retired to their beds when the hens went to roost. It was 10 o'clock when he came driving out. Jennie heard him coming and walked down the road to meet him. Knowing her father as she did, she knew that a present of a dozen new hoes that night would not suffice to soothe his injured feelings. It would be best to notify Mr. Barlow of this fact and turn him back and say good night.

At about the hour mentioned above Uncle Peter roused up out of a doze with a new theory. It was to the effect that some lightning rod men might come along in the night and seek to arouse the house for lodgings and step into that waiting bear trap. He was about to get up when he remembered that a man of lightning had cheated him out of $10 five years before, and he therefore decided not to budge. He had just come to this decision when old Mrs. Davis said:

"Andrew, I'm goin' to get up and go over to Scott's."

"What fur?" he dreamily asked.

"I've got a theory that Uncle Peter has hung himself in the woodshed."

"Nonsense!"

"Don't say 'nonsense' to me. I never had a theory yet that didn't turn out right. I'm goin' right over there, and if you hear me yell out you'll know what has happened."

She partly dressed and left the house. Jennie and Mr. Barlow and the horse and buggy were not so far away that she could not have made them out had she been less occupied with her theory, but as it was they escaped her notice. The woodshed to every well regulated house is in the rear. It was so in the case of the Scott home. To reach it old Mrs. Davis had to leave the straight path, and she hadn't made above ten steps when there was a scream and a long drawn yell to freeze the blood of all hearers. Uncle Peter heard it as he was beginning to dream of broken hoe handles and fat moles, and he jumped out of bed.

Old Mr. Davis heard it as he dozed and wondered about theories, and out of bed he came with his hair trying to stand on end. Jennie and Mr. Barlow heard it and started forward with exclamations of alarm, and thus it happened that the four reached old Mrs. Davis at about the same time. She had been caught in the bear trap, of course. In leaving the path she had stepped fairly into it, and as the jaws came together she felt, as she said afterward, that the last day had come and she was ready to sail away.

There was an exciting time for the next ten minutes. The poor old woman was frightened half to death and a good deal bruised by the teeth of the trap, and while she was being carried across the road her husband was announcing his determination to have satisfaction under the law. Uncle Peter realized that his theory had failed, and Jennie and Mr. Barlow had been discovered conspiring, as it were. It wasn't until the victim had been put to bed, her hurts attended to by a doctor and her husband calmed down by a promise that the right thing should be done that Uncle Peter turned on the young folks and demanded:

"Well, what you got to say about all this?"

"Nothing, father," answered Jennie.

"Nothing, Mr. Scott," added the merchant.

"Waal, I dunno as I have either," observed the mole killer as he jogged into the house and left the others at the gate to talk things over.

Climate of Australia.

When it is pointed out that Australia, reaching on the north to within 800 miles of the equator, stretches away to the south a distance of nearly 2,800 miles from that line of heat, it will readily be understood that, like other continents, it has not one but many climates—from the bracing cold of Tasmania to the luxurious warmth of Queensland and the northern territory. Taking the line which theoretically marks off the temperate from the warmer areas of the earth's surface, much the greater part of Australia is in the temperate zone, lying to the south of the tropics. Such an arbitrary line, however, is no measure of climate, and it has been found convenient to take an average shade temperature of 70 degrees F. as marking the limit of a temperate climate. By this test Australia, girt by the seas along her coast line of 11,000 miles, is easily the most fortunate land region of the earth.—London Graphic.

Long Lived Artists.

The longevity of artists is almost proverbial, and the case of Thomas Robert Macquoid, who at the age of ninety-one is still painting, is remarkable, but not unparalleled.

T. S. Cooper, R. A., exhibited at the Royal academy for several years after passing his ninetieth birthday. John Massey Wright, a water color artist, born in 1773, was fully occupied and in active work up to the time of his death at the age of ninety-three. Most notable, however, was Titian, who, born in 1477, lived just one year short of a century and continued to paint pictures until the very last.—London Chronicle.

TO EXTEND ARMISTICE

Yuan Asks and Sun Agrees to Fifteen Days' Truce.

Republicans Take Over Tientsin Railway and Re-employ Foreigners—American General Must Not Participate In Insurrection Under Death Penalty — Powers Will Protect Tranportation—Yuan Seeks Delay.

Shanghai, Jan. 8.—There is reason to believe that the armistice will be extended for fifteen days. Yuan Shi Kai has requested the extension and President Sun Yat Sen is willing to agree to it conditionally. Terms are now being arranged.

The republicans Saturday assumed control of the Tientsin-Pekow Railway. They notified the foreign officials representing the British and German bondholders that the headquarters of the road have been removed from Pekin to Nanking. Foreigners are being re-employed.

By order of the president a prominent contractor was shot Saturday evening for extorting funds in the name of Sun Yat Sen.

Gen. Homer Lea, the American officer who accompanied Dr. Sun Yat Sen to China, it was said for the purpose of taking a responsible position with the revolutionaries as military adviser, has received official notification that there is a penalty of death attached to the participation by an American in the insurrection in China. Gen. Lea some time ago declined to act as chief of staff.

Powers to Act.

Pekin, Jan. 8.—The treaty powers have undertaken the protection of the railroad between Pekin and the sea. Interruption of traffic along this line, which has prevented the passage of the mails for four days, has resulted in this decision. Detachments of British, German, Japanese, and French troops have been stationed at intervals between Pekin and Chinwangtao, according to the plan devised two months ago. A Japanese general is in command, as he is the training officer.

The respective nations assume charge of different sections of the road, Great Britain taking care of the section between Pekin and Yangshan, the United States, Tangshan to Lanchow, and Japan from Lanchow to Chin Wang Tao. The United States has no troops in North China, except 300 legation guards, and has been unable to assume responsibility for the section alloted to it, but British troops are protecting that district until the Americans arrive. Just when additional American troops will reach China is not known, although Minister Calhoun cabled several days ago to the State Department at Washington, advising the despatch of a regiment on a peace footing. So far he has received no reply from the Department.

The legations regret that they cannot control the Chinese Imperial Railroad up to the Japanese junction in Manchuria, thereby ensuring a continuation of the trans-Siberian mails, but the protocol does not authorize anything further than maintaining communication to the sea, the nearest open port being Chinwangtao, as Tientsin is icebound.

Yuan Shi Kai is pleased at the action of the powers, because it relieves the Imperial administration of responsibility and ensures the maintenance of communication, which the Imperial troops might be unable to do. The powers do not assume the administration of the district, and consequently the Imperialists profit by the arrangement, the trains not being available to the rebels.

Premier Yuan has sent a telegram to Wu Ting Fang complaining that it is inconsistent with the national constitution to establish a republican government, the president of which has taken an oath to overthrow the Manchu Government. Yuan asks to be informed as to the object of the establishment of a republic and whether the president could be removed from office should the national convention decide on a constitutional monarchy.

It would appear as if the Imperial Premier is seeking delay, believing that time will cause dissensions in the south. Several generals are urging him to fight, but it is thought that he will await an attack. The people of Chili and Shantum Provinces, who are for the most part revolutionary, are organizing, but they find that they are not in a position to take part in a rising, as they are without rifles or military supplies. Should the Imperial army become disaffected, the case would be different.

The Empress Dowager has issued orders to the princes not to leave Pekin. Recently there has been a stiffening of the court's decision to hold out.

A National Anthem.

Andrew Broder, of Dundas, who so nearly walked off with the portfolio of Agriculture, is back in the House again with a brand new collection of campaign stories. "Andy" is a born stumper, and is one of the wittiest men on his feet in public life to-day. At one of his meetings in the back country of Dundas county, the proceedings were considerably enlivened by a crying baby, who, oblivious of the commotion it was causing, let out the most doleful wails while the candidate himself was explaining what was the real meaning of reciprocity. The audience stood the bawling patiently for some time, until finally there were loud cries of "Hush" and "Take it home," from the male portion.

"Andy" stopped the ejection proceedings at once. "Ladies and gentlemen," he said, "A crying baby is Canada's best national anthem!"—Saturday Night.

ALL SAINTS' HEAR THEIR NEW RECTOR

Rev. R. B. Grobb Preached to Two Large Congregations

The new rector of All Saints' church, Rev. R. B. Grobb, M.A., was welcomed by large congregations when he took the services yesterday, and made a splendid impression. The congregations were the largest since the opening of the church. Rev. Mr. Grobb comes to All Saints' with flattering recommendations. He is a young man with an inviting appearance and personality, and yesterday he gave strong evidence of his ability to acceptably fill the pulpit of his new charge.

The congregation in the morning was the larger of the two, when Holy Communion was observed, and taken part in by the majority.

As the subject for his evening discourse he took the last verse of the 40th chapter of Isaiah: "But they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint."

For the application of these words by the prophet Isaiah Rev. Mr. Grobb placed before his congregation the condition of the people to whom Isaiah spoke. Their faith had been shattered so that God to them was a myth. They were looking for the coming of the Messiah. It was necessary for them to have their faith renwed, they needed the vision just as we needed it after the daily struggles. And they need the work and enthusiasm. They were in need of that faith that would give them the strength to meet the battles of the long day.

"Our religion isn't much if it doesn't bring us down to solid earth earth," remarked the speaker. It was on earth we have to fight our batties, and it was in our daily life our faith was tested. It needed renewing at times. This was true of each individual.

DEATH OF MR. SAMUEL SHERIN

Lakefield Loses Another of Its Old Residents

On Saturday, January 6th, there passed away one of the oldest residents of the village of Lakefield in the person of Samuel Sherin. He was born in the township of Emily about five miles from Omemee on the 4th day of November, 1830. At the age of 24 years he moved to the present site of the village of Lakefield where he and his brother, the late John C. Sherin opened the first store in 1855, in which store he was employed for about twelve years when his health failed him and he was compelled to give up business for about three years.

He was appointed Clerk of the Division Court by the late Judge Boucher and held that office for about twenty-four years, during which time he engaged in the conveyancing and insurance business.

On the incorporation of the village of LLakefield in 1875 he was appointed treasurer of the village and held that office with the exception of two or three years, until his death.

In 1863 he was married to Sarah A. Rosborough of the township of Smith, who still survives him. He is also survived by four children, namely; Wesley, Division Court and Town Clerk of Lakefield; Samuel B., of "The News" Baltimore, Md., Miss Alice on the teaching staff of Toronto and Miss Nina, residing at home.

Mr. Sherin was a faithful and consistent member of the Metholst church an was one of the original trustees of the church in Lakefield. He also took a great interest in the Sunday school work and was treasurer of that institution for over 46 years from the date of its organization until his death.

MADNESS OF BIGNESS.

Mere Size Is Nothing For Cities to Compete For After All.

There is a certain amount of madness in the desire for bigness now evident in so many cities. Why should a city have a million inhabitants? Can any person advance one sound and sensible reason why Toronto, or Montreal, or Winnipeg should be bigger than it is now? Isn't it really a desire based upon false ideas and vain ignorance?

In London, a skyey apartment of two rooms costs its occupant 7s. 6d. a week. The same apartment in Cork, Ireland, cost 1s. 9d. Is it to force working men and clerks to pay high rents, that Toronto, Montreal and Winnipeg work day and night to make themselves grow?

In a city of 200,000 people, the working man can walk to and from the factory. After the city gets larger, he must pay a toll to the street railway. Is it to build up street railway profits that Toronto and Montreal and Winnipeg are working might and main?

Glasgow boasted that it would supply model suburbs for its working people, but it failed. It crowds 800,000 people into a space about one-thirteenth the size of Greater Melbourne, Australia, with only 600,000 of a population. Are Toronto and Montreal and Winnipeg anxious to emulate Glasgow and Birmingham and London, where men and women exist but do not live?

Unsavoury slums, degrading tenement houses, uncleanly citizens, under-fed and uneducated children, wickedness and vice—these are the results of large cities wherever they are created. Are these the qualities and the distinctions sought by the larger and more ambitious Canadian cities?

Are the rulers of our cities trying to produce mean citizens or clean citizens? Is this a mad race for bigness, or do they think that they can build big cities without the attendant evils to be found in every other large city on the globe?

Here is something for every person to think over. It would seem wise, when a city reaches 400,000 people to say "Stop! The interest of humanity forbids you to go farther."—Canadian Courier.

A Fixture.

Arthur Stringer, the noted Canadian author, and his wife, are both quite tall, but that fact availed them nothing when they faced the problem of firing a cook.

They were living an an apartment at the time with which this incident deals, and their cook was a big negress who wasn't mistress of the art of cooking.

Mrs. Stringer gave the colored lady notice to leave on a certain day, but when that day came the boss of the kitchen hadn't packed her trunk and was working away as though she was still in good standing. Mrs. Stringer's reminder that diplomatic relations had been severed had no effect.

He entered the kitchen, and advancing towards the cook, said, "You were told to leave to-day, and I want you to pack your trunk and get out."

The cook saw that the time to declare herself had come. So she picked up a hammer and said, "You jest lay a finger on me and I'll smash your face in. I like this place, an' I'se decided I'se goin' to stay."

Elastic For the Bloomers.

"In making my boys' wash bloomers," said a mother recently, "I used the widest width of silk hat elastic. This is about three-eighths of an inch wide and costs 7 or 8 cents a yard. The silk elastic remained in good condition during the entire life of the suit, while the cotton elastic always had to be renewed several times."

Baby's First Bonnet.

One store, noted for its baby department, is showing dainty little coats made of silk poplin for "baby's first outing." Some have embroidered capes with tiny flowers, others fine band tucking, and, again, others deep capes perfectly plain except for a tiny piping.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW.

Points for Mothers

Feeding the Baby.

"Baby can eat anything," says the proud mother. In a humbler rank of life they carry this happy theory to extremes. But is the mother of a better class a whit wiser when she feeds sonny "just like ourselves?"

"I have seen a baby just fourteen months old," says one wise woman, "fed at 6 p. m. on heavily fried fish, buttered toast, doughnuts, gingerbread and very strong tea, and as a matter of curiosity I inquired if he took medicine frequently. Twice a week, the mother admitted. She couldn't, she said, understand why.

"Let me tell you how I managed in the case of my own baby boy and the lesson I learned from experience. From the start I meant that he should not be wrongly fed and that he should sit beside his father and me at dinner time, but, of course, I had no experience, and all the mothers I knew gave little 'tastes' of this and that to Master Baby as he sat in his high chair and practically spent the dinner hour in feeding him injudiciously, in picking up the toys or spoons he flung on the floor and in trying to prevent him making a head splitting din. It seemed to be a case of 'anything for a quiet life,' and baby got everything he demanded, either to taste or handle.

"Nothing, however, in all my range of maternal experience was more surprising than the discovery of how easily baby boy was managed. Since his birth he had been used to being fed at regular hours and of promiscuous meals he knew nothing. Therefore, when his chair was drawn close to the dining room table he crowed and gurgled his baby talk without the faintest interest in the parental food. It was astonishing, but none the less true. Never having been used to feeding with us, it never entered into his infantile mind that he should concern himself with what was on the table.

"When he was two years old we made a change, and baby boy's supper was the milk pudding that appeared at our late dinner. As before, he sat quietly (we never, by the way, gave him spoons or table utensils to play with and to deafen us), but the moment the pudding arrived he became eager and clamorous. This should have warned us, but as time went on and the child's digestion grew stronger we liked to give him occasional 'bites.' Well, it was the old story over again. Like a pampered, ill bred dog, poor baby began to disgrace himself. Like Oliver Twist, he was always asking for more. And we realized that by giving him indulgences which he had never wanted we had created an appetite which we had no right to gratify. When the thing was done we saw our foolishness, and no subsequent aspirant to the role of Master Baby was ever fed promiscuously at our table."

Children's Footwear.

The mother of a family was grieving over the size of her daughters' feet, for indeed Cinderella's distinctive charm seems to have departed with the tiny rosebud mouth once necessary to feminine perfection. The little foot with the arched instep was very fascinating, one of the most romantic of fair ladies' graces, yet the short, narrow frocks and low buckled shoes of this season have revealed very clearly its practical extinction. Do shoemakers still stock "twos" except for children? Even the "four" is growing rare, and girls take "fives," "sixes" and "sevens" without blushing. As women are bigger their feet must be bigger, and if in the future they are to be equal to men in everything else one supposes the size of their boots will have to be included. If woman's fairy foot becomes a myth, as her stature waxes so much higher than man's heart, what is to happen to the poets? Perhaps they also will presently be history, since nobody reads poetry nowadays.

Avoid Kissing Baby's Mouth.

In these days of constant warfare against contagious diseases do not permit any one to kiss the baby on the mouth. It is an established fact that numerous diseases of the mouth are transmitted in this way. There are other places to transmit the loving caress, on the dear little neck or the downy cheek, but on the mouth—never. Neither should you allow any child, not even baby's own sisters or brothers, to kiss the baby's mouth. Another thing—have at hand a good sized piece of mosquito netting and when laying baby down for the daily nap throw the netting lightly over the bed or baby buggy and protect the little face and hands from the deadly housefly.

TWELVE PERSONS PERISHED; DISASTROUS FIRE IN NEW YORK

Equitable Life Assurance Building is Wiped Out by the Flames—Firemen Caught In Trap Had to Jump to Death---Loss $20,000,000.

SPECIAL TO THE REVIEW.

New York, Jan. 9.—A fire which started at five o'clock this morning totally destroyed the immense building of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, occupying a whole block, bounded by Broadway, Cedar, Pine and Nashau streets.

Several lives were lost, the number being placed as high as twelve. Five bodies have been recovered up to noon. The monetary loss is placed as high as twenty millions, the building itself being valued at fourteen millions. The Equitable building was in the heart ol the financial and skyscraper district and housed hundreds of brokerage, legal and insurance firms.

Three firemen who were driven to the roof on the Cedar-st. side had their escape cut off and kneeling in prayer for a moment leaped to death one hundred and fifty feet to the pavement. Four porters jumped from a fifth story window and were covered with tons of debris immediately. They are believed to be dead. The building was eight stories high on Pine street and twelve on Nashau street.

The fire was under control at noon.

SIR WILFRID AT MONTREAL

He Assails the Borden Government on Several Points—Gets After Bourassa and Monk.

Montreal, Jan. 9.—The Monument National, the scene of former triumphs of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, was crowded last night, and for an hour and a half he evoked enthusiasm, asserting that he was in no way embittered by the defeat of last autumn, that he accepted it as the will of the people and that he only assumed the lead of the Opposition at the urgent request of friends. Once again the former Premier reiterated his adherence to the old program of Liberalism, which he declared to stand for the prosperity that marked the past fifteen years and once more he stated that he was neither Imperialist nor Nationalist, but simply Canadian.

The Government came in for some criticism, though chiefly in relation to the Nationalists, and the speaker spent a good deal of his energy in hitting at Mr. Bourassa and Mr. Monk, and the latter's position in regard to the navy.

The meeting, under the Association of Young Liberals, was presided over by Victor Beique, and on the platform with Sir Wilfrid were several of his late Ministers, including Hon. Sydney Fisher, George Graham, William Mackenzie King, also Messrs. Mederic Martin, R. W. Bickerdike, D. Lafortune, Roch Lanctot, Charles Marcil, M.P., Leon Garnau, L. Gauthier, M.P., Oscar Gladu, Victor Geoffron, ex-whip; Severin Letourneau, Ralph Smith, M.P., Charles Murphy and others.

Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King touched on the recent provincial elections in Ontario and marked two things that had been responsible for making the fifteen years Liberal regime famous, namely, the prosperity of the country and the personality of the chief.

Sir Wilfrid, who was the recipient of a couple of bouquets from a little girl and boy, and who was received with prolonged ovations, declared: "Never were our convictions more firmly founded than now. And what of our opponents? Already those who were victorious are experiencing regret and uneasiness of conscience on account of the violated promises, troubles which began the day after victory was attained and which will more manifest as the days go by.

"Those who were to repeal the naval law and who pretended that they were serious, have already shown what their promises were worth, and you have seen during the past three months what they have done. You know I do not exaggerate when I say that what they have done has been to organize patronage and satisfy place hunters, and these are the people; who abused me and my friends for such things, while they themselves are the greatest corrupters Canada ever saw. It has been a formidable debauch of office-seeking. And their promises before the elections, what has become of them? What about their principles which they said they would follows? Those principles have gone and the naval law will perhaps be abolished at doomsday."

Cheaper Power For Brantford.

Brantford, Jan. 9.—The City Council at its inaugural meeting here yesterday passed a resolution that, in view of the fact that other municipalities were receiving power and light at rates less than at Brantford, a committee of the council with seven other members be named to enquire into the rates charged in other cities.

Engineer Sothman of the Hydro-electric Commission addressed the council, emphasizing the importance of action by Brantford in view of the fact that Paris, Blue Lake and St. George, immediately west, were clamoring for Hydro-electric power. If Brantford came into the union matters would be greatly facilitated and a power station would be erected outside this city.

LINDSAY MAN DROPS DEAD

Wm. White Well Known Produce Buyer Died To-day

Special to the Review.

Lindsay, Jan. 9.—William White, produce buyer for Flavelle's, Limited, dropped dead this morning.

The late Mr. White was well known in this city, through his business connection, and the news of his death will be received with regret. He had been for many years a resident of Lindsay, where he is survived by a wife and family.

McManigal On Stand.

Indianapolis, Jan. 9.—Whatever Ortie E. McManibal, the confessed dynamiter knows about the complicity of others beside the McNamara brothers in the blowing up of more than one hundred "open" shop structures in various sections of the country in the last five or six years, is believed to have been related by him in his preliminary story before the federal grand jury yesterday.

Taken from the cell in the federal building, where he had been lodged before daylight, after his secret trip in the custody of Government officials from Los Angeles, Cal., McManigal, confessed accomplice of John J. and James B. McNamara, went before the jurors after his written confession had been presented in detail.

McManigal professes to have personal knowledge of at least thirty of the explosions which destroyed bridges and other structures erected by firms employing non-union men.

APPEALS FOR QUICK SENTENCE

Boston, Jan. 9.—The desire of Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson, who has confessed, to have the degree of his punishment for the murder of his sweetheart, Miss Avis Linnell, fixed by the governor and council, rather than by a court and jury, will find its first legal expression this afternoon, when the young Virginian will ask the Suffolk County Superior Criminal Court to accept his plea of guilty, as charged in the indictment.

While Judge Sanderson has the option of accepting the plea and pronouncing the death sentence at once, or holding it in abeyance until satisfied of Richeson's mental condition, it is to Governor Foss that Richeson's counsel will go with the confession itself, as their strongest argument for clemency and ask that the life of the clergyman be saved.

Rev. R. I. Felgate Murdered.

Shanghai, Jan. 9.—Word has reached here that the Rev. R. I. Felgate of the China Inland Mission at Mokanshan, Province of Cheklang, has been murdered, it is supposed, by robbers.

Toronto, Jan. 9.—The official list of missionaries attached to the China Inland Mission does not contain the name of Rev. R. I. Felgate. A. Langman and wife, according to the list, are stationed at Mokanshan.

Meat Packers In Collusion.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—A letter showing alleged collusion between Swift & Co. and Armour & Co. in bidding for the annual meat contract of the Old Soldiers Home at Togus, Maine, Nov. 6, 1905, was introduced in evidence yesterday by the Government in the trial of the ten Chicago packers charged with criminal violation of the Sherman law.

A Coaster Brake Trust?

Buffalo, Jan. 9.—That a trust without a name has secured control of 90 per cent. of the business of manufacturing and selling coaster brakes for bicycles and motor cycles and a large percentage of other bicycle accessories and thereby has violated the Sherman anti-trust law, is charged in indictments handed down by a federal grand jury here yesterday.

Pursued by Fire Fiend.

Cornwall, Jan. 9.—Mrs. M. Ross, proprietress of the Rossmore House, destroyed by fire about 18 or 19 months ago, seems to be pursued by the fire fiend. Shortly after noon yesterday the fine double residence at the corner of York and Second streets, owned by her, and occupied by S. Morgan Gray and A. L. Smith, barrister, was discovered to be afire. Mrs. Ross' property was damaged $1,000 or more, and as much damage done to Mr. Smith's furniture.

Armories For Galt.

Galt, Jan. 9.—At the inaugural meeting of the new council yesterday morning Mayor Scott foreshadowed the erection of an armory and the inauguration of free postal delivery for Galt.

ARMISTICE IS BROKEN

Revolutionists Are Advancing on Honan.

Pitched Battle Expected—Imperialists Sending Reinforcements.

Pekin, Jan. 9.—Two important developments yesterday intensified the interest in the situation in China. These were a renewal of hostilities and the demand of the Russian Government that China recognize the independence of outer Mongolia. Revolutionismts from Shansi and Shensi, having recaptured the town of Shenchow, are advancing on Honan, while reinforcements have been despatched to the Imperialists. The armistice has not been renewed, and there is a deadlock in the peace negotiations; so that early fighting may be expected between the opposing forces.

In addition to requesting China to recognize the Kutuktu of Urga, as the monarch of Outer Mongolia, the Russian Government has notified China that the independence of Outer Mongolia must be recognized as concerns internal affairs. The note adds that Russia will assist the Mongolians in maintaining order, and that she intends to build a railway from Kiakhta, Siberia, to Urga. Henceforth, China will not be permitted to maintain military forces or send colonists to Outer Mongolia, but may retain control of external relations. To this note China has as yet made no reply.

To the other powers, however, the Chinese Government yesterday communicated the substance of the Russian demands. Undoubtedly a strong protest will be made by the Chinese Government against the action of Russia, but China is unable to defend herself now or in the future with reference to Mongolia. Hereafter, the Desert of Gobi will mark the Chinese boundary on the northwest.

The statement that Russia will assist in maintaining order in Outer Mongolia, probably means that she will increase the number of troops in that territory, which heretofore have served merely as consular guards. It is believed that several railways will follow the Kiakhta-Urga line, and that much of the country will be developed.

Russia's permission to China to retain control of its external affairs is meaningless because practically there are no dealings with any country except Russia. The general opinion held here is that the Chinese Government really suffers nothing from the loss of Mongolia, although Russia and the Mongols will probably be greatly benefited. Russia's position in Mongolia is stronger than in Manchuria.

Pekin officials look for British action in Thibet at a later date, as it is believed unlikely that Russia has taken the present step without previously consulting with Great Britain and Japan. Inner Mongolia, so far, has been left undisturbed.

Adopt Gold Standard.

Nanking, China, Jan. 9.—The republican assembly, which is now in session here, voted yesterday the introduction of a gold standard modelled on that of Japan. It also approved a bond issue of 100,000,000 taels (approximately $70,000,000) secured on the internal revenue for five years, with interest at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum.

Troops To the Front.

Shanghai, Jan. 9.—A body of 4,000 Cantonese troops has departed by train for Nanking. Five transports are in dock awaiting the embarkation of troops and the loading of supplies and ammunition. It is presumably the intention of the republican cabinet to initiate a movement toward Chinwangtao.

Look for Pitched Battle.

Pekin, Jan. 9.—The armistice between the opposing Imperialists and revolutionary forces has not been renewed and negotiations between the leaders have reached a deadlock. The Government expects and hopes that the revolutionary troops will move northward from Nanking and give an opportunity for a pitched battle on ground favorable to the Imperialists. The lack of funds prevents the Imperialists from despatching to the south a force sufficient in strength to assure the victory on which the Imperialists count to give them the command of the situation.

The merchants of Tientsin are making complaint that the foreign trade of China is imperilled by the needless sidetracking of freight trains on the railroad from Pekin to the coast by Imperial officers.

PHOTOS BY COURTESY OF LESLIES WEEKLY

THE "PALACE" AT MANILA, NOW THE HEADQUARTERS OF THE PHILIPPINE COMMISSION AND OF THE PUBLIC SCHOOL DEPARTMENT

Under the auspices of the United States Civil Service Commission there will be held this week in the Custom House in New York city and in various other places throughout the country competitive examinations to fill vacancies as they may occur in the positions of teacher, industrial teacher and clerk in the Philippine Islands service.

That fact has called attention to the tremendous strides that have been made since the United States government, little more than ten years ago, undertook the task of educating the Filipino natives along lines somewhat analogous to those of the American public school system. The Bureau of Education was organized by the United States Philippines Commission in January, 1901, and is one of the several bureaus under the Department of Public Instruction.

CALL FOR A GENERAL STRIKE

Boston, Jan. 9.—Efforts to cause a sympathetic strike of 6,000 men to aid the longshoremen's strike in this city were made yesterday. The Longshoremen's Trade Council voted yesterday to ask the support of all other transportation organizations of District Assembly 30, Knights of Labor, which includes freight handlers, freight clerks, and steamship carpenters.

The executive committee of the district assembly discussed the situation for several hours last night. Considerable opposition to a general strike was expressed.

The final vote upon a general strike will not be taken until to-night, and a decision to go out would have effect at midnight.

Rev. G. R. Turk Hurt.

Cobalt, Jan. 9.—Rev. C. R. Turk, pastor of Haileybury Methodist Church, and formerly of Toronto, came down to Cobalt to look at some of the curling stones at the Cobalt Rink. He went downstairs in the furnace room and picked out a set, and carried them upstairs to the men's waiting-room. The room was dark, and he stepped backwards after setting down the stones and fell through the trap-door into the cellar. His left shoulder was dislocated. Dr. Jackson attended him at his home in Haileybury.

MEETS DEATH BY BURNS AND COLD

Mrs. Mulholland Catches Fire and Runs Out Into Snow.

Barrie, Jan. 9.—With the thermometer several degrees below zero at an early hour yesterday morning, Mrs. Frank Mulholland of Craigville, a village about ten miles from here, left the house to meet her death partly from burns and partly from exposure.

About four o'clock yesterday morning the young woman made her way down stairs in her night clothes, having slipped on her shoes and stockings and a sweater coat presumably to prepare some food for her five weeks' old baby. While lighting the lamp in the dining-room her clothes caught fire and and, without raising any alarm, the woman left the house, it is supposed, in the hope of putting the fire out. Her mother, finding her daughter was not in the house, awakened the young woman's husband, who located her lifeless body some distance from the house in a field.

Deceased was a woman about 33 years of age, and leaves four children, three boys, the oldest of whom is 6 years of age, and an infant girl, five weeks old. It is said the unfortunate woman had not been in the best of health since the birth of the infant.

Coroner Evans was called, but an inquest was not considered necessary.

PROBABILITIES

Strong west and north-west winds, light local snow falls or flurries, but mostly fair and very cold temperature much below zero in most places to-night and on Wednesday.

FOUR MEN KILLED; EIGHT BADLY HURT

Montreal Train Ran Into by a Double-Header From Quebec.

Montreal, Jan. 9.—Four men were killed and eight others badly hurt, while the injuries of still another are likely to prove fatal, in a head-on collision on the Canadian Pacific Railway yesterday afternoon at St. Vincent de Paul.

The collision occurred at 2.20 in the afternoon, when the Montreal train was run into by the train that left Quebec at 8.30 in the morning.

It was a double-header from Quebec on account of the heavy track, and, instead of taking the siding at the station, it went straight ahead and plunged into the engine of the train from Montreal, which was standing on the main line, with the expectation that the train from Quebec would take the siding.

The dead are:

Arthur de Harnais, brakeman, aged 40, Quebec.

Galies Thibodeau, clerk, 22 years old, Lotbiniere.

Elzear Bedard, laborer, aged 45, Maskinonge.

The injured are:

Didier Dufresne, 33 years old, Three Rivers, both legs broken and serious internal injuries; not expected to recover.

Alfred Boulet, 15 years old, Quebec, contusions to abdomen.

Joseph Laverdue, Hull, general contusions.

Andre Caron, aged 56, Three Rivers, general contusions.

O. Frechette, conductor, 43 years of age, Quebec, right foot cut off at ankle; compound fracture of left leg; severe scalp wounds.

It is stated that the cold weather was the cause of the wreck. The engineer of the first engine on the double-header from Quebec said that when approaching the siding at St. Vincent de Paul, he applied the air-brakes as usual. He suddenly found that they were not responding and made wild signals to the engineer of the second locomotive to use his air-brakes. But by this time the train was too close for effective application, and, apparently, the engineer on the second engine didn't discover what the trouble was until it was too late. The Quebec train did not slow down, but smashed into the waiting train from Montreal at twenty miles an hour.

The front engine of the double-header was a light one and the second a powerful locomotive. The lighter engine was badly damaged, but the other was scarcely hurt. The two front baggage and mail cars came out without serious injury, but the impact was so great that the third car, buckled in the middle and was partly telescoped.

It was here that the three passengers were killed. The brakeman, DeHarnais, was caught between the third and fourth car and crushed so badly that he died shortly afterwards.

RICHESON GOES TO THE CHAIR

Sentenced to be Electrocuted in May—Pleaded Guilty

Boston, Jan. 9.—Rev. C. V. Richeson pleaded guilty to the murder of Avis Linnell, his former sweetheart, to-day, and was sentenced to be electrocuted the week beginning May 19th.

STOLE CURRENCY FROM FARMER

Ottawa, Jan. 9.—Six men, from various parts of Northern Ontario, were sentenced yesterday to terms in jail for stealing currency from Jno. McIntyre, a Casselman farmer, who was returning home after working for a few months at Silver Junction, Ont. The men sentenced were Michael Kavanaugh, Francis Cote, Jos. Roylat, Alexander MacKenzie, Thomas Kennedy and Herbert Joyce. The first three were sentenced to three months and the others to one month each.

To Boost Welland Canal.

Berlin, Ont., Jan. 9.—A large attendance is assured for the meeting called by Mayor Schmatz and Mr. Detweiler for next Thursday afternoon at Concordia Hall; opening at 2.15 o'clock, regarding Canada's inland waterways proposal. The information and the suggestions offered by the committee for a proposed movement have received strong and general approval.

The parties who organized the movement in connection with Niagara power have the matter in hand, and nearly all who attended the first power meeting here in 1902 will be present.

Berlin After Industries.

Berlin, Ont., Jan. 9.—In his inaugural address Mayor Schmalz said: "In these growing times it is of importance that the name of the Town of Berlin—soon to be a city—be kept well advertised. Other places are securing new industries and we should receive our share as well. In order to accomplish this effectively, the appointment of a 'publicity man should be considered and possibly a committee of the Town Council could be selected to deal with all matters pertaining to the proper advertising of Berlin, and the securing for it more factories."

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW.

A Discovery of Vast Importance

It Is Now Admitted That Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Coughs, and Colds Can Only Be Quickly Cured By Mixing a New Medicine With the Air You Breathe.

Scientists acknowledge that medicated air treatment is the only treatment that will cure these diseases, and that stomach medicines are worse than useless.

Catarrhozone air treatment has been found to be the most effective way to cure all diseases of the throat, lungs, and nasal passages. Its action is so prompt that in less than an hour an ordinary cold is cured, and after a more thorough use of Catarrhozone, Bronchitis, Catarrh, and all diseases of the throat and lungs are completely cured.

Catarrhozone is a very simple and powerful method of treatment. You simply breathe it through the inhaler and it immediately passes over every air cell of the throat, lungs, and bronchial tubes, curing and healing as it goes.

AN IMMIGRATION PROBLEM

Should the Sikhs of India, who are British subjects, be discriminated against, by the Canadian immigration laws. This is a question, that has been causing considerable discussion of late and one which seems no nearer a solution. Many people are of the opinion that there should be no discrimination in the case of the Sikhs, but still believe in discrimination against Asiatics generally. The trouble is in this, that nearly all the inhabitants of India are loyal British subjects and then there are hundreds of thousands of Chinese in Hong-Kong, and the ceded territory on the mainland of China, all British subjects. If the gates of the Dominion were thrown to the Sikhs, could not all these Asiatics, who are British subjects, claim equal rights. Then there are millions of blacks in Africa who would come under the same rule, if British subjects were to be admitted without restriction.

The problem that confronts the government is where to draw the line. The press of British Columbia says that if the restrictions are removed that the coast province will cease to be a white man's country —a condition which no Canadian would like to see at any cost. Its pretty hard to discriminate against the Sikhs, many of whom have died fighting for the glory of Britain, but Canada must protect herself against the possibility of Asiatics becoming a faction in Canadian affairs.

DEVELOPING PEAT BOGS

Canada has 37,000 square miles of peat bog, according to a circular issued by the Canadian Peat Society, and the great value of this for a future coal supply can hardly be overestimated. It is estimated that four bogs quite close to Ottawa contain about 25,000,000 tons of fuel. Ontario and Quebec send annually in the neighborhood of $20,000,000 to the United States for coal, and the development of the peat bogs would keep a goodly portion of this money in Canada.

The society is doing good work and should have the hearty support of the federal and provincial governments. Depending on a foreign country for a fuel supply which could be cut off at any time is a bad position for any country to be in. The development of the peat bogs will mean much in relieving this situation.

A DISGRACE TO THE CAPITAL

Ottawa had seventeen smallpox patients housed in tents on a bleak island in the Rideau river, with the temperature hovering around 20 below on Saturday. The Ottawa Journal says:

"If any of these smallpox patients succumb it may be a question for a jury to say whether they were victims from smallpox or were frozen to death."

This is a disgrace to any city and should not be tolerated. The Provincial Government should step in and compel the Ottawa authorities to provide better accommodation for these poor people. A nice advertisement for the Capital of the Dominion surely. The Ottawa Health Board must be of the Rip Van Winkle type.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Be careful boys or some of the Peterborough belles will want you to "ring" them before leap year has rolled by.

The new City Council is now duly on its way for 1912. Let's Hope it will be a council not only to plan but to do things.

The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada will ask the government to abolish the Senate. How cruel to want to disturb these gentlemen of the chamber of leisure.

An exchange says Canadians prefer carrying paper money instead of gold coins. The Sporting Editor says he is not particular, having carried both—but that was back in '82 when times were good.

"Let the Chinks fight it out. There is plenty of them and a few hundred won't be missed in China," is the way an exchange puts it. We can assure the writer that we had no intention of stopping the scrap.

The Earl of Lonsdale is doing his best to persuade people that the German Emperor loves Britain and her people. If the Earl really believes this he should be taken in charge by his friends. The Kaiser would not hesitate to attack Britain to-morrow if he thought there was a chance of his ruling over the British Empire, but that chance is about as good as the one taken by the chap who would bet on a three-legged horse to win the King's plate.

"John Tamson's bairns," are not at all pleased with the action of the Council, in refusing that grant to assist in entertaining the visiting Scottish curlers. A curler points out that sums have been voted in all the other cities the curlers have visited. The Council in defence of refusing the grant, points out that when other deputations, conventions, etc., were here, no grants were given.

A grant was made to visiting curlers in 1903 and to visiting bowlers in 1906 by the City Council.

However, let all citizens join hands in giving the men from the land of the Heather a hearty welcome to Peterboro.

The Curse of Poverty

What Had Mamma Arranged?

It was at Christmas, and he had been calling on her twice a week for six months but had not proposed.

"Ethel," he said, "I—er—am going to ask you an important question."

"Oh, George," she exclaimed, "this is so sudden. Why, I——."

"No, excuse me," he interrupted;—"what I want to ask is this: What date have you and your mother decided upon for our wedding?"

The Great Canadian Northland.

(London Free Press).

The great Canadian Northland remains an unknown country. Here and there a point might be marked on the map where the resources are known. The rest remains almost as unknown as in the days of the earliest explorers, despite all the work that has been done since. A scratch here, a delving here, a passing observation, this constitutes the information concerning tracts of country as large as European countries. Ungava is a hidden land. Labrador is equally unknown. Even in the districts commonly regarded as settled or explored we continually hear of rich discoveries.

Aerial Navigation.

(New York Sun).

The art of air navigation is still in its primary stage and we shall not realize all the benefits it can confer until it is perfected. A problem now claiming attention is how to assure the buoyancy of the vessel in the free air for at least forty eight consecutive hours while driving at full speed. When this problem is solved together with other questions relating to the methods, the safety and the comfort of air navigation it will be possible at the rate of speed now attained to cross our continent in the broadest part in two and a half days and to reach unexplored land areas of the Arctic from Germany in less than a day and a half.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Jan. 8.—The foreign demand for Manitoba spring wheat was much quieter, but the prices bid were steady. A fair trade continues to be done in oats for local and country account. There was a good enquiry from European sources for spring wheat flour and as the prices bid were 3d to 6d per sack higher in some cases, a few sales were made. A good business continues to be done on spot for the season of the year. Sales of bran were made for shipment to the United Kingdom at $22.75. The local demand for bran and shorts is good. The tone of the market for cheese is strong with a steady business passing. Butter is quiet. Demand for eggs is good. Provisions fairly active.

Sheep and Lambs.

Sheep, ewes, sold at $3.60 to $4, and a few at $4.25; rams and culls, $3 per cwt.; lambs, $6.40 to $6.80 per cwt.

Hogs.

Selects, fed and watered, sold at $6.50 and $6.25, f.o.b., cars, at country points.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Jan. 8.—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending Jan. 6 were 1700 cattle, 1400 sheep and lambs, 2275 hogs and 250 calves, while the offerings on the market this morning for sale amounted to 900 cattle, 1000 sheep and lambs, 1400 hogs and 150 calves.

A feature of the trade continues to be the limited supply of good to choice cattle coming forward. The market for such is strong and the prices have scored a further advance of 25c to 40c per cwt., choice steers selling as high as $6.75. The scarcity of this class of stock is attributed to the increased demand from American exporters thruout Ontario for supplies on account of the fact that prices in the Liverpool and London markets have advanced 1c to 2c per lb. within the past two weeks, owing to the very small offerings.

The supply of medium or common cattle in the local market was ample to fill all requirements, but prices were firmer in sympathy with the above. This being the first good market after the holiday season and the fact that butchers and packers were well sold out of beef, the attendance of buyers was large, including some from Quebec, consequently the demand was good even at the higher range of prices and quite an active trade was done.

The feature of the small meat trade was the stronger feeling in the market for sheep and prices advanced ½c to 1c per pound, owing to the small offerings. The demand for lambs was good and prices ruled firm. Sales of mixed lots of sheep and lambs were made at $6 per cwt. Owing to the scarcity of calves the market was strong and sales of good to choice stock were made as high as $15 to $20 each. The Liverpool market for lambs has been much stronger of late and prices are 2c to 3c per lb. higher and sheep, 1¼c to 1½c.

There was no important change in the condition of the market for hogs. Supplies coming forward are ample to fill all requirements and the feeling is firm with sales of selected lots at $7 to $7.10 per cwt., weighed off the cars.

Butchers' cattle, choice, $6.75 per cwt.; medium, $5 to $6.25; common, $3.75 to $4.50; canners, $2 to $2.50; choice cows, $5.50 to $6; medium, $4.75 to $5.25; bulls, $4.50 to $5.25; milkers, choice, each, $75; common and medium, each, $50 to $60; springers, $30 to $40.

Sheep, ewes, $4.50 to $5; bucks and culls, $4 to $4.25; lambs, $6.75 to $7.

Hogs, f.o.b., $7 to $7.10.

Calves, $4 to $20.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, N.Y., Jan. 8.—Cattle—Receipts, 3700; active and 10c to 25c higher. Prime steers, $7.75 to $8.50; shipping, $6.50 to $7.65; butchers, $5 to $7; heifers, $4.50 to $6.50; cows, $2.25 to $5.75; bulls, $3.50 to $5.50; stockers and feeders, $3.75 to $5.25; stock heifers, $3.50 to $4; fresh cows and springers, choice steady, others $2 to $3 lower, $20 to $65.

Veals—Receipts, 800; active, $5.50 to $11.

Hogs—Receipts, 1500; active, 15c to 20c higher; heavy and mixed, $6.80 to $6.85; yorkers, $6.70 to $6.85; pigs, $6.60 to $6.70; roughs, $6 to $6.10; stags, $4.75 to $5.75; dairies, $6.50 to $6.85.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 21,000; active; sheep, steady; lambs, 5c higher; lambs, $3.50 to $7.15; a few $7.25; yearlings, $5 to $5.75; wethers, $4.25 to $4.65; ewes, $3.50 to $4; sheep, mixed, $1.50 to $4.

The Paternoster Ruby

By Charles Edmond Walk.

Supplied exclusively in Canada by the British & Colonial Press, Limited, Toronto.

He jammed his glasses down combatively astride his hawk-like nose, and squared his shoulders.

"I won't guess at all. Looky here: old Page switched 'em. That's what he did—switched 'em to show Maillot the real thing. Every time I converse with you, Swift, my theory about the equality of mind and matter receives a jolt: you have more brawn than brains, old sport."

Squinting at each newcomer, he bustled away before I had time to get back at him. I was rather touchy about my size; I couldn't help being a giant, and the little ferret of a sawbones knew it. I had only one means of revenge. He was a great stickler for maintaining the dignity of his profession, and I always called him "Doc."

While De Breen was getting his jurors in line, I disposed the two patrolmen who had accompanied him —one in the hall, to direct those who had business here this morning straight to the library, and to allow nobody, under whatever pretext, to wander to any other part of the house; the second was stationed just inside the library door. Stodger was to remain up-stairs until called for, when I would relieve him during the brief period required for his testimony.

Burke and Maillot arrived while I was thus engaged, and before I had time to enter the library the front door opened to admit a party of three—Miss Cooper and Miss Fluette, who were accompanied by a handsome, dignified man with white hair and a closely-trimmed beard which he wore parted in the middle and brushed straight back.

Instinctively I knew this man to be Alfred Fluette. And as soon would I have expected the attendance of the Caliph of Bagdad. I fell to watching him narrowly.

His features were not familiar to me, but certain details of his appearance were so striking that I could scarcely do otherwise than conclude that his bearing and countenance had quite recently undergone a marked change. He was a man, I imagined, who could hide his feelings with eminent success; yet, his upstanding figure, without being precisely bent, expressed an idea of drooping. The lines of his face gave it a haggard expression, while his eyes wore a furtive, hunted look at certain periods when he forgot to keep himself in hand. All these details taken together gave me food for sober reflection.

With the wax impression on the iron candlestick in mind, I bent my glance to his hands—to the right hand—but he wore gloves, and moreover, the long sleeves of his heavy overcoat came well down over his knuckles. A stirring of the library fire might persuade him to remove his wraps later on.

But something happened that banished everything else temporarily from my mind. The instant he stepped across the front door-sill his eyes sought the upper regions of the house —the balcony or the second story hall. The glance was feverishly eager. He looked away again quickly; but I could not help associating this brief episode with Burke's wistful look in the same direction the afternoon before.

CHAPTER XV.

A Woman's Scream

I turned from Alfred Fluette to encounter a sober, questioning look from Genevieve. Her sweet face was pale and still troubled, and while nothing would have pleased me better than to hasten to her side, I was obliged—for the present only, I made mental qualification—to content myself with a smile and a reassuring nod. Her cousin Belle's demeanor was haughty, even supercilious, and she quite frankly ignored everybody excepting her father, her cousin, and Maillot.

Nothing occurred to retard the inquest, which I shall refer to only as is necessary to keep bound together the thread of my narrative.

After Stodger had given his brief testimony and returned to his post in the upper hall, I descended to the library and took a seat beside Dr. De Breen at one end of the big library table. As I did so I observed that Mr. Fluette was taking stock of me with a keen sidewise look. I recognized in his regard, surreptitious as it was, that quality which is accustomed to estimatinng and judging the characters of other men,—usually with unerring exactness, I fancied,—but I affected to appear unconscious of the fact that he was noticing me at all.

Alexander Burke was the second witness. His testimony did not vary from his already familiar story, and after the deputy-coroner had put all the interrogations he could think of, I began to prompt the energetic and shrewd examiner. Thenceforward the whilom secretary's examination proceeded as follows:

"Did Mr. Page have a revolver?"

"Yes. But it is now in my possession. More than a week ago I was engaged with Mr. Page here until a late hour. It was necessary for me to go to his office to procure some papers; it was past eleven, and he handed me his pistol. I forgot to return it."

So much for the pistol. The weapon was immaterial.

"In pursuance of your duties as Mr. Page's confidential clerk, Mr. Burke, you had occasion quite frequently to come here to the house, did you not?"

"Not frequently—sometimes."

"Were you familiar with his habits about the house?"

"I suppose so—yes."

"Which rooms did Mr. Page use the oftenest?"

"This one—and his bedroom. He scarcely ever entered any of the other rooms—seldom ascended the stairs."

"How would you account for the door-hinges on all three doors between the alcove and the bedroom having been freshly oiled?"

He didn't attempt to account for it; he merely evinced a mild surprise that such should have been the case. So, impatiently, I requested Dr. De Breen to dismiss him.

I was anxious to have over with the real ordeal of the day, for I knew that I thus correctly characterized to myself Maillot's session in the witness-chair, and, if I was not much mistaken, whatever was to follow after he was through with his remarkable story. Correct as I was in a part of my assumption, everybody present was far from being prepared for the startling denouement.

Maillot began his account of Tuesday night's happenings in a straightforward way, and told it at length as convincingly as such an improbable story could be told at all. His injured eye was even worse discolored than it had been the previous day, and I—watching closely the half-dozen honest citizens with whom lay his immediate fate—observed that they noticed and commented upon it among themselves.

And my anticipations presently began to be realized. As the young man made plain the purpose of his errand to Mr. Page, as he again went over all the extraordinary particulars of his uncle producing the ruby and promising to give it to him to convey to Mr. Fluette, I saw the jurors exchange glances with one another; and then, as the enmity and ill-feeling between the two men became more and more apparent, the six faces gradually came to assume expressions of open incredulity.

If the young lawyer remarked the effect of his testimony, which he could scarcely help doing, the circumstance seemed not to dismay him in the least. But the worst was yet to come: plainly, whatever doubts may have lingered in the minds of the jury during this stage of his examination, they were definitely dispelled when the witness frankly admitted that according to the best of his belief he was Felix Page's sole heir.

But to me Maillot's testimony was scarcely more than a running accompaniment to Alfred Fluette's strange behavior. It was impossible to interpret the seething conflict of thought and emotion which his haggard visage hid only indifferently; he stared at the young man, fascinated; but dominating every influence, gripping his very heart and biting like acid, I could discern the evidence of a horror which must inevitably drive him, sooner or later, to some violent outburst. It was manifestly more than human nature could endure.

Why?—I asked myself—why? Why should he be so profoundly stirred by the experience of one against whom he entertained such a strong antipathy? And so promptly that it took me by surprise, he supplied the potential answer to my unspoken question.

With a sudden movement, as if to sit longer inactive had become an unendurable torment, he stood upright, flung off his heavy overcoat and then whipped off his gloves.

On the middle finger of his right hand gleamed a broad band of gold!

I glanced at the sweet, concerned face of Genevieve Cooper. From the intentness with which she hung upon my every action and change of expression, I knew that she was trying to plumb the farther depths and learn the trend of the hidden currents of this drama, which was of such vital moment to her. I was glad that I could still offer her the encouragement of a smile.

My attention was directed to Maillot when one of the jurors began interrogating him.

"While Mr. Burke was absent," inquired the juror, "did you see the ruby?" His reference was to Burke's absence when he went to notify the police of the crime.

"I did not," was the reply. "I saw it no more after Mr. Page returned it to the jewel-case; I never even thought of it during the time of which you speak."

"Were you near the concealed safe?"

"Yes, sir—although at the time I didn't know that the open trap-door in the closet led to a safe. I saw that the small cavity was empty, and that was all I did observe about it."

"When did you first learn about the safe?"

"When Burke showed it to Mr. Swift yesterday morning."

"Why, then, in your testimony, did you say the deceased went to the safe after the ruby for the purpose of showing it to you?"

Maillot frowned and considered a moment.

"I did not make the assertion from knowledge of the act co-existent with the performance of the act itself," said Maillot at length, with a great show of deliberation. A man can't be utterly hardened who can quiz another at such a time. "I advanced it as the most likely theory by which to account for all of his actions during the time I waited here in the library, explaining the antecedent occurence with knowledge subsequently acquired. Do I make myself perfectly clear?"

The inquisitive juror stared a moment, then subsided. Dr. De Breen turned to me with a broad grin.

"That all?" he whispered.

I nodded. "Let the axe fall; I'm curious to see what effect it will have."

Indians Want Lands.

Ottawa, Jan. 9.—The Right Hon. R. L. Borden was waited on yesterday by a picturesque delegation of Indian chiefs from British Columbia, headed by J. M. Clark, K.C., Toronto, their counsel, in the long-standing dispute between themselves and the Government of British Columbia. The dispute, which extends far back of confederation, has relation to the Indian title to the greater part of the lands of that province. The claim of the Indians is that they were the aboriginal owners.

The speeches of the Indians were delivered in their native tongue, and translated to Mr. Borden. Hailing Mr. Borden as the great chief, the Indians declared that they did not want "consideration," but a decision.

The Prime Minister told them that he was a very new chief and that he wished they had given him a statement in advance, so as to enable him to reach a decision.

River Seine Rising.

Paris, Jan. 9.—The River Seine, which was already much swollen by the continuous heavy rains of the past week, is again rising, although there is no immediate danger of a repetition of the great flood of January, 1910, when an enormous amount of damage was done.

The hydrometric service yesterday announced that there will be a further rise of three feet in the level of the water during the next 48 hours. Th steamer service between Paris and London has been suspended, as the vessels cannot pass beneath the bridges.

London Man Killed.

London, Ont., Jan. 9.—A telegram from Wesley, Sask., announces that James Thompson, former resident of Londesboro, was killed in a railroad accident near there Sunday. He was 35 years old. This is the fourth death in the family that has occurred in the west in a few months.

Fixed Her Up at Once

That's what one woman said the other day who had been doctoring for "stomach trouble" for years.

She had taken a couple of bottles of and thought it was the finest stomach medicine made. Stopped the distress and gave an appetite that had been lacking — Now she can eat anything she fancies.

It does not take much to put the digestive apparatus out of order, but if you get the right remedy the relief is prompt and grateful.

THIRTEENTH ANNIVERSARY OF ST. PETER'S T.A.S.

"The Squire's Daughter" Presented Before a Large Audience at Lyceum.

The 13th anniversary of the inauguration of the St. Peter's T.A.S., was very successfully celebrated last evening in the St. Alphosus Lyceum, when an attractive playlet, entitled "The Squire's Daughter," was performed by a cast of local artists. There was a very large attendance, to whom the Rev. Dr. O'Brien, of the Sacred Heart church, delivered a brief but interesting address immediately prior to the performance. He dealt with the history of the Society, and its organization, taking, with his own, the minds of the assembly back to the first meeting of the Society, at which only the Ven. Archdeacon Casey, Father O'Sullivan and himself, were present, and which took place in the room which ultimately became a billiard room of the old T.A.S. rooms. Referring to the work of the Society, he said—"I cannot remember saying a mass at the beautiful altar of the Sacred Heart Church, which was presented by this Society, without thinking in distinct terms of the members of the Society, both living and dead. A man is a mean, despicable being who would indulge in intoxicants to excess, therefore we ought to be proud of the work of the Society in checking this evil.

In addition to the play, several musical numbers were given. Miss Vera Devlin, Mr. Ed. Hanrahan, Miss Florence Leahy and Master J. Clancy delighted the gathering with appropriate songs, while Miss Carrie White recited a portion of Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet. The Convent orchestra furnished several excellent selections.

The attractiveness of the play was enhanced by the charming costumes and the beautiful scenic effects. The plot of the piece was a somewhat amusing one. An extortionate landlord, who is also a fortune hunter, hears of the squire's daughter, and plans to make advances, with a view to a share in her inheritance. The squire and her daughter visit a widow, who also has a charming daughter. On receiving the intelligence of his desire and that he was expected shortly to call for the rent, the squire's daughter, posing as the daughter of the landlord, receives the landlord, and becomes intimate with his extortionate nature. They meet again later at a masked ball, and the landlord labours under the impression that the charming daughter of the widow is the squire's daughter. At length however they unmask and the designs of the fortune hunter are frustrated.

To dwell at length on the performance of any individual would be an injustice to the others, as they all were particularly suited to their parts and protrayed the several characters to a nicety. They were Squire Clyde Mr. Vincent McCabe; Dorothy (his daughter) Miss L. Symonds; Mrs Felton, (the widow) Miss Emma Derocher; Emily (her daughter) Miss Carrie White, Miss Philip, Miss Gertrude Clancy, Mercy; Miss H. Pearce, Mr. Weatherspout, Mr. Ed. Hanrahan, Leslie, Mr. Elrick White; Mr. Dingle, (the landlord) Mr. J. O'Brien.

The evening closed with the National Anthem, shortly after ten o'clock

POULTRY SHOW OPENED BIG EXHIBIT OF BIRDS

The annual exhibition of the Peterborough Poultry Association opened this morning in the city market hall, and everything is in full swing. Already the large room is well filled with the birds of exhibitors, although many shipments have yet to arrive, having been delayed last night and today by the snow blockade on the railroads.

A large consignment from Point Fortune arrived yesterday, and others from Orillia, Lindsay and Midland are on exhibition. Some handsome birds are shown of all varieties and breeds and it is difficult for one to hear ordinary conversation in the hall, so deafening is the noise of the hundreds of birds. It is expected that 1100 specimens at least will be judged, coming from points in both the United States and Canada. Mr. Joseph Bennett, the well-qualified judge, of Toronto, who officiated so satisfactorily at the Guelph Poultry exhibition, has been secured for the awarding of the prize tickets.

No judging will take place to-day; as the first day is being devoted by the owners of exhibits to arranging their birds in an attractive manner.

School children are incited to attend the exhibition after school, the small price of 5 cents being charged them for admission.

Mrs. Dawson will lecture on Wednesday afternoon and evening in the market hall.

Fire Chief Howard has on exhibition at the poultry show one dozen pheasants and also a splendid exhibit of White Rocks.

Mrs. H. P. Morgan, 265 Park street will receive with her guest, Mrs. W. E. Cox of Edmonton, Thursday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock.

G. T. R. FLYER PLAYED AN UNUSUAL PRANK

Engine and Tender Headed for the Lakefield Tracks

The G.T.R. flyer which leaves the station at 7.01 a.m., met with a mishap this morning that is probably without precedent in the history of railway accidents around these parts.

The trouble occurred just south of the Brock street railway crossing, when after safely passing over the switch connecting with the Lakefield line, the engine and tender jumped the Lindsay track and ploughed over on to the Lakefield track in such a manner that very little work was necessary to place the engine in operation on the Lakefield track. The baggage coach also left its rightful route and the hind trucks of the last coach jumped the tracks.

Very little damage was done, but a delay of a couple of hours was met with. All the work was accomplished by the train and yard crews.

The cause of the accident is somewhat of a mystery, although there is no doubt but that the heavy snow played an important part. An official from Toronto is making an inspection.

ALL TRAINS LATE.

As might be expected the snow with the assistance of the wind, blocked the lines and held the trains back. The Belleville passenger was over two hours behind time this morning.

DISAPPEARANCE OF BARNARDO HOME GIRL

Had Worked in This City—Police on the Lookout

Windsor, Jan. 9—Enid Brock, aged 18, an English girl, was brought to Canada three years ago by the Dr. Barnardo Home, and after living some time in Toronto came to Detroit on December 30 last. Three days later she mysteriously disappeared from the Young Women's Christian Association rooms, where she had been boarding, and no trace of her has since been seen. The local immigration officers on both sides of the river recall having seen the girl when she crossed the river from Windsor, and it was they who directed her to seek quarters at the Y.W.C.A. Miss Brock stated that she was an orphan. She had worked for a time for Mrs. Rousheraft at Peterboro, afterwards returning to Toronto, where she secured employment with a Mrs. Wright at No. 30 Concord Avenue. She had $20 with her when she arrived here, and stated she expected to make her home in Detroit. The girl is described as being about five feet three inches tall, ight complexion, brown or auburn hair an dblue eyes. She wore a blue hat, with white trimmings on left side and grey-striped suit of two shades. When she left the Y.W.C.A. early on the morning of January 2 she left all her effects behind. The Toronto authorities have been communicated with in an effort to trace Miss Brock's whereabouts.

COUNCIL WOULD NOT MAKE GRANT TO THE LOCAL CURLERS

They Ask $100 to Help Defray Cost of Entertaining the Scottish Curlers.

A deputation of five members of the Peterborough Curling Club waited upon the City Council at its inaugural meeting last night to ask for assistance in the entertainment of the Scotch curlers on January 21 and 22.

The amount asked for was $100, to pay the hotel accommodation of the two days.

The Council decided not to make any grant.

Mr. W. M. McIlroy, as the first speaker, explained that the Scots were coming on a Sunday morning and leaving Tuesday morning. They were an important body of men of Scotland, and all the cities they had and would visit during their tour were entertaining them. Their visit was a good thing for the city. The club was presenting each with a silver souvenir canoe and paddle, and a copy of the curling club book, which besides gave views and information relative to the city. The entertaining of the Scotchmen entailed an expenditure of $400 for the local club, and subscriptions had been made by its members. All that was asked of the city was $100.

Messrs. Thomas Brightman and R. M. Waddell spoke briefly on behalf of the club, Mr. Waddell referring to the splendid entertainment the Canadians had received on their visit to Scotland.

Ald Morgan broke the short silence that followed by remarking that to make a grant was not a good policy for the council to start off with, and it would create a precedent. The Oddfellows and Foresters had come to the city and didn't receive anything "So far as I am personally concerned the Scotch curlers can pay their own shot for once," concluded Ald. Morgan.

Ald. Buller believed the feeling of the people to be against the giving of such grants. The aldermen, however, might make up the $100, and hand it to the curlers.

Ald Duffus said he would like to see the curlers well entertained, but he would not like for the council to start off spending the people's money and establish a precedent. He would favor the subscription scheme on the part of the aldermen, as suggested by Ald. Buller.

Ald. Morgan, seconded by Ald. Duncan, moved that no action be taken, and Ald. Gordon moved an amendment that a grant of $50 be made.

Ald. Johnston, although a member of the curling club, didn't think it wisdom for the council to start out with making the grant. For his part he would rather pay it out of his pocket. He remarked that in speaking with several influential citizens that evening, the question had been brought up, and he was advised "not to start that or you'll get cut off."

Ald. Duncan opposed the grant. The painters, he said, who brought between 400 and 500 people, were turned down; so were the Oddfellows and Foresters, and the council didn't grant anything to the Hardware convention.

The vote was taken on the amendment and the original motion, and the latter carried.

NO INCREASE FOR THE POULTRY MEN

Messrs. Fred Holmes and Joseph Kelly, of the Peterborough Poultry Association, asked the council last night for an increase in their grant of $75 to $100. Both speakers referred to the association's show as being a big advertisement for the city. The increase was not made but the arrangement decided on provides for the $75 for this year and the same grant for the 1913 show being paid this year.

Board of Health to Deal With Hunter Street Cess Pool

There were few communications before the City Council last night. One was from Mr. W. H. Denham, Superintendent Quaker Oats Co., who drew Council's attention to the fact that for some time past a cesspool had overflowed onto the company's property, and consequently conditions are very much of a nuisance. He asked that this matter be attended to at once. This was referred to the Board of Health.

Willis Chipman, consulting engineer of Toronto wrote that as the South City Sewage system and pumping station constructed under his supervision, is practically completed, he would like the city authorities to inspect the work before his man in charge leaves on January 13th—Referred to the Board of Works.

Mr. P. Campbell wrote that the Bank of Toronto would continue carrying the city's account at the same rate of interest as last year—Referred to Finance Committee.

A writ from Holmes and Holmes was received, at the instance of W. A. Bailey, who is claiming $500 damages for alleged assault and illegal arrest last summer—Referred to Finance Committee.

PERMANENT IMPROVEMENTS

Bright Liners on Athletic Topics

JERRY COUGHLIN WILL WORK THE RIGHT BOARDS TO-NIGHT

The Lindsay juniors are coming on a special to-night for their game with the locals, and it is likely that a big bunch of Scugogville rooters will mingle with the crowd at Brock street.

Capt. Hall's triangle needs the game to-night and so does Lindsay, who may be relied upon to hand out a good exhibition of the game. The team is composed of players who had their first O.H.A. experience last season and made good.

The fans will be pleased to learn that Fred Denison's arm is improving. He will not play at Belleville Friday night, but may break into the game the following week.

A fan suggests that a rooters' club be organized. Sure bring it along as soon as possible. Peterborough should have a rooters' club. Let some good live fan get busy, and he will soon have the crowd with him.

The new goal nets, patented by Percy Lesueur, are not meeting with much favor in the eastern hockey circles.

Cook will be kept under the watchful eye of the team management. If it was advisable to change the team on the line he would undoubtedly get a steady job.

Belleville intermediates come here next Tuesday night. Trenton does not appear on the scene till January 26.

GROWING XMAS HOLLY

VANCOUVER ISLAND IS HOME OF CANADA'S SUPPLY.

The Festive Branches With Their Glossy Leaves and Red Berries Are a Profitable Crop and Thrive Well In the Mild Moisture-Laden Climate of the Pacific Coast—Mistletoe Next to Grow There.

"I wish I had known how things stood when I came here ten years ago. If I had, I should have planted my ranch in holly instead of in fruit. It would have paid twice as well or better."

The speaker was a successful fruit-grower with a well-established ranch not far from the city of Victoria on Vancouver Island. What he said expresses the minds of scores of Vancouver Island growers to-day, says C. L. Armstrong in The Toronto Globe. Beginning in a small way, the shipping of holly for the Christmas trade from Victoria to the east and south has developed into a trade that is limited only by the scarcity of the supply. That this fault will soon be remedied is attested by the number of holly ranches that have been and are being laid out recently around the southern portion of Vancouver Island—for it is only in this limited and favored district that the Ilex Aquifolium attains to its real splendor of green and rich red. The price is higher this year—the growers having agreed on that because an early frost interfered with the profuse berrying.

Victoria and the city's environs are probably the only places in all Canada where the real Ilex Aquifolium, the common English holly with the red, red berries and the curled prickly leaves, grows naturally. Victoria also has another attraction unusual in the Dominion: the beautiful English broom and gorse flourish and flower on every hillside and border the avenues and lanes, flinging a riot of brilliant yellow bloom over the autumnal landscape. But the holly, the jolly holly, emblematic of all that is best in the spirit of Christmas, is the piece de resistance. It joins with the Christmas rose in doing honor to the great day. Victoria has been described as a little bit of England, and in many respects the description is faithful. Perhaps the holly contributes as much as any other characteristic to create this impression. Now that British Columbia authorities intend to bring numbers of English robins to be released from Victoria, it remains only to induce the mistletoe to climb the western scrub oaks so plentiful in the Pacific capital to complete the conventional English Christmas card picture familiar since ye olden time.

It has never been clearly demonstrated just how the holly first came to Vancouver Island, although there is no doubt at all that it was brought out by one of the early English adventurers with the English Christmas tugging at his heart and the sore homesickness making his far exile more than ever hard to bear as the festival approached. For many years it has grown luxuriantly in the gardens of Victoria homes, studding the wide green lawns, and in the old-established estates reaching a height of thirty feet or more. It is characteristic of the holly that the more it is pruned—judiciously and expertly, of course — the better it flourishes. Perhaps, originally, this had much to do with its selection as a Christmas decoration. It was this necessity for pruning and the established worth of the holly as a decoration that founded what promises to be a most important Vancouver Island industry. Victoria residents were wont to ship large boxes of cuttings from their hedgerows to friends to the south and to the east. The name of the Victoria holly thus was spread and its reputation was made. Residents in the east and in the south who had no friends in Victoria wanted some of the holly and were willing to pay good prices for it. Gradually the demand became so large that enterprising American florists sent agents to Victoria early in the fall to arrange, if possible, for a supply of the decoration at the beginning of the holiday season. These agents went from house to house and made offers of so much per pound for all the holly the trees would spare. In many instance well-to-do residents turned the agents away rather curtly, but they made sufficient deals to establish the trade in a small way, and year by year it grew, until now, practically all owners of holly, wealthy and less wealthy, sell the prunings of their trees, and charge the profits against the garden's expenses. Even the cuttings from the magnificent thirty-foot trees in Lieut.-Governor Patterson's private garden are sold annually in this way.

The demand exceeds the supply as tons to pounds, and the price paid, on the tree, has risen steadily. Last year most of the Victoria holly brought forty cents a pound as it stood on the tree; this year it brought forty-two to forty-five cents, and retailed at from seventy-five cents to one dollar. One Victoria resident last season had his holly hedge pruned by experts for nothing, and was credited with one ton of sprigs, which brought him $300. Others made more and the majority less.

The buyers who came to Victoria each year from the east and the south are experts and are able to judge within a few pounds of what each tree will spare. They come in November and make their contracts for the season, and the cutting is begun early in December.

Within the past year or two the supply of holly shipped from Victoria has been augmented by the first of the ranches planted some years ago with imported trees. A number of ranches have been laid out, and will be in bearing in a short time. The crops will net their owners handsome incomes, for the supply is not likely to even approximate the demand for many years to come, and that without any effort on the part of growers to create a market.

TOO MANY BOYS.

Canadian Prison Report Shows Ten Per Cent. of Juveniles.

The annual report of the inspector of penitentiaries for the last fiscal year, just issued, shows that the average daily population of the Canadian penitentiaries for the year was 1,834, an increase of ten over the previous year, and of 401 as compared with half a decade ago.

Canadian born inmates of the penitentiaries numbered 1,004, while 198 were born in England, 54 in Ireland, 45 in Scotland, 12 in Newfoundland, and 13 in other British countries, making a total of 1,326 British-born criminals. The United States heads the list of foreign-born inmates with 229; other countries coming in the following order: Italy 94, Austria-Hungary 61, Russia 41, France 20, Germany 18, China 13, other foreign countries 63.

An interesting table is that which gives the creeds of the inmates of the penitentiaries: Roman Catholics number 930, Anglicans 317, Presbyterians 219, Methodists 182, Baptists 83, Lutherans 54, Greek Catholics 14, other Christian denominations 14, Hebrew 19, Buddhist 9. Only 14 professed to no creed.

The cities of Montreal, Vancouver and Winnipeg, in the order named, made the largest contributions to the penitentiary population. Those sent from Montreal and still in the penitentiary at the close of the year, numbered 339; from Vancouver 130, and from Winnipeg 114. Toronto has contributed only 89 to the present penitentiary population, and the other cities have contributed as follows: Hamilton 46, Sydney 42, Quebec 41, Halifax 39, Calgary 27, MacLeod 26, St. John 25, Victoria 23, Edmonton 23, Ottawa 21, Truro 21, and New Westminster 21.

Regret is expressed that the practice of committing juveniles to the penitentiaries is still too common. Ten per cent. of the entire population is composed of lads under 20. At St. Vincent de Paul, the juveniles constitute 15 per cent. This condition, the report states, is partially due to the restrictions placed upon the judiciary by the provisions of the penal code and to the fact that certain judges do not realize the unsuitability of the penitentiary for persons of immature age.

A Unique Artist.

There is a man in Toronto who has played an important part in welcoming nearly every eminent personage who has visited the city during the past thirty years and more. Do you know who this is? We do not refer to any civic official, but to a Toronto artist with an unique talen for decorative work — Mr. A. H. Howard, R.C.A.

It was noted in The Daily Star that the address read to His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught by Mayor Geary was a type-written manuscript, but that the real, official illuminated address which the duke will preserve as a memento of his visit, was handed to him in much more elaborate form. This was made by Mr. Howard, and it is a genuine work of art.

The illuminated address is a survival of the practice of the works of olden times in making decorated documents on parchment. Modern painters have developed the art, but few are really master of it like Mr. Howard. All the Governors-General of Canada, from the Marquis of Lorne down to the present royal occupant of the office, have received one of these specimens of this artist's work, not to mention many other notabilities who have been officially welcomed by the city during the past three decades and have been tendered addresses illuminated by the same skilful hand.

In each case an entirely new design has been conceived, and each has been rich in subtle and suggestive beauties peculiarly appropriate to the occasion of the welcome, and the result of much thought, study, and the finest craftsmanship. As a rule these addresses consist of six or more pages quaintly lettered and delicately decorated and bound in some rich leather, splendidly emblazoned.

Laurier Stories.

It is an odd fact that more stories are being told these days about Sir Wilfrid Laurier than were told a year, or even five years ago. The English papers are full of references to the Liberal Chieftain and the fine spirit with which he has met defeat. Indeed, in defeat Sir Wilfrid seems more famous than ever.

An admirer recalls—and it is an interesting fact to note just now—that Sir Wilfrid once described himself as "a Liberal of the English school, a pupil of Fox, Gladstone, and Bright." It is said that, in his early days in politics he read and re-read John Bright's speeches until he knew most of them almost by heart.

The prophesy of Sir Wilfrid's first law partner, after introducing him to the late Dr. Frechette, the poet laureate of French Canada, is also interesting to recall. "There's a head for you," he said. "Did you notice that head? The young man who has it on his shoulders is sure to make himself heard in the world. Why, sir, he is an orator, a poet, a philosopher, and a jurist. Mark my words, he is the coming man."

A Misplaced Doxology.

A tragi-comic episode occurred in one of the towns of Elkin County recently, when the congregation of one of the local churches was holding its anniversary festival and tea meeting. The mayor of the town had consented to preside as chairman of the concert, which is always a feature of such entertainments, and just as it was commencing he was seen to fall to the floor. It was speedily ascertained that death had been instantaneous, and, the body having been removed to an ante-room, the pastor sorrowfully rose to dismiss the assembled congregation. In his excitement he could only think of the form usual on all occasions, and announced the Doxology, giving out the first line, "Praise God, from Whom All Blessings Flow." The congregation sang it faintly, though many realized the incongruity of the situation.—Saturday Night.

WHAT I WENT THROUGH

Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Natick, Mass.—"I cannot express what I went through during the change of life before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in such a nervous condition I could not keep still. My limbs were cold, I had creepy sensations, and I could not sleep nights. I was finally told by two physicians that I also had a tumor. I read one day of the wonderful cures made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and it has made me a well woman. My neighbors and friends declare it had worked a miracle for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold for women during this period of life. If it will help others you may publish my letter."—Mrs. NATHAN B. GREATON, 51 N. Main Street, Natick, Mass.

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

A very interesting and exciting debate took place here in the town hall on New Year's night, and was largely patronized by the young men. The subject was "Which is more profitable, a Horse or a Cow." The two rival captains were A. McCue and Shesheeb. Shesheeb being absent, Windigoo substituted the capatincy who proved himself very efficient for he and his colleagues carried away the prize. CAUSE OF THE CHINESE FAMINE

(The Continent)

It seems a sorry thing indeed that neither the Red Cross nor the mission boards are able this year to raise any considerable funds for relief of China's famine sufferers. What is the matter with American givers? Do they think that people who suffer with famine year after year get used to it an dean do without relief? Or do they imagine that where everything in chaos, politically and socially it is more pleasant to endure starvation than in an environment of peace? Perhaps it may make a stir in some pockets to realize that the present Chinese famine difficulty is in very considerable part due to the patriotic self-denial Chinese farmers in refusing to raise opium any longer. Heretofore when the rice crop failed the poppy crop brought in a fair income; but since the farmers of China have abandoned popies everything is staked on the success of their single crop of rice, and when that fails there is nothing but starvation for them.

In Port Hope farmers were recently offering potatoes that averaged 10 to 15 pounds short per bag.

JAILED FOR BIG THEFT

John McNamara Charged With New Westminster Robbery.

"Australian Mack" of San Francisco Is Taken In Charge by New York Detectives on a Warrant Alleging That He Broke Into Bank of Montreal In B. C. City and Made Away With $375,000.

New York, Jan. 9.—John McNamara of San Francisco, known to detectives of half a dozen cities as "Australian Mack," was arrested here last night by central office detectives on a warrant charging him with the larceny of $375,000 from the Bank of Montreal at New Westminster, B.C., which was dynamited on Sept. 14. Eleven hundred dollars was found in his wallet and detectives are searching the city for $240,000 of the bank's funds which he is believed to have brought to New York with him.

For ten days McNamara has been under the shadow of the police here. For more than two months he has traveled over the United States and Canada with his pursuers apparently without suspicion that he was watched. Police headquarters here first learned of his arrival in New York through a tip that efforts were being made by someone to exchange a large amount of Canadian money for American currency. The police shadowed the money brokers and the men who approached them and the trail of the latter, they said, led them to McNamara's lodging-house. None of the money, however, was found there and none of the bank's bills were upon his person.

Exchanges for McNamara's arrest have been under way between the police here and the Canadian authorities. They ended yesterday afternoon with the issuance of a warrant by Chief Magistrate McAdoo. Four detectives surrounded McNamara on the street in Harlem late in the afternoon and placed him under arrest. He submitted quietly and asked to see the warrant. After he had read it he smiled and said:

"I am greatly relieved, I thought it was some serious charge."

In addition to larceny McNamara is charged with dynamiting the bank's safe and binding and gagging a Chinese watchman employed by the institution. McNamara joked with his captors when they urged him to confess. He admitted, the police say, that he was in British Columbia at the time the bank was robbed and that he had lived at the Strand Hotel at Vancouver afterwards.

McNamara will be arraigned to-day. Assistant Police Commissioner Dougherty said last night that the British consul here coincidently would ask for his extradition to Canada.

For nearly fifteen years, the police assert, McNamara has been known to the police of this country. His picture, they say, is in the rogues' gallery here and in Washington, Louisville and Chicago.

The crime with which McNamara is charged, the police say, was committed by four men, who entered the New Westminster branch of the Bank of Montreal on the night of Sept. 14 and, after binding the watchman and dynamiting the safe, departed so heavily laden with loot that they wrapped it in pillow slips and sheets and had to use an automobile to get away. They dropped a $5,000 bundle of bills in their haste, and finding that they had more than they could carry, hid $24,000 in gold and bills under a wooden sidewalk in New Westminster. Two hundred and forty thousand dollars of the stolen money was negotiable, lacking, however, the signature of the bank's officials. A world-wide warning was sent by the bank to other banks to be on guard against receiving this money.

This warning bore first fruit six weeks after the robbery, when a bank at Buffalo received $4,000 in the stolen bills, deposited, the police say, by a pool-room keeper. The bank is said to have asked the depositor where he got it, and upon his failure to give an answer identifying the men who gave it to him, the money was confiscated.

The Yak to the Front.

The yak is slowly but surely forcing itself into notice in the Northwest.

In its native country the yak is accustomed to range out all winter in a country which is of arctic rigor. So high and so cold is its mountain habitat that no trees grow there, yet it does well in the tropics and has been successfully acclimatized in India. Its natural range in this country would lie chiefly in Canada and Alaska, but would include portions of the northern states.

The herd of yak presented to the Canadian Government by the Duke of Bedford is now at Brandon, Manitoba, in the pasture of the Agricultural Experimental Farm. I saw them there last winter. Although they are of the small Indian breed, they were doing well. Their coats were of great beauty, full and glossy, rivalling the robes of the musk ox. As soon as a few of the larger Tibetan breed are procured to show the great possibilities of this animal, a great boom in yak interest is to be expected.—Ernest Seton Thompson.

A Canadian Blue.

Mr. Howard R. L. Henry, of Winnipeg, a Rhodes scholar, has just won a unique distinction at Oxford. He is the only Canadian at either Oxford or Cambridge this year to get his full blue, this being for association football. An athlete receives his "blue" in England when he has been chosen and has competed as a member of a representative university team or crew. Mr. Henry, who has just completed his course at Oxford, has also been called to the English bar at the Inner Temple, London, being presented by Mr. Atherly Jones, M.P., and will practice law in Winnipeg.

Mr. Henry is a nephew of Dr. G. A. Bingham, the well-known Toronto surgeon, and of the latter's brother, Dr. H. S. Bingham, of Dovercourt road, Toronto.—Toronto Star Weekly.

READ WHAT THIS MOTHER SAYS ABOUT IT.

Mrs. Geo. Boorman, of 906 Selkirk Avenue, Winnipeg, says:—
"Pimples and sores broke out all over my little girl's face and hands. They spread, and set up inflammation. In the end her face was one mass of sores! We tried ointment after ointment, but there was no noticeable improvement.

"A neighbor advised my trying Zam-Buk and leaving off all other remedies. I did as she advised. Frequent applications of Zam-Buk soothed the pains and allayed the inflammation, and before long the sores began to look healthier. Gradually every scab and pimple disappeared and the sores were healed completely, leaving the child's face smooth and white as possible.

"Since then, while using an old pair of scissors, they slipped, cutting my left thumb badly. Inflammation set in and I feared blood poison, but began to apply Zam-Buk. The pain was soothed directly, and within a week the wound was nicely healed."

There is not much danger in these days, and especially on this great continent of this adage becoming true of children. It seems to me that this is essentially the children's age, the age when children of the well-to-do are surrounded by every sort of luxury and amusement, often to their own undoing, and even the children of the poorer classes are provided by municipalities and philanthropic organizations with playgrounds and all sorts of amusements.

There is this danger in the present systems of satiating and making Jack a dull boy by giving him too much relaxation and playtime.

Work at all events, would develop the boy, help him to get rid of that great supply of energy which so often gets him into mischief, and makes him strong both mentally and physically, and keep his mind wholesome.

Luxury and amusement on the other hand have a tendency to dwarf him and place a limitation upon his mental capacity.

The judicious parent will see that the boy has certain small tasks to perform out of his school hours, simply that he may have an opportunity of rounding out the many many phases of his character.

Who of the older people can forget the good old woodbox which seemed to be so big on the nights when there was a game of ball on, and how cruel mother seemed when she insisted that it should be filled to the top, yet what men these same boys grew up to be! Men of fortitude and courage and a high sense of duty, all because when they were boys they were taught that duty came first and play afterwards.

What is more pitiful than seeing a boy being motored to school, taken to the theatre by mamma, and generally pampered in the mistaken idea that she is making a gentleman of her son! What is a gentleman? Is he not the mna with gentle manners, clean mind, and a thoughtfulness for others' comfort and welfare? He is not produced by laziness and luxury, but by a self-development growing out of the necessity to strive to attain, by sufficient discomfort, to create in him heart enough to wish to save others from suffering, and by a self-effacement which fills him with a courtesy to everyone.

HEN TURKEY FIGHTS COBRA

Protects Her Brood From Snake and Recovers From Bite

The "Field" publishes an interesting account of a fight between a cobra and a turkey, written by the Rev. G K. Towgood from Selangor.

"I was gardening one morning," he writes, "when I heard the hen turkey in violent conflict with what I thought must be a fowl or duck, for she had a young brood and was very savage over it. I went up to see what I could do. It was a huge cobra, the most deadly of snakes. She pecked him savagely over and over again. He seemed quite frightened when I called out. He scented danger, reared his head and hood and bit her all round her eye. We killed the snake without much difficulty. I quite expected to see the turkey drop down dead, but she followed her brood, scratching her face with her claws."

After a time the turkey got drowsy as the result of the bite. Mr. Towgood proceeds: "I rubbed her head over with tumeric and gave her repeated doses of whiskey and amonfaa. She got more and more drowsy and at last lay down to die, as I thought. This was about six or seven hours after the bite. I went upstairs for a little while, and to my surprise on coming down again I found her staggering about the yard again with her little brood. It was really 'mother love' that helped to bring her round.

"While she lay almost unconscious the little ones came around the yard squealing for her. She answered them and jumped off the verandah, where I had put her. In a fe wminutes she was quite well again."

Uncle Sam's Deathless Army

(Winnipeg Telegram)

Some thirty-five years ago, James A. Garfield, afterwards president, apologized for a pension bill amounting to $28,533,000 and declared that the maximum had been reached. In spite of the passage of years, however, and the supposed decrease of thousands of pensioners, last year the Government of the United States paid out the enormous sum of $153,184,000 in pensions. The new civil service measure will saddle the American ratepayer with another little sop for the deathless army—a matter of an extra $75,000,000. Half a century passes—and the collector is pounding on the door harder than ever.

Winnipeg's Good Start.

The great complaint against all municipal government is that it is neither comprehensive, continuous nor far-sighted. The municipality works from year to year in a haphazard manner, instead of thinking out in advance its next quarter-century needs.

Winnipeg, the enterprising commercial metropolis of the West, has got down to real work in town planning. It has a town planning commission, which is going at the task in a broad-minded way. There are sub-committees on traffic and transport, social survey, housing, aesthetical development, dockage and river frontage, physical plan and legislation.

The traffic and transport committee will undertake the work of studying the traffic problems, both vehicular and railway, and will not only try and get an accurate idea of the present conditions, but will make suggestions to avoid trouble in the future.

The dockage and river frontage committee has in hand not only the question of river traffic and wharfage, but also the important one of making suggestions for a general scheme for the beautification of the river frontage. The aesthetic committee, which is composed of almost entirely architects and artists, will deal with all matters of art, and will have an eye on the city beautiful.

The housing committee is studying the housing conditions from all points of view. The physical plan committee have charge of all the material provided by the various committees, and will undertake the work of putting the material on to a series of maps and charts so that the whole scheme of the commission may be seen at a glance.—Canadian Courier.

A Tall Yarn.

A big game hunter and his brother recently spent a year in and about the Rocky Mountains. They had two rifles, one bullet, and one keg of powder. With these they say they killed on an average twenty-seven head of buffaloes a day. The fact that they did all this with one bullet led to the following cross-question:

"How did you kill all these buffaloes with only one bullet?"

"Well, we shot a buffalo; I stood on one side and my brother on the other. Brother fired, and the ball passed into the barrel of my rifle. We kept up the hunt for twelve months, killing nearly 200 buffaloes a week, and yet brought home the same ball we started with!"

ALD. ANDERSON ON FIRE, WATER AND LIGHT COMMITTEE

His Appointment Not Without a Storm—He Objected to Being Called a "Tool" by Ald. Morgan—Ald. Duncan Moves for Appeal Against Judgment re St. Alphonsus Lyceum.

There were small wars and indications of more warfare at the Council meeting last night when Ald. Gillespie concluded the reading of the report of the committee of the whole council, which drafted the standing committees for the year.

Ald. Johnston, as chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, moved that Ald. Anderson's name be added to the committee and Ald. Duffus seconded the motion.

"Why?" queried Ald. Morgan of the North Ward candidate, who upheld in explanation, that with small committees, it was not possible for all to be present.

"I object," said Ald. Duncan," it throws a majority and they can do what they like."

"If Ald. Anderson wants to be a tool I don't care," remarked Ald. Morgan.

Ald. Anderson went after Ald. Morgan for his remark. "He's sore," said Ald. Anderson, "because I wouldn't be a tool in his hands."

The motion added the East City alderman to the committee was carried.

Ald. Johnston took the floor to explain his position as he explained. He said that when he left the Council he was under an indictment and he would like to clear himself. The past was buried so far as he was concerned. He now did not wish to show a vindictive spirit. He wished to do what was just and fair. If Chief Howard had done what was wrong and he (Ald. Johnston) had brought him to time, he hoped it had made a better man of the chief. So long as he or any other man did what was right, they would not find the speaker of an vindictive spirit. He wanted to work in harmony with all. He was not in the council for a purpose. This he wished to make clear. "I want to see all here do the thing that's right," said Ald. Johnston in conclusion.

NUMBER TWO CLASH.

Another squall was encountered when the question of appointing a members to the Board of Health by-law cmae up.

Ald. Duncan moved the name of ex-Ald. Kerneghan, whereupon Ald. Johnston arose to ask Ald. Duncan why he had gone back on his word when in the Peterborough Hardware he had answered Ald. Johnston in the affirmative, when asked for support for Mr. Wm. Langford, jr.

Ald. Duncan replied that he had not promised to support Mr. Langford.

"You can't plaster me," remarked Ald. Johnston.

Ald. Gordon and Johnston moved in amendment that Mr. Langford be appointed. The original motion carried and Ex-Ald. Kerneghan is a member of the Board of Health. Mr. Jas. Morty is the other member.

LIBRARY BOARD.

Mr. H. R. H. Kenner was re-appointed a member of the Public Library Board. Ald. Anderson and Jas. A. Hall will look after the funds under the will of the late Elmira Grover Foley.

ST. ALPHONSUS LYCEUM.

Ald. Duncan took up the question of the St. Alphonsus Lyceum taxation and took exception to the judgment of Judge Huycke, who ruled that the Lyceum was exempt from taxes. He said that he would not mind if his Honor had exempted that part used for religious purposes and taxed the remainder of the property.

Ald. Duncan moved that the city get a stated case for the Court of Appeal.

"We can't appeal this case," said Buller. He held that all institutions and churches should pay taxes alike. One should nort be made different from the other.

Ald. Gordon moved that the matter be referred to the City Solicitor and Legal Committee for a report and on that report the Council base its action. This carried.

"We might get legislation to make all these fellows pay," remarked the people's candidate.

DANGEROUS STEPS.

Ald. Graham drew the attention of the Council to the unsafe condition of the steps at Sheridan street. They should be cleaned of snow he held. Several people had had narrow escapes from injury. The matter was referred to the Board of Works.

D. O'Connell notified the Council that a client by the name of Milbarrow claimed damages from the city to the extent of $500. This was referred to the Legal Committee.

John Crane wrote that a Mr. Trew, discharged from the Nicholls hospital was refused admission again to the Protestant Home. He was now in the hospital and the city was subject to the expenses incurred.

The Charity Board will take up the matter.

Ald Brown asked for some sidewalks which the 1911 Board of Works had promised in his ward and the new chairman, Ald. Buller, promised consideration.

Dodging the Dun.

"Why did you come way downtown to buy this when you could have bought it from your neighbor?"

"I've exhausted my credit with him, and if I went in there and paid cash for something he'd think I have money and start to dun me."—Detroit Free Press.

DETECTIVES SHADOWED JOHN J. BREEN

He Was Watched While Making Trips With Horses

New York, Jan. 8.—Ethel Croker Breen, daughter of Richard Croker, has brought suit here for absolute divorce from John J. Breen, the stableman she married April 28, 1910. It was made known yesterday that the evidence on the trial will show that detectives in the employ of Richard Croker have been shadowing Breen for months, watching any possible departure from proper behavior during his long separation from his wife. Among the places where these detective say they got evidence last August was a Toronto hotel and a yacht clubhouse at Peterborough Canada. Breen was trailed all over Canada on his trips with the horses of Hon. J. R. Stratton. Breen will defend the suit vigorously through his attorneys.

An effort will be made to keep the proceedings as secret as possible.

Mrs. Breen's action preceded Breen's suit for $100,000 against Richard Croker and her brothers for the alienation of his wife's affections.

DOMINION BOARD TO INVESTIGATE

Will Inquire Into the Question of Excessive Freight Rates.

Many Complaints Have Been Made—Board Will Meet in February.

Ottawa, Jan. 10.—One of the most important orders ever issued by the Board of Railway Commissioners was made public yesterday, when it was announced that a general enquiry will be undertaken by the board into all freight tolls in effect in the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, as well as in Ontario, west of, and including, Port Arthur. The order states that, if it is found that the tolls charged by the railways are excessive, the same shall be reduced as the board may determine.

The first sitting of the board in connection with the enquiry will be held in Ottawa on Feb. 13, to consider the procedure upon the enquiry. In the meantime, the board is applying to the Minister of Justice to appoint counsel to represent the public upon the enquiry.

The enquiry will not extend to British Columbia for the reason that the tolls of the railway companies operating in that province are already the subject of enquiry upon the complaints of the Vancouver Board of Trade and the United Farmers of Alberta.

The order states that many complaints have been made as to the rates charged by the railways, but the board had delayed taking action until the Regina rate case had been settled.

The Supreme Court having ordered in connection with the consideration of this case that the discrimination in favor of points in Manitoba, against points in Saskatchewan and Alberta, must be removed by the reduction of class rates to points in the two provinces further west, the board is now free to undertake a wide investigation as to the whole question of western freight rates.

C.N.R.'s Montreal Tunnel.

Montreal, Jan. 10.—The plans of the Canadian Northern Railway for improved passenger and freight facilities on the island of Montreal, were officially laid before the Board of Control yesterday.

The plans indicate that it is the intention of the railway to construct a tunnel three miles long through the very heart of Mount Royal and an elevated railway from Lagauchitiere street to the water front, where they will connect with the Grand Trunk. A freight line is to be built around the eastern end of the city to Longue Point to the present location of the C.N.R. station.

No mention was made of the possible Montreal station.

PROTEST AGAINST GRAND TRUNK

Brockville, Jan. 10.—The G.T.R. has changed its booking office for conductors and brakemen from Brockville to Belleville, which eventually means the removal from here of between fifty and seventy-five families. The subject was made a matter of protest in the inaugural address of Mayor MacLean to the Town Council, and a civic delegation will shortly wait on the officials of the Grand Trunk at Montreal to urge that no such change be made at this terminal.

There is a strong feeling of resentment over the action of the company, which it is thought has been prompted by the disturbance caused here during the trainmen's strike.

PROBABILITIES

Fresh westerly to northwesterly winds, fair and very cold to-day and on Thursday, temperature much below zero, nearly in all places.

THE ELECTIONS IN GERMANY

Believed That Socialists Will Gain a Number of Seats.

Berlin, Jan. 10.—The preparation for the general elections to the Reichstag, which takes place throughout the empire on Friday next, show a curious contrast to the procedure of a Canadian election campaign. Neither the parties, nor the newspapers of different shades of opinion, have yet ventured to give forecasts of the results of the elections. They content themselves with indicating what they expect to be the general trend of the voting.

This shows that a heavy defection of Conservatives is awaited, and corresponding gains for the Socialists, with the Centre party remaining practically unbroken, and Liberal and Radical gains from the Conservatives, balanced in part by losses to the Socialists.

A factor generally overlooked is that the Socialists and Centrists (or Catholics), stand to lose, owing to the rupture of the relations which existed between them at the general elections of 1907, when they stood together on the defensive against the campaign waged by Prince Von Buelow, who did everything in his power to cause their defeat.

One well-informed writer anticipates that the Socialists will lose all the twelve seats they secured at the second ballots after the general elections of 1907, with the assistance of the Centre. The latter party will, the same writer expects, forfeit approximately the same number which they gained with the assistance of the Socialists at the same period.

FRENCH CONSUL FOR MONTREAL

Paris, Jan. 10.—Among the diplomatic appointments gazetted yesterday is that of Charles Jules Joseph Bonin, who has been nominated charge of the French consul-general at Montreal. At the same time he has been promoted to the rank of secretary of embassy of the first class. The principal part of his diplomatic career has been passed in the Orient and in the Far East.

Another appointment is that of Francois Marie Robert Dejean, who has been named commercial attache for North America.

Foreign Powers Suspicious.

London, Jan. 10.—The Canadian Press is informed that Sir Edward Grey's communication to the foreign Governments concerned conveying the desire of the overseas dominions to be allowed to withdraw from Great Britain's commercial treaties is not meeting with a ready response except in the case of Sweden. In some cases the communication was met with a demand for "further particulars."

"White Slaver" In Montreal?

Montreal, Jan. 10.—J. F. Lynn, a member of the Grand Opera Orchestra, playing at His Majesty's Theatre, is under arrest on a charge of trying to procure young girls for the white slave traffic in California.

The police say there are three girls whom he tried to bribe to go away. He is held without bail.

BRITAIN KNEW OF MONGOLIAN COUP

Said to Have Been Fully Aware of Russians Plans for Some Time Past.

Foreigners Failed to Get Protection From British Gunboat.

Pekin, Jan. 10.—To the Russian charge d'affaires at Pekin, M. Shekine, Mongolian independence is largely due. M. Shekine has always been aggressive. As soon as he assumed control of the legation here he began urging the administration at St. Petersburg to become active, declaring that the time was ripe for the assumption of control in Mongolia. The Russian action is known in but few quarters in Pekin, as the Russians are maintaining secrecy, and the Chinese Government first informed the American legation of the situation with respect to Mongolia, hoping for sympathy.

The opinion persists that Great Britain has been fully aware of Russia's intentions for some weeks. A Mongolian prince, who is now in Pekin, says that Russia has been increasing here military forces in Mongolia for the purpose of protecting Russian traders. Mutinies and revolts are reported among the various Chinese garrisons in Mongolia.

The Imperial Premier, Yuan Shi Kai, and Wu Ting Fang, representing the Republicans at Shanghai, have agreed to instruct their respective military commanders not to resume hostilities after Jan. 15 unless ordered to do so.

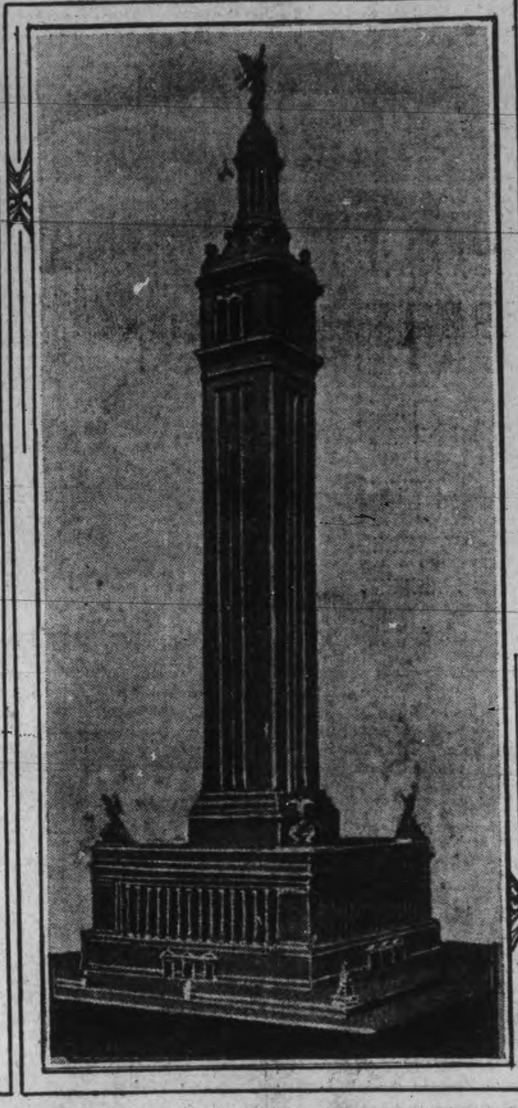
This, seemingly, is an agreement for a perpetual armistice, or until one side feels strong enough to defeat the other.

Yuan Shi Kai adheres to his demand that the proposed national convention to settle the fate of China shall consist of representatives of every district, and each province shall meet at Pekin. The Republicans are also obdurate, and the belief is growing that general hostilities are not far off.

Not Protected by Gunboat.

Hankow, Jan. 10.—One hundred and seven Europeans and forty-five Japanese from Chengtu, Szechuen Province, who for a long time were practically shut off from the rest of China, because of disorders and the activities of bandits, arrived at Hankow yesterday. Members of the party complain that the British gunboat Widgeon, which met them on the way to Hankow, failed to give them escort. As a consequence the fugitives were exposed to firing near Hakianghsien, where a boatman was wounded. Bullets struck the boats several times. It is understood that a protest has been lodged with Admiral Sir Alfred L. Winsloe, commander-in-chief of the British eastern fleet.

PANAMA-PACIFIC TOWER, WHICH WILL BE HIGHER THAN FAMOUS EIFFEL STRUCTURE



TOWER PROPOSED FOR THE PANAMA-PACIFIC EXPOSITION TO RISE 1,300 FEET ABOVE THE SEA LEVEL, WHICH WOULD BE 316 FEET HIGHER THAN EIFFEL TOWER AND 745 FEET HIGHER THAN THE WASHINGTON MONUMENT.

Directors of the Panama-Pacific exposition in San Francisco have approved plans for the erection of a memorial which will be higher than the Eiffel tower. A model is shown in the above photograph. The top of the tower will be approximately 1,300 feet above the sea level if erected in Lincoln Park. That would make it 316 feet higher than the Eiffel Tower in Paris, and 745 feet higher than the Washington Monument. The tower can be used if so desired as a meteorological station.

BLIZZARD AT SOO

City in Throes of Storm That Has Tied up Business.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Jan. 10.—The Soo last night was in the throes of a blizzard and although the temperature is only five below zero, a northwest wind, accompanied by unprecedented snow, has tied up all business, and those who venture on the streets do so at great risk.

It is impossible to see across the street. All trains are tied up and the street car service is at a standstill, the tracks being snowed in immediately after the passage of a snowplow or car. The storm is the worst that has struck the Soo in many years. It is estimated that two feet of snow have fallen since 12 o'clock Monday night. The storm is gradually growing worse and temperature is falling.

It is reported that a man in the west end strayed from the sidewalk and, wandering on the road, was struck by a rig, which was also lost, and the man killed. Efforts to find the man in the storm failed and the body cannot be discovered until the storm subsides.

Other fatalities are likely to result as a party of men left yesterday morning on foot for the lumber camps on the A.C.R. and unless they reach shelter they cannot outlive the storm.

Blizzard In Kingston.

Kingston, Jan. 10.—Kingston has been the centre of a fierce blizzard for twenty-four hours. The street cars were tied up all day, but an effort is being made to open traffic.

OPENED INQUEST INTO WRECK

Montreal, Jan. 10.—In order to allow the calling of several witnesses who were not to be found yesterday, Coroner McMahon shelved the inquest into the deaths of the five men who were killed in the smash on the Canadian Pacific Railway at Vincent de St. Paul Monday for eight days. Yesterday's proceedings were purely formal, Drs. McTaggart and Dugas giving evidence as to the immediate cause of death, while Engineer Francois Paquette, Fireman Lomentagne and Baggageman Dufresne told of the smash.

At St. Vincent de Paul the wreckage gang, with its big steam crane, worked all night and all yesterday. The last of the wreckage will be cleared away to-day.

Among those who had very narrow escapes was George Delisle, M.P.P. for St. Maurice. Mr. Delisle had eleven relatives on board the wrecked train, yet not one was injured.

VOTING OF THE MINERS

Cast Their Ballots Favoring Minimum Wages Scale

England on Verge of Great Labor Crisis

Special to the Review.]

London, Jan. 10.—Reports from mining districts show that the men are voting unanimously in favor of a minimum wages scale. Balloting continues till Friday, and if two-thirds of the men vote favorably a strike will be called for March first. With less than one month's supply of coal in the country, England, it is believed, is on the verge of the greatest labor crisis of her history.

THEIR MAJESTIES LEAVE FOR HOME

Medina Expected at Portsmouth First Week of February

Special to the Review.

Bombay, Jan. 10.—The King and Queen concluded their visit in connection with the Durbar to-day, and embarked on the Royal yacht, the Medina, which is expected to reach Portsmouth by February 4.

DESTROYER HAD A ROUGH TIME

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 10.—Battered and crippled as the result of her severe experience at sea, the torpedo-boat destroyer Terry limped into port yesterday with one engine working. A thrilling story of their battle with wind and wave was told by her crew.

The Terry had been assigned to scout duty in the war game manoeuvres and was somewhere off Cape Sable, on the Nova Scotia coast, when the storm struck her late Saturday. For 48 hours the little craft was almost at the mercy of the seas.

Bylaws Corruptly Carried.

St. Boniface, Man., Jan. 10.—According to ex-Mayor Bertrand, the bylaws authorizing large expenditures on pavements and other public works were actually defeated instead of being passed at the recent municipal elections. He charges that grave irregularities took place in the count of votes, the instigators being parties interested in the contracts.

Judge Prudhomme, who opens an investigation into the civic federation in February, will sift this charge.

FRENCH FOREIGN MINISTER RESIGNS

Schooner Wrecked, Crew Escaped.

Lunenburg, N.S., Jan. 10.—The schooner Virginia is a total loss at Rosehead, a rocky promontory between here and the mouth of the Lahave River, battered by a terrific gale, which swept along the coast, she went ashore yesterday morning. Capt. Leander Publicover and his crew of six men escaped. The Virginia was in ballast from Halifax to Liverpool to load lumber for Barbados. Her managing owner is A. C. Barnaby of Bridgewater. The vessel was built at Lunenburg several years ago and was insured in the Lahave Marine Insurance Co.

Norway Strengthens Navy.

Christiania, Jan. 10.—The Cabinet has resolved to propose to the Storthing that it vote an appropriation of 16,500,000 kroner ($4,125,000) for the development of Norway's naval defence.

The plan is to add to the present navy two armored cruisers and a flotilla of torpedo boats and includes also the construction of fortifications along the western coast.

Framer of the Franco-German Moroccan Treaty Quits His Office.

General Upheaval in Affairs of Republic Threatened.

Paris, Jan. 10.—The Franco-German Moroccan treaty, which ended the war crisis a few months ago, brought about last evening in a dramatic manner the resignation of the French Foreign Minister, Justin De Selves. This threatens to be followed by a general Parliamentary investigation and a Ministerial upheaval.

Charges that financiers of France and Germany were permitted to carry on secret negotiations relative to the Congo and Morocco caused the rupture. Premier Caillaux at a meeting of the Senate committee gave his word of honor that there had been no such negotiations, but the Foreign Minister declined to back the Premier, and refused to make a statement either pro or con.

The present crisis has been brewing ever since the treaty was signed and is due to repeated allegations that the French ambassador, Jules Cambon, did not have a free hand in the negotiations with Germany, and that other negotiations, of which the Foreign Office and the ambassador were ignorant, were being secretly conducted between the two countries, concerning railroad concessions in the Congo, Kamerun and Morocco.

The storm broke at the meeting of the Senate committee, with ex-Premier Clemenceau holding a great advantage. Premier Caillaux denied that there had ever been semi-official pourparlers before the interview at Kissengen. He had, he said, repudiated a contract for railroad concessions alleged to have been made between a Frenchman named Fondere and Dr. Semler, a member of the Reichstag.

The Premier narrated the negotiations relative to the proposed railroads in Morocco, and affirmed that he was happy to give his word of honor that there had been no negotiations except those of which the Foreign Office and M. Cambon were fully cognizant.

M. Clemenceau arose and looked fixedly at the Foreign Minister. "Will you confirm the statement of the Premier?" he asked.

M. De Selves at first refused to answer, but, pressed by Senator Bourgeois, chairman of the committee, finally said: "I cannot answer the question. I am tied between a double duty—to stick to the truth and tell all, and not to hurt the interests of the country by deserting the Cabinet."

These words created a sensation, and the committee adjourned in great confusion. Afterwards a second scene was enacted in the ante-room to which Premier Caillaux, Foreign Minister De Selves and ex-Premier Clemenceau withdraw. M. Clemenceau, according to friends of M. de Selves, reproached Premier Caillaux in violent terms for fostering secret negotiations, of which M. Clemenceau said he had been for a long time informed. The Foreign Minister, for his part, frankly told the Premier that he could no longer sit beside him in the Cabinet, and therefore resigned.

M. de Selves sent his letter of resignation to President Fallieres. In it he pointed out that he no longer wished to assume the responsibilities of the Foreign portfolio, with a split in the Cabinet. He added that he could not publicly protest against the statement of Premier Caillaux. On the other hand, his conscience forbade him to confirm it.

The Premier likewise issued a statement in which he insisted that he had told the whole truth. He had always refused, he said, to listen to people who approached him relative to the negotiations, saying that Ambassador Cambon alone had the right to speak for France.

VALUABLE PAPERS LOST

In the Fire That Destroyed the Equitable Life Building.

Latest Reports Indicate Loss of Only Six Lives.

New York, Jan. 10.—Latest reports indicate that only six lives were lost in yesterday's fire in the Equitable Life building.

The great structure, which, besides containing the main offices of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, was the home of the Mercantile Trust Co., the Equitable Trust Co., the banking house of Kauntze Bros., August Belmont & Co., the Harriman Railway lines, the Mercantile Safe Deposit Co., the Lawyers' Club, and many of the city's most prominent law firms, stands to-day a shell of ice-coated granite, with its once magnificent interior completely gutted.

Besides involving heavy financial loss and serious disturbance to big business interests, the fire, starting on one of the coldest and windiest mornings of the winter, was one of the most spectacular ever witnessed in the far downtown section. Its progress was replete with harrowing incidents, narrow escapes and brave rescues, the men who fought it did so under conditions that taxed both skill and endurance. The intense cold acted almost instantaneously upon the huge volume of water poured on the flames and a thick ice coating was speedily formed on the facades of towering skyscrapers adjacent and upon the surface of streets for blocks around. The bulwark of these modern fireproof structures, according to Fire Commissioner Johnson last night, was invaluable as a protection to the entire financial district. As it was the damage, except by water, was confined to the Equitable structure.

Of those who lost their lives in the disaster, three men were killed by jumping from a coping of the roof of the structure to which they were driven by the flames. They were employes in the building.

Battalion Chief William J. Walsh disappeared in a whirl of smoke and flame early in the progress of the fire when a cave-in occurred on the third floor where he was fighting the flames. No trace of his body has been found.

Two other men, William Campion, captain of the watchmen in the Mercantile Safe Deposit vaults in the basement of the burned structure, and Frank J. Neider, a special officer, whose bodies have not been recovered, complete the list of dead so far as known.

Several persons, watchmen and others, who were in the doomed structure when the fire broke out at an early hour, have not been positively accounted for but are believed to have escaped. The death total, however, may not be definitely fixed until the flames, which were still raging last night have been extinguished and the ruins cooled.

One man in another vault of the Mercantile Safe Deposit Co., believed to be Campion, could be seen from the streets with his legs pinned down by a mass of debris, but could not be rescued because of the heavy steel doors which barred the way of the firemen. Through the smashed windows of the door he was given the last rites by Chaplain McGeon of the fire department just as he was swallowed from view by the dense smoke, and not seen again.

Some estimates of the loss run as high as $15,000,000, but more conservative authorities thought last night that the damage would not run over $6,000,000 at the most. The property was assessed by the city at $12,000,000, a larger sum with one exception than on any other building in the financial district, but by far the greater part is based on the value of the ground upon which the Equitable building stood.

An officer of the Equitable said that the society's own loss would probably not amount to over $300,000, covered by its own contingent insurance fund, and that duplicates of every record destroyed were stored in another part of the city. The company had planned to erect a new building on the site and as figured by the officers the expense of tearing it down will now balance well against the actual value of the building.

THE QUEBEC LEGISLATURE

Quebec, Jan. 10.—The opening of the session of the Quebec Legislature was held at three o'clock yesterday afternoon and was marked by all the brilliancy which usually accompanies the event. Quebec was veiled yesterday by an old-time snowstorm, but the attendance at the opening was as large as usual.

After the usual formalities his honor, Lieut.-Governor Sir Francis Langelier, proceeded to deliver the speech from the throne, which in part was as follows: The colonization department has already begun the construction of a main artery in the Temiskaming region, and proposes to begin opening a road about 110 miles long in Abitibi next spring, along which road free grants of lots will be given. It is important, however, that these two regions be placed in communication with consuming and distributing centres by means of railway lines. Thus, for instance, a line with its terminus at James Bay would greatly promote the development of our farming and other industries, while aiding that portion of products exported to Europe by the western provinces. The Ministers therefore intend the construction of new railways through the north of our province.

Collision at Listowel.

Listowel, Jan. 10.—During the height of the storm yesterday, a passenger train from Palmerston ran into a freight near Listowel Station, the driver being unable to see for any distance in front. Considerable damage was done to the engine, but no one was injured beyond a severe shaking up.

SCIATICA

EXPECTED DEATH ANY DAY

Another Case Where Life Was Saved and Health Restored by "Nerviline."

It is because he feels it his solemn duty to tell to the world his faith in Nerviline that Victor P. Hires makes the following declaration: "For three years I was in the Royal Mail service, and in all kinds of weather had to meet the night trains. Dampness, cold, and exposure brought on sciatica that affected my left side. Sometimes an attack would come on that made me powerless to work. I was so nearly a complete cripple that I had to give up my job. I was in despair, completely cast down because the money I spent on trying to get well was wasted. I was speaking to my chemist one day, and he recommended "Nerviline." I had this good liniment rubbed on several times a day, and got relief. In order to build up my general health and improve my blood I used Ferrozone, one tablet with each meal. I continued this treatment four months and was cured. I have used all kinds of liniments, and can truthfully say that Nerviline is far stronger, more penetrating, and infinitely better than anything else for relieving pain. I urge everyone with lumbago, neuralgia, rheumatism, or sciatica to use Nerviline. I know it will cure them."

CURED SIX YEARS

There isn't a more highly-esteemed citizen in Westchester than Mr. Hires. What he says can be relied upon. For six years since being cured he hasn't had a single relapse. Don't accept anything from your dealer but "Nerviline." 50 cents per bottle, trial size, 25c; sold everywhere, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

A HANKOW INCIDENT

A party of British sailors rescued a German, captured by the Chinese at Hankow. The German was being rushed forward to be executed having been caught taking sketches of Chinese fortifications at Hankow. But we hear no expression of appreciation from Berlin. If, on the other hand a party of German's had rescued a Britisher, the Kaiser's government would have been thanked most heartily from London. The Chinese were strictly within their right in wanting to execute this German spy, but the British Jack Tars said no, and that ended it. But what annoys Germany is the fact that it was Britishers who saved the situation. They hate, even to the slightest degree to be under any compliment to Britain.

The incident goes to show, however that when it comes to a question of whites or the yellow race, the whites will be shouder to shoulder, and that if the "yellow peril" became a serious menace, Britishers and Germans would undoubtedly be found fighting side by side. A white man will always come instinctively to the aid of his fellow against the yellow man.

BURNING OF A SKYSCRAPER

The burning of the Equitable Life building in New York yesterday, fortunately occurred out of business hours, or the disaster would have undoubtedly meant an appalling loss of life. There would have been several hundred people in the building in business hours, and it is not out of the way to assume that many of these would have perished, as the building was one of the very oldest of the sky scraping type, and the fire conditions not of the best, in fact far from it.

The burning of a skyscraper has always been dreaded by New Yorkers but it is said of the modern building that you could start a fire in any part of them and it could do no more than local damage. Many people place little faith in a fireproof building, but this is a mistake. In the apartment houses in Germany, if a fire starts no one thinks of getting out because there is a blaze in a neighboring apartment. And then tests in other places have shown buildings to be absolutely fire proof.

ENEMIES OF LABOR

The corporate interests and enemies of labor are ever ready to stir up trouble with the hope of discrediting some labor leader. They are now busy keeping up the attack on President Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, because it is enarged he stood upon an American flag while delivering an address last summer. Now, it has been explained many times that the flag in question was draped over a table as part of the decorations, and Mr. Gompers, in order to make himself better heard, stood on the table, never thinking of the decorations, but wanting to give all the immense gathering a chance to hear him. It is high time these alleged patriots would cease their ranting against a man who has but one honest endeavor at heart—to better the conditions of the worker. Gompers is too big a man to be hurt by these petty incidents, as it only shows how hard up the enemies of labor are when they use such tactics to try and discredit him.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Peterborough needs a good garbage system, and the Council should lose no time in dealing with the question. It is important for the health of the city.

Don't miss visiting the poultry show. The promoters are doing much to advertise Peterborough, and deserve your support and encouragement, and then the show is an excellent one.

Where is the chap who predicted that we were going to have no cold weather this winter? Its up to the "old resident" to tell us about the weather they used to get back in the fifties.

A number of brave fire fighters perished in the fire in New York yesterday—died at their post. They are the every day heroes, and the civic authorities of New York will no doubt see that their memories are fittingly honored.

Several more municipalities will vote in about two weeks to determine whether they will throw in their lot with the government's hydro-electric policy. The Commission is having a busy time of it preparing estimates for the supplying of power for the 33 municipalities that recently voted in favor of the scheme.

Influence of Example

Peter McArthur.

There is a lot of good talk going on in this part of the country about orchards. The prospects are that many acres will be planted to apple trees this spring, and a lot of neglected orchards will be given attention. This is largely due to the fact that a few orchards that were cared for gave big returns last fall, and the fact has been noised abroad. It has been talked about in the blacksmith shops and the post offices and because of that we shall have results. It is strange, but things do not seem to have much effect in the country until they have have been talked over man to man. The agricultural reports and bulletins and farm papers have been telling about the great opportunities in orcharding for years, but nobody stirred a leaf. The printed word no longer carries conviction with it. Reading has become a dissipation with many people, and they never think of applying in their own lives the things they read about. But actual example has its old time influence.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucuous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you may have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucuous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTDEAL, Jan. 9.—There was a slight improvement in the demand from European sources for Manitoba spring wheat, and the prices bid in some instances from the United Kingdom were 3d to 4½d, and the continent a mark higher, but the bulk of the bids were the same as yesterday, consequently sales of only a few loads were made. The demand for oats from outside sources is increasing, and a fair amount of business is doing in car lots at firm prices. The trade in barley and buckwheat is quiet. There continues to be a fair enquiry from foreign buyers for flour. The local trade is fair at steady prices. A good business is doing in bran and shorts, and the demand for rolled oats is fair. Cheese is quiet, but the demand for butter is fairly good. Eggs firm. Potatoes have advanced 2½c to 5c per bag, and prices are likely to go higher.

THE GENUINE ALWAYS SUPERIOR TO THE IMITATION

The experienced buyer never permits the shrewd merchant to convince him that an imitation is superior to the genuine advertised article. In refusing a substitute he protests himself and the manufacturers who have expended enormous sums in giving the public information regarding their products.

Advertised articles have stood the test of public approval on their merits and materia a embracing their make-up. The mere fact that they are imitated is competent testimony of their worth.

You are safe in rejecting the article offered as "just as good."

Everybody's attention was abruptly diverted by Genevieve Cooper. Without a word to any one, she rose precipitately, glided noiselessly across the room to the alcove, and disappeared behind the curtains. Blank bewilderment brought me to my feet. What could have impelled her to this extraordinary move at such a critical stage? I started to follow her, but at that very instant the foreman started to announce the verdict.

Silence fell instantly. Maillot sat plucking aimlessly at the margin of a newspaper, the tiny fragments floating unheeded to the floor; while Miss Fluette, strikingly handsome with her transparent complexion, her red-brown hair, and clear hazel eyes, sat imperiously beside him, alone in her assurance as to the outcome.

The young man seemed to have forgotten her presence, so deep was his abstraction. In a little while he pushed the paper on one side, and began feeling idly in a pocket of his vest. His mood was distrait, and in a moment he produced something that glittered; something that made me start and rivet my attention upon him.

The something was a broad gold ring. He toyed with it for a moment, apparently wholly absorbed. Then he slipped it upon the middle finger of his right hand!

The ring seemed to fit perfectly. He turned the hand over and back a number of times, inspecting the ornament from different angles of vision. After which, seemingly satisfied with his critical survey, he removed it from the finger and returned it to his pocket.

I studied the young man in perplexity. Here I had two rings on two different right hands: what was I to conclude from—

But events were moving swiftly, almost to the verge of confusion.

"We, the jury," read the foreman, with the tremulous, irresolute air of a man unaccustomed to forensic exercises, "find that Felix Page came to his death from a blow on the head, administered with some blunt instrument in the hands of—"

He got no further. At that instant a piercing feminine shriek rose in some remote part of the house. Coming as it did at such a juncture, when all present were hanging in suspense upon the words as they fell from the foreman's lips, it produced much the same effect as might have followed the explosion of a bomb in the company's midst. Miss Fluette gasped, and her face went as white as ashes. Maillot and Fluette ware both instantly upon their feet, startled and tense.

The scream was a thrilling, prolonged note of horror. For one electric second my blood seemed to chill in my veins. The cry swelled in a quavering crescendo, lingered with the persistence of terror, then abruptly ceased, like the cutting off of a shrieking steam-jet.

For one awful moment everybody sat or stood as if petrified. If a bomb had exploded it might have passed unnoticed. Then, with a wild, unnerving recollection of Genevieve, I rushed to the door.

"Don't let a soul stir from this room!" I hoarsely shouted to Dr. De Breen.

In the next instant I had plunged into the hall, brushed aside the stupefied policeman there, and was taking the stairs four at a time.

CHAPTER XVI.

The Face in the Alcove

The first thing I noticed as I sped up the stairs was the absence of Stodger from his post in the upper hall, where I had last seen him. Only a few minutes previously I had peeped into the lower hall to satisfy myself that everything was right; at that time he was leaning on the balustrade, engaged in a desultory conversation with Officer Morrison, stationed below. But in a moment I understood.

The bath room door stood wide open, and on the floor lay Miss Cooper—lifeless, was my first horrified thought. Stodger, with the best of intentions and the least possible capacity for carrying them out, knelt helplessly beside her, under the delusion that he was rendering first aid.

Instantly I lifted the still form from the floor and pillowed the sunny brown tresses in the hollow of my arm. How light she was! How soft! How lovely and tender! It was wonderful—a sublime revelation—thus to feel the actual contact of her warm, yielding body.

But, Heaven knows, I didn't stop to analyze my feelings at the time. For a while I was shaken, panic-stricken, utterly unable to dc more than stare numbly down at the sweet pale face, framed in its nimbus of wavy brown hair. I got a grip on myself, though, and Stodger was sent flying to fetch Miss Fluette.

She came quickly enough, wondering and alarmed; and when she beheld me holding her cousin, would have snatched her from me—with what biting words I can only imagine.

But for once in her life, at least, that proud, wilful young lady bowed without a murmur to the tone of authority; for one brief moment she stared at me astounded, and in the next, as comprehension dawned, melted. It is hard to say which of her two attitudes was the more impressive: the flaming anger provoked by the sight of the unconscious girl in my arms, or the tenderly sweet manner with which she presently turned to minister to her. The voice which bade me leave Genevieve to her care was actually gentle. Very reluctantly, I withdraw with Stodger into the hall. Before I closed the door, however, I tersely charged Miss Belle to give me as soon as possible the explanation of the mystery.

The door closed, I turned upon my unoffending associate rather angrily I'm ashamed to say; but Stodger's good-nature was imperturbable. He could tell me absolutely nothing that threw light upon whatever terrifying experience Miss Cooper had undergone.

He had remained at the spot where I had last seen him, he said; a position he had assumed purposely, because from there he had a view of practically the entire second floor. He had opened all the doors so that the slightest sound or movement in any of the chambers could not fail to attract his attention. Immediately behind him by simply turning his head, he could see through the bath room, across the landing at the top of the rear stairs and into the small sewing-room beyond. To right and left—east and west—the corridor extended the width of the house, and an intruder could have gained access to any of the rooms only by passing the watcher.

The sudden piercing scream, Stodger protested, had startled and astonished him as much as it had anybody. He wheeled rounnd to find the bath room door so nearly closed that it was impossible to glimpse what lay beyond until he had again opened it; which he had done promptly, he declared, to behold only Miss Cooper. She was lying on the floor in a dead faint.

Miss Belle called to me, after a minute or two of anxious waiting, and I hastened into the bath room. Genevieve was so far recovered that she was able to look wonderingly up at her cousin. Her face was white and drawn. Her cousin was upon one knee, supporting her upon the other and holding her tightly.

I knelt upon the other side, taking one of the little hands in mine. Almost at once I was gladdened and relieved by seeing the sweet face break into one of its lovely smiles.

"What was it?" I asked, anxiously enough. "Have you been hurt?"

"No, no," replied she, quickly, "not hurt—not in the least; only frightened within an inch of my life." She shuddered, and made as if to rise.

"Let me up, Belle; I'm all right now—just a wee bit trembly from the shock, maybe, but I can stand."

She tried to laugh and to make light of the matter, but the pale lips and quivering muscles belied the attempt. I lifted her to her feet. Her cousin remained close to her, keeping a supporting arm around her waist and watching the white countenance with a passionate solicitude that made me glance curiously at her.

Every action, almost every word, of this vivid, high-spirited girl seemed to be an echo of her impetuous, wayward temper. Even a concern as natural as that excited by her cousin's present plight, was charged with an intensity which made me wonder what the effect might be if her feelings were ever ruthlessly stirred. While her affections were stamped with an immoderate fervor, one might readily enough fancy her resentment, fired by a word perhaps, striking with a blind vehemence that recked not at all of consequences. Her emotions, apparently, knew no happy, tranquil, steadfast medium.

As we stepped into the hall, Genevieve was saying, "I'll go with you to the library. I merely got what I deserved, I suppose, for presuming to think that I might accomplish something single-handed. But—oh, it was dreadful!"

"What was?" bluntly demanded Miss Belle. "What silly notion ever made you jump up and sail out of the room that way?"

Genevieve turned to me with a faint smile.

"The face at the curtains," said she.

"Face!" echoed Miss Belle, manifestly believing that her cousin's mind was not normal. "For goodness' sake, Genevieve, what do you mean?"

But the girl continued to address me.

"You didn't see it?"

We had paused at the head of the stairs, two of us nonplussed and very curious. I shook my head.

"When you left the room," said I, "I was too occupied otherwise to be heeding the curtained alcove. I wondered, though, what sudden impulse moved you—why you should have gone into the alcove at all."

"I knew that you could not leave the room right then," she explained, the color coming quickly back to her cheek; "I remembered our pact, and I thought I saw an opportunity of being really of assistance. It is not to be wondered at that nobody else saw what I did. It all happened so siwftly. By the merest chance I glanced toward the alcove, and at that very instant the curtains parted sufficiently for me to see a face." Again she shuddered.

"Mr. Swift, it was the most hideous face I ever looked upon. Had I been alone in the library doubtless it would have terrified me even then. But instantly it disappeared, and without a thought of being afraid, I hastened to investigate.

"As I got to the conservatory I saw the door at the farther end just closing. It didn't slam—there wasn't a sound—but simply closed quickly before my eyes. Never for a moment did it occur to me that I ought to be cautious; that closing door only made me run the faster to learn who or what had closed it.

"Well, when I opened it, and the same thing repeated in the bedroom beyond—a door closing, apparently from its own volition. The same thing happened with the door opening into the rear hall.

"It was maddening to be just so far behind and unable to gain the fraction of a second which would enable me to find out who was fleeing from me in such haste—maddening to be rewarded with no more than a procession of closing doors.

"The chase continued on up the rear stairs, to the landing between the bath room and the small room at the back; there for the first time I felt a misgiving, and I hesitated. I was out of breath, my heart was pounding until my ears roared; everything else was so deathly still.

INTERVIEWING WHYMPER.

The Reporter's Brilliant Fiction Met With Its Just Reward.

Edward Whymper, who died recently in Switzerland, was the greatest mountain-climber of his generation, and also one of the most choleric of old gentlemen. He was the first man to climb the Matterhorn, and he was the conquerer of peaks in all parts of the world; and in manner he partook of the hardness and inaccessibility of those granite tops.

Five or six years ago Edward Whymper was in Montreal, on his way back to England, after some climbing in the Canadian Rockies. At the hotel he complained of the telephone in his room. He did not wish to be bothered by these new-fangled inventions, and he expressed his opinion of them in terms of picturesque lucidity. He ordered the 'phone to be taken out. This the management refused to do. Then he gave directions that he was not to be called up on it. Of course, the "hello" girl forgot, and rang the bell. Did Mr. Whymper complain? No. Mr. Whymper simply pulled the telephone off the wall, and threw it out in the corridor. Mr. Whymper was not only choleric, but also unusually muscular.

Shortly after this incident a bright young man who was "doing the hotels" for a Montreal evening paper, threw a professional eye on the register.

"Edward Whymper—who is he?"

"Mountain climber," said the clerk, "also a grouch."

"Oh, that's all right—they all like to be interviewed just the same," and the bright young man started for the telephone booth.

"No, you don't," said the clerk, "you'll have to go to his room. He threw the telephone out."

So the bright young man went to his room and knocked.

"What do you want?" roared a gruff voice.

"Reporter," roared the young man back.

The door was grudgingly opened, a leonine head glowered upon the scribe, the door was opened a little wider, and the reporter walked in.

"I'm a representative of the——," he explained in his most taking way, "and I thought you might favor us with a little talk on mountains you have climbed. You know there is a great deal of interest in—."

"Who sent you up here?" growled the veteran climber.

A bright idea occurred to the reporter. The name of George Ham is a sort of "open sesame" with all who travel in Canada. Of course, Mr. Whymper knew Mr. Ham; and, of course, he was a friend of Mr. Ham's. To know Mr. Ham and be anything else it a moral impossibility. Why not use Mr. Ham's name? Good old George would stand for it.

"I was just speaking to Mr. George Ham, of the C.P.R.," he explained glibly, "and he mentioned the fact that you were in town, and said that you would—."

But he got no farther. Mr. Whymper jumped to his feet, and threw the door open wide.

"Get out of my room, sir," he thundered, "get out of my room! You're a liar, sir, a liar! I have been trying to get Mr. Ham all morning, sir, and he is not yet back from a trip to the coast. He won't be in till to-morrow. Get out, sir!"

And the reporter got.

Lawrence Mott, who writes wild West Canadian stories, tells a yarn which will be appreciated by motorists. He says we ought not to condemn auto scorchers without hearing their side of the speed question.

"Hasty condemnation is always a mistake," he says. "Once on a Canadian railway, I got off the train for a five-minute lunch. The man beside me was eating something in a great hurry, and when he finished he snapped at the waiter:

"'Call that a ham sandwich? It's the worst I ever tackled. No taste at all and so small you could hardly see it.'

"'You've et yer ticket,' said the waiter. 'This here's yer ham sandwich.'"

CASH REALIZATION SALE

Owing to the backward season and the mild weather, the first of the year finds us with a very large amount of our Winter Goods that usually sell in November & December, still on hand. If these are carried over it means a serious loss to us, and we find that a clearance of at least

$5,000 WORTH IN JANUARY IS ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY

That means that we must entirely lose sight of regular selling prices and let the goods go at just about whatever we can get for them. When necessity tells us to let go, we have sense enough to do so, and when the people find that the PRICE SLASHER AT ADAMS' was in earnest, we believe their intelligence will lead them to avail themselves of this opportunity to make the dollars do double duty.

Sale Starts Wednesday, January 10th, 1912

And ends Saturday, February 3rd. This is a sensational event for shrewd, careful buyers.

ROMAN CATHOLIC PRIEST CONVERTED TO PROTESTANTISM

General Mission in Park St. Baptist Church Commences Sunday.

The public are reminded of the special visit to the city of Rev. Patrick Morgan, formerly a monk in the Capuchiun Order of the Roman Catholic Church. Mr. Morgan was a priest in Rome; he is now a Protestant.

The months of January and February are the months in which offerings are taken in the Peterborough Association for the work of evangelization among the French Roman Catholics of Quebec, which the Baptists have carried on now for seventy-five years.

It is hoped Mr. Morgan's coming will stir up the church of Christ to a deeper sense of her duty in this regard. The subjects which will be discussed by Mr. Morgan, who knows whereof he speaks, are as follows:

Sunday evening in Park street Baptist church, 7 p.m. Subject, "What is Protestantism?" Male choir will sing.

Monday, January 15, at 8 p.m., in Park street church. Subject, "How, Rome Treats the Bible."

Tuesday, January 16.—Subject, "The Auricular Confession, or shall we Confess."

Wednesday, January 17th—"Why I left the Church of Rome."

The Rev. Patrick Morgan is also the editor of a periodical known as the "Liberator," published in Ottawa, and all who have read it can see the keen and clear intelligence of its noble editor.

All will be made welcome at the meetings, while anyone will be at liberty to ask Mr. Morgan why he left the church of his fathers for the Protestant faith.

It is sincerely hoped that all will get a clearer understanding of the religious differences that exist between the religion of Rome and Protestantism, and that good will result therefrom to all who attend.

The subjects are:

Sunday Jan. 14th, in Park street Baptist church, 11 a.m. Subject, "Our attitude towards the Roman Catholics."

Sunday afternoon in Sons of England Hall at 3.30 p.m. Subject, "Why Romanism Ruins a Country."

This will be a special meeting for men only, to which all men are invited. Mr. Morgan will at this meeting outline four things:

1. The sacerdotal system of Rome.
2. The intellectual bondage of Rome.
3. The effect of Rome's system of truth
4. The position claimed by, and conceded to the Pope.

PETERBORO AMATEUR OPERATIC (EARL GREY COMPETITION) COMPANY MAY ENTER FIELD AGAIN

Notices for the Earl Grey Musical and Dramatic Competition, to be held in Ottawa next spring, have been sent through the whole Dominion, and no doubt many companies are preparing for what promises to be a most strenuous contest for the shields. While nothing definite has been decided, the Peterborough Amateur Operaatic Company may again enter the field, for now operatic works are judged and marked both for singing and acting a better condition, largely brought about by the "Geisha" entry two years ago. Mr. Devey has nothing for publication as to detail, but it may be taken for granted that the company from Peterborough will be a thoroughly traained and equipped one, with the fixed intention of bringing the musical trophy to Peterborough. Offers of financial assistance have been made already, and a final decision as to the work will be made shortly.

The reason for the ceremony being held here is owing to no Archbishop having been appointed in Toronto since the death of the late famented Archbishop of Toronto. Bishop O'Connor will officiate, therefore, at the ceremony, which is of a very impressive and solemn character.

IMPROVEMENTS FOR THE CHIMES

Wooden Louvres Have Been Replaced by Metal Ones

Considerable improvements have been affected about St. John's tower, which have improved the people's chimes. The old wooden louvres in the chimney chambers have been replaced by a set of metal louvres by Adam Hall, and these protect the bells and ropes from the weather, and allow of better results in the music. They have not the deadening effect of the old louvres. Music racks have also been erected in the chimney chambers and altogether the officials of St. John's have gone to considerable expense in their efforts to improve the chimes.

Latest reports received from Prince Rupert the Pacific Coast termination of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, shows that during the month of November 1911, there were 79 vessels reported inward and 59 departures, which is considered an exceptional record for that time of the year.

Catarrh of the Lungs Threatened Her Life.

"I had several hemorrhages of the lungs. The doctors did not help me much and would never have cured me.

"I saw a testimonial in a Peruna almanac of a case similar to mine, and I commenced using it.

"I was not able to wait on myself when I began using it. I gained very slowly at first, but I could see that it was helping me.

"After I had taken it a while I commenced to raise up a stringy, sticky substance from my lungs. This grew less and less in quantity as I continued the treatment.

JUDGMENT IS RESERVED IN APPEAL CASE

Appellant Was Fined $25 for Selling Liquor to Minor

Judgment was reserved in the liquor case appeal, which was heard before Judge Huycke this morning. The cause of the appeal, it will be remembered, evolved out of Magistrate Dumble's decision when a bartender of a local hotel was assessed $25 by his Worship for selling liquor to a minor; in this case a young man named Lavery whose age was proven in court to be only nineteen.

The case this morning, held in the judge's chamber, occupied about two hours, during which period a large number of witnesses for both the prosecution and the defence, gave evidence.

The Crown had a large number of civic officials on hand, mostly for the the purpose of proving that to their experienced eyes the boy to whom the liquor was sold was under the age of twenty-one. Mr. Dawson Kennedy, Finch W. Miller, Charles McClelland and a couple of the police staff, all judged the boy to be under age, whilst Mr. Snelgrove, and the bartender of the Laroque Hotel, emphatically stated that the boy would easily pass for twenty-one, in their estimation.

The bartender at Laroque's stated that when a body of men crowded up to the bar of an hotel, it was very difficult by the faces of some, to distinguish who are of age and who are not. Mr. Snelgrove stated that he encountered the same difficulty in his tobacco, cigarette and pool business.

Several trials at previous cases upon which considerable technicality hinged, were quoted by both the Crown and the defence in their arguments.

The date of the judge's decision is indefinite. Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for the defence.

GOOD CONCERT IN ST. JOHN'S HALL

Sunday School Scholars Had Annual New Year's Gathering

St. John's Sunday school annual New Year's gathering was held last night, a large number of scholars attending, notwithstanding the inclement weather. The superintendent, Mr. R. J. Devey, presided, supported by the Rev. Canon Davidson, Mr. W. F. Johnston, church warden, and Mr. H. Buxton, chairman of the St. John's church association. Special decorative effects were supplied by Mr. E Langley, the school presenting a pretty appearance. A splendid program was provided mainly by the scholars, after which refreshments were served, ably catered for by Coleman Bros. Mr. Cole, in his ventriloquial sketches was a great success, thoroughly delighting the audience.

Short addresses of encouragement to the scholars, and eulogizing the work of the officers and teachers, were given and a happy evening concluded at 9.30 with the National Anthem, and benediction.

The following was the program—

Carol—"See amid the winter snow," choir boys.

Action Duet—"Mowing the Barley," Daisy and Frank Sharman.

Ventriloquial Sketch—Mr. Cole.

Cornet and Clarinette Duet—"The last rose of Summer," Masters Gliddon.

Violin Solo—"Tannhauser," Mr. F. Roberts.

The pianoforte to the various items were tastefully played by Miss Hazel Dean, Master Harold Devey, and Mr. R. J. Devey.

FISK O'HARA'S BIG RECEPTION

Full House et the Grand Witnessed a Clever Performance

All the flattering press notices which preceded the appearance of Fiske O'Hara at the Grand last evening were amply proved to be of worth and absolutely true. The capacity audience which witnessed and warmly applauded the beautiful production, filled nearly every seat in the house. No greater tribute can be paid to the performance than to state that it is one which in every phase and detail can be heartily recommended. In "Love's Young Dream," Fiske O'Hara is unmistakably revealed as one filling his proper sphere in stage life, and so adaptable is he to the action and setting of the piece, that without even the accomplishment of being in possession of such a wonderfully sympathetic tenor voice, his effectiveness as leading man would be in no way lessened. But the marvellous control and excellent cultivation which his voice denotes is by long odds responsible for much of his popularity before the footlights. In addition to these mentioned vocal attributes he is a master of the falsetto tone, which in his higher register he uses to acceptable and decided advantage. The big audience simply could not hear enough of his beautiful rendering of quaint and familiar Irish melodies, and the lingering sweetness of such world-wide favorites as "My Own Irish Girl," "Come Back to Erin" and "Nora McNamara," drew repeated and spontaneous applause. Mr. O'Hara's voice is one of a particularly light and flexible quality and yet deeply sympathetic.

The story of "Love's Young Dream" is no doubt familiar, and every character in the play last night was perfectly and realistically portrayed in both action and costume. The scenic effects were noticeably rich and accurate.

Comedy in side splitting quantities was supplied in watching the continuous quarrelling of the two typical Irish gentlemen for the hand of the widow, who finally "handed them both the mitten" was sufficiently ludicious to put everybody into convulsions.

Marie Quinn in the role of Nora McNamara, also won her way into the hearts of the audience by her simple and charming acting.

The production is undoubtedly the best that has been played to local theatre-goers here this season.

A woman wants protection, but favors free speech.

CITY MERCHANTS AND HOME MARKET

During the last two weeks Peterborough merchants have been receiving circulars from a Toronto printing house, soliciting orders for printed matter, business forms, etc., and offering, what are said to be low prices. In nearly all cases when the goods are delivered it is found that while the price may be low, the quality is low also. But that is a matter between seller and buyer, and if both are satisfied with such a deal it is their own business.

The point which the Peterborough printer wishes to make, is that the local printers, in season and out of season, urged people to buy at home. Merchants come to the papers and ask that the paper use its columns to help retain in the city the trade that should remain. Then, when the Toronto agent comes along this is all forgotten and orders sent out on the ground that the price is lower than the Peterborough printer, will consent to do the work for.

There are, it may be said in fairness, many Peterborough merchants who do buy their printing at home, and who say they are well and reasonably served. Even some manufacturers, who are the loudest in insisting that protection is the thing for the manufacturer, send out of the city for printed matter that the local men can equally well supply. It does not do for the manufacturer to plead that he needs lithographed bill heads or letterheads, and that there is no local lithographic establishment. Either of the local offices will supply lithographed matter, if desired, just as they supply engraved or embossed work.

Merchants, manufacturers and others who expect the papers to stand for the home market, must remember that it is only reasonable and fair that they respect the condition and support the printer, who in turn helps to hold the home market for the home merchant. If the merchant can give equal value to that which is given in the city—not claimed to be given—well and good. If not, then he had better revise his methods. The printer has done the revising long ago, and is ready to give better value than the city advertiser will produce.

COUNCIL AND THE GARBAGE SYSTEM

To the Editor o the Review.

Sir,—I have read in your paper the report of the new council for 1912, and I want to express my appreciation of the stand taken by Ald. Johnston. Owing to his past action toward the fire brigade, I for one was not in favor of his return to the Council Board. Therefore, I wish to express my commendation of the spirit he manifested in the meeting. It is more manly, as well as Christian, to repent of our wrongs, and forgive the wrongs of others, than to continue a vindictive spirit. I am speaking, by the way, of encouragement to Ald. Johnston and others to continue the course of right-doing, for nothing else will stand the test, of even public sentiment. It is also gratifying to note that Ald. Anderson, who would not be made a tool of last year, is still determined in following his own sense of justice and right. Altogether it looks as though we have a Council now that is going to do business for the public. If I was qualified to make a suggestion to this wise body, it would be to see to it that we have in the near future something in the form of a garbage system.

This, I think, we are entitled to as tax payers; yearly our taxes are going up, and still no accommodations, such as they have in other cities.

They might couple with the garbage the cleaning of chimneys, which would be a great convenience, and, I believe, a preventive of fires. A few months ago I took the risk of getting to the top of my chimneys to ascertain why our stove had so little draft. I found part way down the chimney it was almost blocked with dirt that had been there for years. Whether this would be injurious to the public health or not, I am not prepared to say, not being a searcher after microbes and disease germs, I didn't see any. However, I believe a garbage system will add much to the sanitation of the city. I believe some of the time and money spent in water and milk tests might be saved by removing the garbage box from the kitchen door, within a few feet, or yards of the milk jug. This box has been there for days waiting for the swill gatherer, who comes just when it suits himself. Here is the odor within a few feet of where the milk man is transferring milk to the house, then the poor milk man, or the innocent cow is blamed for the so-called microbes, or bad milk.

I do not wish to dictate to our Council, but hope that a hint to the wise will be sufficient.

Thanking you for space.

Sincerely yours,
R. J. TODD.

LINDSAY JUNIORS MOWED DOWN BY PETERBORO COLTS WHO SHOWED IMPROVEMENT

Local Seven Defeated a Good Team With Margin of Five Goals—Lindsay Drew First Blood and Petes Followed With Eight Tallies.

While the real test has yet to be met with in the first game away from home, the fans have got to hand to the juniors for the showing they have made against Cobourg and Lindsay.

Last night it was 10-5, with captain Hall's brigade on the long end of the figures both at the half and finish. At one time and well into the second period the locals were ahead with a tally of 8-1 and had the visitors tied up in bunches.

FOUR IN A ROW

Then the Mudville boys, awakened and with some good line work and individual stunts beat Dwyer for four straights. But they didn't keep it up, as the locals recovered and came back with two more.

CAPTAIN CALLAGHAN OFF

The Lindsay team can travel some but not fast enough. The team was changed somewhat on account of Callaghan, the regular centre and captain of the seven, being sidetracked by the O.H.A., who are investigating as to his qualifications. The club claims that Callaghan left Lindsay on August 1, for Oshawa, where he worked for a few days and then returned to Lindsay. He took an affidavit to the effect that he did not go to Oshawa to play hockey and the O.H.A. is to decide on the matter Saturday night.

They say Callaghan and Dennison who worked at centre last night, are a nifty pair of forwards and as the captain is generally above the average, it may be said that the midgets were somewhat weakened, while on the other hand the locals were strengthened by the presence of Jerry Coughlin. That being so, the Brock street rink youngsters want to get down to more hard practice if the return game in Lindsay next Tuesday night is to be annexed.

Dennison was the prominent player for the invaders and figured largely in the scoring of his team. McIntyre at rover, worked hard, but couldn't stay with the crowd. McConnel at cover played a hard and effective game; he rushed nicely but was generally blocked by the home defence and Scott at left was conspicuous in spasms.

FORWARD LINE FAST

Jerry Coughlin helped the line a whole lot last night with his aggressive work. He gave a beautiful exhibition of stickhandling and rushing but Clancy, Hall or Weir were not sticking around with weights on their feet. This quartet of players figured in some work that bordered on championship form, the combination at times being gilt edged. They played the puck to the goal or shot from the side, showing much superiority over their opponents. There was of course some wild shooting and passing, which is partly excusable, being, as they are, a new line. The showing after the performance against Cobourg was a big improvement, not altogether because Coughlin was playing as Clancy, Weir and Hall, or the defence at times worked in machine like order. The centre ice was patrolled to better advantage and altogether improvement was general.

PAIR OF COMERS

To Milloy and Kennealley, credit must be given for assisting in stopping a number of what looked like certain counters. Each broke up three men combinations and individual attempts and figured in some good rushing. But it is evident that this pair, who give every evidence as comers, need coaching as to a system of defence play and return of the rubber and particularly in the latter department. With these defects remedied, Peterboro has a defence that can be sent out against any other junior forward line, and when their juvenile days are over, can take their place as material for the senior team and draw the glad hand.

Dwyer in goal, handled his job to a nicety and he too showed an improvement over his work in the first game. He got many of the big ones and received the fans' approval when he frequently blocked shots right in on him.

PENALTIES

Lindsay—Dennison, Scott.

Peterboro—Coughlin, Kennealley, 2.

After referee Sproule sent the teams away at 9.45, it looked as though a real struggle was ahead of them. Both appeared to be on equal terms with Dennison at centre and McConnel at cover for the visitors looking dangerous. Hall scored but the crowd groaned; the play was offside. Lindsay returned and on a lone jaunt Clancy shot wide. The play went down to Dwyer again and in 2 1-2 minutes, the white flag shot up behind him, McConnel counting alone.

Another hard shot was sent at him but it was turned aside. Hall took possession and sent in a long shot too high. Weir went through the Lindsay team but his aim too was bad, and McYntyre rushed alone, but failed with an open field. His second contribution was blocked. Both goals had some close shaves, Weir and Dennison getting in some nice work. After Hall had invaded in vain, he secured again, passed to Coughlin and the score was tied. Time 5 mins. Jerry rushed the boards after the face off and Henley blocked. Seconds later Clancy missed a pass from him and Lindsay attacked, Dennison and McIntyre being prominent. A shot from a Clancy-Hall combination was handled and Dennison tried it alone, Dwyer blocking. He was chased for loafing and Coughlin joined him for using his hands on the rubber during the course of a sprawl. Dennison returned to the ice and Kennealley drew time for slashing. Milloy broke up a three man play but Lindsay pressed. In five mins., Weir went in and connected, following Clancy's shot from the boards.

Antoher counter looked likely when Hall and Kennealley got away but the last pass to Hall found him too close to the nets to shoot accurately. Coughlin made it 3-1 in 4 mins. by securing at his goal and eluding the whole Lindsay team.

Peterboro was having the better of the play and held the advantage till the half was called.

SECOND HALF

Would it be one or a dozen was the problem when the teams reappeared? The odds were away in favor of the locals but the result wasn't definite. Clancy opened opened up with a shot from his side that made Henley duck in fright. It was too high but Hall took a pass from Weir in half a minute and it was Peterboro 4, Lindsay 1.

Weir went through but there was nothing doing. Kennealley got McConnel and was accorded a rest. McConnel and Dennison combined but ran into an offside. The speedy centre of the visitors tried again and Dwyer made one of his prettiest stops of the night. Kennealley returned. Weir followed up a three man com. and broke it up. Peterboro then held Lindsay at their own nets, not one of the visitors being able to get away. In 5 mins., Clancy pulled the string and the tally was 5-1. Lindsay was fading while Coughlin and the remainder of the line were going stronger than ever. Henley had several close calls. Dennison got away alone but coudn't beat Dwyer. Coughlin was hurt about the head, but not seriously. In 5 mins. Clancy added another to his collection and in 2 mins. more Hall registered again, making the tally 7-1. Clancy was sentenced for slashing and Scott was chased for an infraction. Coughlin took the eighth on a beautiful rush and shot that Henley never saw at all. Then the Petes stopped for a while. Lindsay had a re-action strike them. Dwyer stopped a shot with Dennison right in on him and he continued busy. Finally Scott broke away and secured the second goal for his team, and McIntyre on a pass from McMahon made it one better. In 30 secs., the whole Lindsay line worked together Dennison taking the shot and counting. He repeated in the same time from a scramble and the score stood, Peterboro, 8, Lindsay 5. But they had shot their bolt, for right form the faceoff Hall bored in, shot and Coughlin was there to do the finishing act. Hall took the last goal after Weir and Coughlin worked the puck to the Lindsay defence.

Land Vacant Sixty Years.

For the last sixty years a piece of land situated in the best residential section of St. Thomas, Ont., has been lying without building or tenants owing to the fact that a clear title could not be secured. The ownership of this property was decided out of court. The original owner, Rev. John McIntyre, emigrated to Australia some sixty years ago, having raised the money by placing a mortgage to his brother, the late Archibald McIntyre of St. Thomas, who fenced the property and paid the taxes until his death, 15 years ago. Since that time the taxes have been paid by his heirs.

No communications had been received from the descendants of Rev. J. McIntyre in Australia for 40 years. As the heirs of the late Archibald McIntyre wished to get a title, they applied to the commissioners at Ottawa three years ago for a deed as the mortgage had been destroyed by fire. On the day the deed arrived a claim was put in to get possession of the property, which had just been sold for $8,000, which will be equally divided.

A Statesman's Son.

Capt. Walter Long, A.D.C. to His Royal Highness the Governor-General, is thirty-two years old, and has had a brilliant career in the army. He served throughout the South African war, was frequently mentioned in despatches, and received the D.S.O. Capt. Long is the eldest son of the Rt. Hon. Walter Hume Long, who has held many high Cabinet offices, including that of Cheif Secretary for Ireland, and who was one of the three in the running, the other day, for Mr. Balfour's late position. Like his distinguished father—who is the idol of the squires and yeomen of England—Capt. Long excels in field sports of all kinds. He is a good polo and cricket player, an excellent shot, and a keen cross-country rider. For three years he discharged the arduous duties of adjutant of that famous regiment, the Scots Greys—Toronto Star Weekly.

Gave Him New Eye.

Paris, Jan. 10.—An important operation in eye surgery and the grafting of a human cornea, has been successfully performed by the oculist, Magitot. He showed before the Academy of Sciences yesterday a patient who had become blind by the splashing of quicklime in his eyes. A thick film formed over the cornea. Dr. Magitot cut a small window in the opaque mass and grated a portion of the cornea from the living subject. Adherence of the tissue was complete in a week. The patient's vision is about one-tenth normal—sufficient to get about safely alone.

Best Cure for Skin Sores IS ZAM-BUK.

An illustration of the way in which Zam-Buk cures even the most serious and chronic cases of ulcers, eruptions and sores is provided by Mr. R. H. Barker, of Glencairn, Ont. He says:

"My face became covered with a kind of rash, which itched and irritated. This rash then turned to sores, which discharged freely and began to spread. I first tried one thing and then another, but nothing seemed to do me any good, and the eruption got worse and worse, until my face was just covered with running sores.

"Apart from the pain (which was very bad), my face was such a terrible sight that I was not fit to go out. This was my state when some one advised me to try Zam-Buk. I got a supply, and marvellous as it may sound, within little under a month every one on my face was healed. I was so amazed that I have told the facts to several persons, and I have no objection to your stating my experience for the benefit of other sufferers."

Zam-Buk is purely herbal in composition, and is the ideal balm for babies and young children, for whose tender skin coarse ointments are so dangerous. Zam-Buk is a sure cure for cold sores, chapped hands, frost bite, blood-poison, varicose sores, piles, scalp sores, ringworm, inflamed patches, babies' eruptions and chapped places, cuts, burns, bruises and skin injuries generally. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. Refuse harmful substitutes.

DO YOU USE PILLS?

If In Doubt About the Right Pills to Use Read the Following Letter Carefully:

"I am one of those persons whose system requires aid," writes Mr. Young Gledhill, from Picton, "but it is so easily affected by reason of the great sensitiveness of the bowels that ordinary drastic pills inflict great injury to the delicate coating, and excite such persistent activity as to be with difficulty checked.

"I wish in the highest terms to express the great value of Dr. Hamilton's Pills in cases like mine, and I am sure also for elderly people and the very weak there is no pill like them.

"Speaking of my own experience with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, I can say they have proved the most stimulating pills for the liver I have found. I have proved their tonic action upon digestion, and the same results have been secured by friends upon whom I have urged their use. The manufacturers are to be congratulated upon possessing so valuable a prescription, and the public should know that so valuable a remedy has been placed at their command."

YOUNG GIRL'S FURS.

The simple fur necklet, or short stole, with a muff of moderate size, is considered correct for a young girl. Near seal, mink, otter and chinchilla are used for children's sets. The illustration shows a muff finished with three large scallops; also a neck scarf of beaver. These are worn with a cinnamon brown coat in one of the new mixtures. The coat is finished off with big buttons of leather and gilt. The loose, comfortable lines of the coat make it particularly suitable to wear over a fluffy frock or to be donned by the schoolgirl, who slips her wrap on and off in a hurry. This charming hat, that comes down over the head, is of velvet garnished with brown satin ribbons matching the color of the coat.

WAY OF THE HOUNDED DEER

It Doesn't Always go Down Stream Says an Old Hunter

(New York Sun)

'It doesn't make any difference how,' said a hunter of long experience in the woods in an after supper talk at an Adirondack campfire, inasmuch as the deer hound is no longer permitted to be a part of the hunt; but it is a fact that one long cherished belief of deer hunters is simply a backwards fable. That belief is that a deer pursued by hounds when it takes to a stream will invariably go down with the current instead of upstream, its instinct teaching it that if it goes up its scent will pass down with the water and the dogs will be enabled to follow it just as they did on dry land. I, long ago satisfied myself that water doesn't carry the scent of a deer with it, but that on the contrary it destroys it. Many times in studying this matter have I seen deer running from the hounds come to the water's edge. Invariably they would stop on the margin of the stream and glance eagerly up, down and ahead. Quickly deciding, they would go up, down or across the stream just as in their judgment seemed best.

If the water is deep enough for the deer to swim it suits the fleeing animal best. If it is not the deer trots or lopes along through it. It does not bound as on land, for it must drink, and must drink as it goes. In the hounding days, the hunter who believed that the deer always went downstream and acted in accordance with that belief might recover the trail, and he migh tnot, while the hunter who knew better than to take stock in that belief would not be a great while in getting his dogs on the scent again.

Of course I am speaking of deer that took to some mountain stream and not those that found a pond or lake more convenient, it being the nature of the deer to seek water if possible when the dogs are on their track. In none of the streams where deer sought to throw dogs off the scent could a person go many rods, up or down, without coming to some obstruction in thhe course of which the animal would have to get over.

The hunter who knew would in the first place satisfy himself that the deer hadn't gone straight across the water and would then go in one direction along the stream until he came to the first log or rock or other channel obstruction. If the deer had gone that way the obstruction in its path would be wet on top from the water that dropped from the deer as it climbed over it. If it was dry the hunter would know instantly that the quarry had not passed in that direction, and the discovery of the spot where the deer had left the stream would be only a matter of time.

But the deer doesn't have to get to water any more to elude the hounds, and it can make no difference now to old time believers in that fable how many a score of deer they have lost through that belief. Maybe there woudn't have been so many deer in the woods to-day if more of the hunters contemporary with deer hounding had known better.

IS BEYOND THE GREAT DIVIDE

The blast of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway contractors is echoing against the rocky walls of Tete Jaune Cache to make way for civilization and the shrill echoes of the locomotive whistle later on.

Going westward from Edmonton along the Grand Trunk Pacific route the traveller sees the trail of the second comer already strongly marked, and Tete Jaune Cache is the objective point at present for the end of steel by the spring of 1912. At present the Grand Trunk Pacific steel is beyond the Great divide, and over the summit of the Yellowhead Pass.

Historically, Tete Jaune is a centre of interest in Western Canada, as this point was the site of one of the Hudson Bay posts one hundred years ago, when the route from the Pine, the Peace and the Fraser Rivers brought the furs and merchandise through this gateway. At the present time there is only a band of Shuswap Indians camped on the south side of the Fraser, and as soon as the steel reaches this locality and civilization with its kodaks and pocket books will effect the establishment of a permanent order of things.

Fort Frontenac Was Forerunner of Present City.

The first permanent settlement made by white men on what is now the site of the city of Kington, was military in purpose. It was expected by its founders that a post standing on the shores of Lake Ontario, at the mouth of the Cataraqui River, would attract the fur trade of the Lake region, but that was a consideration secondary to the service such a post would perform in holding in check the Iroquois, whose cantonments were across the lake in what is now the western part of the State of New York. If they could be held in check, New France would be relieved of the greatest scourge that had plagued her since the flag of the Bourbons had been planted on Cape Diamond at Quebec.

It was, therefore, to the military advantages of the place that Kingston owed its beginning, and from that day to this Kingston never wholly lost its military character. During the last hundred years of the old regime the French maintained there a garrisoned post, which stood a siege before it hauled down its flag to the British in the Seven Years' War. The British increased its strength, and during their last war on this continent it was a military post and the naval base for Lake Ontario. After the close of the war Great Britain spent hundreds of thousands of pounds on the fortifications at Kingston—works which for size and solidity were equalled only by those at Quebec. To-day they are obsolete, abandoned, and ruinous, but still Kingston has not wholly lost its military character. It is the seat of our principal institution of military education—the Royal Military College—and the headquarters of part of our permanent militia — the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery. A soldier founded the place for the use of soldiers, and soldiers have been there ever since.

The soldier who founded that first post on part of the site of the present city of Kingston, was Louis de Buade, Count de Frontenac, the grim old war-governor of New France, and one of the strongest characters in the early history of this country.

From the seat of his government at Quebec, Frontenac, in the spring of 1673, issued an order requiring the inhabitants of Quebec, Montreal, Three Rivers and other settlements to furnish him, as soon as the crops had been put in, with a certain number of armed men, and the requisite number of canoes. He also invited officers settled in the colony to join the expedition. In this way he collected the force with which he set out upon an invasion of the western wilderness, which, at that time, came down to the palisades of Montreal, then little more than a fort and trading post on the edge of the forest, which stretched away to the Great Lakes and the treeless prairies beyond. While the men, the canoes, and the supplies were being collected, Frontenac sent LaSalle, the great explorer, to Onondaga, the capital of the Iroquois confederacy, to invite the tribes to send delegates to a great council. A spot on the shores of the Bay of Quinte was first selected as the meeting place, but this was changed to the mouth of the Cataraqui River, where Kingston now stands.

Accompanied by his guard, Frontenac set out from Quebec on June 3. He stopped at Three Rivers, and a few days later arrived at Montreal, which he then saw for the first time. It consisted of a rude fort, a long row of small dwellings along the banks of the river, and towering over all there were the massive seminary and the spire of the church. The city of that time stood on ground now occupied by the wholesale quarter of the present commercial metropolis.

Profits In Trees.

The owner of a suburban or country home with an estate attached should not jump to the conclusion that a bit of "bush" will be unprofitable. In the first place it will help to retain the moisture and thus affect surrounded land which is cultivated. In the second place, it adds much to the beauty of an estate, and may be a joy forever to the inhabitants of said estate.

Writing in The Canadian Farm, R. H. McMillan, of the Dominion Forestry service describes a small white pine plantation, thirty-five years old, which produced 88 cords of wood per acre. This, he claims, represents an annual return of $10 per acre for each year of the life of the plantation.

He tells that in a certain 34 years old larch plantation there are 710 trees to the acre. The thriftiest trees average nearly 8 1-2 inches in diameter, breast high, and 55 feet in height. At 34 years this plantation yielded 620 posts and three cords of firewood per acre. The net value of these products, after deducting with interest at three per cent. the cost of establishing the plantation, was $330.82 per acre. This was at three per cent. an annual profit per acre of $5.73 during the whole life of the plantation. The cost of establishing this plantation was $18 per acre. Planting larch will at least be as profitable as growing ordinary farm crops. Larch is adapted to well drained soils, but will fail where drainage is poor. It should be closely spaced, and should never be planted with trees which will grow faster and overtop it. Trees which might profitably be mixed with larch are spruce and sugar maple.

Odd Coincidence, This.

Sir James Grant, the veteran physician of Ottawa, at the Health Congress recently, congratulated Miss Ellen Babbitt of New York, on a paper she had read on the care of children, and incidentally mentioned a case when, in 1864, he had been on a train on the way to Washington, and had heard a baby coughing croup and about to choke. He had a bottle of medicine in his grip, and he hurried the porter to the mother, to tell her of the danger. Dr. Grant administered the medicine and saved the baby.

When he referred to the incident, Miss Babbitt said: "Why, that must have been my sister. I have often heard mother tell of that terrible night train journey, and how my sister was saved. But she never knew who the physician was." Her sister is still in the land of the living.

CANON ELLEGOOD.

Aged Clergyman Was Beloved by All Who Knew Him.

A beloved and venerable clergyman was lost to Montreal a short time ago, in the person of Canon Ellegood. He was eighty-seven years of age, having been born at Dumfries, New Brunswick, of U. E. Loyalist stock, on March 16th, 1825. For sixty-three years he was continuously in the Anglican ministry, and for forty-seven of them was rector of the Church of St. James the Apostle, in Montreal. It was his wish for some years that he should pass away on the Sabbath day—a wish that was gratified.

Canon Ellegood was a man of the simplest tastes. Early this year when asked by an interviewer to what he attributed his longevity, he replied:

"Now, the secret of a long and happy life is this—Mind what you put in the stomach. Most of our troubles begin there. Live simply. We eat too much. Eat little. Don't eat animal food. Of course, you'll say I'm a crank about this. All right. This is a free country. Don't envy your neighbor. Be pleased with his prosperity. Be happy in your own way." Thank God for His blessings. Remember that God wants us to be happy. Don't worry about the morrow."

When queried once as to the character of the teaching he had made most prominent in his ministerial life, the Canon replied:

"That is a question difficult to answer, but as it so presents itself to my mind at the moment, I would answer: The loving Fatherhood of God, the brotherhood of man, and that all who are dedicated in the thrice holy name of the blessed Trinity in baptism are children of God and to be trained as such in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. Erring, wayward children they may be, but still His children. Like the son in the parable of the prodigal; although he had wandered far away and spent his substance in riotous living, he was still the son of his father. Nothing would change or alter that relationship. So, no sin, however awful, can separate us from the love of God. We are always His children once we are baptized, although at times sinful and disobedient. Further, I desire to emphasize most strongly that Christianity furnishes the law for the whole life. It must dominate our pleasures, our politics, our business, and the teachings of Jesus, the Christ, should rule in counting room and capital, studio and factory, home and school. These have been in some respects the prevailing thoughts of my preaching."

Dr. D. Farncomb, Newcastle, was elected president of the South Ontario and West Durham Medical Association.

RETURN OF KINEMACOLOR MOVING PICTURES THIS WEEK

Views Showing the Coronation and Boy Scouts – Don't Fail to See Them

Those who saw the Kinemacolor pictures when they were here last week will learn with pleasure that they are to be shown in the Opera House on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week again. No one should fail to see them, for, besides being very instructive they are most interesting. Unless one actually saw the Coronation festivities you could not get an adequate idea of the gorgeousness and splendure of the pageant. The pictures showing the affair in colors, give one the best possible idea of what a stupendous sight it was, and what an amount of detail the arrangements for it must have involved.

This week, a film that will be of special interest to the younger crowd will be the picture of the Boy Scouts, thirty thousand of whom were in attendance at the Coronation. This announcement should draw a crowd of the young people to all matinees will be given every day.

The pictures of the motor boat race alone are worth the admission fee for they are indeed a triumph of moving picture art.

Do not fail to see them. Send or bring the children, it will interest them and do them good. Don't forget that there is two performances a day, afternoon and evening at the Grand Opera House, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

MAIN ESTIMATES BROUGHT DOWN

Hon. Mr. White Tables Proposed Expenditures for 1912.

Public Works Outlay Shows a Marked Cut of Four Millions.

Ottawa, Jan. 11.—The first main estimates of the new Government were laid on the table of the House yesterday afternoon by Hon. W. T. White, Minister of Finance. They show a total appropriation of $149,789,677, as against $156,079,538 for the year 1911-12. As compared with the total estimates presented to Parliament by the Laurier Government last year, this shows a decrease of $6,289,861, but as compared with the main estimates brought down by Mr. Fielding, there is an increase of $10,926,477.

Mr. Fielding's main estimates totaled $138,863,200, to which were subsequently added three supplementaries aggregating $17,250,980. Until the supplementaries of the present are brought down later in the session it is impossible to make a definite comparison as between the expenditure for the current year and the year which will commence on April 1 next.

The total for 1912-13, as brought down yesterday, is made up of $104,919,314 on consolidated account and $44,870,372 on capital account. As against $109,616,917 and $46,462,621 respectively in 1911-12, showing decreases of $4,697,612 on consolidated revenue account and $1,592,248 on capital account.

The largest decrease occurs in the Public Works estimates, amounting to $4,038,650, the total for the year being $14,530,380. Under the heading of arts, agriculture and statistics, there is a decrease of $910,000 accounted for by the absence of the appropriation for the census. The total for this year amounts to $1,945,500 as against $2,855,500.

Another large decrease is shown in the naval service column amounting to $885,000. The appropriation amounts to $3,091,500 as compared with $3,976,500. The principal decrease in the naval service is one of $1,340,000 in the item including the purchase and maintenance of ships, upkeep of dock yards and maintenance of training schools, the drop being from $3,000,000 to $1,660,000. Most of the other items in this service show increases in part accounted for by the proposed purchase of two new fisheries protection vessels for the Pacific, and a new survey ship for the Atlantic.

Capital expenditure shows appropriations of $2,000,000 for the Hudson Bay Railway, $25,000,000 for the National Transcontinental, $3,000,000 for the Quebec bridge. There are no large appropriations for either the Georgian Bay or Welland Canals, though in connection with the latter there is a vote of $50,000 for surveys.

Trent Canal appropriation is $1,900,000 as against $2,250,000. The promised car ferry across the strait of Northumberland and the standardization of gauge of the P. E. I. Railway are provided for in an appropriation of $400,000.

Militia appropriations include an increase of $405,000 under the heading of drill, and another $25,000 under the heading of cadet corps.

Provision is made in the estimates of the Department of Agriculture for additional branch experimental stations, to cost $200,000, an increase of $100,000. There is also a new vote of $100,000 toward the erection of a Dominion building in connection with Victim of Persecution?

Chatham, Jan. 11.—A. W. Green, exreeve of the Township of Zone, charged with the theft of $99.10 of township moneys, got his preliminary hearing before Magistrate Stanworth yesterday afternoon, when he was committed for trial at the June sessions.

Four charges were preferred by the crown. One for the theft of $18, another for $19.10, another for $21, and the fourth for $41.

The defence did not attempt to put in any evidence yesterday, but J. M. Pike, K.C., solicitor for Greene, declares they have a strong case, and that it may be proved that the prosecution was pushed by interested parties, because of a certain political antipathy.

SECURITIES ARE SAFE

Vaults in Equitable Life Building Stood the Fire Test

New York, Jan. 11.—More than $50,000,000 in stocks and bonds was recovered from one of the smaller vaults in the burned Equitable Life Assurance Society building late yesterday, but it will probably be a week, perhaps two weeks, longer before the great vaults of the society and the Mercantile Safe Deposit Co. give up their half billion or more in securities.

Further examination of the gaunt, ice-shrouded building, swept on Tuesday by fire, showed more conclusively yesterday afternoon that the vaults are still intact. In the opinion of those who have inspected the premises—an opinion reinforced by the revelation yesterday, that the smaller vaults had kept their treasure safe—their contents will suffer little, if at all. But, buried as they are, under hundred of tons of ice and debries, it may be a matter of weeks before it will be advisable to open them.

China Has to Disband Troops.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 11.—An explicit statement on the course of Russian diplomacy in the Mongolian controversy was made last night at the direct instance of M. Kokovsoff, the Premier, and Minister of Finance, who is the author of Russia's announced policy with regard to that province. The alleged distorted account of Russia's action, as given out at Pekin, which affected the bourse unfavorably, hastened the publication, which is tantamount to the recognition of the Mongolian Government.

The statement says that the interest of Russia began with efforts at mediation with the rebels. The Russian consul at Urga sought to save Chinese institutions and to safeguard the Chinese governor through Russian territory. The official appointed by the Chinese Government to carry on negotiations in Mongolia, requested mediation by the Russian legation at Pekin, and Mongolia made the same request. Russia responded that one ground for an understanding between Mongolia and China lay in the preservation of Mongolia's autonomy, including the disbandment of the Chinese troops in that territory, and that such recognition on China's part would be of advantage to Russia.

Minnesota Hard Hit.

Duluth, Minn., Jan. 11.—Cook, Minn., forty miles north of Virginia, broke the cold weather record yesterday with 56 below zero. All the thermometers there burst at that figure.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 11.—Twenty-two below and no relief in sight was the word given out from the weather bureau last night.

FIVE LIVES LOST IN QUEBEC FIRE

Four Children and a Man Perish in the Flames—Overheated Stovepipe the Cause of Tragedy.

Quebec, Jan. 11.—Fire, due to an overheated stovepipe, destroyed the home of Joseph Desrochers at Notre Dame du Sacre Cocur, Lotbiniere County, and took the lives of four children and a man.

Desrochers was awakened about one o'clock yesterday morning by smoke in his bedroom. He aroused his wife, who was partially suffocated, and made for the room where their four little children were sleeping. He found his way cut off by the flames, and had to seek the open air, which was ten degrees below zero.

By this time Mrs. Desrochers had revived, and rushed into the burning house in an attempt to rescue the children. She fought her way through the flames and would have sacrificed her life had not neighbors who had arrived dragged her back.

The hired man also lost his life, and all the bodies were practically incinerated. Mrs. Desrochers' life, toc, is despaired of, while the husband is in a bad way.

The fire could not be fought because no water was available. It quickly spread to the house next door and destroyed it. A new church, 20 feet away, was saved by men and women covering the side and roof with snow.

APPROPRIATIONS FOR PUBLIC WORKS

In the list of estimates presented to the House at Ottawa yesterday are appropriations of $3500 for the addition to the local post office and $13,500 for the new wharf at Spaulding's Bay. Port Hope gets $9000 for improvements and repairs to piers. Campbellford gets $15000 for a new public building, while $10,000 is provided for Cobourg, in reconstructing the waterfront.

POPULATION OF FRANCE

Paris, Jan. 11.—The official returns of the census of France taken last year, which have just been published show that the population now numbers 39,601,509 as compared with 39,252,245 at the last census in 1906, showing an increase of 349,264.

The figures show a steady movement of the population from the country districts to the cities. Paris now has 2,888,110 inhabitants.

The population of France in the past forty years has increased only 3,500,000.

TORONTO WATER USERS ALLOW TAPS TO RUN

City Faces Water Famine Because of Practice

Special to the Review.

Toronto, Jan. 11.—The city is facing a water famine because of the practice of thousands of house-holders allowing the taps to run continuously to keep the pipes from freezing. The reservoir at noon had only six feet of water in it. This is about one-fifth of the normal amount.

In regard to the despatch, Mr. W. H. Moore, one of the water commissioners of the city, was asked if there was any possibility of such a water famine occurring in Peterborough through the same cause.

"Not the slightest," was the reply, even if the waste was twice as much. The water-works power house is capable of pumping a great volume of water, and with the large body of water in the river there is no possibility of a water famine here.

"Conditions in Toronto are such that the water has to be carried a great distance to the city compared to Peterborough.

Toronto, Jan. 11.—William McGhee, of Beachville, received the appointment at the Parliament buildings this morning as the new sheriff of Oxford County.

Protecting Railway.

Pekin, Jan. 11.—Capt. J. H. Reeves, the military attache of the American legation at Pekin, and Capt. Thomas Holcomb, jr., a special attache, have returned here after making an inspection of the section of the Chinese Railway between Tangshan and Lanchow, which American troops will guard. They say it will not be necessary for the Americans to go into camp. The British troops, who are guarding the American section, in addition to their own, are occupying the railway buildings.

The British commander at Tientsin, Brig.-Gen. E. J. Cooper, informed Captain Reeves that the foreign force is not intended against serious attack. The several nations, in the event of attack, could send sufficient reinforcements from Tientsin to resist a large body of troops. At Tientsin there are 1,500 British soldiers, 700 Indian, 900 French, 250 German, 800 Japanese and 200 Russians.

Youthful Outlaws Sentenced.

Cornwall, Jan. 11.—The winter assizes held here this week by Mr. Justice Clute was principally concerned with the trial of three boys, Fred White, William Arthur Tyo and Jas. Tyo, against whom there were two charges of assault with intent to murder, and assault occasioning serious bodily harm with intent. The victim was George Gallinger, aged 81, a resident of Cornwall Township, and a brother of Jacob Gallinger, U. S. Senator from New Hampshire, who on Nov. 26, 1911, was badly beaten.

White, being 18 years of age, and the Tyos, who, are not relatives, being both under 16 years, they had separate trials. White was sentenced to three years in the Kingston Penitentiary. Arthur Tyo was sentenced to St. John's Industrial School, Toronto, for three years, and James Tyo, who had previously a good record, was let go on suspended sentence.

Chilman and Acheson Indicted.

Hamilton, Jan. 11.—J. D. Chilman and Joseph Acheson will have to face trial on the charge of robbing the Canadian Express Co.'s office here last September, of $8,500, the grand jury yesterday afternoon having returned a true bill against the two young men on the charge. The grand jury hearing in the case, which was in camera, and which began Tuesday afternoon, occupied nearly all yesterday, and it was not until late in the afternoon that the case was finished. The trial is set for this morning. This is the only case with which the present grand jury has to deal.

Two Trainmen Killed.

Barwick, Ont., Jan. 11.—Two men were killed and another injured at midnight Wednesday in a head-on collision of two freight trains two miles east of here. The accident was the result of an eastbound train, loaded with grain for Duluth, running by the station without observing the signal, which was duly displayed by the man in charge. They were both going at a fair rate of speed.

Fireman Warner and Brakeman Ingle, both of the westbound train, were killed. Engineer Corbett of Rainy River, on the eastbound train, was injured.

Andy Beat John D.

Washington, Jan. 11.—"It does my heart good to think that I got ahead of John D. Rockefeller, my fellow millionaire, in that Lake Superior ore deal."

Andrew Carnegie, former ruler of the steel industry of the United States, gloated thus in testifying yesterday before the House committee of inquiry into the U.S. Steel Corporation. Mr. Carnegie had just told the committee about his deal with Mr. Rockefeller whereby he obtained control of Mr. Rockefeller's iron ore holdings in the Lake Superior region.

QUALITY OF WHEAT LOW

Much of the Grain is of Poor Quality Says Milling Man

Montreal, Jan. 11.—In reviewing the present Northwestern crop situation, F. W. Thompson, vice-president and managing director of the Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., said:

"The total quantity of wheat marketed to date exceeds 100,000,000 bushels. The bulk of what is now remaining in the country is low grade. A large proportion of this, variously estimated at from 25,000,000 to 30,000,000 bushels, is totally unfit for milling.

"From a milling standpoint the grading of this year's crop has been most disappointing. Up to Dec. 31 less than 4 per cent. of the total crop inspected was No. 1 and not over 18 per cent. No. 2.

"In view of the existing conditions the question naturally arises as to there being a sufficient quantity of good wheat for seed requirements next spring. It may become the duty of the Government to make a thorough and early investigation of these conditions.

"Even Canadian millers may experience considerable difficulty in getting sufficient high grade wheat to fully meet their requirements and the question of an export duty on the high grade wheats as a matter of protection to home requirements and seed may with every justification be seriously considered."

BUSY DAY IN PARLIAMENT

Sir Wilfrid Asks About Renfrew Bye-Election.

Branch Lines for the I.C.R. Under Discussion.

Ottawa, Jan. 11.—Parliament got down to business with a rush when it met yesterday afternoon after the Christmas adjournment.

The estimates for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1913, were laid on the table and the House indulged in a debate on the advisability of purchasing branch lines as feeders for the Intercolonial, the question being brought up by a resolution of Hon. H. R. Emmerson, Hon. Frank Cochrane, intimated that the Government favored the suggestion.

Alfred Thompson, the new Conservative member for the Yukon was introduced and took his seat.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier asked if a writ had been issued for an election to fill the vacancy in South Renfrew. The Premier replied that the matter was under consideration.

Sir Wilfrid took exception to a memorial presented to the Government under date of Nov. 24, 1911, criticizing the work of the Ottawa Improvement Commission. It was not accurate, he said, to say that the commission had proceeded in a haphazard way. They had done a good work, in which not only the citizens of Ottawa, but of all Canada could take pride.

Mr. Borden stated that the memorial in question dealt not only with the work of the commission, but with the sites for new Government buildings, etc., as well. In a matter of this kind there had been the widest co-operation between the commission, the Government and the city authorities.

The motion of Hon. Wm. Pugsley for papers in connection with the appointment of boundary waters commissioners and despatches between the Governor-General and the British ambassador at Washington or the British Government on the subject stirred up the Premier to enquire whether the late Government dealt with

FRENCH CABINET HAS RESIGNED

Delcasse Accepts the Ministry of Foreign Affairs Under Certain Conditions.

Paris, Jan. 11.—The downfall of the Caillaux Cabinet came suddenly last night. That the Ministry would be overthrown in the Chamber of Deputies in the next few days was the general belief, but the announcement of the Ministry last night caused considerable surprise. It was logically due, however, owing to the failure of Premier Caillaux to secure timber to complete a political combination which was practically confronted with the certainty of speedy collapse.

The resignation Tuesday night of the Foreign Minister, Justin De Selves, resulted in immediate dissensions in the Cabinet. Theophile Delcasse, the Minister of Marine, accepted the portfolio of Minister of Foreign Affairs, but M. Millerand, ex-Minister of Public Works, Admiral Germainet and Pierre Baudin, to whom the Marine portfolio was successively offered, in turn declined the honor.

Finally, M. Delcasse sought the Premier and declared that he had agreed to accept the Foreign Ministry only on condition that a Parliamentarian of distinction could be found for the important portfolio of the navy, for the regeneration of which he had labored for months. M. Caillaux therefore accepted the inevitable and went to Elysee Palace and announced to President Fallieres the retirement of himself and colleagues. Later he issued a statement regretting that he was unable to retain the Premiership and mount the tribune and defend himself against charges and calumnies.

Among the names mentioned as most likely for the new Cabinet are Mm. Delcasse, Bourgeois, Raymond Poincare, Millerand, ex-Premier Briand, and possibly ex-Premier Clemenceau.

The Paris newspapers, which unanimously regret the De Selves-Caillaux incident, as likely to do harm to the prestige of France abroad, quickly lined up for and against the Premier. The Liberte accuses M. Caillaux of secret negotiations with Germany before the despatch of a German warship to Agadir, and while he was Minister of Finance, and after the Agadir incident, while he was Premier, the result of which would have been the transference of the Congo to Germany. the overthrow of all French foreign policies, the compromise of the dignity and security of France both in Africa and Europe and the abandonment of the triple entente, through the entente with Germany.

Small Fire, Large Panic.

Newark, N.J., Jan. 11.—With Tuesday's Equitable fire fresh in their minds, scores of girl stenographers and men clerks rushed from the Prudential Insurance Co.'s big building here yesterday when fire broke out on the ninth floor. The fire started in an electric switchboard and caused a great deal of smoke, but with the prompt arrival of the firemen, the damage was confined to a trifle.

Woes of Niagara Falls.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Jan. 11.—With a poor supply of natural gas and the coldest weather in years, this city is suffering terribly to-day. Because of the cold, the separate school was closed yesterday. In the city building gas stoves were yesterday supplemented with oil stoves. A majority of citizens who heat and cook with natural gas have their sufferings intensified by diminished pressure.

Russia Bars Foreign Cotton.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 11.—A bill containing measures to be adopted for the extension of the growth of cotton in Turkestan has been drafted by the Minister of Agriculture. His desire is to make Russia independent of foreign cotton and especially of American cotton and the bill he has introduced has given an impetus to efforts in ths directioi.

Will Be Buried In New York.

New York, Jan. 11.—It has been decided by relatives of the late Alfred Tennyson Dickens, son of the English novelist, that the body of Mr. Dickens shall be buried in New York. It was placed in a receiving vault at Trinity cemetery, following his recent death here, and as soon as weather conditions permit, it will be buried.

Not True, Says Guthrie.

Guelph, Jan. 11.—In regard to the story that Hugh Guthrie, K.C., M.P., will become leader of the Opposition in place of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Mr. Guthrie characterizes it as a "deliberate falsehood, every word of it."

He has not been in Ottawa, and has had no communication with any-one there.

WAS 46 BELOW AT EDMONTON

Edmonton, Jan. 11.—The coldest weather this winter now has Edmonton in its grasp. At six o'clock yesterday morning the thermometer registered 46 below zero. The cold wave was general, as the following readings from various points indicate:

Peace River Crossing, 60 below; Criorard, on Lesser Slave Lake, 65 below; Fort Saskatchewan, 55 below; Saskatoon, 51 below; Lloydminster, 50 below.

Traffic is carried on under increasing difficulties, and telegraph wires have been snapped all over the west.

McNAMARA REARRESTED AFTER BEING DISCHARGED

Special to the Review.

New York, Jan. 11.—After spending three days in the Tombs on the charge of robbing the Bank of Montreal at New Westminster, B.C., John McNamara was discharged by Magistrate McAdoo this morning.

He was immediately re-arrested as a fugitive from justice on a warrant secured from the British Consul General.

McNamara's counsel is starting the habeas corpus proceedings in another effort to free the prisoner.

The authorities believe that in McNamara they have the famous "Australian Mac," who, despite numerous charges of bank robbery and cases of a similar character being made against him, has never been convicted.

GIGANTIC STRIKE THREATENED

It looks as if Britain was to have another great strike on her hands. Some 900,000 coal miners may quit work on March 1st. They are voting on the question now, and it is said that the ballots are being cast overwhelmingly in favor of a general strike. The men demand a fixed minimum wage. It is to be hoped that the strike can be averted, as it means suffering for the families of the men, and probably riots and bloodshed, besides the loss from a commercial standpoint which must necessarily occur. The British Government will no doubt use its good offices to try and have things adjusted between the mine owners and the men. Arbitration would be the proper way of settling the question.

CAPE-TO-CAIRO RAILWAY

The wonderful strides made in Africa in the last few years is reflected in railway extension. A line now extends from Cape Town, 2,3116 miles north to within 280 miles of Lake Tanganyika, while another line has been pushed from Cairo south to El Obeid within 1,200 miles of Lake Tanganyika. These are the two ends of Rhodes' great Cape-to-Cairo line, and only a gap of 1,600 miles lies in the centre to be filled in, when it will be possible to proceed across the equator to Cape Town without change. This line when completed will be one of the greatest scenic routes in the world.

The southern end, already constructed, passes for hundreds of miles over a country extending northward from Cape Town that is like unto our Western prairies; it passes through Kimberley, the world's greatest diamond reservoir; it touches Johannesburg, where one-third of the world's gold supply is being secured; it spans the Victoria Falls of the Zambesi by a bridge 420 feet above the river bed.

From the Cairo end can be seen the world's greatest dam, which is used for the purpose of holding back water for the irrigation of lower Egypt; and it passes near enough to get a glimpse of the pyramids; it goes beneath the shadow of Thebes, which was a ruin when Athens and Rome were young. Then, perhaps, of more interest to Canadians, it passes through Khartoum, where General Gordon died at his post of duty. The portion of the line yet to be built will run through tropical Africa, which was first opened up to civilization by Livingstone, the great explorer.

An "all red" line, wholly through British territory, was the scheme of Rhodes, but this has been changed somewhat. Under present plans there is a block of German territory about 600 miles in width, which the line will pass through, so that the line will have to be international in character, the thing which Rhodes was strongly opposed to.

THE ROYAL VISIT TO INDIA

All loyal subjects of Britain will be glad to know that the King and Queen have left India, as many writers have been prophesying all kinds of dire things and then rumors were rife on more than one occasion that his Majesty had been assassinated. Their majesties not only came away without having met with trouble of any kind but with every assurance of the loyalty of their Indian subjects. Many people in Britain thought the visit was frought with great danger, and deplored the going of their Majesties. But happily these fears have proven not well founded. What was feared most was not from seditious natives but from some fanatic with imaginery grievances. These cranks are the most dangerous feature of a visit by royalty.

The bulk of the people of India, are to-day loyal to Britain, but there are mischief-makers everywhere and India has a faction ready to make trouble on the slightest excuse. But with strong fearless rule and justice to the natives this element is not to be feared.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Mr. Winston Churchill, says that home rule for Ireland would bring the country perpetual peace, but the news from Ulster does not bear this out. In fact it looks more like civil war if home rule passes, if reports can be believed.

Glen Campbell, ex-M.P. for Dauphin, Man., has been appointed Inspector of Indian Agencies, with headquarters at Winnipeg. The appointment is a good one, as Mr. Campbell is familiar with the agencies of the West and is well qualified for the post.

Wonder will the visiting Scottish curlers appear in their national costume, which is so greatly admired by all, especially the ladies. We would like to notify them that they will find this no Garden of Eden, in kilts, with the temperature around the zero mark.

The Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners will investigate the question of freight rates in Ontario as well as a number of the other provinces, and if found excessive have promised to see that reductions are made. It was high time that some such action was taken as the complaints have been many.

A suffragette was sentenced to six months yesterday for starting fires in London letter boxes. She deserves the sentence. A person who tries to destroy mail which may mean much to sender or the receiver of the letter, is a dangerous person to be at large. This is a poor plan to gain sympathy for any movement.

Changes in the British Admiralty continue, Mr. Winston Churchill is shaking things up in good style and it was badly needed. Many of the old timers in the Admiralty had gotten into a rut and a man of the Churchill type was required to awaken them up. Some of the old sea dogs don't like the creation of a naval war staff, but this won't worry Mr Churchill.

Childlike Simplicity

(Winnipeg Tribune)

A Brandon man is quite convinced that all pre-election pledges will be carried out. How delightful it is to see even in one citizen that beautiful childlike simplicity and confidence in man. Would that more people cultivated the confidence spirit of the Brandon citizen!

Ethics of Dirty Play

(Ottawa Citizen)

A local hockey player enunciates the following bit of philosophy: "I dont care what anybody says, the man who hollers loudest about a piece of 'dirty work' is the first to buy a ticket for the next match." And, of course, having educated the ticket buyer up to expect a little dirty work, it would be dishonest as well as palpably unfair to disappoint him.

No Babies Wanted

(New York Sun.)

A wedding party was disturbed by the crying of a baby belonging to one of the women guests. One of the young ladies present remarked to a bridesmaid: "What a nuisance babies are at a wedding!" "I should say so," returned the latter, and added, without very full consideration; "When I send out the invitations to my wedding, I shall have printed in the corner, 'No babies expected.'"

CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Jan. 10.—At the Canadian Pacific Live Stock Market the receipts for the week ending Jan. 6 were 850 cattle, 350 sheep and lambs, 925 hogs and 300 calves, while the offerings on the market this morning for sale amounted to 800 cattle, 450 sheep and lambs, 1350 hogs and 150 calves.

There was no further change in the condition for cattle since Monday, prices being firm at the advance noted, owing to the fact that the supply was not large and the percentage of good to choice stock was small, as compared with the requirements of such. The demand was good, owing to the favorable weather for keeping stock and the fact that butchers had no surplus supplies on hand. A few choice steers sold as high as $6.75 per cwt., but the bulk of the trading was done in good stock at $6.25 to $6.50, while choice cows brought $5.50, and good bulls $5.

The market for sheep was firm under a good demand, but lambs were stronger and prices ruled 10c per cwt. higher, with sales at $7.10 per 100 pounds. Calves were scarce, there being no good to choice stock on the market and the highest price realized for the best was $10.

A stronger feeling developed in the market for hogs and prices scored an advance of 10c to 25c per cwt., owing to the good demand from packers and butchers and sales of selected lots were made at $7.10 to $7.25 per cwt., weighed off cars.

Butchers' cattle, choice, $6.75; medium, $5.50 to $6.50; common, $4 to $5; canners, $2.50 to $3.50; choice cows, $5.50 to $6; medium, $4.75 to $5.25; bulls, $4 to $5; milkers, choice, each, $75; common and medium, each, $50 to $60; springers, $30 to $40.

The Paternoster Ruby

By Charles Edmond Walk.

Supplied exclusively in Canada by the British & Colonial Press, Limited, Toronto.

"A glance told me that the rear room was empty of any living presence. Cautiously I pushed open the bath room door; but it was too dark to see inside."

"Was the door into the hall shut?" I interrupted quickly, rememberinng that Stodger believed it to be open.

"Yes. I entered a bit timidly; all my assurance had somehow evaporated. Then—then, before I had time to make another move, two hands seized me.

"I was thrown violently against the wall, and one of the hands tried to grasp my throat. I was fighting as hard as I could; but—I was helpless.

"Then I screamed. I put my whole soul into it. Everything slipped away from me, I knew nothing more until Belle was holding me in her arms and I felt her dabbing my face with water. . . . Dear girl, don't look so tragic; I'm all right now."

While Geneive hung close at my side, the inquest waited until I had searched the place from cellar to garret. But never a trace of the mysterious intruder did I find. When I became satisfied that he had safely made his escape I asked Genevieve to describe the face.

"I'm afraid I can't," she returned hesitatingly. "I had such a lightning-like glimpse of it. Still, in a general way, it was very swarthy and wrinkled—quite ape-like. The lower part was covered with a short, curling, sparse black beard; the eyes were like"—she searched for a simile—"like a snake's."

That's graphic enough," I said; "but the description fits no countenance that I can now call to mind."

"What can it mean?" she asked wonderingly.

"It means," I grimly replied, "that I guessed right: the ruby is in this house. And I'm going to have a time keeping it here, too, until I find it myself."

The one mistake of the intruder, whoever he might be, had been in peeping between the alcove curtains; of course he had been reconnoitring only; but a person who could move through the house so noiselessly might easily have accomplished, without discovery, whatever errand brought him there.

The idea was positively uncanny and far from pleasant to dwell upon. Stodger's hearing may not have been remarkably acute, but if my life depended upon shutting the door so close behind him and not attracting his attention, why, I should have hesitated long before essaying the performance. To have the ruby lifted from under the very noses of the watchers—while they were wide awake, too—would in all truth be a sorry ending of our search for it.

For the nonce, however, the mysterious face introduced only an additional problem; one, upon which I had but little time, just at present, to bestow thought. The drama in the library had been interrupted at its most crucial stage. It was all-important that at least one phase of the case be brought to a termination, however unsatisfactory that termination might be, before anything else should be undertaken.

After explanations had been made and order restored, the foreman did not proceed, as might have been expected, by reading the verdict. Instead he jerked his head sideways toward Miss Cooper.

"Mr. Coroner," he said, "we'd like to ask the young lady some questions."

He was a poor specimen, that foreman; one of your little, officious, merdling busybodies, as aggravating as the buzzing of a persistent fly.

"If they are pertinent to the inquiry," said Dr. De Breen, "it is not only proper, but your duty to ask them. The young lady will be sworn."

At this unexpected demand she darted a startled glance from the foreman to Dr. De Breen, and then looked at me—as I joyfully fancied, for guidance and support.

I nodded—she couldn't avoid the ordeal—and she bowed in acknowledgment of the oath, which the doctor rattled off as if it were all one long word.

And just here I am unable to refrain from pointing out how small an incident will sometimes afford the turning-point for a momentous crisis; such an illustration is presently to follow.

When interrupted by Genevieve's shriek of terror the foreman had been in the very midst of pronouncing the concluding phrase of the verdict. Had it not been for the strange face, had the venturesome girl not followed the face's owner, who could say how differently events might not have turned out? For I know now that the first verdict was quite different from the one finally read.

The catechism which Genevieve was required to undergo follows:

"What is your name?"

"Clara Genevieve Cooper."

"How old are you?"

"I was twenty-one in December."

"We would like to know, Miss Cooper, what relation, if any, you bear to the witness Maillot?"

"Merely that of a friend.'

"How about him and the other young lady?"—an interrogation which instantly made Miss Belle flush and bridle. But the witness was fully equal to the occasion.

"I would n't undertake to speak for them," she replied composedly.

The succeeding questions brought out the relationship between the two girls, and also established Miss Fluette's identity. Something akin to a sensation prevailed in the jury-box for a few seconds after the six good men and true realized that the handsome gentleman with the white hair and dark beard was no other than the celebrated "wheat king." Their manner toward his niece underwent a sudden transformation; their attitude became more respectful.

Miss Cooper was dismissed, and Maillot was recalled. He denied any formal engagement between himself and Miss Fluette; but it soon became apparent, both from his manner and her growing vexation, pretty precisely what the relations between them really were. The jury learned that the young man's quest of the Paternoster ruby had not been undertaken without the stimulus of a very warm-hearted devotion.

Maillot was left sitting in the witness-chair while a new verdict was made out. It formally charged the young man with the murder of his uncle.

I afterward learned, by questioning the self-important foreman, that the first verdict had been an open one. The demand for Miss Cooper's testimony had been prompted by the "diversion"—I am using his own word—she had occasioned when she left the room, and afterward threw the proceedings into wild disorder by her scream. The interrupted verdict had failed to hold Maillot only by the narrowest margin; Miss Cooper's adventure had served to turn the scale against him.

"Look here," I demanded warmly, "don't you believe what she said?"

He smiled with an air of such superior knowledge that I very nearly cuffed his ears.

"Oh, I don't blame the young lady! —dear me, no!" he said, with a smirk. "Loyalty, you know. What do you think of it?'

I had turned to move away, much disgusted; but I lingered long enough to look him over curiously.

"What's your name?" I bluntly demanded.

"Griggs—Samuel B. Griggs."

"I think, Mr. Samuel B. Griggs—if you really want to know—that you're a damned idiot."

CHAPTER XVII.

Prison Doors

As I recall the scene that brilliant winter morning in the Page library, one detail stands out so much more prominently than all the rest, that the really important aspects are quite overshadowed in my memory, and notwithstanding the surprising nature of Alfred Fluette's deportment, I am obliged to produce a reasonably correct portrayal of what actually transpired. But one's memory is apt to play strange and unaccountable tricks, and mine is no exception. The best mental image I can recall is distorted, all out of drawing, as the artists say; I can see only Belle Fluette.

After the accusation fell from the foreman's lips, I quite suddenly became aware of the fact that she was standing rigidly erect, one hand strained to her bosom, the other clenched tightly against her cheek. Every vestige of color had flown from her face, leaving it as white as marble.

But her eyes! It is her eyes that still haunt me. They burned with a light of dispair so profound that no mere human note could even feebly yield a hint of it; and behind the despair, plucking and tearing at her heart-strings, lay a misery unutterable. She alone had remained serenely confident of the outcome, and now, being the least prepared for it, the shock to her high-strung susceptibilities was more keenly poignant than human flesh could endure. She presented the appearance of one stunned, of one beaten and buffeted to stupefaction, yet through it all still sensible of an anguish that wrenched her very soul.

There was no outcry, no spoken word; but in a moment a tremor ran over her slender form, her knees gave way, and with one last desperate effort she tried to reach Maillot. Even as she turned to him, before a move could be made to sustain her, she tottered and fell prone upon her face. One extended hand clutched once at the young man's foot, then relaxed and grew still. It was as if her last conscious thought had been governed by a flitting impulse to seek the support of even so mean an assurance of his presence.

In a flash the lover was kneeling at his sweetheart's side, pressing her white face to his bosom in a wild embrace. He called to her frantically, coaxed her with endearments, wholly oblivious of his shocked audience. He assured her in choked, incoherent phrases that all was well with him; but he spoke to deaf ears.

Dr. De Breen, direct and practical, brought him to his senses with a sharp command.

Maillot reluctantly yielded Belle to Genevieve and the doctor. Not for a moment did a thought of his own trouble enter his head, I am sure, and he did not remove his tense look of anxiety from her face until Dr. De Breen convincingly declared that she was only in a swoon.

"Best thing for her, just now," said he, crisply; "she can't think. Furthermore, she needs a sedative to keep her from thinking for a while." Then to her father:

"Here, you, you take her home on the double-quick. Have in your physician. Let her cousin get her in bed."

It is likely that Alfred Fluette had not been addressed for many a day with such cavalier brusqueness, and overpowering indeed must have been his emotions now that he did not notice the Doctor's abrupt manner. Even his daughter's condition seemed to produce only a momentary impression upon him; for by the time Maillot and Dr. De Breen had conveyed the limp girl to a divan, where Genevieve continued to minister to her, he was excitedly striving to catch the doctor's attention.

A Common Mistake

A common mistake, and one that is quite excusable, is that so many people between the ages of 40 and 50 feeling the need of glasses either refuse to wear them or continue putting it off.

There is no greater mistake than the common saying that "so-and-so" had such strong eyes, lived to be 80 and never used glasses to read. It is a physiological fact that at the age of 45 years the crystal line lens looses some of its elasticity; it looses more as age advances, so that even under accommodation it cannot become convex as it did before; consequently, this convexity (needed for reading) must be supplied artificially by means of glasses.

The above is taken from the Family Doctor a large American publication.

WE RECOMMEND GLASSES ONLY WHEN ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY.

HER SKIN SEEMED ON FIRE

Every Other Treatment Failed But "Fruit-a-tives" Cures

GRANDE LIGNE, QUE., Jan. 2nd, 1910.

"My wife was greatly distressed for three years with chronic Eczema on the hands, and the disease was so severe that it almost prevented her from using her hands. The doctor gave her several ointments to use, but none of them did any good. He also advised her to wear rubber gloves and she wore out three pairs without getting any benefit. As a last resort, I persuaded her to try "Fruit-a-tives", and the effect was marvellous. Not only did "Fruit-a tives" entirely cure the Eczema, but the Asthma, which she suffered from, was also completely cured.

We both attribute our present good health to "Fruit-a-tives". N. JOUBERT.

"Fruit-a-tives" will always cure Eczema or Salt Rheum because "Fruit-a-tives" purifies the blood, corrects the Indigestion and Constipation, and tones up the Nervous System.

"Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine in the world made of fruit juices and valuable tonics, and is the greatest of all blood-purifying remedies.

50c. a box—6 for $2.50—or trial size, 25c. At all dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Trent Valley League Opens To-night at Brock Street—Dom.-Montreal Won Bank League Game—Standing of O. H. A. Teams in This District.

It will look like the Trent Valley League of yore to see "Bill" Meagher on the defence for T.A.S. against Campbellford to-night.

Owing to a factory accident, the uniforms for the Intermediates will not be here for to-morrow night's game at Belleville. The Intermediates will use the uniforms of the Juniors, who are asked to be at the rink to-night in order that this arrangement be made.

Pete Weatherston was out with the Intermediates last night.

"Whitty" Bearrs has a cousin working at cover for Ingersoll Intermediates.

Cobourg defeated Port Hope the other night in Port Hope by 6-1. Read what the Guide has to say on the game—

"Dow spent the most of the time in the penalty box. It is not a difficult matter and certainly not clever to slash an opponent across the head or the ankles. Any person with sufficient strength could do that, but every time Dow was penalized he went to the box smiling and turned to the spectators as though he expected applause. But hockey enthusiasts do not applaud actions of this kind, and if the local junior team wants support they must get down to business and play hockey. If the management could arrange to make about five changes it should prove an advantage.

Trenton Intermediates played at Lindsay to-morrow night.

Knox Church Holds Successful Annual Meeting

Honor Roll of 100 Men Will Meet the Interest Account

Rev. H. J. Keith has declined the call from St. Paul's church, Port Hope, and will remain pastor of Knox church.

This welcome announcement he made at the annual meeting of Knox church last night. His answer follows the request of a deputation representing the various societies of the church, that he remain with Knox church. Citizens generally will join with his congregation in their success.

A subscription of $100 for two consecutive years and $200 from the Board of Management will increase the pastor's stipend by $300.

The honor roll of 100 men was inaugurated with 25 signed members. By this means the interest account of about $1,000 annually will be met.

Berlin newspapers expect that Friday's general elections will show heavy Conservative losses, and many Socialist gains, with the Centre (or Catholic) party holding its own. A factor generally overlooked is that the Socialists and Centrists stand to lose, owing to the rupture of the relations which existed between them at the general elections of 1907, when they stood together on the defensive against Prince Von Buelow.

Universal and Eternal.

"Yes, life is universal and eternal, for time is one of its factors—yesterday the moon, today the earth, tomorrow Jupiter. In space there are cradles and tombs. The red carbon stars will soon be dead; the hydrogen stars, like Vega and Sirius, are the stars of the future; Procyon, Copella and Arcturus are the stars of the present. Aldebaran seems to be already an autumn fruit." So said Flammarion.

The Place to Paint.

A party of gunners were painting the guns and wagons of a field battery when a sergeant came up to them. "There will be an inspection tomorrow," he said. "Be sure you paint all those parts which no one can see, for that's just where the colonel is sure to look!"—London Telegraph.

Sour on the Eights.

"Eight cent postage stamps are hoodoos," said a postal official. "None of the small offices handle them if they can help it. It's this way: They are just a wee shade different in color from the ones, and it is no infrequent thing for a stamp clerk in a hurry to hand out a lot of eights when ones are asked and paid for. It always costs him 7 cents a stamp when he does it. The clerk here the other day during the rush hour, when the offices are closing, was called upon for a dollar's worth of ones. He handed out a hundred eights instead. Cost him $7. Then he got rid of all the rest of the eights, and now he won't have anything to do with eights—even says 'eaten' instead of 'ate.'"—New York Herald.

Elastic For the Bloomers.

"In making my boys' wash bloomers," said a mother recently, "I used the widest width of silk hat elastic. This is about three-eighths of an inch wide and costs 7 or 8 cents a yard. The silk elastic remained in good condition during the entire life of the suit, while the cotton elastic always had to be renewed several times."

Baby's First Bonnet.

One store, noted for its baby department, is showing dainty little coats made of silk poplin for "baby's first outing." Some have embroidered capes with tiny flowers, others fine band tucking, and, again, others deep capes perfectly plain except for a tiny piping.

A REPLY FROM MR. BURNHAM

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—In reply to a correspondent in the Examiner, who does not sign his name, I may say that he has touched upon the crux of the whole question, viz., people will not, as experience has shown, pay remunerative prices to hotelkeepers in local option localities. Therefore the travelling public is dissatisfied. If we are sincere in our professions let us not wreck the good we intend to do by failing to back it up. Mr suggestion has, of course, no reference to the taking over of liquors. I will take stock in any company that will guarantee good hotel accomodation to Peterborough, in the event of local option. But let us remember that work half done is more often a serious injury than a benefit. As a humble believer in things as they ought to be and with an earnest desire to assist as I see it.

I remain yours,
J. H. BURNHAM,

P. S.—The Examiner boycotts me, or I should have written to it.

RECORD BREAKING CROWDS ATTEND PETERBORO'S BIG POULTRY EXHIBITION

Unprecedented success is that being met with by the Peterborough Poultry Association, with their 1912 show in the market hall. It is estimated that last night the attendance at the hall was in the neighborhood of six hundred people. At times it was extremely difficult to move about so dense were the crowds about the coops, which sheltered birds of very high quality, in fact the competition is so keen that Judge Bennett finds his work this year much more difficult than that of any other year. One case in particular is that of Black Orphingtons, owned by Mr. Fred Dunnitt. Some sixty or more birds from outside points are in the race this year.

A GOOD SHOW

The show is one worthy of large patronage, and it is very satisfactory to note the "coming into their own" of the association.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Wm. Dawson, of London, who, by the way, is a widely known breeder of White Wyandottes at her ten acre farm, gave an interesting address in the hall as she dwelt on the importance of the fancier.

MAKING MONEY.

Mrs Dawson told how the fancier could make a lot of money out of poultry, and gave as proof a number of signed statements of what she called "back yard fanciers," which showed some had made an average of $5 on each breed for the year. This profit was brought about by the sale of fancy eggs to the utility people, and also fanciers. With the better class of birds came the more money. The whole important item for the breeder was to "get in right" by handling the best breeds. It was just as cheap to breed the best as it was to breed the lower grade.

BREED THE BEST.

Mrs. Dawson explained why it was that one class of breeds was particularized by asking why one person purchased a gray horse, another a chestnut, or any color. "What you like best you should go ahead with." said the speaker. There was profit in all so long as they were the best.

Again, without the fancier the utility breeder could not exist at a profit. The fancier kept up the standard of utility fowl. The fancy fowl were not a drawback to any utility pen.

PREPARING BREEDS.

With her subject of washing and preparing breeds for show purposes, Mrs. Dawson interested a large audience at night. Preparing the breeds for the show, she said, was a big aid the prizes. Mrs. Dawson told of how at Guelph she had purchased sale birds at $3, washed and prepared them. and besides winning prizes had received as high as $25 each in disposing of them again. This was all brought about by their improvement. The speaker thoroughly interested and surprised the crowd by her use of a brush on the birds with which she demonstrated. The dirt taken off apparently clean birds was surprising.

IMPORTANCE OF WASHING.

Demonstrations of washing were also given, although Mrs. Dawson gave only two washings, while at her farm she uses five. She showed and explained the proper manner with which to do the operation, and impressed upon her auditors the great importance of washing. Besides cleaning the bird, it made it more active and vigorous, healthier, and a better bird from many standpoints.

The show will be open to-night and those who have not as yet visited the exhibition should not fail to take advantage of the last opportunity.

The array of silverware in the shape of cups that have been donated as trophies to prize winners, attract great attention from the crowds who pass round the exhibition. There are nine in all.

Wm. Scott has donated a handsome cup to the exhibition, winning most points in the barred rock class.

Mr. Joseph Kelly, the secretary of the Association, is one of the busiest men at the exhibition. He has also a fine exhibit of birds, which have captured both cups for the Rocks, and in addition have won three specials.

Chief W. A. Howard is to be congratulated on the splendid showing of pheasants he has on exhibition. The birds are generally admired, the striking and beautiful plumage of two of the exhibits being highly praised.

Mr. James Baptie, of Springville, and Jos. Bennett, of Toronto, are doing the judging rapidly and well.

Two owls are on exhibition, which are very amusing to observers. The swivel-like action of their heads, and glassy appearance of the eyes are amusing and interesting features of the two birds.

Some small fan-tail pigeons also attract a considerable share of attention.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED FOR LABOR COUNCIL

The annual election of officers for the Trades and Labor Council took place in the new Labor Hall. It was the first meeting of the council in their new quarters. The new officers are:

President—David Moore.
Vice-President—E. Stanfield.
Cor.-Sec.—T. Darke.
Fin.-Sec.—A. Sharpe.
Treas.—H. Gainey.
Sergt-at-Arms.—Chas. Godfrey.

There was a large turnout of the several unions represented at the meeting and as all the unions are now meeting under the one roof, matters of importance will be discussed and action taken.

The hall has been nicely furniched and presents an inviting appearance. There are three rooms and a large anti-room on the one flat, and in the near future the council intend holding a concert and the talent to be procured will be the best avaialble.

It is possible that some strong labor men will be invited to Peterborough shortly and some of the leading questions of the day discussed. This movement has been proposed and will likely be carried out. This is the first time that Peterborough has had the different trades meeting in the same hall and the idea is a capital one. It is also likely that a labor club will be formed, and in this way bring the labor men closer together. Inspection of the hall is invited by any who wish to have a look through as each room is comfortable and homelike.

A balloon which ascended from Paris Saturday midnight, with two passengers seeking a long-distance record, has since been unheard of.

MARTIN CONNORS HAD SMALL FIRE

Blaze in Basement of His Hotel at Belleville

Belleville Ontario:—The peculiar circumstances surrounding a slight fire in the basement of the Hastings House shortly after midnight induced the proprietor, Mr. Martin Connors to call in Mr. Chas. Thompson, of the police department, to make an investigation. On his arrival there at 12.50 a.m. he found that the damage had been slight and the brigade had not been called out. His opinion, after an examination of the premises, was that some one had likely been on an expedition to steal coal and had accidentally dropped a lighted match, which caused the blaze.

An explosion of dynamite in a colliery near Plymouth, Penna., killed six men.

the Home Government through the ambassador at Washington. He did not see why a recommendation to the Imperial authorities should not go through the regular channels.

Hon. H. R. Emmerson proposed the following resolution: "That, in the opinion of this House, it is desirable in furtherance of the transportation interests of this Dominion that the sphere of influence of the Intercolonial Railway as a Government operated railway should be widened and extended by securing by lease or otherwise such of the branch lines of railway now connecting the Intercolonial, as will serve as direct and profitable feeders to the traffic of the said railway."

There should be no difference, he said, between the methods of the C.P.R., the G.T.R., and the Government railway system. As a business proposition the I.C.R. should acquire feeders the same as the other systems. It had suffered from the lack of them in the past by the diversion of traffic to other roads. The sooner action were taken the better.

Hon. Frank Cochrane declared that the ex-Minister did not make the reforms he now advocated when he was in power. The present Government would investigate and take over all branch lines that would be profitable.

Hon. Wm. Pugsley expressed regret that the Minister limited his acquisition of branch lines to those that were profitably operated. The revenue point of view was not the only one. Would the Government deal with the Georgian Bay Canal merely as a revenue-producing proposition?

Very few of the branch lines of Ontario were paying their way until they were taken over by the great railway systems. It would be the same with the Intercolonial, which was the most profitable venture the country had ever made, even though as a matter of bookkeeping it might not show a balance on the right side.

J. G. Turriff (Assiniboia) has no use for Government owned railways. He wanted the Government, instead of buying branch lines, to consider selling or leasing the I.C.R. to a private company, which he claimed would develop the system as no Government could.

Rt. Hon. R. L. Borden introduced a bill to amend the act respecting the Department of External Affairs, to place that Department under the Premier instead of the Secretary of State.

In asking J. G. Turriff (Assiniboia) to allow his bill to amend the Railway Act, by providing for the submission of special tariffs to the Railway Commission to stand pending the consolidation of the Railway Act, he gave no hope that this would be undertaken at the present session.

In answer to a question by J. A. Barrette (Berthier), the Premier declared that the administration of the marine yards at Sorel would be included in the investigations of the commission recently appointed to enquire into the civil service. Mr. Lemieux was informed that an order-in-council had been passed making the usual grant to the dismissed annuities' agents.

Kingston's Power Policy.

Kingston, Jan. 11.—Hon. Adam Beck has advised the city to temporarily supply the G.T.R. with power to run their drilling plant while awaiting connection with the Trent River power for Kingston. Hon. Mr. Beck says he believes Hydro-electric power will be brought to Kingston by July, and the local plant can supply the company with 500 horsepower. The Seymour Company has reached Napanee, and a transmission line will be run from there to this city.

People Who Don't Laugh.

Laughter is unknown among the Veddahs of Ceylon. They are the most solemn people in the world. When a traveler asked some of them why their people never gave indication of mirth, they replied that they never saw anything to laugh at.

On the other hand, some savages appear to have a more robust sense of humor than their civilized brethren. Dr. Livingstone tells of an African tribe who, when dressed in clothes for the first time, "rolled about on the ground in uncontrollable fits of laughter."

The Bojars of Russia.

Bojars held exclusively the highest military and civic offices in Russia and were so universally looked up to by the mass of the people that the most powerful rulers, even Ivan the Cruel, considered it prudent to use this form of expression in the ukases: "The emperor has ordered it; the Bojars have approved it."

RUBBER CANNON BALLS.

A World's Fair Exhibit That Puzzled Louis Napoleon.

An instance of the obsession of the mind by one idea is seen in a ludicrous mistake made by Louis Napoleon in 1855 at a world's fair held in Paris while he was emperor. He had been trained to war, and he could not see a strange object without regarding it in relation to war. The head of the United States commission at the exhibition was Maunsell B. Field, who tells in his "Memoirs of Many Men" how greatly disturbed the emperor was by an American invention. The commissioner was present at a reception held at the palace.

"The emperor approached me and remarked that he had that afternoon walked through our department of the exposition—this was just before it was open to the public—that he had seen many things there which interested him, but that nothing had so much pleased him as the exhibition of vulcanized india rubber. Among the articles he had noticed something which had puzzled him ever since. He very much regretted that I was not present at the time of his visit.

"Here I interrupted him to say that I very much regretted it myself and that if he had sent me an intimation of his purpose I should have been certain to attend.

"'Well,' he answered, 'in one corner I saw, stacked as one sees them in an artillery yard, a pile of vulcanized india rubber cannon balls. There was nobody there to answer the inquiries which I desired to make. Perhaps you can explain the matter to me.'

"I had not even seen the balls in question and had to say so.

"'I cannot imagine,' resumed his majesty, 'how any preparation of india rubber can be used for projectiles. It has often occurred to me that, in combination with other materials, it might be made useful for defensive purposes.'

"I was compelled to admit that it was equally mysterious to me how the inventor could have thought seriously of making cannon balls of it. After so unsatisfactory an interview the emperor probably did not think that it would be civil to leave me immediately, so he asked me if I took much interest in military matters. I answered that I did not any more than civilians usually do.

"I was at that time residing very near the Palace of Industry. The next morning I went over before breakfast for the purpose of getting information upon the subject which had so puzzled the emperor. I went directly to the india rubber exhibit, and, sure enough, I found the balls there just as they had been described to me. It was too early for me to expect to see the man in charge, but there was a person in his place. I asked what in the world he expected to do with india rubber cannon balls.

"'They are not cannon balls,' he answered; 'they are footballs!'"

The Literary Lady.

In the course of duty and society obligations a senator one evening was a guest at the house of a man noted for the number of literary people he gathered about him. The senator had been told that the guests would be either authors or people competent to discuss literature from Confucius down to the present day.

Finding himself beside a middle aged but handsome woman, the senator observed that he supposed she was a literary person. She pleaded guilty and added:

"I think the world of Iridee, and I like Haythorne's 'Red Letter,' and I'm simply mad about Dickenson's works."

The senator has never been able to figure out who Iridee is, but he believes the literary lady meant Ouida.—St. Louis Republic.

One of Nature's Mysteries.

The zodiacal light, still one of the unsolved mysteries, has shown very regular pulsations in intensity and form. In a communication to the French Academy of Sciences M. Birkeland has pointed out that these variations agree closely with the periods of regular magnetic waves of polar regions, and this would seem to indicate that the zodiacal light is an electrical phenomenon. A number of experiments suggest that it may be part of a ring of luminous matter surrounding the sun in the plane of its magnetic equator.

When Limbs and Chest Ache

Zam-Buk Gives Ease Quickly

Have you got cold in your bones? Have you a bad attack of "general aching"? You know the feeling. Limbs ache, muscles seem to have become tired out, back aches, now and again a twinge of rheumatism strikes you here and there. Your chest feels tight, and there is a pain between your shoulders.

Cold is responsible for this condition, and a vigorous application of Zam-Buk will put you right. Take a hot bath and then rub your chest and the aching limbs well with Zam-Buk.

Mrs. B. Gorrie, 76 Berkley street, Toronto, writes: "I cannot speak too highly of Zam-Buk. A few weeks ago I was suffering from a cold, which had settled in my throat, chest and limbs. I tried all kinds of remedies, new and old, and found very little relief until I used Zam-Buk. On applying this to my throat and chest I found such ease and relief from the tightness and soreness I determined to use only Zam-Buk. I also rubbed it on my limbs, where I felt the rheumatic pains. In three days from the time I first began applying Zam-Buk I was free from the cold in throat and chest, and also the rheumatism in my limbs."

Zam-Buk will also be found a sure cure for cold sores, chapped hands, frost bite, ulcers, blood-poison, varicose sores, piles, scalp sores, ringworm, inflamed patches, babies' eruption and chapped places, cuts, burns, bruises and skin injuries generally. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. Avoid harmful imitations and substitutes.

Not the Proper Noun.

There is a Teutonic citizen of the name of Kloepfer, who went about an Ontario city, on the twenty-second of September, exclaiming on the vastness of the political change.

"Yes, indeed," said one Liberal sympathizer, "it was a regular earthquake."

"Exactly," agreed Mr. Kloepfer, "quite a landscape, quite a landscape!"

Berlin's Building.

Building Inspector J. Cook has intimated that permits for new buildings for the year had been aggregating a total of $350,000. The larger portion of this amount included the new $100,000 public school, and for private residences, over 200 being erected during 1911.

DIAMOND THIEVES

Women Are Experts In Purloining the Precious Stones.

SOME TRICKS OF THE TRADE.

Clever Scheme of a Light Fingered Lady Who Worked Nearly Every Dealer In New York—Ingenious Trick of a Smooth Berlin Swindler.

A former State street jeweler who is now a member of a jewelers' protective association and travels over the entire world in search of diamond and gem thieves told some of the interesting methods used by the expert thief to steal jewelry, says the Chicago News.

"Women make good diamond thieves," he said, "as dealers must not take a chance of offending a customer, lest she be a rich man's wife or daughter whose trade if obtained regularly would amount to thousands a year. Any woman well dressed and possessing a certain amount of refinement can see the entire stock of almost any dealer in the country. When she is clever enough she can get a stone or piece of jewelry during her inspection.

"One New York woman came into a large store and asked to see some unset diamonds. The proprietor of the store waited on her and showed her a large collection of fine stones. She displayed a monster roll of bills and was about to purchase an expensive jewel when she asked whether her husband could see it. 'Why, certainly,' replied the proprietor. 'We will send it over to him now.' The woman hesitated and finally asked whether they would hold the stone until that afternoon and she would make a deposit of $10 on it.

"This appeared perfectly proper to the owner, but when she left two valuable stones were missing. The woman was hailed, taken to the police headquarters and searched. The gems were not found on her, and in her indignation she threatened to bring suit against the proprietor. He had been sure she had taken the stones, but in his profusion of apology offered to give her the one she had been looking at and at the same time refund her $10. This was better than a suit and the loss of all the supposed friends of the woman, thought the dealer. She accompanied him back to the store and while there, watched by detectives, made her way up to the case where she had stood before and, slipping her hand along the under edge, recovered the two missing stones, stuck there in a little ball of chewing gum.

"The detectives did not know positively at that time whether she had taken anything from the counter, but decided to keep further watch over her. At another store several days later, while she was inspecting gems, a stone was dropped on the floor 'accidentally,' and this also was lost. Gum on the front of the shoe had got this one. The woman was arrested and confessed that she had swindled nearly every dealer in New York with her gum trick.

"One of the most ingenious thefts was made in Berlin, where a fellow walked into a general jewelry store, knowing the owner had a fine diamond. The thief wore an expensive diamond himself and went into the store apparently to have an old German watch repaired. He started to talk of diamonds and exhibited his own as a choice stone. He was shown the other stone by the dealer. They discussed diamonds in every phase until the watch was repaired, when the stranger started to pay for the repairing. He exhibited a large roll of bills and purposely overpaid. During the slight confusion of counting his money and paying for his watch he had substituted for the genuine diamond a paste stone, which was being carefully wrapped up and placed in its box by the dealer, while the stranger was sauntering out with his watch.

"The dealer saw a slight carbon spot in the paste jewel as he was closing the box and, knowing his own jewel to be flawless, hurriedly examined the stone and apprehended the thief before he was half a block away, secure in the thought that he was safe.

"He was taken to the store and every particle of clothing removed, and he was searched thoroughly, but the missing jewel could not be found. More through curiosity at the old time watch than anything else one of the police opened the back of the case and found glittering up at him from the mainspring the lost jewel. The thief confessed and got a heavy sentence.

"There are just thousands of this kind of cases," said the gem thief sleuth. "The majority of the really big fellows that I have ever seen are as fine cut men as one would find anywhere. Their personality is usually of the best, but with a bad streak in their makeup somewhere."

Very Considerate.

A tender hearted youth was once present at an Oxford supper where the fathers of those assembled were being roundly abused for their parsimony in supplying the demands of their sons. At last, after having long kept silence, he lifted up his voice in mild protest.

"After all, gentlemen," he said, "let us remember that they are our fellow creatures."

He hath a poor spirit who is not planted above petty wrongs.—Feltham.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucuous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you may have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucuous surfaces.

The Great Canadian Northland.

(London Free Press)

The great Canadian Northland remains an unknown country. Here and there a point might be marked on the map where the resources are known. The rest remains almost as unknown as in the days of the earliest explorers, despite all the work that has been done since. A scratch here, a delving here, a passing observation, this constitutes the information concerning tracts of country as large as European countries. Ungava is a hidden land. Labrador is equally unknown. Even in the districts commonly regarded as settled or explored we continually hear of rich discoveries.

Daughter Is Arrested.

New York, Jan. 9.—The police yesterday gave up any further search in connection with the murder of Isaac Futterman, aged 80, and his wife Rachael, aged 72, who were found dead in their East Side flat Sunday. At headquarters it was declared that the police were satisfied with the detention at Bellevue Hospital of Etka Futterman, the 40-year-old daughter of the murdered couple, who, the police say, is acting in an insane manner.

When Police Inspector Hughes asked her yesterday what she thought of the mutilation of the bodies, she replied:

"Why, I suppose doctors cut people up, don't they?"

"Did you kill your father?" the inspector asked. The woman replied:

"If I tell you that I suppose that you will cut me up, too."

Tales of the Daring and Laconic Reports of the R.N.W.M.P.

Stories are constantly being told of the Canadian Mounted Police, and a few have recently appeared in a London paper which are of interest.

Mention has often been made of the way in which the police, amid the pressure of sterner duties, come to the help of any isolated settlers who require assistance. A typical instance occurs in a recent report, in which the superintendent commanding the Battleford district writes:

"On Dec. 17, 1907, Inspector Genereux and Constable Tasker, with guide, left for the south of Tramping Lake to investigate the reported shortage of fuel and destitution. On the trip he found a family of J— T—, wife and sister and seven children, without food or firewood. They were actually starving, and we supplied them with what provisions could be spared. On this being reported to me I sent a party from here on Dec. 27—Constables Burke, Townsend, and Foster—with provisions and clothing. On arriving at T—'s they found the family entirely out of food and firing. They had given up all ho,, and were huddled together in the middle of the floor, trying to keep one another warm. There was wood to be got three miles off, but they had no means of hauling it, and the snow was too deep to get at it. Constable Burke and party hauled them a supply of firewood."

The modest and matter-of-fact way in which the police report on their work is one of the most splendid characteristics. Take, for instance, the crisp little narrative sent in by Corpl. Hogg, who was sent to quell a fight at an hotel in North Portal.

"I found the room full of cowboys," he reported. "One, Monaghan, or 'Cowboy Jack,' was carrying a gun, against Sections 105 and 109 of the Criminal Code. We struggled. Finally I got him handcuffed. His head being in bad shape, I had to engage the services of a doctor. To the doctor Monaghan said if I hadn't grapped his gun there'd be another death in Canadian history. All of which I have the honor to report."

The corporal's superior officer added the following illuminating note to the report:

Door broken.
Screen smashed.
Chair broken.
Field jacket belonging to Corpl. Hogg spoiled by being covered with blood."

One last story, as I had it from Major Cuthbert, which well illustrates the faithfulness unto death which is a mark of the force.

A constable had been sent out in the snow to round up some stray horses. Overtaken by a blizzard, he wandered in circles till, overcome by cold and hunger, he fell from his horse. Some weeks later a search patrol found his dead body. In his pocket-book he had written:

Lost. Horse dead. Am trying to push on. Have done my best.

That is no novel story. It illustrates the spirit that makes the Royal Northwest Mounted Police the most effective body in the world, having regard to their numbers and their huge district.

Superintendent Cuthbert, who formerly commanded a division in the Klondike region, can tell some good stories of the work of the police in that wild district. It was in 1895, at the first hint of a gold rush, that the police first established a post in the Yukon, and a busy time they had. To keep law and order was only a part of the duty that they undertook. They acted as customs officer on each trail through the passes, ran the mail with dog teams, settled quarrels over mining claims, and acted as guide, philosopher, and friend to all and sundry.

Their reputation served them in good stead, and what the police said had to be done. The scum of the Pacific coast, who rushed to the new goldfield, found themselves up against men who meant to be obeyed, and were obeyed, even if the odds were hundreds to one, and the redcoats "made good."

Canadian Meal In Demand.

J. E. Ray, Canadian trade commissioner at Birmingham, reports that there is an increasing demand in Great Britain for cereal breakfast foods, but that the heavy initial expenditures on the advertising appear to deter many Canadian millers.

The total imports of oatmeal last year amounted to $923,610, of which $734,435 came from Canada, being an increase of $226,640. The purchasers of rolled oats amounted to $1,971,130, Canada's share being $1,076,130, an increase of $348,529.

The report shows that imports of Canadian peas and beans have fallen off in the last two years although the total imports from British possessions increased in five years by over $500,000, Canada being beaten by Australia, New Zealand and British India. No Canadian rye was sold in England last year, although there is an annual market for it from Great Britain of $1,000,000.

Swaps Farm For Ranch.

A somewhat curious exchange of property has just taken place in Nova Scotia. Not long since an English gentleman who made good on a ranch near Medicine Hat, visited Brookfield, eight miles from Truro. In conversation one day with Mr. Benjamin, a merchant of that place, he expressed himself as tired of the west and declared his desire to settle down in the east.

"I have a good farm I will trade for your ranch," said Mr. Benjamin, with the result that the Englishman said he was willing to make the exchange. Mr. Benjamin sent his son west to look over the property, with the result that the trade has been made.

Woman's World

Princess Patricia to Visit United States.

PRINCESS PATRICIA OF CONNAUGHT.

England has a genuine grievance in the fact that owing to the duke's appointment the "popular Connaughts" have all gone to live in Canada for a time. It is safe to say that all the other members of the royal family might have left en masse and not have been as sincerely regretted as are this uncle of King George and his wife and family.

Of course the loss of Princess Patricia causes the deepest pang. She is the only princess in Great Britain who is really pretty, clever and witty as well as young. Then, too, she has a little atmosphere of romance which rouses all the sentiment in English breasts. She is quite unlike her cousin, the somewhat stodgy Ena of Battenberg, who is now queen of Spain, and equally unlike the thin, shy, delicate daughters of the Duchess of Fife. She is just a typical, healthy, charming English girl, only with far more than their usual amount of brains and a most unroyal sense of humor.

Princess Patricia herself is quite enthusiastic about going to Canada. She intends to visit all the interesting places in the Dominion, and she and her brother, Prince Arthur of Connaught, are planning to see something of America also, traveling incognito and visiting most of the large cities. Princess Patricia saw her father and mother off for Canada; then she herself started for Sweden, where she is to have a farewell visit with her sister, the crown princess of Sweden. About Christmas she will join the duke and duchess in their new home.

Her love affair with a certain English marquis who is not of high enough rank to marry her is well known, and the young couple are regarded as models of fidelity.

Thoroughness an Asset.

One qualification a business girl should cultivate, if she wants to give satisfaction and to be sure always of a position, is thoroughness. The girl who does things thoroughly is a joy to her employer. Let her have that reputation and a business man will bolt the office door for fear she will escape before he can engage her.

The girl who half does her work is everywhere. The girl who is thorough is rare. And, like all rare things, she is prized.

Everywhere thoroughness is rated high. All lines of work require it. It is a quality that employers need most urgently. It is absolutely essential to successful business. A business man can't afford to jeopardize his business by placing it in the hands of the girl who half does her work. He knows that the injurious results of neglect, forgetfulness or indifference may be farreaching.

When a girl acquires a reputation for thoroughness, when it becomes known that she can be absolutely depended upon to do thoroughly what is intrusted to her, that no part of her work will be left undone, no part done carelessly, she will never be out of a position long.

Don'ts For Engaged Girls.

Don't exhibit him to your women friends as you would a new hat.

Don't think he's neglecting you because he isn't neglecting his business.

Don't note his vices before noticing his virtues. You will love him for both.

Don't ask his opinions on woman's rights. You will never get the truth until after you are married.

Don't be dictated to by all your female relatives. Remember they would like to marry him themselves.

Don't keep the past a closed book. Remember the past is never wholly your own property. Let him protect your interests.

Don't call him clever if he isn't. You are certain to tell him the reverse after you are married.

Don't keep a diary. You may want to burn it.

Don't forget he wants more mothering than when a boy.

Don't flirt with him.

PROTEST AGAINST SALARY INCREASE

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Twits Hon. Mr. Foster for Lavishness—Four Dollar Bill Must Go.

Ottawa, Jan. 12.—Quite a substantial beginning was made in the passage of the main estimates under the head of civil government, with the exception of those of the Department of Interior being approved when the committee of supply rose and reported progress.

The only item that stirred up much debate was the increase in the salary of Col. Anderson, chief engineer of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, from $3,550 to $4,000. The Government was charged by the Opposition with riding a coach and six through the Civil Service Act in this regard. If a jump of several years statutory increases were to be made in his case, it was argued there were many other officials, who through long service and ability, were equally deserving of recognition.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in particular, twitted Hon. Mr. Foster with no longer being the watch dog of the treasury, to which Mr. Foster retorted that Sir Wilfrid would now have a chance to transform himself into a watch dog.

When the House went into committee of supply yesterday afternoon Hon. William Pugsley voiced an objection to the issue of $4 Dominion notes. They were easily mistaken for $1 notes and were generally disliked.

Hon. W. T. White agreed as to the objectionable nature of the notes and stated that within the last few days he had been considering the advisability of issuing a $5 Government note.

In answer to a question of Mr. Pugsley, the Finance Minister stated that the contract with the American Bank Note Co., for the printing of Government notes, would expire on Oct. 1, 1912. The Government was now considering advertising probably in the next week in Canada and Great Britain, for tenders for a five-year contract.

Hon. Col. Hughes got his civil government estimates through almost without a hitch. When Sir Wilfrid Laurier enquired what the Militia Department wanted with an architect, the Minister was able to retort that the gentleman in question had been secured from the Public Works Department before Sept. 21, and he did not think he could be held criminally or otherwise responsible for this appointment.

Hon. J. D. Hazen announced the intention to appoint a general inspector of the agencies of the Department of Marine and Fisheries at a salary of $2,400.

Hon. William Pugsley objected to the proposal to advance the salary of Col. W. P. Anderson, chief engineer of the Marine and Fisheries Department, from $3,550 to $4,000 as an evasion of the law, and liable to cause jealousy among other officials who were not permitted to take several years statutory increases at once.

Fifteen Below

At the present time there is a feeling of decided sharpness in the ourdoor atmosphere. A cold wave now extends from the West to the Atlantic and zero readings are general. The lowest temperature last night locally was 15 degrees below zero. This morning it went down another notch but at noon it had ascended to 8 degrees below.

ALLOWED HIS WIFE TO STARVE

Windsor, Jan. 12.—George Knight, a well-to-do farmer of the Township of Gosfield South, Essex County, was placed under arrest yesterday by High Constable Campeau on a charge of murder, by neglecting to provide for his wife. According to information received by the authorities, Knight failed to provide food and clothing, although he is reputed to have $1,200 in the bank and a clear title to fifty acres of land. Knight is now lodged in jail here and will be arraigned to-day.

Mrs. Knight died on Dec. 22.

STRIKE FAVORED BY THE MINERS

London, Jan. 12.—The voting of the coal miners in all the districts throughout the United Kingdom shows an enormous majority in favor of a strike. and there is every indication that the needful two-thirds majority will be obtained. Previous experience in similar ballots, however, has shown a considerable waning of enthusiasm after the first day's voting. Hence it would be rash to predict that a strike will be voted, and strong influences are being exerted on both sides to avoid a conflict.

The ballot is to decide whether notice shall be given of a national strike, to begin on March 1. The men demand a fixed minimum wage. The leaders of the Miners' Federation are opposed to the movement.

DIED FROM EXPOSURE

A. J. Cameron, Well Known Surveyor Found on Road

Passed Away Two Hours After Discovery Was Made.

A shocking discovery was made this morning at day-break, when Alfred J. Cameron, of 708 Stewart street, the well-known local surveyor, was found in an unconscious condition on the road near Crawford's Grove, about two miles from the city. The unfortunate man was so badly frozen and the exposure resulting from lying in such a terrible predicament all last night was too much for his constitution, and death occurred at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. William Milne about two hours after he was rescued from his lamentable plight, he being found near the house.

FOUND BY MR. MILNE.

The discovery was first made by Mr. Milne, as he started out this morning before seven o'clock on his way to work in the Peterborough Cereal Co. mill. He saw an object lying in the road about seventy feet from his gate, and in the faint light at the time was unable to distinguish what it was. Calling his wife the two approached and found the body lying cuddled up on the road. The man's hat was off and his mitts were in his pocket. He was wearing a warm fur-lined coat. With the assistance of Mr. West, an inmate of Mr. Milne's house, the body was carried into a warm room and a vigorous chafing of his hands and extermities commenced. His hands and feet were frozen stiff, the boots being literally frozen to his feet. After some considerable work the blood slowly returned to his hands and he appeared to be recovering. A re-action, however, set in and the exposure of the night proved to severe and before the arrival of medical assistance the man had expired.

Comstock's ambulance brought him to the city.

One resident of the vicinity of the tragic affair is reported to have seen Mr. Cameron at 9.30 the night previous proceeding south, on foot, although the reason for his presence in that vicinity was not ascertained. The deceased is reported to have done some surveying work in that section the week previous, however.

The body was easily identified when brought to the city, as that of Mr. Cameron, the surveyor.

The sadness of the affair is enhanced by the fact that a family of seven small children besides a sorrowing wife, are bereaved in such a shocking manner. The oldest of the family being only ten years of age and the youngest under one year.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

DIED RATHER THAN TESTIFY

Father Accused His Son but Committed Suicide

Special To The Review.

London, Eng., Jan. 12—Thomas Stephens, aged 76 and a prominent lawyer, suicided to-day by cutting his throat rather than testify against his son, who had brought an action for defamation of character against the elder Stephens, who had accused the young man of misappropriating funds from a family estate.

THIRTY BELOW IN MINNEAPOLIS

Minneapolis, Jan. 12.—With a record of 30 degrees below zero yesterday. the thermometer denoted the coldest day in eight years.

Brockville, Jan. 12.—Following in line with the recent notification that the headquarters of the Ninth Brigade Canadian Artillery had been changed from Deseronto to Gananoque, comes a persistent rumor to the effect that an armory will be built at an early date on the Government property on the river front there.

HISTORIC CHURCH DESTROYED BY FIRE

Several Governor-Generals Worshipped in Ottawa Edifice.

Halifax Herald Building Goes up in Smoke—Several Fires.

Ottawa, Jan. 12.—Shortly after one o'clock yesterday morning fire was discovered in St. John's Church and damage to the extent of $40,000 was done. Simultaneously an alarm was sounded for a serious fire in the lower part of the city. The latter spread rapidly and it is not known as yet how serious it will be. It is at the corner of Clarence and Dalhousie streets.

The fire at St. John's Church started in a rubbish pile behind the building. The church and property were recently sold to the Dominion Government. It was one of Ottawa's most historical edifices, the Earl of Dufferin, Lord Lansdowne, Lord Aberdeen and other Governors-General having worshipped there. No other buildings were burned, although Le Temps newspaper building and the A. E. Rae building had narrow escapes. The fire in Lower Town is not as bad as was at first feared. Several small shops and dwellings were gutted, but no lives were lost.

Three firemen were hurt at St. John's Church, Lieut. McConnell, Buck Sarazin, the lacrosse player, and Schooner, the man who performed heroic work at another fire Wednesday. Part of the cupola fell and almost buried them beneath the ruins. Several were also overcome by smoke. While the St. John's fire was in progress it was impossible to get hose and apparatus down at the other blaze and the fire raged fiercely. It looked for a time as if several blocks would go.

Halifax Herald Burned Out.

Halifax, Jan. 12.—The Halifax Herald's five storey building, its presses and most of the other contents, together with several adjoining buildings, lies in ruins, fire having devoured it shortly after midnight. The blaze did not originate in The Herald building, but in W. S. Munny's dry goods store. Little could be done to abate its progress, and within a few minutes The Herald building, which almost adjoined Munny's store, and others were completely enveloped in flames and at 3 o'clock this morning lay in a mass of ruins.

An effort was made to save the files and other valuable papers from The Herald building, with the result that little was lost.

William Dennis, managing director of The Herald is in Ottawa.

Among the tenants burned out in The Herald fire are the offices of the Canada Life Insurance Co., and the United States consulate.

The loss and cause of the fire are unknown.

Oppose Arbitration Treaties.

Washington, Jan. 12.—The Lodge amendment to the resolution for ratification of the arbitration treaties with Great Britain and France has stirred unexpected opposition from Democratic Senators. It is favored, however, by three-fourths of the Republican members who accept it as a happy compromise of all differences. The amendment presented at the foreign relations meeting Wednesday, was introduced by Mr. Lodge in executive session of the Senate yesterday.

These objecting Democrats yesterday took the position that the Lodge amendment conflicted with the treaties themselves. Consequently, these Senators object to it as a practical nullification of the treaties' vital parts.

COSTLY FIRE AT HALIFAX UNDER CONTROL

Jewelry and Hardware Stores Lost Beside Herald Building

Special to the Review.

Halifax, Jan. 12.—The fire which destroyed the Herald building and Munsey's store, was still raging at nine o'clock this morning. The firemen are striving to confine the blaze to the block bounded by Barrington, George and Granville streets. Shaffre's jewellery store, Legg Bros.' Hardware and several other business places on Barrington street have been burned.

LATER.

Halifax, Jan. 12.—The fire was under control at ten o'clock. The loss is roughly estimated at half a million dollars.

PACKERS' BOOKS ARE MISSING

Chicago, Jan. 12.—Books and records showing the items and allowance used in figuring the test cost of fresh meats, which were inspected by a federal grand jury investigating charges of rebating against the packers in 1909, cannot be found by employes of the defendants, for use in the trial of the ten packers charged with conspiracy in restraint of trade, before United States District Judge Carpenter.

Three accountants employed by the packers testified yesterday that they had searched for the records in question and had been unable to find them. They said they believed the documents had been destroyed.

DETECTIVE BURNS IS VINDICATED

Indianapolis, Jan. 12.—Complimented by the federal court for having "rendered a great service to his country," William J. Burns, the detective, yesterday was released from the charge of having kidnapped John J. McNamara, the convicted dynamiter. All the charges in the indictment against Burns for having captured the labor leader in Indianapolis last April and taking him to California for trial were held to be null and void.

"If I or this court had had anything to do with the arrest of Mr. Burns in this instance, I would certainly now tender him an apology," said Federal Judge A. B. Anderson, in dismissing the indictments brought by the county grand jury under which the detective had been held in $10,000 bail.

TO PROBE BANK CASE

Ottawa, Jan. 12.—It was announced by Hon. W. T. White, Minister of Finance, last night, that the Government had decided to grant the requisition of the Farmers' Bank victims for a thorough investigation of the affairs of the bank. A royal commission is to issue, clothed with ample powers for probing the whole affair from beginning to end. The decision of the Government was reported without any further representations from the bank sufferers, although a number of gentlemen concerned in the appeal recently made were in Ottawa yesterday.

The commission has not yet been named, but will consist of one man, probably assisted by counsel. The commision, it is understood, will issue at once.

WIDELY KNOWN TURFMAN PASSES AWAY AT BARRIE

Johnny Dyment Succumbs After Four Days Illness—Trained Two Plate Winners.

Special to the Review.

Barrie, Jan. 12—Johnny Dyment, the trainer of the Brookdale stables for a dozen years, and well known as a supporter of sports of all kinds passed away here this morning. He had been ill only four days from a blood clot on the brain.

Horses handled by Dyment during his many years on the turf were generally conspicuous on the tracks and he trained many winners. "Thessalon" and "Sapper" two King's Plate winners in 1903-4 respectively.

BIG LAND SALE IS REPORTED

Toronto, Jan. 12.—One of the largest land deals in the history of Canada, affecting Montreal, Winnipeg, Port Mann (the new Pacific terminus of the C.N.R.) and about seventy divisional points of the C.N.R. in the west, was concluded yesterday, when John F. Hansen, representing a coterie of English capitalists, purchased on a cash basis from Col. A. D. Davidson, representing the Canadian Northern land to the value of $5.500,000.

The C.N.R. a short time ago concluded arrangements whereby they assumed control of a large tract of land in Montreal in the vicinity of Dominion Park, where they will lay out railway yards, erect shops, grain elevators, and build their own docks. It is understood that this deal has been pending for some time, but owing to the incompletion of the Montreal deal nothing could be done.

Fear Water Famine.

Niagara Falls, Jan. 12.—With the thermometer hovering near zero and the natural gas pressure very low, citizens last night also face a water famine. The river is very low and but little water is in the city's intake. The ice mound grew 30 feet higher during the day.

The arraignment was formally observed to prevent habaes corpus proceedings and to hold the prisoner until a Canadian officer arrives.

CHILDREN PERISH IN TORONTO FIRE

Parents Left Little Ones in House Alone—Building Destroyed

Special To The Review.

Three other children escaped. The father, a carpenter, was at work and the mother is said to have been at church.

The dead are Irene Dillon aged two years and seven months and Frances Dillon, a baby seven months old.

PROTEST AGAINST GEORGIAN BAY CANAL

Western Ontario Men Urge Welland Canal Scheme—Great Waterways Union Formed.

Berlin, Jan. 12—An important movement in the history of Canada was launched here yesterday afternoon, in Concordia Hall, when 80 earnest men, representatives of the Ontario towns, assembled to organize the Canadian Great Waterways Union, with the aim that the scheme of men of vision may be realized.

The project launched yesterday afternoon, if hopes are realized, will connect the ocean with the great lakes by a ship canal and the great ocean liners in a few short years will toot their whistles at Toronto and Port Arthur and Montreal.

The meeting was opened at 2.30 o'clock by Mayor Schmalz, who called on the meeting to appoint a chairman. Mayor Thorpe of Guelph, who was voted to the chair, said he was in strong sympathy with the plan to improve the waterways. He and four aldermen, together with President J. W. Lyon of the Board of Trade, and Alex. Stewart, president of the Guelph Junction Railway, were present to lend aid in the movement, and it was time to be up and doing. It was a national question and the grain of the Northwest should be brought down to the seaboard through its natural source, which could be made available.

The chairman then called on B. D. Detweiler, the father of the movement, who expressed his gratification at the great interest manifested in the meeting, and read a pamphlet, which has been pretty widely circulated throughout Canada, and which outlines the project and tells of the great advantages to be obtained through its adoption.

The necessity for immediate action, Mr. Detweiler held to be urgent and he strongly advocated the institution of a movement to secure the expression of public opinion, and the organisation of an influential deputation to wait upon the Ottawa authorities and relieve them from the pres-

Husband Mute 25 Years.

Maysville, Ky., Jan. 12.—Though he left much land and other property to his wife, Louis Roser, who died last Sunday, had not spoken to her until that day for twenty-five years. This became known Wednesday after his will was filed for probate. It developed that on Sunday morning Mrs. Roser broke the long silence by asking:

"Will you have a cup of coffee?"

"I believe I will," was his reply.

In a few moments he was stricken with heart disease, and died. His will directs that his body be cremated and the ashes cast to the winds from Cincinnati Suspension Bridge.

RIVER SEINE STILL RISING

Paris, Jan. 12.—The River Seine is still rising, although it is 13 feet below the mark of the great flood in 1910. The situation is considered very grave, the hyprographic authorities announcing that as a result of the overflow of the tributaries of the Seine, on account of continuous heavy rains for a week past, the river will continue to rise until the end of the week. This will put all the wharves under water.

Brantford's Rabies Scare.

Strictest precautions are being taken in this city to prevent the spread of the disease.

BETTER NAVAL SERVICE

That the British Government made a good selection in Right Hon. Winston Churchill, as head of the navy, is generally conceded. Mr. Churchill is a soldier by training and well qualified to know the needs of Britain's sea fighting forces. His proposal to reorganize the naval administration upon the system of military organization, and the appointment of a naval staff is the first step in this direction. A study of naval strategy and preparation will be made by this staff, which will keep the naval lords thoroughly posted as to the doings of other powers, work out strategical plans, to meet an emergency and to arrange for a quick mobilization of Britain's naval forces when necessary.

The naval staff will see to it that all ships are properly equipped in every department and ready for active service at short notice.

The Moroccan crisis is believed to be responsible to a certain extent for the new departure. The naval authorities at that time seemed to be lacking in information regarding the movements of the various squadrons, and in fact it is said that during several days when the diplomatic crisis was at its height, a large proportion of the British fleet was at work at practice manoeuvres off the coast of Scotland. And this when at any moment there might have been a call for active service. Someone had blundered or the magazines would have been filled and the decks cleared for action instead.

There should be no occasion in future for such a display of lax administration of naval affairs, as the naval staff will keep in touch with the entire fleet and have them ready for hostilities if they come.

NO POWER DEPARTMENT

The Whitney Government has decided that for the present at least, there will be no department of Power, but that the hydro-electric commission with Hon. Adam Beck at its head, will still control the power affairs of the Province. The Premier in his pre-election manifesto, stated that the commission would be dissolved and a department created in the government to look after power matters. Sir James and his colleagues have since that time seen clearly that public opinion was against this step, as the commission have accomplished excellent work, and then the municipalities taking power should be consulted before any such move is made, as they voted their money and support of the scheme with a commission in charge. The Premier is acting wisely in not abolishing the commission at the present time, as the commission possesses the confidence of the municipalities of which it is the trustee, and will no doubt continue to hold this confidence as long as the commission is constituted as it is to-day.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Resigning seems to be the favorite pastime with the French Cabinet.

That addition to the local Postoffice provided for in the Dominion estimates will help some. It was badly needed.

Our star reporter is complaining. He says, here it is the 12th of January and no fair dam[illegible] yet.

Sixty below zero is reported from the West. How rude of us to suggest that it is cold when only fifteen or twenty below.

A woman in Maysville, Ky., did not speak to her husband for 25 years although living with him all that time. She must have been dumb or else a new species of woman.

People in this neighborhood will be glad to learn that the dancing masters of New York have cut out the "turkey trot" and all similar dances.

"Hockey fever," is the latest to make its appearance in Peterborough and an epidemic is feared, after the splendid showing made by the intermediate and junior teams.

You take your choice in the despatches from China these days. One tells you fighting has been resumed and the other declares that peace has been decided upon and fighting stopped.

The promoters of the Poultry Show have good reason to feel proud of this year's exhibition. There was an excellent showing of birds and a good attendance. It eclipsed all previous records.

An Italian who used a knife in a row has been sentenced to twenty months in the "pen" by an Ottawa Magistrate. It is time foreigners were getting heavy sentences for this kind of thing. It will learn them to respect Canadian laws.

The rumor that Mr. Hugh Guthrie would succeed Sir Wilfrid as leader of the opposition at Ottawa is flatly denied by Mr. Guthrie and there is no occasion at the present time to see why Sir Wilfrid would desert his party after stating that he was "going to stick with the boys." Just another correspondent's dream.

Hobble skirts have been tabooed by the Ladies Tailors and Dressmakers' Association of America. Now the young ladies will be able to move about again without fearing a disaster if they attempted to move faster than a "goose trot." Just a matter of "form" in changing the styles, you know.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucuous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you may have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed. Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucuous surfaces.

Proportional Representation

Montreal Witness.

A similar society to the British one is badly needed in Canada, so as to bring about proportional representation here. At present the turn-over over of a few thousand votes has an effect altogether disproportionate to their real significance, and minorities get no voice in Parliament at all. When Lord Grey was here he was an enthusiastic advocate for proportionate representation, and one at least of the present members of the Government, Mr. Monk, has expressed himself as favorable to it.

How Canadians Are Trained

London Chronicle.

Preparations for the endurance of extreme cold forms part of the education of the natives of Northern Canada. The boys, when very young, are first whipped in order to make their flesh tingle, and then sent to bathe in the half frozen rivers. As they grow older they are made to lie out of doors at night with no clothes on, sometimes for a week or so at a stretch. The consequence is that either they die or become so hardened as to be able to go naked in any weather without the slightest discomfort.

The Craze for Office

Winnipeg Free Press.

If current reports are to be believed, Hon. Mr. Rogers never really knew what office-seeking meant until he returned to Winnipeg for his Christmas "holidays." If every head in Western Canada were to fall there would not be enough vacancies to satisfy one-tenth the applications for positions which were showered upon the Minister of the Interior. This yearning for government jobs is a singular craze. The worst fate that could happen a young, vigorous westerner would be to be immured in a government office during the splendid period of advancement and prosperity which lies before the west.

THE MARKETS

Latest Quotations in Grain Dairy Products, Live Stock Etc.

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—Heavy selling, presumably to release profits, more than wiped out a modest advance here today in wheat. The fact that cash demand was disappointing and flour business light, formed a contributing cause. The close was easy at a shade to 1-8c to 1-4c under last night. Corn showed a net gain of 3-8c to 1-2c, oats finished 1-8c off to 1-2c up, and provisions at an advance of 7 1-2c to 32 1-2c.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Jan. 11.—There was an increased demand from European sources for Manitoba spring wheat and prices bid showed a further advance of 3d to 4½d per quarter with a fair amount of business doing for May-June shipment. The tone of the local market for oats is stronger and higher prices have been realized in some cases. Malting barley is strong and prices have advanced 1c to 2c per bushel. The foreign demand for spring wheat flour continues good and sales were made at an advance of 6d per sack. A good local trade is passing at firm prices. Bran and shorts are scarce and wanted.

Cheese is strong and prices are ⅛c to ¼c per lb. higher, with a good demand from English buyers and the bulk of the stock on spot has been sold. There is a much better feeling in the butter market and prices have an upward tendency, owing to the increased demand for supplies from the northwest and the falling off in receipts. Roll butter is very scarce and prices have advanced to 27½c to 28c. Eggs are active and firm.

THE REVIEW

The Paternoster Ruby

By Charles Edmond Walk.

Supplied exclusively in Canada by the British & Colonial Press, Limited, Toronto.

"Listen to me, sir," he commanded, his voice trembling, "you are the one in authority here; this young man must not be remanded to jail."

Dr. De Breen stopped short and fixed him with a look of surprise. And I was not a little surprised myself. Knowing how bitterly opposed he had been to Maillot's attentions to Miss Belle, what was I to think? Did the manner in which the shock had prostrated her—had literally felled her to the floor—open his eyes to the depth of their attachment, and at the same time touched his heart with pity? His concern could not have been more pronounced if the young fellow had been his own son placed in similar jeopardy. Or,—and here was my predominating thought—did he have the best reasons for knowing that Maillot was innocent?

During the brief pause in which Dr. De Breen coolly surveyed him—for the perverse glasses observing their proper function—he recovered something of his equipoise.

"See here, Doctor," he went on more calmly, "I am not familiar enough with the procedure in—er—in criminal cases to know just what I want to say. But is the next step imprisonment for Mr. Maillot?"

"It is," snapped the doctor.

"Then I will go his bond—in any amount; but he must not go—"

"My dear sir," Dr. De Breen interrupted, with asperity, "a prisoner under charge of first degree murder cannot be admitted to bail; not even by the court having jurisdiction if his case, much less I. The police are now responsible for the young man's movements."

He deliberately turned his back upon the millionaire speculator, and strode away. Years after that scene, Dr. De Breen confided to me that Fluette had given him the impression that he was hinting at a bribe.

The words, however, seemed to strike Mr. Fluette like a physical blow. He winced perceptibly, and his face worked with agitation. But he rose splendidly to the occasion. In a second or so his customary commanding dignity returned, and his keen flance. He wheeled upon Maillot a the instant that much distressed young man was persuaded by Genevieve to leave Belle's side.

"Maillot," said he, in a firm voice, "I sincerely regret any hard feelings I may have entertained for you in the past. You are not only a courageous young man, but an innocent one, and one, therefore, that is being made to suffer a grievous wrong. I wish to say so here publicly; I wish, too, to say publicly that I mean to see that you have at your disposal the best legal talent procurable."

Maillot's reception of this offer was peculiar. He looked the man of money squarely in the eyes for an instant; then his lips twisted into a mocking smile. He nodded his head ever so slightly, but the movement was unmistakably a curt rejection.

"Thank you," he said dryly, his voice low and even. "But I intend getting out of this scrape myself, Mr. Fluette; I don't wish to occasion you any future embarrassment. Please don't mistake my meaninng."

Fluette made no further effort, and it was impossible to determine just how the rebuff—it was no less—affected him; he had himself well in hand, now. He began preparations for conveying home his still unconscious daughter, and before they departed I contrived to have a private word with Genevieve. Her face was very tragic.

"I must see you alone—as soon as possible," I said hurriedly.

"I can't leave Belle," she whispered. "What is it?"

"My first request from my lieutenant," I chided, smiling down at her.

"Don't!" she pleaded. "I shall come Where? When?"

Dear me, no. I'll do the coming; it's only 'when'?"

"To-morrow?" she suggested doubtfully. "You know, we're all so upset. And Belle—" The dear girl nearly broke down. Yes, do come," she murmured tearfully, "as early as you can; everything depends upon you, now."

I caught her hand. "Please don't worry," I whispered; "everything will come out right. I can't bear to see you suffer. Will eight o'clock be too early?"

"No."

"I'll not say 'Be brave,' for you're the bravest girl in the world; but please don't fret and worry Here's your coachman. Good-bye."

She smiled wanly. "I sha'n't," she said. "Good-bye—till to-morrow morning."

She pressed my hand and ran lightly out.

Maillot now came over to where I was standing. He was very pale, his face was drawn with lines of suffering (more for Miss Belle than on his own account, beyond doubt), but his manner was quite composed. In fact, his demeanor was more subdued—chastened, as it were—than I had seen it at any time during our brief acquaintance.

"Well, it's over," he remarked bitterly.

"Don't be an ass," I returned. "If you are innocent, nothing worse can happen."

He smiled whimsically, quickly taking me up.

"And if guilty, the worst is yet to come, eh? Well, at any rate, I'm your prisoner."

"Not necessarily mine," I said.

"By preference. I can't stand for those rough-neck cops, and Stodger as a custodian is a joke. I'd be too strongly tempted to dump him into the first handy snow-drift, and cut loose. I don't suppose you'll insist on any rot about handcuffs and all that sort of thing?"

Notwithstanding his pretence of humorous indifference, there was a question in his tone, and he peered at me a bit anxiously. I grinned.

"I don't know," I said. "I won't take any chances on being dumped into a snow-drift."

"Rot! You know I couldn't if I wanted to."

"Mr. Fluette could have helped you, Maillot."

I looked at him narrowly. He shrugged his shoulders, merely, and produced and lighted a cigarette.

"Let's go," he said, flipping the match away.

Stodger was left on guard at the Page place. My prisoner and I walked to a car and proceeded to police headquarters.

His attitude, naturally enough, was one of extreme dejection; nevertheless I tried to cheer him up—vainly and when opportunity offered I also tried to get some light upon the ring episode.

"It doesn't do for me to express an opinion one way or another as to your probable guilt or innocence, Maillot," I said at one time; "but I can tell you this much for your encouragement.

"Since the murder, several developments have turned up which convince me that there's a deal more in the crime than either you or I can at present conceive. You can keep it in mind that I see more work ahead than I did immediately after quizzing you and Burke Wednesday morning. . . . By the way, that ring you slipped upon your finger this morning, whose is it?"

For a second he frowned with an air of trying to recall the incident. Suddenly his face cleared.

"Did you notice that?" he returned, with perfect composure. "It's mine—was my mother's wedding ring."

I was watching him intently. He met my regard with a level look.

"In the habit of wearing it?" I asked.

"Sometimes."

"See here," I came to the point with abrupt directness. "You appreciate quite as much as I do the significance of that broad band of gold on the middle finger of your right hand. Why did you put it there at such a time?"

He sat silent.

"You've become mighty close-mouthed all at once," sharply urged.

He gave me a little half-smile, and glanced away.

"By advice of counsel I refuse to talk," said he, quietly.

"If you are the counsel, you have a fool for a client—and vice versa," I retorted. "I suppose, too, that you refuse any assistance that I—"

Instantly his assumed indifference vanished.

"By no means," stopping me with considerable warmth. "If there's any way out of this rotten mess it's you that must get me out. My hands are literally tied, now. And—Swift," he hesitated; his face clouded and his voice suddenly dropped, "I—I simply can't say anything more, old chap."

"So," I quietly observed, "you, too, are worried about Fluette."

He started as if stung.

"My God, Swift!" he began, and stopped. He sat staring at me a moment in utter dismay, then his disturbed look wandered to a window.

"You're too devilish sharp," he muttered.

"Lucky for you that I am," retorted I, cheerfully. "This is a bad tangle that we're caught in, Maillot."

He said nothing more. By the time we reached our destination he was prepared to enter philosophically upon his period of confinement, whether it should prove long or short. As I turned to depart I noticed that he was following me with a wistful look.

"I'll see that you are kept posted about the young lady," I told him; which elicited a deep sigh of relief and a fervent word of thanks.

Again I was preparing to leave him, the turnkey standing by and impatiently jingling the ring of big brass keys which was suspended from his arm, when the prisoner called me back. He searched my eyes earnestly.

"Swift," he began, "as I said before, I'm helpless now to fight for myself. But I want to warn you you against that devil Burke. I know nothing further than that he has been in the habit of visiting Mr. Fluette and of being closeted with him for hours at a time. The subject of those long conferences Mr. Fluette has kept strictly to himself, evading all of Belle's inquiries and attempts to make him talk about the fellow. Burke is repulsive to her—for which you can't blame her—and her curiosity over a man like him and a man like her father having anything in common is quite natural. It is odd, you know.

"That's not what I intended saying, though." He paused and eyed me keenly an instant. "If anything turns up that drags Mr. Fluette into this business, you will find that Burke's the one who has tangled him. Watch Burke."

Then the heavy steel door clanged to between us.

WARNING !

Information has reached us that certain dealers, when asked for Zam-Buk, try to sell something else on which they make a larger profit. They do not give this or that reason out say, "I can sell you so and so at half the price and it is just as good."

Don't be fooled! The "cheap" preparation is not just as good as Zam-Buk— not in the same class! Most of the cheap salves are made from animal fats and oils. Zam-Buk is made from pure herbal essences and juices. There is as little similarity between the two as between a horse and an automobile!

Imitations of Zam-Buk and cheap substitutes may give the dealer a little more profit, but they won't cure your skin disease, or stop the pain of your burn, or ease the agony of piles, or cure the rash on your baby. Don't be misled. Get the real Zam-Buk. See the legally protected name on the packet before paying for it.

A Common Mistake

A common mistake, and one that is quite excusable, is that so many people between the ages of 40 and 50 feeling the need of glasses either refuse to wear them or continue putting it off.

There is no greater mistake than the common saying that "so and so" had such strong eyes, lived to be 80 and never used glasses to read. It is a physiological fact that at the age of 45 years the crystal line lens looses some of its elasticity; it looses more as age advances, so that even under accommodation it cannot become convex as it did before; consequently, this convexity (needed for reading) must be supplied artificially by means of glasses.

The above is taken from the Family Doctor a large American publication.

WE RECOMMEND GLASSES ONLY WHEN ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY.

PETERBORO MAY BE SIDETRACKED

New Montreal Line From Montreal to Toronto Planned

Telegram—Plans have been filed for a diversion of the C.P.R. line from Montreal to Toronto, which will mean the sidetracking of Peterborough to some extent.

The Telegram learns that the proposal is to start the diversion near Tweed and run down to Belleville and from there to Toronto along the lake shore. The section along the lake shore will be between the G.T.R. and C.N.R. for most of the way, taking in the towns which both these lines are close to, but do not actually enter.

DROP ROUGH SECTION.

The section of the C.P.R. east of Myrtle through Peterborough to Smith's Falls has long been regarded by the public as a "rough road." The main line to Montreal now goes through the roughest section of Eastern Ontario. From Montreal the line is double tracked to Smith's Falls, and it is understood that the construction of the proposed diversion the road will be double tracked from Smith's Falls to Toronto.

Plans for the entry into Belleville have been filed. Plans are also in course of preparation for filing in the registry offices of the various counties through which the new line will built.

COUPLE WANT TO BE DEPORTED

Have Failed to Make Good in This Country

Life in Canada for a young English emigrant couple and child, has been by no means a path of roses, since their arrival here last April. On the contrary, they appear to have encountered an unusual share of genuine hard luck and misfortune, some of which as far as can be ascertained is attributable to their inability to accomodate themselves to conditions in this country, and some to the general inefficiency of the husband himself. Mention has previously been made of some of the adversity they have run up against, and papers are now in the hands of the immigration authorities at Ottawa, advocating the deportation of the family to the land of their birth.

The couple are both under-sized and are plainly unfitted for rigorous work. Several positions have one by one been forsaken by the husband on account of his inefficiency and his wife has found her life so unpleasant that she intimated to the local immigration officer her desire to return to the shelter of the parental roof, as her father was in a position to look after her in a more agreeable manner.

The husband worked at the Quaker Oats this summer but missed work a couple of days through alleged laziness with the consequence that the job was closed for him when he returned.

Both husband and wife it seems are reconciled to their proposed deportation and deporting officer Devlin is expected in the city at an early date.

ORDINATION AT ST. PETERS

Toronto Candidates Were Ordained by Bishop O'Connor

At nine o'clock this morning in St. Peter's cathedral, the ceremony of the ordination into the priesthood of the Roman Catholic church of the two young deacons of Tornoto namely A. J. Staley and W. A. Egan, was observed with all the solemnity befitting such an occasion. His Lordship Bishop O'Connor officiated assisted by Rev. Dr. Kidd, administrator of the arch diocese of Toronto.

The complete form of procedure attendant upon the ordination of a priest of the Roman Catholic church, was carried out. The ordination is one of the most solemn and impressive ceremonies of the Catholic church

The Bishop first celebrated Mass, clothed in full Pontificials. The candidates after being duly examined concerning conduct and morals, knowledge of the Scripture, theology, etc., were then arrayed in the vestments of deacons. The Bishop then addressed the assembled clergy and congregation using the customary address.

After a short interval, the Bishop gave the sermon to the candidates to be ordained.

The last Gospel was then said, which concluded the ceremony.

Two brothers of Father Staley were present, and the father and one brother of Father Egan, Father John O'Brien, Lakefield and Father Scanlon, of Grafton, were also present and all the Roman Catholic clergy of the city.

WEEK OF PRAYER

Last of Series in George Street Church To-night

The interest in the meetings in connection with the week of prayer has been steadily deepening night after night, notwithstanding the extreme cold. On Wednesday evening, Rev. Mr. Webb to a good sized audience in St. Paul's church, on the subject, "Truth in the Inward Parts" His message was a very heart searching one and brought powerfully home to all whho heard it the duty of absolute sincerity and truthfulness in the Christian life. A man must be true to himself. He must be true to his fellowmen and he must be true to his God.

Last night the service was held in Murray street Baptist church and was conducted by Rev. I. Couch. His text was taken from Jude 1: 21. "Keep yourselves in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ, unto eternal life." He said in part, "during this year we should seek to keep ourselves in the love of God, so that our hearts and our principles may be in accord with what God loves and admires. To this end we will need to have regard to our faith, as faith is the foundation of pure love. There is every need to hold constant fellowship with Christ. This is our privilege, and if we do this we will learn to know the Saviour and hence love Him. We should seek to keep our hearts warm in service to our fellowmen, and also ever have a personal concern for our own soul's salvation."

The meeting to-night will be held in George street Methodist church.

Don't neglect to see the Kinemacolor Coronation Pictures at the Grand Opera House to-night. Given in colors with great clearness and distinctness. Opera House to-night and Saturday, with Matinee each day.

FIRE HALL VISITED BY FIRE, WATER AND LIGHT COMMITTEE

Chief Wants a Sleigh, and Wouldn't Object to a Fur Cap—His Requests Are Referred to the Chairman, Who Will Also Get After P. L. and P. Company.

Ald. W J. Johnston, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, has lost no time in settling down to the duties of his position. A meeting of that body was held in the chief's office at the fire hall last evening with all the members on hand, namely, Mayor Bradburn, Ald. Buller, Gordon, Anderson, Morgan, Brown and the chairman, Ald. Johnston stated that the meeting was chiefly intended for an opportunity for the new committee to inspect the fire hall and equipment and to familiarize themselves with it for future proceedings. Also any unfinished business from last year could be wound up.

The first matter dealt with, concerned the condition of hydrants during the present cold spell, it being urged that they should be kept clear from snow, and not allowed to freeze up.

A request from the committee to the water commissioners was suggested asking the latter to see that such was done, was made in the form of a motion by the mayor, seconded by Ald. Morgan and carried. In regard to the number of hydrants in the city a plan is now being drafted by the commissioners, a copy of which will be forwarded to the Fire Chief. A plan showing the position of the lamps of the lamps of the city will also be prepared for the convenience of the chief.

THOSE ARC LAMPS.

Chief Howard brought up the matter of the resolution of the Fire, Water and Light Committee of last year, which instructed the Peterborough Light and Power Company to place arc lights under the trees on the streets. The chief remarked that this was done in some cases and then the wrok lagged, the company pleading lack of material as an excuse. That the lights should be placed in the middle of the streets was left by the committee to be the best plan.

AFTER THE COMPANY.

Ald Johnston said the only way to achieve their object was to keep hammering away. He suggested making a fresh attack on the company to induce them to place the lights, or get some definite statement from them.

Ald. Gordon said that the chairman would be the best man to interview the company on the matter.

A request was made to the committee through Ald. Brown for an incandescent light to be placed in the market office to replace the inefficient coal oil lamp at present in use.

WHAT THE CHIEF WANTS.

Chief Howard made a few requests of the committee for articles which he stated were really imperative. The first article required was a sleigh for a single horse to convey him to fires in the winter.

"You know a buggy does not look well in winter time," was his remark. It would cost about $65 for one made to order. Some discussion followed which was settled by Ald. Gordon, who moved that the committee refer the matter to the chairman with power to act, and the latter report back at the next committee meeting. Ald. Buller seconded the motion, which carried. The matter of a new Persian lamb fur cap for the chief was also similarly dealt with.

The next request was for a hose-tester, which would cost about $185. Ald. Buller and Morgan have both seen the machine in operation and considered it good. On Mayor Bradburn's suggestion the chairman will make a note of the request and take the matter up when going into the estimates.

Ald. Johnston remarked that the committee did not wish to refuse the chief any request absolutely necessary, but yet they did not care to buy unnecessary articles.

A new fire record book will be purchased for the chief as the present one is about filled.

Four supply men who assisted the chief during the water pressure test were each ordered to be paid $1.50 for their services. Some more coal bags will be purchased for the hall. A couple of other minor requests completed the chief's list.

The committee odjourned and made a thorough inspection of the fire hall and equipment.

T.A.S. TAKE TRENT VALLEY OPENER FROM CAMPBELLFORD

Abstainers Lead All the Way and Finished With Score of 10-4.

Peterboro T.A.S. and Campbellford opened the Trent Valley League at Brock street rink last night with a bang, in fact there were a goodly number of bangs, and the crowd, numbering about 400 enjoyed the game.

The abstainers won out with a score of 10-4, after leading at the half with the figures 6-2 on their side. It wasn't good hockey and Campbellford, with any kind of ability for shooting, would have scored a dozen or more. They had the speed on their shots, but the puck hit everything but Doc McFadden or the nets he guarded. On other occasions with great chances to score, Campbellford players would toy with the puck in an endeavor to get set for a shot and, as a result, were easy picking for their husky and aggressive opponents.

The players at times collected about the ice, like old maids at a tea party, and the result can be imagined better than can be explained. Of slashing, there was plenty, and referee McPhee was fortunate in escaping injury.

The Local Option town boys showed lack of practice, and only a couple of the players were strong on their skates. The two wings, Kerr and Myers did a lot of useful work and Grant played well in goal, in the second half. Otherwise the team was weak.

Francis McPhee at rover for the T.A.S. was the shining light and it was largely due to his work that his team piled up their ten goals. He scored the majority, some on individual performances that were exceptionally well executed. Halpin held down centre ice, and made good, despite his diminuitiveness in comparison to the Campbellford players. Lonsfield and O'Dette on the boards were effective throughout. The defence with Lonsfield at cover and Meagher at point, did a lot of useful work, the former scoring in the first first half on a long, hard shot from centre ice. Doc. McFadden wasn't overworked but stopped a number of attempts.

E. Lansfield at left was hurt in the first chapter and was carried to thhe dressing room for repairs. There were several other minor injuries received by the players.

The teams were—

Campbellford brought up a crowd of about 300 in their special.

SPECIAL TO LINDSAY

Low Rate of 75c and 40c for Monday — Junior Practice Called for To-night—Stirling Beat the Champions.

The hockey club will run a popular special excursion to Lindsay Monday night for the game between the locals and Lindsay.

The train leaves the G.T.R station at seven o'clock sharp, the fare being 75 cents for adults and 40 cents for children.

The juniors are wanted out to-night at the rink for practice. Every player should be in his place, as the return game in Scugogville will be no dream. Its going to be hard.

The return intermediate game scheduled for Friday night next at Lindsay has been postponed by the consent of both teams till Tuesday, January 30. Lindsay minstrels are putting on a show at the week-end.

Everything was lovely for the special which was billed to leave at 4.30 with the hockey team for the game at Belleville to-night. The team is the same as played against Lindsay. The correct result of the game can be learned by enquiry at the Review to-night.

All Saints' will not go to Havelock to-night, Manager Moffatt being notified by the Havelock management that the lighting system of the rink is not in commission.

Somebody is going to be seriously hurt if hockey players at the rink continue the practice of trying to hit the top railing of the boards with the puck. If some of the spectators would teach some of the offenders a lesson the practice might cease.

The T.A.S.-Campbellford game did not start till after nine o'clock last night. The visitors were held back by a delay in starting, and the team was stalled for some time owing to trouble.

Stirling defeated Marmora in a Trent Valley League fixture Wednesday night, at the latter place by a score of 3—2.

ROOTER CUT BELOW THE EYE BY THE PUCK

One of the Campbellford team supporters, Callaghan by name, received a bad cut below the eye when he was struck by the puck, which was scooped into the eastern section of the rink last night during the progress of the T.A.S.-Campbellford hockey match. Friends assisted him to the dressing room, and he afterwards received medical attention.

LOCALS WON WITH HOODOO OF THIRTEEN

Campbellford Tied One and Finished Ahead in Another

Peterborough curlers entertained four Campbellford rinks last night and won out with 13 points to the good. The visitors made a good showing, Skip Smith tyeing Skip Stevenson, while Lynch's rink had Geo Clarke's quartet beaten by four shots. Skips Moore and Sturgeon had a good lead on their opponents. Andy Webb was a big factor, so they say in the win by Skip Sturgeon.

The skips and scores were:

Campbellford.		Peterborough.
F. J. Smith,	11	G. B. Stevenson,	11
J. Dickson,	6	R. G. Sturgeon,	14

The open bonspiel opens after the visit of the Scottish curlers.

Orillia News Letter:—Hoot mon! The visiting Scotch curlers who are touring Canada, will be in Peterborough on Monday, January 22nd. T. Madden, George Rapley and Geo. Sinclair were appointed for the Toronto game.

The draw for to-night is:

FARM PROPERTY CHANGES HANDS

Mr. John Moncrief Has Purchased "Bonnie Brae"

Bensfort, Jan. 12—Reeve Waterman is to be congratulated on his victory over Mr. J. Buckham on Monday for the reeveship of the township. Mr. Buckham is an old war horse in municipal affairs, which adds grace to Mr. Waterman's victory.

Mr. and Mrs. Geordie Wood were surprised on Wednesday night when a sleigh load of friends called on them. A very pleasant evening was spent in games, music and dancing. Mr. Harry Nicholson was driver of the sleigh, and amongst the company were Mrs. Wm. Thompson and Mrs. Lancelot Nicholson, who, though unable to indulge in the pleasures added grace to the occasion by their presence. Now that church union seems so near, we think the Ladies' Aid should unite in furnishing amusement for our young people during the long winter evenings.

The latest snow fall has brought many of our young men out with their 'charmers' (chimers) and sleighs Mr. Harry Kerr's red cutter is very conspicuous among the others.

Miss Mary Nicholson and Miss Eva Fletcher have spent the week visiting friends in Omemee.

Mr. Harry Kerr and Miss Twylor were in Millbrook a few days ago.

Mrs. Robert Fisher and Master Chas. Fisher have returned after visiting friends at Embro.

We understand Mr. John Moncrief has purchased the "Bonnie Brae" farm from Stinton Bros. who are retiring from farm life. Mr. Moncrief is to be congratulated on the purchase of this fine property.

INCREASE FOR THE ENGINEERS

Ottawa Government Would Increase Their Salaries

Ottawa, Jan. 12—A large portion of the afternoon and most of the evening in the House yesterday, was taken up by discussion in committee of the whole, of the proposed increase by the Minister of Public Works and by the Minister of Marine and Fisheries of the salaries of some of the engineers in the public service, who by long and meritorious work, deserve increase, in view of the increased cost of living and of the increased remuneration of engineers not in government employ. Sir Wilfrid and Mr. Pugsley were the chief of the objectors to what the government maintained was only fair to the whole engineering profession in general and the particular engineers in particular. The debate was as strenuous as it was long but the government stood its ground for which the engineering profession may well be grateful.

Much Treasure Moved.

New York, Jan. 12.—Between $300,000,000 and $400,000,000 in cash and securities was removed intact late yesterday from the vaults of two of the financial institutions whose quarters were destroyed in the great fire that gutted the Equitable Life Assurance Society building on Tuesday. The vaults of the Equitable Trust Co. alone yielded $300,000,000, mostly securities held under corporate and individual trusteeship. These were transferred under an escort of police to the company's temporary offices, further from Broadway.

There remains yet to be opened the great vault of the Equitable Assurance Society itself, with its treasure of $300,000,000.

Somewhere in an icy shroud the body of Battalion Chief Walsh still lies among the ruins.

B. C. May Build Line.

Vancouver, Jan. 12.—A railway running north and south through British Columbia, intended primarily to open the great Peace River prairies, is the chief question for legislative action for the session of the British Columbia Parliament, which opened at Victoria yesterday.

At this session the plan is to arrange for a line nearly 1,000 miles in length to connect Vancouver with the rich agricultural lands of northern British Columbia. But an advance may be made on any previous Western Canada legislation in that the new line may be built and operated by the Government.

The Canadian Pacific has already filed plans for terminals at North Vancouver, which would be the southern end of a Peace River line.

THE SECOND GRAVEDIGGER.

He Saw His Chance and Made a Big Hit in "Hamlet."

A company playing "Hamlet" was forced to find an actor to play the second gravedigger on account of the illness of the second comedian of the company. The only actor available was a variety performer who had no reverence for Shakespeare and no respect for the traditions of the classic drama. The second gravedigger was a comedy part, and he knew that he could "get away with it."

When the first gravedigger threw off the waistcoat, revealing another underneath, the audience tittered. The removal of the second waistcoat brought a loud laugh, and the third produced a roar. The first gravedigger was delighted. He had never played to such an appreciative audience, and visions of good notices in the papers and a possible increase in salary began to loom up before his eyes. As he threw off the fourth waistcoat he turned partially around, and the cause of the unusual hit was disclosed to him.

The second gravedigger, being accustomed to build laughs on lines and business of other actors, saw his opportunity and seized it. As fast as the first gravedigger would throw the waistcoats on the ground the variety comedian would pick them up and put them on. The new business was much funnier to the audience than the old, with which it was thoroughly familiar.

Not content with having stolen the laughs from the regular comedian in this scene, the new man went further. When the first gravedigger said to him, "Go, get thee to Yaughan; fetch me a stoup of liquor" (to which there is no reply in the text), the assistant sexton replied:

"Yaughan told me to tell you that you couldn't have any more liquor from him till you paid for the last you got."—Emmett C. King in Bookman.

OLD PERSIAN RUGS.

Why They Retain Their Sheen In Spite of Their Great Age.

If you have ever seen a Persian rug fifty years old or older which had been used only in its native country you have doubtless observed that, though made of wool, it had the sheen of velvet. This was due partly to the excellence of the dyes and the workmanship, but partly also to the fact that it had never known the touch of a shoe, but had been walked over in stockinged feet. If a man should enter your drawing room and stand on the sofa and upholstered chairs it would appear no more outrageous to you than it does to a Persian to walk with shoes upon his rug.

It seems impossible that such a beautiful thing as a Persian rug should be produced on the rudest of looms, consisting, as they do, merely of crooked, irregular beams of wood roughly fastened together. The rude construction of the loom explains why it is that every genuine Persian rug of any length is more or less crooked. This is because after part of it is woven it must be removed from the loom and lowered, and on so crude an affair it is impossible to get the warp of the second part exactly straight with that of the first part.

Until quite recently each province had its own style of rug, each village its own pattern, and yet each rug had an individuality of its own, and no two rugs were identical in design. The weaver copied designs and effects from trees and flowers or from common objects in everyday use. Sometimes a verse from the Koran or a stanza of a poem in the graceful, intricate Arabic character formed part of the pattern.—New York Sun.

"Yiddish."

"Yiddish," properly speaking, is not a language. It is a mixture of poor German, worse Hebrew and in Russia has some Russian words added. It has, however, a considerable literature, including a large number of newspapers and other periodicals, and is used colloquially by Russian, Polish and Hungarian Jews. In the United States it is spoken by more or less recent immigrants only, their children absolutely refusing to use it, and their attempts to make them do so is the chief cause of the disagreement between them which the parents so bitterly complain of.—American Israelite.

A Soldier's Reply.

A soldier of Marshal Saxe's army, being discovered in a theft, was condemned to be hanged. What he had stolen might be worth 5 shillings. The marshal, meeting him as he was being led to execution, said to him, "What a miserable fool you were to risk your life for 5 shillings!"

"General," replied the soldier, "I have risked it every day for my pay, fivepence." This repartee saved his life.

The Best He Could Do.

"Now, gentlemen," said the stage manager at rehearsal, "I want you all to wear your heavy overcoats in this scene, as it is supposed to be an extremely chilly night."

"I have no overcoat, sir," replied one of the actors. Then a bright thought struck him. "But I could put on my heavy underwear."—Boston Transcript.

Hon. J. D. Hazen thought there would be no jealousies as Col. Anderson had been in the service since 1875.

Hon. Geo. E. Foster declared that all general rules must have exceptions. He was just as strong as when he was in Opposition for keeping to the spirit of the law, but once in a while justice would be done by something that seemed to be not quite in compliance with the act.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier accused the Government of seeking a wilful violation of the Civil Service Act. "Let us have the law and adhere to it," he said. "There were good and efficient officers in every Department who might complain that they had been overlooked. It would be an opening of the door to this sort of thing.

A. C. Macdonell (South Toronto) introduced a bill to amend the Patent Act by raising the time limit within which a manufacturer in Canada of a patented article must be commenced from two to four years, and the time with an importation of the article is prohibited from one to two years.

The bill of Hon. J. D. Hazen to reduce the number of harbor commissioners of the City of Quebec from nine to three was read a second time.

Mr. Borden introduced a bill to amend the Civil Service Act, founded on a resolution which was passed by the House, to permit the private secretary of a Minister to be appointed a clerk in subdivision B of the first or A or B of the second division, and paid a salary not exceeding the maximum in such subdivision.

Hon. F. D. Monk declared that $4,000 a year was a grossly inadequate salary for an official of the standing of Col. Anderson. No later than next session, a definite plan of remuneration of departmental engineers would be laid before the House.

Hon. J. D. Hazen declared that Col. Anderson had last summer been given greatly addition work by the late Minister of Marine, Hon. L. P. Brodeur, he being entrusted with the entire construction work of the lighthouse branch.

Dr. Clark (Red Deer) claimed that the Government was driving a coach and six through the civil service act.

Hon. J. D. Hazen cited the provision in the civil service act that the salary of a Deputy Minister should be $5,000, and added that the late Government had added $1,000 to the Deputy Minister of Naval Affairs, making his salary $6,000.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier declared that he was shocked and horrified to find the Minister of Marine and Fisheries taking refuge in the example of his predecessors.

Col. Anderson got his increase of $450 on a standing vote of 57 to 37.

Virden, Man., Jan. 12.—Thomas Boyd, a carpenter, who had been drinking, was found frozen stiff in Canadian Pacific Railway freight shed yesterday.

Settlement In Sight.

Manchester, Jan. 12.—The outlook is brighter to-day for a settlement of the trouble between the mill owners and the operatives. The Cotton Manufacturers Associations of Lancashire issued a manifesto of a peaceful character, in which they deny any desire to humiliate the operatives or the labor leaders and express an earnest wish for a peaceful and honorable settlement. They declare that the employers' only desire is not to be involved in a quarrel between unionists and non-unionists.

When Sir George Askwith of the Board of Trade resumes his labors at mediation between the masters and men on Monday next, it is hoped that a compromise will be effected.

APPLICATION TO PARLIAMENT

Public notice is hereby given that an application will be made to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario at the next Session thereof for an Act to incorporate THE KAWARTHA TRANSPORTATION COMPANY with power to construct and operate an electric railway in the City of Peterborough and from the City of Peterborough through the Townships of Smith or Douro to, in and through the Village of Lakefield and thence through the Township of Smith or the Township of Dummer and Douro to Clear Lake and from a point on Clear Lake through the Townships of Douro and Dummer or the Township of Smith to a point on Stoney Lake, and thence through the Townships of Smith, Burleigh and Anstruther to the Village of Apsley and from the said city of Peterborough through the Township of Smith to Chemong Lake and from the said City of Peterborough through the Townships of Otonabee and Monaghan to Rice Lake, with power to build any part or parts of said Electric Railway in sections and with power to construct branches or extensions at different points along the routes and to connect with other railways (electric or otherwise) now operating or under construction and with power to operate the said Railway by electricity or otherwise and for such other powers as are usually given Railway Companies.

WAR RELICS AT PORT ARTHUR

Battlefield Presents Scene of Desolation

Example of Horrors of High Explosive Warfare

Port Arthur — Bare, steep hills, gashed to the bone, to the living rock Huge drifts of mangled steel and shattered concrete. Acre upon acre of hillside crushed to road-metal.

Never a tree, never a bush. Valleys of death, here and there the crumbling foundation of house-walls. Sparsely grassed valleys, scarred and peck-marked at every few feet with bare, stony hollows.

This is Port Arthur, seven years after the most terrible siege chornicled in history.

In most instances, of modern times no sooner had peace been declared between two combatants than steps have been taken to deplete the dreadful traces of war. The scenes of fierce encounters and stubborn sieges in Alsace-Lorraine, in the Philippines and in South Africa have to-day little more than their artificial monuments to recall the past.

Japan has other ideas about Port Arthur.

Beyond clearing away the dead, taking sanitary measures to purify the battlefields and shattered forts of the district, and occupying the strategical positions at either lip of the price she has had to pay for her victory.

Relics of the fray lie on every hand—great steel gun-carriages, torn like discarded sardine tins; guns with burst breeches or jaggedly rent at the tips of their muzzles; shells and projectiles of every size and in every stage of crumplement, an unpleasant proportion, too, half buried and unexploded, though a reward stands for thhe Chinese peasants who report their location: rusted bayonets, battered leaden and nickel bullets, broken rifle stock, twisted leather boot soles, metal regimental badges, snapped sword blades and the hilts of what were sabres.

Port Arthur, seven years after the siege in which perished a tenth of a million men, is to-day undoubtedly the most menacing lesson of the horrors of high explosive warfare that exists on the face of the earth.

One's first and perhaps most striking impression of the spot — always except a vivid consciousness of the littered, smashed countryside—is the narrowness of the mouth of the long, spacious lagoon of a land-locked harbor. That gap of a couple of hundred yards of placid deep blue water between towering Golden Hill and the low, undulating ridge of Tiger's Tail promontory seems too quiet and insignificant if picturesque, a corner of lonely Asiatic coast line to have been for most of the year 1904 the principal local point of interest for all the civilized peoples — the lock whose forcing would deprive Russia of her dream of a warm water Pacific outlet. From January to December Port Arthur is a seaport, but you cannot get within some distance of the sea for miles each side of the harbor, so intent are the Janapase on preserving absolute secrtecy about the extensive coast line fortifications they are piling along the flanks of their naval base.

The Japanese have only just completed the clearing of the fairway, the raising of the ships to sink which and bottle up the fleet of Russia cowering behind Tiger's Tail promontory Junior Captain Hirose rushed in under the outpouring of shot and shell and perished in the successful accomplishment of his blockade.

Neither pen nor camera can depict the scene to-day at Tungchikuanshan, the celebrated north fort in the burrowing arcade of which fell the gallant General Kondrachenko. It was here that the Japanese laboriously dug tunnels, charged them with 2,300 pounds of powder, and with these gigantic mines blew the forts to bits, killing and wounding every one of the little garrison of 320. There had been earlier mine operations in the fort, both sides tunnelling. The Japanese sappers had lengths of cord tied to their ankles, and asked their comrades to pull back their corpses when the Russian mine should be exploded. They knew what would be their end, and sure enough, on October 27, it came All were killed.

Two mines inland from the harbor, 203 Metre Hill rears its gaunt head high above the encircling heights. Our rickshaw coolies brought us up the winding granite ribbon of road, away from the little town, past the last mud-walled Chinese farmlet, into a region of shell-swept desolation. We left them and toiled up the littered, zig-zag trenches that creep toward the twin summits.

Tons upon tons of mangled corpses did the combatants bear away in those dark days of 1904, but so thoroughly did the shell-fire churn up the ground that many skeletons remained imbedded in the soil till the rain eroism of the passing years should expose them. Here and there may be seen a skull, now a piece of shattered human hip-bone, now a cluster of femurs and tibias, many fragments of exploded shell, brass cartridge cases and the carriage sockets of automatic, quick-firing rifles, and warped and twisted fragments of boots.

It was a bleak, sunless day. Half way up the hillside—so steep one could only just scramble up it—we came into low cloudy or woolly sea-fog, driving inland from the Gulf of Pechili. A hundred feet higher, and every sound from the town in the valley below had hushed out of hearing.

An oppressive utter stillness—how striking a contrast with the thundering, death belching inferno seven years ago—lay over shrowded 203 Metre Hill. Higher and higher. Something looked out of the fog ahead. A torn carriage, resting on a pile of road-metal shell-pulverized ironstone. A little further, the summit.

On the northern slope, a glimpse given as a rift blew into the scudding clouds, showed thousands upon thousands of tons of blasted, jagged, waist-high boulders of rock, not a blade of greenstuff sprouting among them. This was the scene of the death agonies of tens of thousands of men and the loss of the Russian landward gateway to Port Arther.

BENEFITS FROM COW TESTING

Some of the largest farmers do not seem to realize the manifold advantages to be derived from the testing of the individual cow. It is just as important to ascertain the quantity of butter fat produced by each cow as to know the amount of milk given Dairying is no longer a matter of guess work, because cow testing has placed it on a certain basis. Below are given a few reasons which show that the smallest milk producer can no longer afford to neglect this very necessary branch of dairy work if he wishes to hold his own in this keen age competition.

It shows on one hand that many cows of fine outward appearance may be disposed advantageously to the butcher and on the other, that many cows whose milk production is comparatively small, produce a large quanity of butter fat which makes them valuable animals. Cow testing is of inestimable value in building up a herd because the individual record enables the intelligent selection of profitable cows and their heifers It demonstrates the fact that a small herd carefully chosen i smore profitable than a larger herd of only mediocre production.

BIG STRIDES IN FARMING

Old Orchards Renewed Wet Lands Reclaimed and Live Stock Improved

Guelph, Ont., Jan. 12.—The annual meeting of the Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union opened with a reception to ex-students at the residence of G. C. Creelman, president of the Ontario Agricultural College.

At yesterday's session an address from the president of the union, Mr. W. J. W. Lennox, of Newton Robinson, was read, in which he referred to the benefits and worth of the Experimental Union, and of the reunion of ex-students to the farming industry of the province, and to the old boys of the college particularly. The president's message discussed also the great revival in agriculture that has taken place in Ontario in recent years. Old orchards have been renewed, wet lands reclaimed, live stock improved, and crops increased. Agricultural education has developed and is developing, he said, into an essential factor of the work, the life and the living of the farmer, and of all people that are concerned with rural pursuits.

The principal address of the morning was that of Prof. Zavitz, who who spoke on "Some of the most important conclusions from the co-operative experiments in nearly 5,000 Ontari ofarms in 1911," Prof. Zavitz is always listened to with a great deal of pleasure an dattention at these annual meetings, and is recognized to be an authority on the subject on which h espeaks. He devotes a great deal of his time to the work of the Experimental Union, and only reaches hi sconclusions after a most careful analysis.

COMMISSION WILL STILL ACT

No Department of Power in Ontario Government For Some Time

Toronto, Jan. 11.—There will be no "Department of Power" in the Ontario Government for some time. Sir James Whitney and his colleagues have decided that until extensions of the hydro-electric system into the eastern and northern districts have been completed, and the whole cheap power scheme rounded it would not be advisable to take the work out of the hands of the Commission, with all its machinery, and place it in charge of a department of Government.

The official announcement was made by Hon. Adam Beck yesterday replying to Mr. N. W. Rowell's statements at Dundas on Tuesday night, when he condemned the proposed change as a betrayal of the municipolities, and a move that would introduce politics and patronage into the administration of the hydro-electric system.

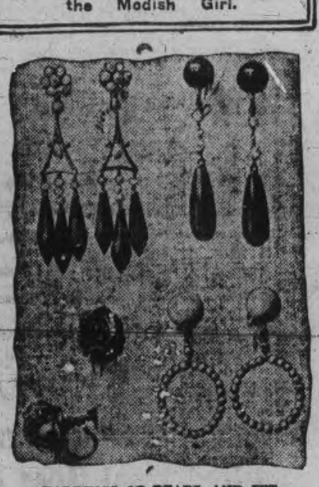
GIFT SUGGESTION.

Suitable Present For the Modish Girl.



EARRINGS OF PEARL AND JET.

You will be sure to please the modish girl of 1911 if you give her as a Christmas gift a pair of pearl or jet earrings. There are many styles in these dangling eardrops, some large and round, others that fit close to the ear, but the most striking effects reach almost to the shoulders.

The illustration shows the latest styles in pearl and jet earrings, and any of them would make a safe selection for a gift.

Stunning Evening Frock.

Evening gowns for holiday wear will soon be required, and the cut furnishes inspiration for a mighty stunning costume. The small pointed train which hangs from a rather high waist line in the back is of rose satin; also the skirt hem is of the same material.

COSTUME OF EMBROIDERED CHIFFON.

Above the satin hemming is a charming design of lotus blossoms on white chiffon, which makes the gown. The tiny, close fitting sleeves are of black chiffon, which gives the touch of black the French dressmaker considers necessary in an evening costume.

Last Minute Hints.

Look over the gifts you have bought as they come from the stores to see that everything purchased has been delivered and that nothing is broken.

Make sure you have plenty of stationery for the letters of thanks that are to follow Christmas.

Have a few extra Christmas cards handy for those who come to mind at the last minute.

Get packages all wrapped and tied several days before the great event. It's exhausting work.

Keep the spirit of Christmas burning bright and let it go in every letter and card you write.

Remember that snowy paper, scarlet ribbon and a sprig of holly enhance the charm of even the simplest gift.

Have plenty of excelsior ready for wrapping breakables.

Take your packages to the postoffice to be weighed for postage as far in advance of Christmas as possible. You don't have to send them then, but you avoid having to stand in line a half hour or so on the days immediately preceding Christmas.

When wrapping your packages tie your scissors fast to you; otherwise there is a constant search for them in the general melee.

Sofa Pillow Hint.

The cover of a sofa pillow can be made to fit well by the following little trick: After sewing up three sides, but before turning the cover right side out, tack the two finished corners of the case securely to two corners of the pillow. Turn the case over the pillow. Sew up the fourth side for an inch or two at each end. Tack these two corners to the corresponding corners of the cushion. Finish as usual. This keeps the pillow from pulling and sagging away from the cover.—

STARR IN WEST.

Adventures of Children's Judge In the Early Days.

The daily papers have noted the fact that Rev. J. E. Starr, recently appointed Commissioner of the Juvenile Court, Toronto, was in charge of a church in Winnipeg in the early days of that city's development. Recently a Winnipeg citizen has been recalling some of the details of Mr. Starr's work in the west, when it was wild and woolly, and the facts are very interesting indeed.

The winter of 1882-3 was one to be long remembered by Winnipegers. It was the first after the break of the great land boom. The city was full of strangers, most of them out of work and "broke." Houses were flimsy, few of them having furnaces, and they were also scarce. Coal was $16.50 a ton. The boarding houses, as a rule, had one base-burner in the hall, which was supposed to heat the whole house. The thermometer ranged from 30 to 57 degrees below zero. Recklessness and vicious living had prevailed during the boom, and the moral tone of the community was not high. There was work and plenty of it for a conscientious clergyman.

Rev. J. E. Starr was then pastor of Grace Church, and the way in which he took hold of the situation is still gratefully remembered by old residents of Winnipeg. He and Mrs. Starr threw open their home to the young people of the city once a week all that winter. Any stranger was welcome, whether an attendant of Grace Church or not. The person who recalls the story says "The house where the Starrs lived is still standing, near the corner of Francis street on Notre Dame. I passed it the other day and thought of how on winter nights long ago there was a welcoming gleam from the big base-burner as you went up to the door, for one of Mr. Starr's ideas of welcome was that the blinds should not be withdrawn. Help was scarce and expensive, and Mrs. Starr had to do her own housework the greater part of that winter, yet she made nothing of providing refreshments for fifty or sixty young people at the weekly gatherings. The parson preached many eloquent sermons that winter, but none of them equalled in force the hearty welcome of that home."

Mr. Starr organized a Young People's Society also. Senator Lougheed, then a young lawyer, was secretary, and many men and women, now well-known throughout the west, and east, too, were members. Mr. Starr's chief employment that memorable winter was to make the young people of the city as happy as possible, and to keep them from becoming demoralized by the abnormal conditions existing in the pioneer city at that time. And the fact that his work is still talked about is striking evidence of its success.

All his life, you see, Mr. Starr has been specially interested in young people, and has always known just how to encourage and help them, whatever the circumstances. No wonder his appointment to take charge of Toronto's Children Court has been generally approved.

Winter Walks In Winnipeg.

"The West is a great country, all right," said an Ontario man, who recently returned from Manitoba, according to Toronto Saturday Night. "That is, it's a great country for three parts of the year, but little old Ontario is good enough for me in the winter time.

"One twenty-below zero day last February, in walking three blocks on Portage Avenue in Winnipeg, I met seven persons with frost bites on their faces. Following Winnipeg etiquette, I stopped the first man and said, 'Your nose is frozen.' 'Go to blazes!' was his answer. He must have been one of those yes-it's-pretty-cold-but-the-air-is-so-dry-you-don't-notice-it liars.

"Next I met a young lady, and I said, 'Lady, your ear is freezing.' She couldn't have scowled at me more fiercely if I had offered her my seat in a street car. These two rebuffs almost discouraged me from further courtesies of the kind, but my next attempt had its own reward. I noticed a white spot on the face of a pedestrian, and I said, 'Your cheek is freezing.' 'So is yours,' he replied, and we both laughed and grabbed handfuls of snow.

"Two days later I had to take a three-mile walk from one of the suburbs, and I had both hands frozen. I escaped with two months in the hospitals and the amputation of two finger-tips, but I concluded that after harvest I would make for the East, where the air is damper and you feel the cold before mortification sets in. So here I am."

The Romance of Song.

The bosoms of the papers throughout Ontario have been rather agitated during the last few days by the matrimonial adventures of Julius McVicar, son of the late S. A. McVicar, one-time editor of The Sarnia Canadian.

About a dozen years ago he took a train for New York. He landed on the stage. In Gotham he made quite a reputation as a musical comedy singer. The romance came.

It happened that one day the widow of the late Alanson Clumner, oil magnate, attended one of McVicar's performances. The lady was thrilled by the vocal strains of the Canadian singer. At the residence of some of her friends she met the lion. As the country weeklies are putting it: "It was a case of love at first sight."

And Julius McVicar, who not so long ago was knocking round Sarnia in knickers, has to-day a wife worth $15,000,000.

PROTEST AGAINST G. BAY CANAL

sure "manufactured by contractors and others in favor of the impracticable Georgian Bay route."

At the conclusion of Mr. Detweiler's address a resolution was unanimously carried by standing vote. It declared among other things: That is is of the utmost importance that the Dominion Government proceed to develop with the least possible delay an ocean ship waterway by means of this natural route to the head of the lakes at Port Arthur and Fort William.

"Further that this meeting protests against the apparent attempt to stampede the people in favor of the so-called Georgian Bay Canal, which, in the opinion of this meeting and in the opinion of eminent engineers and experts, is not practical, is, in fact, a waste of money, and a waste of time as well as involving a tremendous expenditure for totally inadequate results.

"That something should be done of a practical nature, is emphasized by the fact that the Erie Barge Canal from Buffalo to New York is fast approaching completion and will be ready for actual business within three years from date, increasing the size of barges from 250 tons to 3,000 tons and lessening the cost of transportation on grain by from 2 to 3 cents a bushel or sufficient to capture the entire business and put out of commission the inland marine of the Dominion of Canada.

"That transportation of grain, merchandise, etc., from the great west would be reduced in cost by from one-half to two-thirds, increasing the value of every acre of land in the Canadian northwest."

President J. W. Lyon of Guelph, in speaking to the motion, said the time of action was now, and we should prepare for the future by making a waterway to the seaboard.

Mayor Graham of London seconded the resolution.

Subsequently, on motion of Alex. Stewart, president of the Guelph Board of Trade, seconded by Ald. C. H. Mills, Berlin, the meeting resolved itself into the Canadian Great Waterways Union of Canada, with the mayors and presidents of the Boards of Trade of the towns and cities of Canada constituted a general committee, and an executive committee of nine members, appointed with power to add to their number. The following gentlemen were named the committee: D. B. Detweiler, Geo. Lang, Berlin; J. W. Lyon, Alex. Stewart, Guelph; Geo. Pattison, M.P.P., Preston; Mayor Graham, London; Mayor Scott and Mr. Dobie, Galt, and Alois Bauer, Waterloo.

The committee met later and appointed Mr. Detweiler chairman, and J. W. Lyon, Guelph, secretary.

Speeches strongly favoring the scheme were made by Geo. Pattison, M.P.P., W. G. Weichel, M.P., Geo. Lang, Berlin; Ald. Burgoyne, St. Catharines, and Mayor Scott of Galt.

TEAM BACKED INTO THE RIVER

Occupants of Sleigh Had Very Narrow Escape

Hastings, Jan. 12.—What might have been a fatal accident and looked very serious for a few minutes, occurred at the tannery on Thursday afteronon.

Mr. Robert Collins, of Asphodel, accompanied by Mrs. Collins and a little girl, had driven down to the tannery, where Mr. Collins had transacted some business, and in turning his sleigh around to come up town again one of the horses refused to cross the small stream of water leading from a drip pipe in the tannery to the river, and started the other horse with him, backing the outfit towards the river. Just here the bank is built up about four feet above the river and the water is quite deep, and the horses became unmanageable and backed right into the river, backing the sleigh and occupants ahead of them.

Mrs. Collins got out onto the ice, which was broken off by the sleigh coming down, and this broke off into a large loose cake which caught in the current, carrying her down the river past the bend, where she was rescued by a couple of the boys from the tannery, who went out in a punt. The little girl got ashore, but Mr. Collins and the team and sleigh were almost completely immersed for a short time until the men from the tannery led the horses up to a place where they could land and helped them out.

Mrs. Collins, despite her dangerous position, showed rare presence of mind and seemed more anxious about getting the horses out than for herself, and we are pleased to say she got off without getting much more than her feet wet.

The team and outfit are not much the worse for the ducking and the only loss was a couple of minor articles and the sleigh box, which we understand has been recovered.

YOUNG RUSSIAN WINS HIS WIFE

Brings Her Children From the Land of the Czar

Husband Came to Peterboro to Make Home for Them

As the reward of industry, a young Russian, who has resided in the city for over a year, once more is enjoying the companionship of his wife. The husband came to this country to carve out his career, leaving for the time his wife and six children behind, to await the time when the lord of the household would be financially able to bring them out to this country. He worked out and the fruit of his energy amounted to a considerable sum of money, sufficient to purchase transportation for the whole family in far off Russia to this country. At his request G. H. Howson, the local immigration officer, furnished a letter of recommendation of the husband which stated that the man was eminently capable of providing for the family in this country. This letter was sent to the wife together with the fare tickets. The letter was a splendid passport where he produced and shown to inquiring immigration officials and now the happy family are rejoicing in the delights of being once more re-united.

HOTELMAN INJURED

Mr. L. E. Killoran, proprietor of the Norwood House, was the victim of an unfortunate mishap on Thursday last. He was mixing up some gunpowder and ashes to give to one of his horses when a hot coal in the ashes ignited the powder causing an explosion. Mr. Killoran, was badly burned about the face and hands, but it is to be hoped that his injuries are not serious enough to permanently disfigure him. —Register.

He was identified with the church in Honeywell, Wales, but never did he take vows or orders. He speaks about leaving the church of his forefathers, but he only joined the Catholic church Oct. 10th, 1904.

SERMONETTES from OLD SAWS

BY TABITHA

"ADVERSITY IS EASIER BORNE THAN PROSPERITY

Thhis may seem an exaggeration but there is no doubt that human nature has changed little with the centuries, and the maker of the old saw probably had opportunity for observing it.

I know a clergyman who always talks about "the poor rich." He says that all effort is concentrated to bring out and devlop the poor poor, but the poor rich are left to their own ways and become more narrow each day until their souls seem to become dwarfted.

Now there is a vast difference between the man who is born to riches and the man who through some stroke of luck suddenly finds himself rich.

Adversity, by making us feel the pinch of poverty, broadens our sympathies and makes us thoughtful for others. Then, too, adversity in the sense of money losses, if there is anything in a man, is almost sure to bring out his latent forces, and the very effort he has to put forth, to in some way provide for himself and his loved ones, gives him strength and builds up in him a sterling character.

Nothing so surely shows you the true from the false as poverty. You get to know your friends and to see the world at large as it truly is.

Riches suddenly acquired, on the other hand, surround one with the false. It seems to be human nature to "seek not you but yours," if one may turn a saying of a good man and one hears nothing but exaggerated appreciation of every little thing which he does, until it seems to allow this flattery to blind his eyes to the truth and to create in him a conceit and selfishness which narrows his vision and makes him place money and the luxury which it brings above everything, and so dwarfs his soul. The very lack of the necessity to strive soon kills the best that is in him.

The party consisted of about 70 of the Bethel congregation who came prepared with a program which consisted of singing, recitations and speeches. At the close, Mrs. G. McCague on behalf of the congregation read a very pleasing address to Miss Ella Switzer, organist of the church, accompanied by a beautiful oak writing desk and cabinet combined, and a pair of vases. Miss Switzer was entirely taken by surprise, but responded in a few well chosen words of thanks. Speeches then became the order of the evening, in which Miss Switzer was complimented on her efficiency and faithfulness as organist. The remainder of the evening was spent in games and amusements and after partaking of an excellent supper, all returned home, well pleased with the evening's entertainment.

SOCIALISTS GAIN THIRTEEN SEATS

In the Elections in Germany Yesterday — Gains Are Chiefly From the Liberal and Radical Parties.

Berlin, Jan. 13.—The expected swing towards Socialism in the Reichstag elections held throughout the empire yesterday was realized, but the early returns, to the surprise of most persons, showed that it was accomplished far more at the expense of the Radicals and Liberals than of the Centrists and Conservatives.

Up to 12.30 o'clock yesterday morning results had been received from 131 constituencies, in which 84 members definitely were elected and 47 reballots will be necessary. The members elected include four Conservatives, thirty-nine Centrists, two Liberals, no Radicals, thirty-eight Socialists and one Dane.

The Socialist net gain by the above figures is thirteen seats, they having won seven from the Radicals, four from the Liberals, one from the Centrists and three from the Conservatives. They lost, however, two seats to the Liberals. The Socialists will participate in thirty-three of the forty-seven reballots.

Voting throughout the Empire for the election of members of the Reichstag began at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. The weather was clear, but extremely cold. The conditions generally, however, were conducive to an active participation in the polling, and a heavy vote was generally reported.

Detachments of troops belonging to the garrison were held in readiness and special arrangements were made for guarding the royal palaces. The precautions were mainly designed to cope with possible Socialist demonstrations in the streets.

Emperor William, who at the election in 1907, awaited the results in the imperial palaces in Berlin, was informed of the returns this time in his palace at Potsdam, an arrangement which was considered in some quarters as a symptom of the expected outcome.

The interest in the elections in Berlin was largely concentrated on the so-called "Ministerial precinct" in the centre of the city, where Imperial Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg and most of the other Ministers have their names on the voting registers.

The situation of parties in the last Reichstag was as follows: Roman Catholic Centre. 105; Conservatives, 60; Social Democrats, 52; National Liberals, 48; Radicals, 25; Imperial Conservatives, 25; Poles, 19; other var-

QUEEN ELIZABETH'S PRAYER BOOK

New York, Jan. 13—The sale of a copy of "Queen Elizabeth's Prayer Book," for $2,700 to George B. Smith was the feature of yesterday's auction of the library of Robert Hoe, which at the close of the bidding had netted $36,444 for the day, bringing the total returns on all the books sold to date to $1,186,943.

The Prayer Book containing a portrait of Queen Elizabeth was printed in 1560, and but one or two copies are known to exist.

Nearing Chief's Body.

New York, Jan. 3.—The discovery yesterday of the lantern and gauntlet of Battalion Chief Walsh, who lost his life in the Equitable building fire, gave rise last night that his body, which still lies buried in the ice-encrusted ruins of the structure, would soon be found.

About $150,000,000 in securities where removed yesterday from the offices of August Belmont and company.

PROSPECTORS FOUND DEAD

Killed by Cold While Trying to Cross Lake

Special to the Review.

Porcupine, Jan. 13—Search parties have found the bodies of J. W. Muir and Joseph Lingeaut, two prospectors who were frozen to death, while attempting to cross the ice on Night Hawk lake, with the weather, 40 degree below zero. Three other prospectors are missing.

GREY COUNTY CONSERVATIVES

Markdale, Jan. 13.—The Liberal-Conservatives of East and Centre Grey held their annual meeting here yesterday. An enthusiastic meeting was held. General business was transacted and the following officers elected for the ensuing year: President N. L. Curry; vice-president, T. D. Carscadden; secretary, W. Turner, treasurer, W. J. Shortill; auditors, C. W. Rutledge and William Lucas.

NO ONE WANTS JOB OF PREMIER

Bourgeois and Delcasse Refuse and Poincare Considers.

Paris, Jan. 13.—The gravity of the existing Ministerial crisis, the solution of which is not yet in sight was shown by the fact that President Fallieres yesterday summoned in conference the leading statesmen of France to discuss the best means for the formation of a Government strong enough to meet all current problems, both domestic and foreign, but especially foreign.

Leon Bourgeois, a former Prime Minister and at one time or another the holder of nearly every portfolio in the Cabinet, who in recent years always has been regularly offered the Premiership with the downfall of Cabinets, yesterday, as in the past, declined the honor, advancing the state of his health as the reason.

Theophile Delcasse, Minister of Marine in the late Cabinet. was next asked by M. Fallieres to form a Ministry, and there was considerable surprise last night when it was learned he had declined the offer and recommended Senator Raymond Poincare, a former Minister of Public Works and Minister of Finance. The exact reason for M. Delcasse's refused is unknown.

M. Poincare, when the office was tendered him, requested of President Fallieres time for reflection. He will not give a definite answer before tonight. In the event of his refusal, it seems most likely that former Premier Briand may be recalled to conduct the Government.

THE DISMISSAL OF CIVIL SERVANTS

Halifax's Big Fire.

Halifax, N.S., Jan. 13.—The fire which yesterday destroyed The Herald newspaper office was the greatest conflagration in years, destroying half a block of the business part of the city, and ruining Premier Borden's law library.

The loss by the fire is estimated at $350,000. The conflagration in The Recorder office was checked when it reached that building. The insurance will fairly cover the loss.

Major Currie Recalls the Slaughter by the Liberals in 1896.

Read Returns Made at Last Political Upheaval—Bradbury's Bill.

Ottawa, Jon. 13.—"The great bloody assizes of the Liberals in "96" was the sounding phrase in which Major Currie (North Simcoe) described the ruthless slaughter of Conservative office-holders when the Laurier Government took office in 1896.

The doughty major insisted on reading a return to the Senate, 35 pages in length, setting forth the names and alleged offences of the victims of this "reign of terror." But this was only a partial list, he said, and added that the reading of the full roll of those who had fallen beneath the blade of the political guillotine would require at least two days.

The member for North Simcoe, however, was not resposible for the introduction of a discussion of the spoils system, which was brought up by the Opposition the moment the House went into supply at 3.30 p.m.

Orators on a former occasion when the spoils system was under discussion harked back to the time of the Tory regime before '96, but Major Currie went them several better. Not only did he recall the days of the infamous Judge Jeffries in the reign of James II., he even went back for one of his illustrations to a date anteceding the Christian era.

G. H. Bradbury (Selkirk) introduced a bill to amend the navigable waters protection act, with the object of preventing the pollution by the sewage of Winnipeg, St. Boniface, Brandon and Portage la Prairie of the waters of the Red River, with which the health of the residents along its banks has been threatened since the construction of the St. Andrew's locks, with resultant stretch of slack water extended as far as Winnipeg.

When the House went into supply in the afternoon, a vigorous attack was made on the Minister of Customs, Hon. J. D. Reid, on the spoils system, the attack largely centering around the dismissal of Thomas C. Bryan, a preventive officer at Windsor, Ont., and the appointment of Mr. McHugh in his stead. The Minister declared that the displaced official was only a temporary appointee, and, moreover, an active partisan.

NANKING MAY BE CAPITAL

Pekin, Jan. 13.—The Manchu Princes of the Imperial Clan met yesterday and resolved to advise the throne to retire immediately to Jeohl, about 120 miles to the northeast of Pekin, where the members of the Imperial family have usually retired during the summer.

The decision of the princes has aroused apprehension of a possible transfer of the Chinese capital to Nanking, which would open up a wide field for foreign adventure in Northern China. It would also accentuate the disorganization of trade.

The patriotic fund being raised among the Manchu princes to suppress the revolution, has realized 850,000 taels, (approximately $595,000).

Fire at Kingston.

Kingston, Jan. 13.—With the thermometer 15 below zero the firemen had a lively fire to fight in one of the main business blocks in Princess street yesterday afternoon. Fire broke out in the shoe shop of John Green and it spread so rapidly that he and his wife narrowly escaped. The tobacco store of William McGlade, next door, caught fire. The loss will amount to about $3,000, partly insured.

Robert J. Wright, Labor candidate in Cataraque ward at the municipal election, was defeated by Allan Stroud by three votes and has asked for a recount.

TRAVELLED AROUND WITH SUIT CASE FULL OF EXPLOSIVES

McManigal Tells of His Adventures in Various Cities While on Dynamiting Expeditions.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 13.—Descriptions of how Ortie McManigal with a suit case filled with explosives and time fuses, sneaked about the streets of Pittsburg, Pa., and Buffalo, N.Y., and met men who discussed or picked out "open shop jobs" that were to be blown up, together with photographs of wrecked places, which were forwarded to John J. McNamara, were presented before the federal grand jury in its investigation of the dynamite conspiracy yesterday.

Several witnesses from Buffalo and Pittsburg, whose names were withheld, were questioned, in an effort to discover who was involved with McManigal in explosions there. The confessed dynamiter made three visits to Buffalo, the first in July, 1908, when he blew up a bridge. It developed that McNamara, as secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, obtained, whenever possible, photographs of the structure which McManigal blew up in order to keep a check on the dynamiter in paying him "fees" out of the $1,000 a month allowed McNamara for "organizing purposes." Many of these photographs are in the hands of the Government.

Just before he went to Buffalo, McManigal says he tried to quit the dynamiting business, but he was visited at his home in Chicago by a man whose name is still a secret.

"This man told me that I did not dare quit," said McManigal. "He told me I had gone too far and I would have to stick to it. Finally we both went to Buffalo. The man with me said he wanted to get to Canada for the explosion. I took the dynamite out of my suitcase and planted it with a sixty-foot fuse. It blew up that night."

The witnesses from Pittsburg are believed to have been asked about men whom McManigal met there in reference to an explosion at McKees Rocks, Pa., which is within reach of Rochester, Pa., where the dynamiters kept stores of explosives.

Don't Like Panama Policy.

London, Jan. 13.—The Chamber of Commerce yesterday passed a resolution that the chamber should make representations to the Government on the suggestion contained in President Taft's recent message to Congress, that preference should be given to American ships as regards tolls to be charged for passage through the Panama Canal.

COMMISSION AND MERGER

No Arrangements With Seymour People Says Hon. Mr. Beck

It has been rumored during the past few days that the interests of the Electric Power Company were to be taken over by the Hydro-Electric Commission, but in reply to a query of the Review, Hon. Adam Beck, chairman of the Commission, sends the following to the Review—

"The Commission have not made arrangements with the Seymour Power Company to take over their interests."

ALARMING FIRE ON OCEAN LINER

Greenock, Scotland, Jan. 13—A most alarming fire experience was undergone by the passengers of the Allan line steamer Pretorian, which sailed from Philadelphia on Dec. 29 for Glasgow and reached here yesterday morning.

Flames broke out in the smokeroom on the upper deck Thursday morning when the liner was about 130 miles from Malin Head. The fire assumed alarming proportions and there was considerable excitement, but the prompt work of the crew arrested the speed of the conflagration. The smokeroom, however, was entirely destroyed. No one was injured.

TURKISH FLOTILLA SUNK BY ITALIAN SQUADRON

The Vessels Destroyed Were Those That Took Refuge at Suez - A Large Number of Seamen Went Down in the Unequal Fight.

Rome, Jan. 13.—The first important naval battle in the Turco-Italian war occurred in the Red Sea on Jan. 7th, with the result that an Italian cruiser squadron fought and sank seven Turkish gunboats after a sharp conflict. A large number of Turkish seamen went down with their ships, but others were rescued by boats from the Italian warships. A Turkish yacht was captured and is being brought to Italy.

The Turks were believed by the Italians to be preparing to convoy a military expedition which was to cross Egypt and join the Turkish forces in Tripoli.

As soon as the Italian warships Piemonte Garibaldino and Artigliers encountered the Turkish gunboats a short distance out of the Bay of Kunfida they sent shots across their bows and called on them to surrender. The Turkish vessels gave no sign of complying to and Italians opened a terrific fire, throwing in a hail of shells from their broadsides.

The Turkish gunners replied feebly, but did not succeed in striking the Italian vessels.

All seven of the Turkish boats were soon on fire and in a few minutes began to sink. Boats were lowered from the Italian warships, which picked up many Turkish seamen, but a large number were drowned.

During the brief combat the Turkish gunners displayed utter incompetence, their small guns being fired wildly.

The shells from the Italian ships were not directed at the Turkish yacht, Fauvette, which accompanied the gunboats, and she was the only unit of the Turkish flotilla which was not destroyed during the fight. The Fauvette is being brought to Rome under cover.

JAPANESE IN HAWAII

Washington, Jan. 13.—A statement that there were 35,000 former Japanese soldiers in Hawaii, who would support Japan if that country and the United States went to war, created a deep impression on the House committee on military affairs yesterday when Major-General Wm. H. Carter, assistant chief of staff of the army, made the assertion.

Gen. Carter expressed the belief of the army general staff officers that the U. S. must greatly enlarge its military force, or dispose of some of its insular possessions.

The strengthening of fortifications and the enlargement of the standing army in Hawaii and the Philippines must be continued to a point where an enlargement of the army will be necessary, he said. Under the reserve system of Japan, the former soldiers come into service at once if needed. He urged the creation of an American army reserve.

CHINA'S TROUBLES START ANEW—FIGHT TO A FINISH PREDICTED

The internal strife in China is by no means settled. A fight to a finish between the north and south is now apparently inevitable, according to latest cable advices from Pekin. The resignation of Tang Shao-yi, who represented the imperial government at the Shanghai peace conference, has been accepted by Yuan Shih-kai, who repudiates Tang's agreement with Dr. Wu Ting-fang as unauthorized and unwarranted, and charges Tang with treachery. General Hsu, whose portrait is shown above, has been named Chief of Staff in the Cabinet of President Sun Yat-sen.

WILL PUT MATTER BEFORE PREMIER

Evangelical Alliance Takes Action Over the Ne Temere Decree.

Toronto, Jan. 13.—Premier Borden and the Dominion Government will shortly have to face the delicate task of dealing with the ne temere decree. The Evangelical Alliance held a lengthy meeting to discuss the situation yesterday, and the trend of thought was in the direction of going to the Dominion Government as the next step with a request for the Government to submit a stated case and carry it through if necessary to the Privy Council of the Empire.

Consideration was given to the suggestion of a mass meeting at Massey Hall, but no decision regarding it was made. Dr. N. W. Hoyles presided.

Rev. E. D. Silcox, secretary, produced a large roll of petitions, and stated that the alliance would soon have an aggregate of 300,000 signatures.

The petitions ask for the submission of a stated case to the courts by the Dominion Government.

The Evangelical Alliance will meet again at an early date at the call of the president.

COAL TO BE IMPORTED

British Government Won't Take Any Chances

Special to the Review.

London, Jan. 13—The government fears that a serious shortage of coal for naval purposes will result if the miners go out on strike on March first and preparations are being made to import large quantities of fuel from Germany and the United States.

POINCAIRE IS PREMIER

He May Not be Able to Form His Cabinet

Special to the Review.

Paris, France, Jan. 13 — Senator Raymond Poincaire, to-day, accepted the premiership of France. If he is unsuccessful in forming a cabinet, the post will likely go to former premier Briand.

SHUSTER'S AIDES ARE IGNORED

Teheran, Jan. 13.—The treasury crisis has taken an extraordinary turn. Acting under instructions of the Cabinet, M. Mornard, the Belgian ex-director of Persian customs, yesterday summarily took possession of the treasury offices, refusing to recognize the status of F. E. Cairns, the American, who was left in charge of the treasury by W. Morgan Shuster, the deposed treasurer-general, when the latter left Teheran Thursday for the United States.

M. Mornard, in acquainting Mr. Cairns and the other American officials of the Cabinet's message, told them that if there were further delay in turning over the treasury, not only would they be dismissed from their positions, but punished. This procedure is all the more inexplicable as Mr. Cairns has shown no disposition to retard the work of transferring the office to the commission appointed to take over the duties of the treasurer-generalship.

It pays to advertise in the Review.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 13.—Northwestern Michigan yesterday experienced the greatest cold in twenty years. At Grand Rapids yesterday the temperature went to 9 below zero.

SUFFERED FROM VIOLENT CATHARTICS

The Warning of Mr. Geo. C. Fox Is One That Should Be Heeded by All.

Few men on the road are better known than genial George Fox, whose friends throughout the West are legion In the following letter he expresses gratitude for signal services rendered by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. He goes on to say: "Until I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills and experienced their wonderful mildness and curative power, I estimated the value of every pill by its activity. Talking about this to a well-known physician I met on the train the other day, he explained there are different kinds of drugs that act upon the bowels, the most active being known as drastic. Except in extreme cases where the life of the patient depends upon speedy evacuation of the bowels, pills should never be drastic. Purgatives cause catarrh of the bowels and inflammation; their dose must be increased, causing even more harm. With such a clear explanation I could see why Dr. Hamilton's Pills are curative and not irritating, why they are mild, yet most searching.

"From my experience I recommend everyone that takes pills to give up the old-fashioned harsh, purging pill, and, instead, to use Dr. Hamilton's. They cure headache, billousness, constipation, bad stomach, and keep the system in perfect condition."

CARELESS SMOKERS

The statement is made by an exchange that fully fifty per cent of the disastrous fires of to-day were caused by careless smokers, who either throw away a lighted match or the burning end of a cigar or cigarette. The latest instance of this is the fire in the Equitable Life building, New York, which caused the death of several persons, besides a loss of millions of dollars in property. It is ascribed to a careless smoker, who threw away a lighted match after he had done with it. And the charge seems to be well founded. Some smokers take no risks when lighting matches, but others never think of where the match goes after they are through with it. These careless people cost hundreds of lives each year, and it would be well to make an example of some of them if the act could be brought home to them, and it would then serve as a warning to others.

PLAYING TO OTHER NATIONS

That the awakening of China is real this time is amply evidenced by the fact that the leaders of both the rival factions are showing much anxiety to have the approval of the European and American peoples.

Proclamations are made and interviews given, with no other object than to gain the moral support of the other nations. Surely a new move from China, where a few decades ago it was the purpose of those in authority to have as little as possible to do with foreigners. China has reached a stage now, where it must go forward, no matter whether a Monarchy or a Republic prevail. The people have been awaken to new ideas and will hardly now go back to the old state of things. The revolution has accomplished much good, no matter what is the final outcome of the fighting.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Ottawa's Chief of Police wants an automobile. Perhaps he would be satisfied with an airship.

British warships again hold the world's record for speed, the latest record being 31 1-2 knots. Our German friends will have to hustle some to equal this.

Statistics show the loss of 497 lives from fire in New York last year. And yet we have fireproof buildings and all the most modern equipment to fight the flames. This is an awful tribute for one city to pay to the God Meloch.

The National Transcontinental Railway Commissioners have been dismissed, but as they have had salaries of several thousands a year, they have probably put something by for that famous "rainy day."

"Andy" Carnegie says he retired from business so that he could get rid of his surplus wealth before he died. We know several people around this neighborhood who would be glad to assist Mr. Carnegie in separating himself from some of his coin.

More money is to be spent this year in the protection of timber in Canadian Forest Reserves, and this should greatly reduce the fire danger, maintain an adequate lumber supply for the country and in time become a source of revenue to the government.

No more student fire rangers for Ontario, says Sir James Whitney's government and the move is a good one. Men wise in woodcraft will now be used in all cases, and the forest wealth of Onatrio will get proper protection. It is altogether too valuable to be trusted to inexperienced youths with a desire for a college education and a profession.

The Conservatives of South Renfrew have called a convention to nominate a man to oppose the Hon. Geo. P. Graham. Mr. Thos. Low, resigned his seat to make a way for Hon. Mr. Graham, and it was stated at the time that there was an agreement that Hon. Mr. Graham should be allowed the seat by acclamation, if Mr. McGarry, M.P.P. was unopposed in the Onatrio Legislature. Mr. McGarry was not opposed by the Liberals. If there was an agreement made in good faith, it should be carried out.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucuous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you may have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucuous surfaces.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Jan. 12.—Business in Manitoba spring wheat over the cable was quieter, owing to a falling off in the demand and the fact that prices were very irregular. American No. 3 yellow corn was stronger with sales of car lots to arrive at 72½c, ex-track. Buckwheat advanced 1c to 2c. There was an increase in the demand for oats and a good business was done at firmer prices.

There continues to be a fair enquiry from foreign buyers for spring wheat flour and some business was done. The local trade is fair. There is a firmer feeling in the market for winter wheat flour, owing to small stocks on spot and light offerings from millers. Bran and shorts firm under a good demand.

Cheese is strong and prices have advanced ¼c per lb. The demand for butter is increasing and a much firmer feeling prevails in the market. Eggs strong and 1c higher, under a good demand, decreasing stocks and small receipts. Demand for dressed hogs good at firm prices. Compound and pure lard has declined ¼c per lb. Potatoes are scarce and the market is excited at an advance of 10c to 12½c per bag. Refined sugar has declined 10c per cwt., making standard granulated, $5.50.

Parole System Works Well.

Ottawa, Jan. 13.—The Dominion system of releasing prisoners on parole during good conduct is being shown by the passage of time to be a splendid success.

Up to date (the system was inaugurated in 1900), a total of 3,731 persons—a majority of them from the penitentiary—have been let out on parole. Only 201 of these have had their licenses cancelled. Many of these, even were not for fresh offences, but for not complying with regulations. But 3,530 settled down into honest life, so far as all evidence had gone.

CHAPTER XVIII.

A Fight in the Dark

After the cell door closed upon Royal Maillot I returned at once to the house of tragedy, whose evil genius was promising to play havoc with the lives of so many of the living; and as I approached the bleak, austere old mansion something in its silent and inanimate exterior seemed to repulse my advance up the gravel walk. My steps lagged, and at last I drew to a halt.

Cold and clear and snappy as the day was, still there was something oppressive in the air that hung about the house of death. I looked at the lifeless windows. Staring vacantly, utterly expressionless of the swift-moving tragic drama that had been enacted behind them, failing to foreshadow what was yet to transpire here, they all at once brought forcibly to my mind Alexander Burke. Thus did his eyes hide, instead of disclose, the workings within.

That the mind of this man was secret and evil I could now no longer doubt. Felix Page had been a powerful man, physically and mentally; yet Alexander Burke, sly and impassive, soft-spoken and soft-footed, ever alert and observant and burrowing, like a mole, in darkness, had undermined him, and—the conviction grew—had brought about his cruel death.

In what way? What far-reaching machination was he so laboriously evolving? What snare was he casting unseen to bring down in ruin the lives of others? And why? Coward that he was, had he at no time worked in the broad light of day?

An unwelcome sense of depression was slowly weighing me down. It was as if the silent house were haunted. At the time, I was convinced that I was merely making a hodge-podge of the hundred and one clews that had come to my hands, though now I know that the whole vast scheme was gradually taking shape in my mind. I was bewildered by the wide diversity of the opposed interests, left powerless by failure to light upon a sure point of common interest defining the attitude of the different actors. For to say that it was the ruby did not clear the fog any—unless I accepted the growing assurance that Alfred Fluette was the active instrument of death.

Still, every detail I had gathered was necessary to complete the circle. When finally I did have my case all in hand there was no single point that remained obscure.

My brooding inertia was dispelled by a shout from Stodger. He was standing on the front porch, regarding me with considerable curiosity.

"Hi! What you doing down there, Swift? Come here!"

I soon learned that he had something of interest to report.

"D'ye know, Swift," said he, with much seriousness, extending his chubby hands to the welcome warmth of the library fire, "it's an outrage—damme, if it isn't—that I'm so fat. H'm! Believe in ghosts?"

I was instantly all attention. Genevieve's terrifying experience was too recent and real for me to scout any supernatural suggestion of my colleague. I quickly asked:

"Seen anything aout the house?"

"Not in here. Outside. Couldn't chase 'em."

"I'm glad you are fat, then; who would have watched the house while you were chasing whatever it was you thought you saw?"

He clapped one hand on top of his bullet of a head, and stared at me in comical surprise.

"Say! You're right, Swift! You are, by George! First time I ever found a—an—you know—a consolation for my—er my—my stoutness.

"Two shadows. Didn't get to see 'em plain. All the time you were gone I could glimpse 'em now and then—first one place, then another—slipping and sliding through the bushes, trying to keep hid, y' know."

As may be imagined, I was profoundly interested.

"What did they look like?" I asked.

Stodger shook his head. "Bushes too thick. No leaves; but they wouldn't come close enough for me to get a good look. H'm. Watching the house, all right."

The matter was serious enough, in all conscience. Our incessant vigilance was most certainly justified by the pertinacity of these mysterious prowlers, for as long as they surreptitiously sought to enter the house, my belief that the ruby lay hid somewhere beneath its roof was in a way confirmed.

Stodger was sagely nodding his head at me.

"To-night," he said, with meaning. "Bet anything you like."

"To-night," I thoughtfully echoed. "It would not surprise me in the least."

Although a close watch was maintained throughout the remainder of the day, we saw no more of the elusive "shadows." My arrival, manifestly, had frightened them away.

I put in a portion of the time until nightfall going carefully over the old house again, from cellar to roof. My purpose now was to ascertain whether there were any secret passages or concealed openings whereby we might be surprised; and my labors convinced me that there were none. The face which Genevieve saw at the alcove curtains could be easily accounted for, since, with the exception of Stodger, who was in the second story, and the officer in the lower hall, everybody in the house was assembled in the library, and, of course, completely absorbed in the inquest. It had been an easy matter to open one of the lower windows, or even one of the rear or side doors, and enter the house.

I found that the walls were all of an even, normal thickness, and there were no spaces between floors or walls for which I did not satisfactorily account. I also kept a watchful eye for the prototype of the designs on the cipher, but discovered nothing that was at all like them.

Otherwise the day proved to be wholly uneventful. I spent much time in consideration of my case, naturally; but this exercise yielded nothing more conclusive that that Alfred Fluette's place in it was assuming larger and larger proportions as time went by.

I was much impressed with Maillot's charge to watch Burke. But here again I was offered no new light. It was satisfying to know that another than myself was distrustful of the erstwhile secretary; but as for watching him—well, I knew that he was being subjected to a constant espionage that left nothing to be desired.

It was, doubtless, the emphasis which Maillot had laid upon Burke's secret visits to Fluette that engaged my interest. I would have liked very much to know what they portended. If the slippery secretary had been carrying on negotiations with the millionaire for the Paternoster Ruby, then the latter's position relative to the murder stood out quite clearly. With knowledge of those interviews in my possession I would be in a position to lay my case before the State's Attorney, who, beyond question, would procure a warrant for Fluette's immediate arrest.

What a sensation that would create! —Alfred Fluette charged with the murder of his rival and bitter enemy, Felix Page'! It would be particularly startling inasmuch as a coroner's jury had already fastened the crime upon another man. I believe the reader will unhesitatingly admit, by this time, that the Page affair presented many remarkable aspects.

There was one discordant element in such a theory, however: namely, how could Fluette hope to retain possession of the gem, once he had secured it? How could he defend his title to it? Although the stone was immensely valuable, any person save the rightful owner would have an exceedingly difficult time disposing of it.

But this objection was in turn offset by the possibility that Page, although he had purchased the ruby openly, had actually acquired no just title to it. I admit, considering that Felix Page was never the sort of man to obuy a pig in a poke, that the possibility was rather far-fetched; still, it was a possibility, and a very pregnant one, too. For if such were the case, Burke might have obtained, in some underhand manner, authority to dispose of it.

And this brought me to the, as yet, unaccounted-for Japanese—I call them such for lack of a more definite characterization. How otherwise was their obscure connection with the case to be explained? Why, the very word "ruby" instantly calls up a picture of the East. How often have priceless gems been filched from Oriental potentates! How often have mysterious murders been committed to recover some jewel stolen from an Eastern temple, the murderer driven forth by religious zeal—or fanaticism, call it what you will—to a relentless search for the fetich, and to wreak a dire vengeance on the plunderer! Admitting that the present intricate problem involved a similar instance, I could not see how the fact might tend to aid me any.

After supper, which was brought in to us, Stodger and I divided the night into two watches—I taking the first until two o'clack in the morning, and he assuming responsibility from that time on until he chose to awaken me.

Miners May Not Strike.

London, Jan. 13.—There was no change in the labor situation last night. The result of a ballot of the miners is not yet available and it is likely that it will not be published until next week. There is little doubt that the necessary two-thirds favoring a strike will be obtained, but it is believed a compromise will be arranged.

VARICOSE VEINS CURED

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skillful. I wrote them and got THE NEW METHOD TREATMENT. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never loose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment. HENRY C. LOCUST.

A Common Mistake

A common mistake, and one that is quite excusable, is that so many people between the ages of 40 and 50 feeling the need of glasses either refuse to wear them or continue putting it off.

There is no greater mistake than the common saying that "so-and-so" had such strong eyes, lived to be 80 and never used glasses to read. It is a physiological fact that at the age of 45 years the crystal line lens looses some of its elasticity; it looses more as age advances, so that even under accommodation it cannot become convex as it did before; consequently, this convexity (needed for reading) must be supplied artificially by means of glasses.

The above is taken from the Family Doctor a large American publication.

WE RECOMMEND GLASSES ONLY WHEN ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY.

CHAS. ELLIOTT HAD MISHAP

Out His Wrist by Cleaning Lamp Chimney

Mr. Charles Elliott, a C.P.R. conductor running out of Calgary, and whose home in this city, sustained a rather nasty injury to his wrist and fore-arm on New Year's Day, so a letter to a friend in the city reads.

He was engaged in cleaning the chimney of a small lamp, when the glass broke and fell upon his arm inflicting several painful cuts. He was prevented from working, owing to the injury for about five days but the wounds are now almost healed.

He is the son of Mr. J. C. Elliott, Aylmer street.

BUSY TIMES FOR PLUMBERS

Numerous are the Calls From Householders

These are the days when the lead pipe cinches are working hard for their money. The number of calls calls which the local plumbing establishments have received since the mercury dropped so suddenly is away in excess of other years. The waterworks systems in scores of residences were frozen hard this morning and no doubt many were at a loss for where to procure the warm water for their morning ablutions. The Review rang up several of the plumbing shops today and the reply in every case was that their plumbers were very busy fixing pipes and boilers which had been effected by the frost.

"Our men have been hard at work at jobs all day," said Mr. Adamson, of the firm of Adamson and Dobbin. We have had at the very least 25 or 30 calls and they have not stopped yet.

R. J. G. Sutherland reported the number of calls to be very heavy, and Mr. Adam Hall remarked that the number of water pipe troubles has been greater this winter than for many years.

A large number of householders adopt the plan of allowing the water to be slightly turned on at the taps during the night, a method which is generally efficacious.

WILLIAM WIER DEAD AT VILLIERS

Conducted General Store and the Post Office

About four o'clock this morning Mr. William Weir, a highly respected resident of Villiers, Otonabee, passed away from Kidney trouble.

The late Mr. Weir, who has had charge of the Villiers Postoffice, in conjunction with his general store, for a number of years, was also a contractor, and builder, and was well-known throughout the township. For two years he has suffered from his trouble, and as deputy returning officer at the late municipal elections, he caught cold and after being taken to his bed did not recover.

Deceased is survived by a widow, one son, James C. Weir, Weyburn, Sask., and five daughters, Mrs. J. Connal, Mrs. Geo. Renwick, Asphodel, and Misses Margaret, Annie and Ethel.

Funeral arrangements are not yet decided.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Wm. Redpath

The death occurred in Otonabee last Tuesday evening of Margaret Trotter, relict of the late Williams Redpath. Surviving are one son, John A. Trotter, of Peterborough, and one daughter, Miss Margaret at home.

The funeral took place Friday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock to Fife's cemetery, Otonabee.

Wm. Hutchinson

The funeral of the late Mr. Wm. Hutchinson, sr., of Westwood, Asphodel township, who passed away on Monday evening last from general debility, took place on Thursday afternoon to Norwood cemetery, and was largely attended, deceased being a well known and highly respected resident of Asphodel township. The funeral services, which were conducted by Rev. R. A. Richards, of the Westwood Methodist church, were under the auspices of the Masonic Order, Norwood Lodge, of which deceased was a member. He was also a Past Master of L.O.L. No. 34, Norwood.

For a number of years the late Mr. Hutchinson was a shoemaker at Norwood, but of late had been farming in the vicinity of Westwood.

Those left to mourn his loss are his widow, one daughter, Mrs. Bonner, British Columbia, and three sons, Ernest, British Columbia; Wm and Charles, at home.

FUNERAL TO BE HELD MONDAY

The funeral of the late Mr. Alfred J. Cameron, who died from exposure to the cold on Thursday night, has been arranged to be held on Monday afternoon at 2.30, from the late residence, 708 Aylmer street to Little Lake cemetery. SHE GOT WHAT SHE WANTED

This Woman Had to Insist Strongly, but it Paid

Chicago, Ill.—"I suffered from a female weakness and stomach trouble, and I went to the store to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but the clerk did not want to let me have it—he said it was no good and wanted me to try something else, but knowing all about it I insisted and finally got it, and I am so glad I did, for it has cured me.

"I know of so many cases where women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I can say to every suffering woman if that medicine does not help her, there is nothing that will."—Mrs. JANETZKI, 2963 Arch St., Chicago, Ill.

This is the age of substitution, and women who want a cure should insist upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound just as this woman did, and not accept something else on which the druggist can make a little more profit.

Women who are passing through this critical period or who are suffering from any of those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of the fact that for thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills. In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

COMING VISIT OF PATRICK MORGAN

Statement From Rev. Mr. Riddiford—Was a Teacher in a Capuchin College in Wales

To The Editor of The Review.

Dear Sir—I am glad that a correction has been made regarding the visit of Mr. Patrick Morgan, late of the Capuchin Fathers. I stand corrected perhaps, so far as I know, through my confusion of the common meaning which I have always attached to Father and Priest.

There is no profit made in misrepresenting religious facts. As a convert from Romish teaching, Mr. Morgan is coming to our city on our invitation to tell what he knows about the teachings of the Roman Catholic faith, and to contrast them with those of the New Testament. Since he was a teacher in a Capuchin college in Wales, as we are informed by your informant, then surely he must at least know something about Rome's teachings, at any rate that is what he is coming for, and no other purpose.

He doubtless will explain his his expulsion from a Roman Catholic church college himself, but in the meantime, what does the Catholic Record mean, when among other things in its issue of July 17th, 1909 the editor says, "Someone has sent in a booklet entitled, 'The Rock Infallible.'" It is from the pen of Harold P Morgan, an ex-Capuchin Franciscan Friar. A month later, August 28th, 1909, the editor quotes from a letter which he informs his readers he received from the professors of St. Cuthbert's college, Ushaw, Durham, England.

The editorial runs like this,—"We wrote to Ushaw for information about Morgan. The college authorities discovered that he was by character unfit for the priestly state. After his departure from Ushaw, Morgan went to the Franciscans in North Wales.

Again in its issue of October 8th, 1910, the Catholic Record has this to say of Mr. Morgan,—"He (Morgan) spent sometime at Ushaw college which he left with a certificate of good character in 1906."

Once more the Record attacks this enlightened monk, or rather teacher of the Roman Catholic church, and in its issue of December 17th, 1910, a letter signed by the present guardian of the monastery of St. David's Partasaph, Wales, in which your informant states Mr. Morgan studied and taught.

"Patrick Morgan studied at Ushaw. He was certified as of good conduct and enjoyed freedom from any taint, which place he left on the 19th April 1906.

Now, would that be said of a man dismissed for the drug habit. If such was the case, why did the guardian certify to Mr. Morgan's good character in the Catholic Record, and say he enjoyed freedom from ANY TAINT.

Let us be fair to each other, come out in the open, and sign our names to any facts we have to state about men or things of public interests.

Yours for the truth as it is in Jesus Christ.

Rev. W. C. Riddiford, pastor of Park street Baptist church.

WASTED AWAY TO A SHADOW

"Fruit-a-tives" cured me after 12 years Suffering

Hull, Que. Dec. 24th. 1910.

"For the past twelve years, I had painful attacks of Dyspepsia. Finally, in March 1908, I suffered such tortures that I was compelled to stay in bed. I could not digest my food and everything I ate caused the most agonizing pain in my stomach. I also had a fearful attack of Constipation, and at times I had no movement of the bowels for two weeks.

Three doctors attended me for two years and gave me all kinds of medicine but did me no good. My weight came down to only 80 pounds and everyone thought I was going to die. Finally I had the good fortune to buy 'Fruit-a-tives' and as soon as I began to take them, I felt better. I persisted in the treatment and to my great joy and to the astonishment of my friends, I improved.

Now I feel very well, weigh 115 pounds (and this is more than I ever weighed, even before my illness) I attribute my cure solely to 'Fruit-a-tives'."

QUESTION OF SINGLE TAX

Multi-Millionaire of Great Britain to Speak Here

Mr. Joseph Fels to be Heard at St. Pauls

In view of the great interest that has been taken in Ontario in the question of Taxation Reform, special interest is likely to be aroused by the visit in Peterborough next Friday evening, January the 19th, of Mr. Joseph Fels, the multi-millionaire of Great Britain, who will give an address in the Sunday school of St. Paul's church on Friday evening, Jan. 19th, under the auspices of the Brotherhood of St. Paul's. Mr. Fels is a disciple of the great Henry George, in that he believes that most of the poverty of the great union is caused by unjust systems of taxation. So earnestly does he believe this, he is giving something like $250,000 a year to promote Taxation Reform. Included in his contributions are $5,000 to the Tax Reform League of Eastern Canada, of which Mr. H. B. Cowan, of Peterborough, is a Vice-President, $50,000 for for the Tax Reform League of the United States, and $50,000 a year to the Tax Reform League of Great Britain.

While Mr. Fels' address will be delivered in the Sunday school hall of St. Paul's church, the meeting will be open to the public, and there will be charge other than the taking up of a collection. Mr. Fels is the well known manufacturer of Neptha soap and his address will therefore be of special interest to business men. Working men are cordially invited to attend also; in fact, there will be a great message for them in what Mr. Fels has to say.

CARTER IS AWARDED $450

Was Injured While Employed by Toronto Street Railway

His Honor Judge Huycke gave judgment this morning in the Carter vs. Toronto Street Railway Company, in favor of the plaintiff, Geo. Carter of this city for $450 and costs. This action was one heard at the last quarter session, Carter claiming damages for injuries received while in the employ of the defendants, as a conductor, he being knocked off the footboard of his car, owing, as he claimed, to the negligence of the Company. Carter was injured the first day of his employment, and was in the hospital for some time.

Mr. D. O'Connell conducted the case for the plaintiff, and Mr. J. W. Curry, K. C., of Toronto acted for the defendants.

MERCURY HAD DROPPED TO 29 BELOW THIS MORNING

Three Degrees Lower Than the Lowest Mark Reached Last Year.

Wouldn't this weather frost you? Where are now the late raspberries? It was 29 degrees below zero at 7.30 this morning, so the Review is informed by Mr. Walter Peters. It was not colder than this during the night. It was 3 below at noon.

The lowest temperature recorded last winter was 26 below, and that on the last night of the old year. But cheer up, there is still some more to come, and there is nothing like getting acclimated.

According to Rev. Irl Hicks, January is to see blizzards, sleet and gales. Hicks said the first blizzard would start about the ninth of January. He wasn't far out at that.

But the good old summer time for shirt waists and bathing suits will come around again. The mercury will climb, climb and hit the high spots in the summer, and we will continue to grumble.

A resident of Monaghan informed the Review this morning that his thermometer registered 32 below, while C.P.R. trainmen report 40 below for Indian River.

Some of those who braved the bitter cold weather of last night and went to the railway rink, are now paying for their boldness. The number of young people was not large. The spectacle of four youths sitting in the waiting room with their bare feet covered with snow tells its own tale. One man had his arm badly frost-bitten, while ears and noses were easy pickins for the Frost King.

PUSH PETERBOROUGH

Everyone Can and Should Assist in the Work of Advancement.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—It is probably safe to say that every citizen of Peterborough—it is certainly safe to say that every worthy citizen of Peterborough—desires this city to grow and prosper. A few observations, therefore, on how to assist in the work of advancement, and some information as to the advantages which the city possesses, may not be out of place.

The observations may not be of an original character, and the information may be such as is known to many and easily accessible to all, yet the writing and the reading of what is written may not be labor lost.

A community may be compared to a family. A good reputation is a valuable asset for a family, and a good reputation is a valuable asset for a city. If the members of a family are continually carping at each other in public, and speak evily of the family when talking to others, their reputation will suffer. Or if one or two members of a family make a practice of doing this it will be enough to seriously affect their reputation, and their influence and standing will suffer. This will curtail their opportunities for advancement and injure them materially. So it is with a city. Carping in public at the city and its situation, improvements, services, and advancement—finding fault with these things—will cause those who hear or read the carping and fault-finding, to believe that the city is a mean-spirited, non-progressive one that it will be good to keep away from. Talking in this manner about the city to inhabitants of other municipalities will have the effect, for what one is told he will tell to others, and a reputation will be established—a reputation that will hamper the city.

One citizen may believe wrongly or rightly, that some service is faulty, and if the fault or supposed fault has affected him in a personal way, he may may a grievance of it, to such an extent that he will frequently talk about it, no matter where is is. Another may similarly see or think he sees a fault in another service and follows a similar course. The result will be that those they talk to, especially if they are not conversant with the city's advantages, will think of it as a mismanaged, backward, non-progressive place, and pass on that impression to others.

This will seriously hamper the efforts of those who are endeavoring to build up the city and will retard its advancement, and probably intensify the faults which the "knockers" have found.

Should, then, those who see defects and recognize them, not try to have them remedied or supplied? Yes; they should. But there is more than one way of doing that. One is a scolding fault-finding way, which counteracts the good-doing aimed at; the other is is the appealing to civic pride—the pointing out the good work that has been done as a reason for improving it, or doing more,—referring to the advancement that calls for better things—and this way will be more effective, as well as helping to build up a good reputation for the city while timing at securing further improvement.

The latter way is one of—ALWAYS SPEAKING WELL OF THE CITY.

And by the citizens always speaking well of the city it will have a good reputation, and a good reputation is not trash either for a citizen or a city.

A short time ago two business men who came from different cities were talking in the office of a hotel in a third city. No. 1 said that in his city they were going ahead—new industries being located, business brisk, taxes moderate, population increasing and the people pulling together to make it grow. No. 2 said his city had a poor street car service, that business was not as good as it had been, that taxes were high and that the Council was negligent in several particulars. Yet the street car service in the latter was as good if not better than in the former city, the taxes were lower, business was at least as brisk, and in increase of population it had grown twice as fast as the first city owing to industrial advancement. Who would have thought so from listening to the two? The first one did not talk to an outsider of any faults he might know of in his city, and the second omitted reference to the good points of his. Which example is the better one to follow?

Pull together—that is the way to make a city grow. Talk it up, write it up, and above all work it up, and join with others cordially and energetically who are trying to do the same. Cultivate a spirit of good feeling and civic pride, and a practice of abetting and aiding in the work of advancement.

Two things, thus far, for all citizens to remember. Help the good reputation of your city, and pull together.

Yours truly,
CIVIS SUM.

IT WAS THE SAME OLD STORY AT BELLEVILLE; THE PETES FINISHED STRONG AND WON OUT

Sleepy Town Seven Scored Their Only Counter in First Few Minutes of Play—Peterboro Counted Four after Striking a Semblance of Their Real Form.

By Staff Reporter.

The game at Belleville last night in which the local intermediates took the home team into camp by a 4 to 1 score, the half time tally being 1 to 0 against the Petes, was a very poor exhibition of hockey, in fact neither team showed better than Trent Valley League form, and the slashing and tripping, which was witnessed at several stages, reminded one of a couple of games which took place in the Brock street rink last season, in which the aim was to "get the man," and let the puck take care of itself.

The special train which left the city at 4.30, did not have more than forty passengers, who helped swell the numbers at the rink side. Though Belleville had been advertised as having a new rink, it is the same one they had before, but it has been moved to a locality a block from the old site. The Belleville fans did not turn out in very large numbers, though the odds were greatly in their favor the Petes being called upon to enter the game after a ride from Peterborough in the cold, and the Bellevilleites have hitherto been deemed almost invincible on their own ice; Those fans who had faith in the abilities of their team, applauded with cheers any evidence of attempts to injure Peterborough players, every Belleville man who drew a penalty being received as though he was a hero.

Possibly the feature of the game was the appearance of an old-timer on the Belleville team, Wallace by name, and his futile attempts to "come back." His services were supposed to be valuable owing to his long experience in the game, but the management no doubt by to-day realize that it is necessary for a man to be able to "play hockey" as well as to have the experience at checking hard and moving down fast forward.

Referee Chaucer Elliott sent them off at nine o'clock, and as usual with the Belleville team, they started at a heart-breaking clip, though the locals got away at times also, but none of the home team seemed to be able to shoot anywhere near Derocher, and the forwards were very selfish in sharing the puck. They were everywhere, however, and the Electric City fans were beginning to quake for the fate of their team as Captain Park's men did not seem to be able to get going, and a couple of beautiful chances were thrown away on wild heaving.

SCORED FROM SCRIMMAGE.

The first score came in about five minutes, when Belleville annexed their only counter, beating Derocher in a scrimmage around his nets. The rest of the half was one round of fruitless efforts on the part of each team to get the other's number, mingled with several penalties meted out by "Chaucer," who did not countenance any intentional rough work. When the half way house was reached there was no change in the score and the Petes were beginning to "find themselves," while their opponents were slowing up.

SECOND HALF.

The round corners in the rink seemed to bother Coughlin and Kelly considerably, but in the second period the forwards combined better and it was not long until Kelly had tied the score on a Giroux to Park to Kelly stunt.

The Belleville team came hard for a period then, and where they could not secure the rubber they made kindling wood of the sticks and the Petes kept up a procession to the penalty box for repairs and new outfits. But the home team's chances came their way by all chasing the rubber together, and when a local forward got the puck he would find himself in the centre of a mass of flourishing sticks, some lighting on the ice near the puck, but more often on the man who had it. This was where the locals got in their work, and by a little combination Kelly got another, and Park putting their team three to the good at the finish.

La Fleur, in goal for the losers, was perhaps the most effective man for his team, he being able to pick off anything that was not sent to the corner of the net from close in. He did not have anything on Derocher however, who guarded for the locals in his usual class.

Connelly, who was Wallace's side partner at cover, got in some good work at times, but the defence on the whole was not so good as that of the Petes.

Dawkins, on the right wing, was effective at times, but served four two minute periods in the penalty box, which somewhat lessened his his usefulness.

Symons at centre, was not able to stay with Captain Park when it came to a rush, but he hung on gamely.

As stated before, the Petes did not get going until well into the last period. They were away off color, and though they won at that, it will be necessary to get working better if they expect to leave this district.

The line-ups were as follows:

PETERBOROUGH.

	Derocher
	Bearss
	Bond
	Giroux
Kelly	Park	Coughlin
Ford	Symons	Dawkins
	Gerow
	Connelly

MADOC DEFEATED TWEED

Many Inquiries From Lady Fans About the Fortunes o the Locals in Belleville — Peterboro Has Scored 17 Goals.

Madoc defeated Tweed in a Trent Valley League game at Tweed last night by the score of 5—4. At full time the score was 4—4, and in the ten minutes overtime Madoc poked the puck in for the winning tally.

As a result of last night's games the intermediate O.H.A. standing for this district is:

	W.	L.	goals for.	goals agst.
Peterboro...	2	0	17	2
Lindsay...	1	1	14	21
Trenton...	1	1	16	15
Belleville...	0	2	3	12

The Peterborough intermediates, probably unknown to themselves, have many followers of the gentler sex. Of the large number of inquiries at the Review last night relative to the game at Belleville, the voices of young ladies and their elders were often heard. One lady thought it "too bad" when the half time score was announced as 1—0 in favor of Belleville, but on being assured that the boys would come back strong in the second half, she also came back and was tickled when informed that the Petes had won out.

CAN SATISFACTORY OPTION ON GROUNDS BE SECURED ?

Will Greatly Assist Promotion of Canadian League Team.

Mr. Arthur J. Johnston has received an enthusiastic letter from Abbie Johnson, who was here a short time ago in connection with the introduction of Canadian League baseball at Peterborough and the organization of a team to represent the city.

The franchise for Peterborough being assured, the former Guelph manager is anxious that an option on the grounds at Riverside Park be secured, so that he can go ahead with the work. If the grounds management makes a satisfactory proposition he will come to Peterborough to get what he says he is certain of, a sufficient number of stockholders.

Mr. Johnson writes that he has two sets of uniforms, one blue, the other white, and the necessary outfits, and further, that he has the material with which to place a winning them in Peterborough.

With good baseball and capable management, Canadian League ball would undoubtedly receive a hearty patronage in Peterborough. Interest in the game would be awakened in the surrounding towns, and sport in general would see a reaction.

Ottawa is said to be hot foot after the proposition and the fact of being placed in a district with the Capital city would liven things up a whole lot.

TRENTON LOST AT LINDSAY

Trenton Intermediates were defeated in Lindsay last night and the half went 5-4 in favor of Lindsay. Oshawa won at home against Cobourg by 5-4. According to the Trenton Courier this season's team is superior to the seven of last year.

MISTAKEN SCIENTISTS.

Newcomb Said the Aeroplane Could Never Be a Success.

Sir Humphry Davy's dogmatic pronouncement against gaslighting is not the only instance of a clever scientist being hopelessly wrong. The early history of submarine cabling furnishes two striking examples. Consulted on the scientific side of the project, Faraday asserted that the first cables were made too small. Then he said that "the larger the wire the more electricity would be required to charge it," and in this quite incorrect opinion he was supported by other eminent scientists. As a result of this dictum the current was increased until the operation "electrocuted" the wire and the cable broke down. It was Lord Kelvin who by sending messages through heavy cables with incredibly weak electric currents proved that Faraday was mistaken.

Airy submitted the project to mathematics and arrived at the conclusion that a cable could not be submerged to the necessary depth and that if it could no recognizable signal could ever travel from Ireland to Nova Scotia.

In aviation the late Dr. Newcomb, one of the most distinguished mathematicians the world has ever produced, declared that he had mathematically investigated all the conditions operating against the heavier than air machine and was convinced that the aeroplane would never be any more than a scientific toy, and the possibility of an aeroplane motor being reliable in the reduced atmospheric pressure above 3,000 feet was by several experts said to be out of the question.—Harper's Weekly.

VANISHED GRANDEUR.

Glories of the Thames When London Roads Were Markets.

In Tudor times royal residences were situated along the Middlesex bank of the Thames, and splendid barges manned by oarsmen in livery were constantly coming and going between them.

"The city companies," says the London Times, "all had their state barges and liveried watermen. Great river pageants were numerous. High placed criminals traveled down to their death on the ebbing tide. Ambassadors and other envoys of foreign powers were met at Gravesend by the lord mayor and his aldermen and taken by river in a stately progress to Tower stairs. The regular route westward was by river to Putney, thence by road across Putney heath.

"That way went Wolsey when deprived of the great seal, traveling from York House to Escher in disgrace, until he fell in with the king's messenger on the heath and knew he was his master's man once more. In a later age the entry into London of Catharine of Braganza, the consort of Charles II., was a memorable example of the river pageant.

"In old days the city roads were markets rather than thoroughfares, so that even if anybody wished to go from one part of the city to another he went by river, for the roads were quagmires in bad weather and at all times haunted by highwaymen and footpads. Pepys, that type of the patriotic permanent official, always used the river. Such phrases as 'by water to Whitehall' and 'so by water home' constantly occur in his diary.

"In Queen Anne's reign there were 40,000 watermen plying for hire on the Thames and over a hundred 'stairs,' or landing places, in London proper. These watermen were the 'cabbies' of that age. The really curious thing is that the Thames was still a main thoroughfare less than a century ago. Not until 1857 did the lord mayor's show proceed to Westminster otherwise than by water."

WOULDN'T BE TAMED.

End of a Wild Stallion That Resented the Touch of Man.

In "Mustangs, Busters and Outlaws of the Nevada Wild Horse Country," in the American Magazine, Rufus Steele writes of the capture of a splendid wild stallion that had long eluded capture. He was an "outlaw." Writes Mr. Steele:

"Until we saddled him we did not realize his desperation. We fastened the riata to his front feet. When he tried to run away we jerked his feet from under him, throwing him heavily. As he attempted to rise we threw him again and repeated the maneuver until exhaustion necessitated his capitulation. But his surrender was only temporary. For three years we tried to break him, using every artifice known to us. As quickly as one man gave up the task another would try to conquer him, but every time a human being approached or tried to bridle or saddle him he would bite viciously, while his eyes, protruding from the sockets, blazed fiery red with hate. As the cinch was drawn tight the outlaw, if upon his feet, invariably reared straight up, poised upon his hind legs, then hurled himself backward to the ground. We always mounted him while he was tied down, and to 'stay' after he gained his feet called for action which boiled a day's work into thirty minutes of struggle.

"His end was tragic as his career. In making an attempt at escape by jumping out of a stockade corral he misjudged the distance and became impaled on a jagged post, and a 44 was turned loose upon him to end his suffering."

Cautions.

A lawyer happened to be acquainted with a juror in a petty civil case, and he met him during a recess of the court. The lawyer was just "lighting up," and under ordinary circumstances he would have offered the other a cigar unhesitatingly, but it occurred to him that it might not look right.

"I suppose," he said guardedly, "that a cigar would not influence your verdict?"

The juror was equally cautious.

"A good one wouldn't," he replied, "but a poor one might prejudice me."

He got a good cigar.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Nature's Protection For the Ear.

The membrane lining the canal of the ear contains a great number of little glands which secrete a waxy substance having an intensely bitter taste. The purpose of this is to prevent the entrance of insects and to keep the ear clean, as the layer of wax dries in scales, which rapidly fall away, thus removing with them any particle of dust or other foreign matters which may have found entrance to the ear.

Softer.

"I have no doubt you have heard some stories to my discredit," he said.

"I don't like to put it in that way," she quietly replied.

"How then?" he hopefully asked.

"I have never heard any stories to your credit," said she.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

DISMISSAL OF CIVIL SERVANTS

O. J. Wilcox, (N. Essex), on whose recommendation the dismissal was made, defended his action in the matter. It was the case of a man appointed after the dissolution, though before the election, who had displaced a man against whom no charges had ever been made. He had no apology for reinstating him.

A. P. Clarke (S. Essex) declared that Bryan had been refused an investigation.

The Minister declared that no investigation was necessary, as a member of the House had made the recommendation on his responsibility as a member.

Mr. Clarke stated that the policy of the late Government had been to appoint young men, an age limit of 36 years being placed.

The Minister of Customs did not think this was correct, as men had been appointed whose ages run all the way up to 75 years. For his own part he had never appointed men over 36 years of age except in very special cases.

J. H. Sinclair (Guysboro) challenged the Premier to make a statement as to the position of the Government on dismissals and appointments. He asked Hon. Col. Hughes what he thought of the dismissal of Mr. Baldwin of Montreal because he had had the courage to protest against disloyal statements made by Nationalist speakers.

Hon. J. D. Reid stated that this man was undoubtedly an active partisan. The whole front page of a newspaper in the constituency in which he resided was occupied by a virulent article written by Baldwin and adorned with his portrait. This article referred to more matters than the one adverted to by Mr. Sinclair.

"I may say," declared the Minister of Customs, "that any official the moment he leaves his office and enters the political arena, no matter to whom he refers, will not remain in the service."

Some people seem to get a lot of happiness out of denying themselves a little pleasure.

Catarrhal Bad Breath

Corrected Quickly by the Use of

Catarrhozone

Catarrh is an inflammation. Where there is inflammation there is always more or less offensive secretion. Inflammation may be of the very active sort, but it is often of the slow kind, and this is the particular form in which the breath is rendered offensive and the presence of the sufferer becomes an offence to every person of delicate sensibility.

Bad breath is in itself sufficient to urge you to correct it, because one dislikes to be unpleasant to their friends, but this form of catarrh is dangerous because it supplies a hotbed for the development of Consumption or of other diseases of the throat and lungs.

Bad breath is an evidence that the microbes have found a good resting place and are carrying on their evil inroads into the health of the body.

Catarrhozone acts at once and destroys these minute organisms, but it does more—it heals the inflamed surfaces in which they found a nesting place and consequently removes both cause and effects of their action.

If we only highly estimated the value of prevention and used Catarrhozone at the beginning of a cold or just before it becomes well seated, the deadly ravages of Consumption would be stayed and the terrible agonies of sufferers of Asthma or Bronchitis completely abolished.

There is no remedy as effective for bad breath, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, etc., as Catarrhozone. Besides being healing and soothing it is germ destroying. Nothing ever offered to the public can compare with it in its promptness, efficiency, and permanency of action, and you can buy it from any dealer in medicine throughout the Dominion of Canada, 25c, 50c, and $1.00 sizes. By mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

FOUND PEARLS IN OYSTERS

Toronto, Jan. 13.—Mrs. A. E. Peterman, of 318 Crawford street, had the experience, while eating oysters at supper, of finding fully 100 pearls embedded in the flesh of one bivalve. The pearls are all small, mostly about the size of a pin head, while a few are as large as an eighth of an inch in diameter. Mrs. Peterman took them to two jewellers, who declared them genuine. She intends to keep them as a curiosity, as both jewellers say this is their chief value.

LITTLE WORRIES IN THE HOME

It is These That Bring Wrinkles and Make Women Look Prematurely Old.

Almost every woman at the head of a home meets daily with many little worries in her household affairs. They may be too small to notice an hour afterwards, but it is the same constant little worries that make so many women look prematurely old. Their effect may be noticed in sick or nervous headaches, fickle appetite pain in the back or side, sallow complexion and the coming of wrinkles, which every woman dreads. To those thus affected Dr. Williams' Pink Pills offer a speedy and certain cure, a restoration of color to the cheeks brightness to the eye, a healthy appetite and a sense of freedom from weariness.

Among the thousand of Canadian women who have found new health and new strength through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, is Mrs. W. C. Daerr, London, Ont., who says: "About two years ago I found myself so badly run down that it was almost impossible to perform my household duties. I fell off in flesh was weak and very pale, had no appetite, feet constantly cold and to further make my life miserable I was afflicted with those other ailments from which so many women suffer. I tried many kinds of medicine, but got no benefit, and began to feel that I was slipping into chronic invalidism. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and although I felt somewhat hopeless decided to do so. To my delight after taking the Pills a few weeks, I felt much better, and a further use of them brought me back to my old time health. I have since recommended the Pills to many others, and those who have used them have always been benefitted."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

KICK FROM COLT FRACTURED BOYS SKULL

Piece of Skull Was Imbedded in His Brain

Lindsay, Jan. 13—The other evening Walter Irwin, a lad between twelve and thirteen years of age, a son of Mr. Wm. Irwin, who lives near Rosedale, had a piece of his skull driven into and imbedded in his brain by a kick from a colt which he was tring to catch in a field some distance from the house. His screams attracted attention, and he was found in an almost unconscious condition in the field. It is supposed about half an hour after the accident occurred, as the fingers of the right hand were badly frozen and the snow was packed down for a con- the snow was packed down for a considerable space around in his efforts to get up. Dr. Graham, of Fenelon Falls, was summoned by telephone, and on arriving found what he at first thought was only a scalp wound, but on examination he discovered that a piece of the skull had been completely broken off and imbedded in the brain. The piece of bone could not be seen, but after careful probing it was located and extracted, requiring a very delicate operation. A portion of the brain, about an eggcupful in quanity, had also to be removed. The piece of bone broken from the skull measured two and one-eighth inches in length by one inch and a quarter in width. At last reports the young man is making very favorable progress.

Gas Distended His Stomach

"My last wish will be," writes Harry P. Pollard, a well-known boot and shoe traveler of Hartford, "that everyone with a bad stomach may learn as I did, before it's too late, that Nerviline is the one remedy to cure. Why, I was in mighty bad shape, my digestion was all wrong, and every night I would waken with a start and find my heart jumping like a threshing machine. This was caused by gas on my stomach pressing against my heart. When I started to use Nerviline I got better mighty fast. It is certainly a grand remedy for the traveling man, keeps your stomach in order, cures cramps, prevents lumbago or rheumatism, breaks up chest colds and sore throat—in fact there hasn't been an ache or pain inside or outside for the past two years that I haven't cured with Nerviline. Do you wonder I recommend it?"

For general household use Nerviline has no equal; it will cure the aches and ailments of the entire family—refuse anything but Nerviline, 50c per bottle, trial size 25c, all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

INDIAN RIVER BAPTIST CHURCH

Annual Meeting Was Attended With Great Success

Special Correspondence.

The annual meeting of the Baptist church was held, Wednesday night and notwithstanding the terrible drifted condition of the roads and the keenness of the atmosphere, a goodly number were present.

At the conclusion of the business part of the meeting, the pastor, W. H. Wood, expressed his appreciation of the happy relationship existing between church and pastor. All sat down to a delightful supper, and it was pleasin gto watch some of our friends being initiated into the art of eating oysters.

WOMEN STILL ARE PRAISING THEM

Mrs. Geo. Butler Tells What Dodd's Kidney Pills Did For Her

She was tired, nervous and run dow and suffered from pains in the back.—Dodd's Kidney Pills cured her.

Paquetville, Gloucester Co., N.B., Jan. 12. (Special)—That Dodd's Kidney Pills are suffering woman's best friend was never better demonstrated than in the case of Mrs. Geo. Butler, a well-known and highly respected resident of this place.

"My trouble was brought on by hard work," Mrs. Butler tells her friends. "For four years I suffered from pain in the back. I was always tired and nervous. My head ached and I had dark circles under my eyes, which were also puffed and swollen.

"I was in a generally run-down condition and feeling very much discouraged when I started to take Dodd's Kidney Pills, and I can only say I found relief at once."

The mainspring of woman's health is the kidneys. If the kidneys are right the blood will be pure. Pure blood is absolutely essential to good healht. Dodd's Kidney Pills make the kidneys right.

WHO PAYS THE DUTY?—— You or our foreign competitor

You pay. About that there is no room for doubt.

And it's more than likely you believe in the necessity of the tariff.

But—of what earthly good is it if you pay the duty?

The foreigner laughs at duties imposed by our government as long as you are willing to cash up. Take beer, for instance.

"Salvador"

The Famous National Drink

is the purest and best beer brewed on this continent.

The formula and entire process of brewing "Salvador" is a secret and absolutely controlled, on this side of the Atlantic, by Reinhardts' of Toronto.

Beer, almost as good as "Salvador," is brewed by the big American brewers and sold in the States at exactly the same price as "Salvador" in Canada.

But—when you order an American beer in Canada there's 34% extra to pay—the duty—plus extra freight charges.

Is it rational to pay that duty—when you can get a better beer at the normal price? "Salvador" beer is rich in flavor, sparkling and charged with invigorating properties.

NEW POST OFFICE FOR LAKEFIELD

Conservatives Had Good Meeting and Club Will be Formed

The annual meeting of the local branch of the Liberal-Conservative Association for the East Riding of Peterborough, held in the Sons of England hall on Friday evening last, proved a most enthusiastic affair. About fifty members were present, and, besides hearing good speeches from J. A. Sexsmith, M.P.; Jas. Thompson, M.P.P.; Dr. J. R. Fraser and the chairman, Mr. O. A. Langley, all enjoyed the opportunity afforded of meeting the parliamentary members personally and spending a social evening together. The main business of the evening was the election of officers. Mr. O. A. Langley was again elected president, and Mr. F. J. Burgess, secretary-treasurer. Messrs. Gerald Fitzgerald and H. G. Fitzgerald were elected chairmen of the polling sub-divisions. After the election of officers, speeches were made by the officers and Dr. J. R. Fraser. Mr. Sexsmith was loudly applauded when he stated that he had every reason to expect that his request for a new post office at Lakefield would be granted. The meeting, which was throughout most enthusiastic and harmonious, was then thrown open to general discussion, in which everyone took part. Before final adjournment a motion was carried to form a Conservative Club and the matter was left in the hands of a committee. Mr. Langley proved an able chairman, and, while the business was put through with despatch, everyone was given an opportunity of expressing his views on the subjects before the meeting.—Lakefield News.

ious groups, 43; non-party members, 29. Total, 397.

The parties number about fifteen, including the groups and fractions of minor parties; but, generally speaking, they may be divided into those of the Right, Centre, and Left.

The parties of the Right are the Conservatives, the Imperial Conservatives, the Agrarians, and four groups of antisemites.

The Centre consists of the Roman Catholic party; the Left includes the three Liberal and radical groups (known also under the united name of the Progressive party) and the Socialists. Apart from these parties there are some others, which are important and which cannot be classified in any of the above-mentioned groups; for example, the National Liberals, who claim to belong to the Left, but who generally vote with the Right.

There also are the Nationalist groups—the Poles, the Alsatians, and the Danes—and finally there is the Guelph party, which represents a small faction whose political ambitions centre in the revival of the Kingdom of Hanover as one of the confederated states of the empire.

This extraordinary number of parties naturally means a corresponding number of candidates to seek election. Although the Reichstag only counts 397 members, the number of candiates at the election is over 2,000.

For weeks an exciting campaign has been conducted throughout the country, the opposition parties taking advantage of the Government's recent failures on international policy to urge the electorate to change its rulers, and the Conservative parties impressing on the people that every vote given against the present Government will be a vote for socialism, internationalism, and anarchy.

Since the last election every bye-election has been a triumph for the Socialists, and thus the prediction of Prince Buelow.

Who Will Be Governor?

Ottawa, Jan. 13.—A spirited race is in progress for the governorship of the Yukon. The post is practically vacant now.

Governor Henderson some time ago obtained six months' leave of absence and it has been well understood that at the end of the term he would retire. The succession lies between Hon. A. S. Goodeve, Conservative M.P. for Kootenay, a former member of the McBride Government; J. A. McKinnon of Dawson and George Black of Dawson. The Kootenay member, who was very much in the running during the formation of the Borden Cabinet, is said to have a good chance of securing the post in the Yukon, if the choice does not fall on Mr. Black.

SAFE BLOWERS WERE WISE TO FINGER PRINT METHODS

Used Cloth in Handling Soap During Lakefield Burglary

In the burglary of the store of Charlton Bros. at Lakefield recently, indications prove that the outrage was committed by safe blowers, who were extremely accomplished in their particular line.

A large chunk of soap was used to fill in the hold after the nitroglycerine was poured into the lock of the safe, as this has a tendency to drive the charge inward. The burglars were crafty enough, however, when handling the soap to use a piece of cloth, thereby leaving no correct finger print impressions in the soap. Chief Thompson sent the impression, however, of what finger indentations were left on the soap, through the handling, to the department at Ottawa, who were unable, however, to make out anything in the way of ascertaining knowledge of the offenders by their finger prints.

Canadian Policies Unchanged.

London, Jan. 13.—The Times, editorially reviewing the Canadian Parliamentary prospects, thinks it extremely unlikely that the next few months will see any strikingly new development of Canadian policy, because the most important problems have already been reserved for prolonged investigation. It commends Mr. Borden for his decision to take personal charge of the imperial and foreign policy.

Murder Trial Stirs France.

Paris, Jan. 13.—A sensational murder trial in which several members of an aristocratic family are involved opened yesterday at Caen and is being followed throughout France with absorbing interest. A youth, aged 18, is accused of brutally slaying his father, the Baron de Couvrigny at the instigation of his mother and with the complicity of other members of the family.

LOCAL PEOPLE AT PORT HOPE

A dance was held in the town hall at Port Hope last evening under the auspices of the Bachelors' Club of that town. A very delightful time was spent, the music being supplied by Frolick's orchestra. Several local young people took in the event among whom were Miss Rose Mulholland, Miss Kathleen Merrell, Nell Graham and Messrs. Roland Hunter and Harold Elliott.

A balloon which ascended from Paris Saturday midnight, with two passengers seeking a long-distance record, has since been unheard of.

SPANISH CABINET STEPS DOWN AND OUT

Ministry Had a Quarrel With King Alfonso and Resigned

Disagreement Over the Fate of a Rioter Who Murdered a Judge.

Madrid, Jan. 15.—The Spanish Cabinet of which Jose Canalejas y Mendes was Premier, resigned yesterday.

The Cabinet resigned as the result of a divergence of views with King Alfonso as to the advisability of commuting the death sentence of one of the rioters, who murdered a judge and wounded several court officials in the town of Cullera, Province of Valencia, last September. The general strike at that time in Valencia and other provinces involved a plot to assassinate Gen. Weyler.

The trial of the strikers has engrossed public attention to the exclusion of all else, thanks to the skillful campaign of the Radicals, who seized upon the affair as a weapon to attack the Government, in the same way as they utilized the refusal to reprieve Francisco Ferrer, director of the modern school, who was executed in 1909, to bring about the downfall of the Maura Cabinet.

Realizing that it was a sordid crime and that the accused men were impossible objects of sympathy, the Radicals raised a false issue, accusing the Government of all sorts of tortures and cruelties towards the prisoners. Consequently the agitation spread with great rapidity and caused grave concern to Premier Canalejas.

The Ministerial crisis at the moment of the Franco-Spanish negotiations on Morocco is of exceptional gravity, and the King has lost no time in consulting with the leading statesmen, in turn conferring with Gen. Montero Rios, president of the Cortes; ex-Premier Moret Prendergast, and ex-Premier Maura, all of whom agreed that the Liberals should remain in power. They urged the King to try to prevail upon Senor Canalejas to return.

The reprieve of the rioter Chuqueta has had an excellent effect throughout the country, which Saturday was aroused when it was learned that the King and his Ministry had failed to reach an agreement on that question.

W. T. R. Preston In Ottawa.

Ottawa, Jan. 15.—W. T. R. Preston, some time trade-commissioner in the service of the Trade and Commerce Department, has arrived in Ottawa.

Mr. Preston is well known as the former Liberal organizer, turned official, who quarreled with Alfred Jury in England, who was accused by that official of having an interest in the North Atlantic Trading Co., and who was sent to the Far East and subsequently to Holland, and who resigned the moment he heard of the defeat of the Laurier administration.

Portugal Kind to Missionaries.

Lisbon, Jan. 15.—The Government commission announces that American, German and British missionaries will be allowed to remain in Portuguese East Africa. This decision was taken after conferences had been held with the diplomatic representatives of these three countries here. Portugal, however, has decided to establish its own missions in Africa, to counterbalance the influence of foreign missionaries.

PINNED DOWN BY AN IRON BEAM

Body of Heroic Battalion Chief Found—Special Fund Being Raised.

New York, Jan. 15.—In the shadow of weakening walls that threatened each moment to totter and fall, a squad of firemen worked for five hours yesterday afternoon to wrest from the ruins of the Equitable building the body of Battalion Chief Wm. Walsh, who met death in the fire of last Tuesday. They found his body shortly after noon, half sitting, half reclining, with outstretched arms, pinned face down by a giant iron beam and with only his rubber coat showing. It was dark when they lifted him out and, save for his great coat, he would hardly have been identified.

The coroner's physician believed that the chief had been asphyxiated as he groped through the burning building, and that the debris which fell upon him crushed an already lifeless body. The neck, and almost every bone in the body was broken. There were but few burns.

A crowd of thousands defied the sharp wind and biting cold and gathered about the ruins as his body was taken from the wreckage to the hearse. They bared their heads in silence as it drove away.

Funds for the relief of the families of those killed in the fire rolled up to a total approximately $10,000 on Saturday.

A special merit fund, to be created by contributions from financiers and corporations and to be placed at the disposal of the commissioners of the police and fire departments of New York, of relieving distress and rewarding heroism, was started Saturday by J. P. Morgan & Co. and Kuhn, Loeb & Co., who headed the lists with donations of $5,000 each.

In their letter to the commissioners, the bankers give the motive inspiring the creation of the fund as a desire to express the appreciation of banks and bankers in the Wall street district of the work of police and firemen.

ROBBERS LOOT A STREET CAR

Vancouver, B.C., Jan. 15.—Two armed highwaymen held up a street car on Hastings street in the east end of the city at 11 o'clock Saturday night. After securing all the valuables, which the passengers had, and shooting Conductor William Barker, they escaped in an automobile which they had earlier in the evening stolen from G. E. Torrey, manager for Henry Birks & Co. Yesterday morning the automobile was found in perfect condition standing in the rear of the Cambie street bridge.

It is estimated that the hold-up men got $3,000 in cash and jewelry. Conductor Barker refused to give up his fare box and the robbers fired three shots, one striking him in the back of the head and rendering him unconscious. He was not seriously hurt.

Vasey's grocery store was held up Saturday evening and $60 taken. Two hold-up men were captured last week in the persons of Ralph Munger and J. Afford.

SKINS TO THE VALUE OF OVER $1,000 WERE CONFISCATED

Important Capture of Contraband Furs at Temagami—Man With Goods Caught in Trap.

North Bay, Ont., Jan. 15.—An important capture of contraband fur was effected yesterday afternoon at Temagami, when skins to the value of over $1,000 were confiscated and the dealer caught red-handed with the goods. The round-up was made by Chief Inspector Cauldbeck of Cobalt and Provincial Constable Jerry Lefebvre, following up well grounded suspicions that Temagami was the centre of a thriving trade in illicit furs.

O. Parent, who lives at Temagami, was the man under suspicion, and a man was sent down to make a deal with him for furs if possible, under cover of being in the contraband business himself. Parent fell into the trap and had the furs at the station yesterday afternoon to ship to Toronto, when Chief Cauldbeck and Constable Lefebvre stepped on the train and gathered him in, furs and all, bringing the outfit to North Bay.

The skins captured included 61 beaver, 43 mink, 91 muskrat, 46 weasel, beaver, otter and skunk skins.

Parent will come up for trial to-day before Magistrate Weegar and Game Warden Parks.

Urge League Against Socialists.

Berlin, Jan. 15.—The immense rally to the Socialist flag during the elections to the Reichstag is indicated by the figures of the number of voters in 50 constituencies taken at random. These show that nearly 32 per cent. of the voters were Socialists, and foreshadow an aggregate Socialist vote at the conclusion of the polling of 4,000,000.

The Norddeutsche Zeitung yesterday headed its column with warnings to the Government and to all non-Socialist parties to make strong efforts in the second ballots against the return of Socialist candidates. The Socialists, it says, exercised turbulent terrorism at home and build up a vision of the general fraternization of the peoples of the world. The foreign enemies and rivals of the German empire, the newspaper continues, build their hopes upon the Socialists and will rejoice if they add to their victories in the second ballots.

In conclusion, the article says: "Our work for peace can only prosper when we keep ourselves strong and united as a nation. Among the first tasks of the new Reichstag will be the guaranteeing of our defensive power. The party calling itself international is incapable of meeting this important demand.

CHANGES IN THE BRITISH NAVAL STAFF

Justifying the recent sensational charges made by Admiral Lord Charles Beresford that when the Anglo-German crisis growing out of the Moroccan dispute was most acute and war talk was on every tongue the navy was unprepared for hostilities, Mr. Winston Churchill, First Lord of the British Admiralty, has made some sweeping changes in the administration. Sir Francis Hopwood has been appointed additional Civil Lord on the Board of Admiralty and several other changes were made.

Cotton Workers Attack Mill Breaking the Windows—Most of Strikers French Canadians.

Special to the Review.

Lawrence, Mass., Jan. 15.—Three thousand striking cotton mill workers attacked the Pacific Mills to-day, tearing down a fence and smashing the windows. Soldiers charged the mob with fixed bayonets, wounding nearly fifty persons, more or less seriously. A big percentage of the cotton workers are French-Canadians.

SCHOOL TEACHER ENDS HER LIFE

Drank Poison After Being Driven Home by Young Man.

Uxbridge, Jan. 15.—Miss Evelyn Baker, who until Christmas taught school at Leaskdale, was in Uxbridge Saturday night until about 10 o'clock, when she was driven to her home by a young man of the town. The family retired, and after they had been in their room for some time, Miss Baker was heard leaving her room and going downstairs. A few minutes after she was found in the pantry taking something, but refused to state what it was.

She again went to her room, and in a short time was heard groaning. When found she was in convulsions, and although Dr. Mellow, who lives quite close, was immediately summoned, she died before the stomach pump could be used. An inquest will be held.

ANTI-TYPHOID INOCULATION

Lieut.-Col Jones Speaks Well of Results at Petawawa Camp

Ottawa, Jan. 15.—"Anti-typhoid inoculation was practised at the Petawawa camp last summer," stated Lieut.-Col. Carleton Jones, Director-General of medical services, "and there was not a single case of typhoid in the camp."

When told that the purpose of the desired information was to prove or disprove the efficiency of this preventive measure, Col. Jones smiled. "Why the scientific efficiency of inoculation for typhoid is so universally recognized," he replied, "that there is no longer any question about it. Every scientific authority agrees that this is a fundamental procedure in the prevention of disease. The inoculation is purely voluntary," continued Lieut.-Col. oJnes, "and we do the same here in Ottawa among the permanent men, always with satisfactory results."

The Colonel went on to state that even last winter when the typhoid epidemic was at its worst in Ottawa many of the permanent men were inoculated for self-protection. Not one of these caught the fever. The same system would probabbly be carried out in the summer militia camps, except that it rendered the men sick for some days, and this would interfere with the short term of training.

DEATHS FROM SEVERE COLD

Swift Current, Sask., Jan. 15.—The body of Mrs. Gardinea, a widow, living eight miles north, was found frozen to death two miles from town yesterday by a farmer who was driving in. She left here Thursday afternoon to walk home before the blizzard started. She is aged 40 years, and leaves three children, the youngest being eight years.

The body of Thomas Robinson has been found on the road, 45 miles south of here. Mounted police have gone to investigate.

Calgary, Jan. 15.—Stephen Pritt was found frozen to death about eight miles west of the city yesterday. He had been employed as cook at Bowness camp, where the Associated Charities have a number of men at work.

Fire In Perth.

Perth, Jan. 15.—Fire yesterday morning destroyed $8,000 worth of stock of a gents' furnishing store kept by F. & F. Henderson here. R. W. Croskery's boot store was badly damaged by smoke, as was the Oddfellows' Hall above. All the losses are covered by insurance.

TRAIN WRECKED; SIX ARE DEAD

Philadelphia, Jan. 15.—Six persons, five women and a man, were killed when an express train on the New York division of the Pennsylvania Railroad crushed into a light station wagon at the Linden avenue grade crossing in Torresdale, a suburb, yesterday. The dead are: Charles Davidson, aged 50 years; Nellie O'Connor, aged 19 years; Bridget Malloy, aged 42; Agnes Garrity, aged 22; Rose Gallagher, aged 18 years; Mary Roddy, aged 20 years.

The dead women were all employed as servants in fashionable homes in Torresdale, and were being conveyed to church when the accident occurred, Davidson was driving the wagon. The Linden avenue station is usually guarded by a watchman, but the regular man was on leave of absence and his substitute had not appeared when the coach reached the crossing. Davidson waited for a freight train to pass and then drove directly in front of the approaching express.

MUST PAY THE FULL AMOUNT

Ottawa, Jan. 15.—A recent decision by the judicial committee of the Privy Council makes the Dominion of Canada responsible for a large amount of money, said to reach the sum of ten million dollars.

It will be recalled that the original contract with the Grand Trunk Pacific, that of 1903, provided that the Government was to guarantee bonds of the railway company. The contract named certain sums, and the guarantee was to cover the face value of bonds of those amounts.

The second contract, of 1904, by introducing the word "implement," changed the bargain materially. If the guarantee was to be for $13,000 a mile, the new arrangement that the Government must guarantee bonds enough to produce $13,000 cash, no matter at what price the bonds were issued.

This construction was placed upon the revised arrangement by critics of the measure, and it has been upheld by the Privy Council.

FRANCE HAS NEW CABINET

Paris, Jan. 15.—The French Cabinet organized by Premier Poincare was officially announced yesterday. No changes have been made in the portfolios as given out Saturday night, but yesterday's announcement included the Ministers of Public Instruction and Commerce and the Under Secretaries.

The Cabinet is composed as follows: Premier and Minister of Foreign Affairs, Raymond Poincare; Minister of Justice, Aristide Briand; Minister of Labor, Alevandre Millerand; Minister of Marine, Theophile Delcasse; Minister of Finance, L. L. Klotz; Minister of the Interior, Jules Steeg; Minister of Public Works, Jean Dupuy; Minister of Agriculture, Jules Pams; Minister of Colonies, M. Lebrun; Minister of Public Instruction, M. Giusthau; Minister of Commerce, Fernand David.

Under Secretaries: Interior, Paul Morel; Finance, Rene Besnard; Posts and Telegraphs, Mr. Chaumel; Beaux Arts, Leon Berard.

Natural Gas Explosion.

Welland, Jan 15.—Early yesterday morning, Oswald Hickey was badly burned by a natural gas explosion, and the house he occupied, owned by Cosy Homes, wrecked and burned. The loss, $1,000, is covered by insurance. Escaping gas caused by the rubber tube becoming disconnected.

CHILMAN CONVICTED IN EXPRESS ROBBERY

PROBABILITIES

Strong northwest to north winds clearing and decidedly colder. Tuesday, fine and very cold.

More Attention to Fruit.

Ottawa, Jan. 15.—The convention of fruit growers, which is to be held here next month, will, if the fruit men have their way, result in much closer co-operation between the Department of Agriculture and the fruit industry. It is probable that a resolution will be presented and passed favoring the establishment of a fruit division of the Department on much broader lines than those upon which the fruit branch is now conducted.

The Government is said to look with favor upon such a change.

ABDICATION EXPECTED

Arrangements Being Made for Emperor's Departure

Three Days Given as the Remaining Term of Manchu Rule.

Pekin, Jan. 15.—The abdication of the Emperor is expected to take place within three days, but events may occur to give the Manchus a new lease of life, as they often have in the past when matters seemed hopeless. Yuan Shi Kai's secretary makes no secret of the preparations, and the Premier, Saturday afternoon, conferred for two hours with Hsu Shih Chang and Shih Shu, the throne's guardians, respecting the measures to be undertaken.

It is understood that plans are being arranged for the departure of the Imperial family to Jehol. The Imperial guard will probably act as an escort, unless the flight from Pekin is secret, which is not improbable, before the abdication proclamation appears.

It is said that the Manchus have considered and have agreed to accept the terms offered by the Republicans some days ago—protection and respect such as would be accorded to a retired foreign monarch residing in China; the retention of the palace at Jehol or the summer palace near Pekin, for the use of the Emperor; the other members of the Imperial family to retain their personal wealth and property; all the Manchu pensions to continue for a fixed term and the payment of a large annual pension to the court, said to be 10,000,000 taels (about $500,000).

A difficulty has arisen in that the Manchus are unable to obtain a guarantee that the future Republican Government would not repudiate the pledges. Premier Yuan is still insisting upon a national assembly, from which he will undoubtedly endeavor to obtain assurance for the safety of the Imperials and their maintenance.

The Manchus recognize that they cannot continue in power without further financial aid, sufficient for the support of the army, while it is probable that even after the last treasure chest is empty the Republicans would still be powerful. As a consequence the Manchu princes have decided not to disgorge. They realize that a liberal pension may not again be offered if the struggle is continued and the Republicans incensed.

The diplomatic representatives held a conference Saturday with Brig.-Gen. E. J. Cooper, the British commander at Tientsin, and discussed with him his ability to keep open the Pekin-Chang Wang Tao Railway. It is believed that possible trouble in Pekin was also taken under consideration.

It is understood that the leading powers are ready to support Yuan Shi Kai, believing that he is the one strong leader capable of grappling with the situation, especially in view of the discord among the Republican leaders.

Despatches received from the provinces report many murders and the looting and burning of houses. Hundreds of women are committing suicide, in fear of bandits who are committing all kinds of atrocious crimes. The armistice will expire Jan. 15, and it is, therefore, expected that abdication will be completed before that date. The palace at Jehol has been sufficiently restored to accommodate the Imperial entourage.

President May Resign.

Nanking, Jan. 15.—President Sun Yat Sen received the news of the pending abdication of the Emperor quietly. He said that he was pleased to learn that the first step towards the pacification and reorganization of the country had been taken. He anticipated some delay in the readjustment of affairs, and added that it was quite possible that Yuan Shi Kai might be President of the new republic. He adhered to his declaration that he would resign when the Manchu Government had been ousted and peace completely restored throughout the country.

The first stage would necessitate a military government, under which order could be secure, and the Republicans were determined that the old regime of corruption must be abolished, and the people of China permitted to earn the full reward of their labor.

Armistice Extended?

London, Jan. 15.—According to a Shanghai despatch the armistice has been extended for two weeks to give the Manchus an opportunity to abdicate.

Found Guilty of Having Received Money Known to Have Been Stolen.

Judge Charged Against Him and in Favor of the Prisoner Acheson.

Hamilton, Jan. 15.—"In the case of Joseph Acheson, we find him 'not guilty.' In the case of J. D. Chilman, we find him guilty on the third count of the indictment, of receiving money knowing it to have been stolen."

Such was the verdict announced on Saturday night by Foreman J. A. Morris of the jury which heard the evidence in the crown's three charges against the two men in connection with the mysterious theft of more than $8,000 from the office of the Canadian Express Co. here last September.

The trial was begun early last Thursday afternoon and it was not until five o'clock Saturday afternoon that the case was given to the jury. The verdict was reached at 9.15 Saturday night, more than four hours being consumed by the jurors in their discussion of the problems presented by the case.

Justice Teetzel was very much pleased with the jury's finding, which he designated as a very intelligent verdict and entirely justified by the evidence. The judge's charge to the jury was strongly against Chilman, while in it he practically instructed the jurors to acquit Acheson. When the verdict was delivered C. W. Bell, junior counsel for the defence, demanded that the jury be polled on the Chilman case. This was done, and, in response to the calling of his name, each of the twelve men promptly answered "guilty."

Chilman heard the fateful decision apparently unmoved. Acheson, when told by the juge that he was discharged, left the dock and hurried from the courtroom alone with his ever-present smile somewhat broader than usual.

George Lynch-Staunton, K.C., who had charge of the defence, was not in the court room when the jury brought in its verdict. C. W. Bell, who had worked hard for his clients in the belief that they were both innocent, and who confidently expected the acquittal of both Chilman and Acheson, was keenly disappointed when the verdict adverse to Chilman was rendered.

In discharging Acheson, Justice Teetzel said he agreed with the jury's decision. The prisoner was, nevertheless, still under grave suspicion, and, this case should be a lesson to him. While expressing the hope that he was not guilty, Justice Teetzel advised Acheson, if he was guilty, not to rest until the part of the stolen money which he might have received was returned to its rightful owners. Some criticism of these remarks by the judge was expressed as the large crowd filed out of the court room.

Sentence on Chilman was deferred by Justice Teetzel, and it will be probably some day this week when the prisoner learns his fate.

Public interest in the trial of Chilman and Acheson was very keen throughout the proceedings, and every day the court room was packed, while many were unable to gain admittance. Public sympathy was unmistakably in favor of the prisoners, and this fact probably accounts for the murmur of disapproval with which the jury's verdict was received in the court room.

VINEGAR WORKS GOES UP IN SMOKE

Hamilton, Jan. 15.—Fire destroyed the plant and building of the Dominion Vinegar Works at 41 Stuart street west, Saturday afternoon. About $3,000 of the stock was saved. The loss will be about $20,000. Insurance to the amount of only $8,000 was carried on the business. F. H. Yapp, owner of the vinegar works, stated last night, that the plant would probably be rebuilt. The temporary use of the old customs house building has been secured, in which to carry on the business in the meantime.

The cause of the fire is not known, but Mr. Yapp thinks it started from the furnace, as there was no other fire in the building. There was no one in the place when the fire started, and it was not discovered until three o'clock Saturday afternoon, at which time it was burning. The firemen had hard work in contending with the flames, and it was six o'clock before they were extinguished.

Joseph Pedlar, a fireman attached to the Bay street station, fell through one of the floors while fighting the fire and was badly shaken up, but not seriously injured.

Horse Distemper

Prince Edward Farmer Solemnly Declares "Nerviline" Is a Specific.

"After fifty years' experience in raising horses I can safely testify that no remedy gives such good results for an all-round stable liniment as Nerviline." Thus opens the very earnest letter of J. [illegible] Evanston, who lives near Wellington, P. E. "I had a very valuable horse that took distemper a month ago, and was afraid I was going to lose him. His throat swelled and hard lumps developed. His nostrils ran and he had a terrible cough. I tried different remedies, but was unable to relieve my horse of his pain and suffering till I started to use Nerviline. I mixed a bottle of Nerviline and sweet oil and rubbed the mixture on the throat and chest three times a day and you would scarcely believe the way that horse picked up. Nerviline cured him. I also have used Nerviline for colic in horses and cows, and earnestly recommend it to every man that is raising stock."

Nerviline CURES QUICKLY

For strains, sprains, swellings, colic, distemper, coughs, and colds, no liniment will prove so efficacious in the stable as "Nerviline"—it's good for man or beast, for internal or external use. Wherever there is pain, Nerviline will cure it. Refuse substitutes. Large bottles 50c, trial size 25c, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

LITTLE CHANCE OF SETTLEMENT

Little Chance of settlement

There seems to be little chance of a settlement of the English Cotton Workers' lockout and the struggle promises to be a long drawn out one. What a pity that some means of settling the issue could not have been reached without causing a situation which means the loss of an immense amount of money to the mill owners and a great deal of suffering to the workers and their families. The trouble was caused by three people, who were discharged, the workers claim, without good cause. The workers insist that they be reinstated and the mill-owners are just as decided that they won't be taken back. Some one has got to make a complete back down, and this is what makes the trouble such a difficult one to settle.

REFUSED PROTECTION

It is reported that a British gunboat refused to protect Canadian missionaries fleeing for their lives in China. A party in which there was nearly 90 Canadians, including children, had been journeying overland for some days and then took to houseboats and coming on the British gunboat Widgear, were refused assistance by the captain of the boat. The party had been fired on several times, but their appeals were of no avail. These facts are reported by Mr. Plewman, a Canadian missionary, and have created much indignation against the captain of the gunboat. British officials are at a loss to understand the action of the officer in charge of the gunboat, and a strong protest has been sent to the admiral in charge of the British eastern fleet.

If the facts of the case are correct and the missionaries really in danger, the captain of the Widgear should be made give a satisfactory explanation of his action. When British subjects demand protection in a country in a state of war and infested with marauders, it should be granted them.

CANADA'S FOREIGN TRADE

Figures regarding Canada's foreign trade for the fiscal year ending March 31st last, show the twelve months to have been the largest in the history of Canada. For many years Canada's foreign trade has been steadily expanding, but a comparison of the figures of 1900-1901 with those of 1910-11 is interesting. These show the value of goods exported, goods imported and goods entered for consumption, and the amount of customs duty paid thereon. In ten years the growth in value of goods entered for consumption was $280,714,000, or over $28,000,000 a year. The exports show an increase in the same time of $100,709,000, or at the rate of over $10,000,000 a year. Duty collected went up $44,206,000, or by nearly four and a half millions a year.

EDITORIAL NOTES

We have heard no reports of an ice crop failure yet.

We hope that January thaw postpones its visit until after the coming of the Scottish curlers on Sunday next.

Every citizen who is interested in Peterborough, should boost the city at every opportunity and refuse to listen to the "Knocker."

A Hamilton confectioner swore in the witness box that 150 per cent is the usual profit made on candy. And yet people will persist in making a living at some honest employment.

The Quebec Legislature is now talking of building a railroad to Hudson's Bay. Premier Gouin favors the idea. Just what they would do with all the proposed lines is a mystery. It is very doubtful if one line will be kept busy.

A communication has been received from South Monaghan, signed "A Reader," concerning the carrying of mails between Bailieboro and Millbrook. The Review will be glad to publish this letter if the writer of it will send along his name, so that we will know that it is authentic.

It is now reported that the seven Turkish gunboats sunk by the Italians were disarmed by the Egyptian authorities at the Suez before they met the Italians. And yet Italy went wild over "the great naval victory." Might as well have blown up a bunch of excursion boats.

Detroit Has Two Booms

Pittsburg Gazette.

More than 1,000 divorces have been granted in Detroit this year. The town seems bound to get noted for something besides automobiles.

Doesn't Own its Streets

Toronto Star.

Is it not a curious thing that the city of Toronto should have lost the right to regulate the speed at which street cars can go hurling through the streets!

It Startles Them

Detroit News.

Most people are so unfamiliar with fresh air that if by chance a window is opened and they accidentally get a sniff, they want to know what the peculiar odor is.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucuous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you may have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucuous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Riot of Woollen Operatives.

Lawrence, Mass., Jan. 13.—The mill district of this city was thrown into a state of disorder yesterday by a riotous outbreak on the part of hundreds of Italians and other foreign operatives who left their work at the Wood, Ayer and Washington mills of the American Woollen Co. because they objected to a reduction of two hours' pay a week under the workings of the new 54-hour law.

Before the trouble ended several persons had been severely injured, a number of girls operatives had fainted and six arrests had been made by the police.

Nearly 11,000 operatives were idle yesterday afternoon and the feeling was general that the strike might involve the 25,000 mill workers in the city to-day or early next week.

Proper Chills.

"I've had cold chills running over me all day," the thin man complained.

"You ought to be glad of that," said his heartless friend.

"I don't think I understand you. Why should I be glad?"

"Oh, well, you know, it is quite an ordinary thing to have cold chills. There's no cause for alarm. Just think what an extraordinary thing it would be if you should have hot chills running over you."

The Paternoster Ruby

By Charles Edmond Walk.

Supplied exclusively in Canada by the British & Colonial Press, Limited, Toronto.

I arranged the two watches thus because I imagined that if an attempt should be made to enter the house during the night, it would occur at some time near the hour mentioned when both of us would more than likely be awake. My guess, you will see, was a poor one.

I also wanted to devote the fore part of the night, when my brain is always clearest, to an exhaustive study of the cipher found by Genevieve in the jewel-box. Until Stodger was ready to retire I could concentrate my whole mind upon it, I told myself, without fear of being disturbed. After my companion turned in I would have to remain alert, keeping pretty constantly on the move so that no marauder might steal in upon us unawares, or from an unexpected quarter.

If the place was bleak and dreary in the daytime, what words will describe its dispiriting influence at night? There is a silence that is soothing and restful, which imbues one with a sense of comfort and a pleasant desire for sleep. Then there is another sort of silence; one that magnifies every trifling sound, sounds that could not even be detected during the day; the sort of silence that hints at uneasy stirrings and movements all about one. The distant cockcrow rings clear and high, floors creak, the very timbers of the house complain, and mice scurry in the walls.

It was such a stillness that enveloped us. Even Stodger's irrepressible good-humor failed to cheer. The old mansion was possessed of a thousand voices, strange, indefinable noises that kept our attention constantly divided; yet the night was so still that I could hear our watches ticking in our pockets.

The result was that the cipher received only scant attention from me. I would get only fairly absorbed in my task when Stodger would startle me with a sudden "Ssh!" or a no less startling command to "Listen!" Whereupon we would both sit straining our ears to hear—nothing.

Every few minutes one or the other of us, or both together, would go over the entire house, examining doors and windows and making sure that no one had entered since the last tour of inspection.

This was repeated so many times that Stodger himself grew glum, and at last signified a determination to turn in. He made himself comfortable on the big library divan,—the same divan which had held Belle Fluette's motionless form only a few hours previous,—wrapped himself in a heavy blanket from Felix Page's bed, and was soon fast asleep; or, at least, he offered audible evidence that he was.

Again I trieid to fasten my attention upon the cryptic parchment; but it was of no use. In spite of myself, my head would jerk up to a listening attitude every time a board creaked or I fancied I heard a door somewhere in the house being cautiously opened. Time after time I would be sent stealthily to some remote corridor or chamber, only to return again to the library no wiser than before.

I finally thrust the cipher back into my pocket-book and resigned myself to a lonely vigil. The great library was a place of shadows and dark recesses, as well as of silence; and had it not been for the regular, stertorous breathing of the sleeper, I might have wished myself well out of it.

The hours dragged along—midnight, one o'clock, two, half-past, and still I did not rouse Stodger; I never had less desire to sleep. During one of my excursions through the empty, echoing rooms I set down my lantern—we had provided ourself with this convenience—and looked out into the night. The pleasant weather of the past few days had ended; it was dark—very dark—and an occasional flake of snow, materializing ghostlike within the square of light from the lantern, scraped along the small diamond panes with a feathery touch.

Presently I entered Felix Page's bedroom. And here, for the first time that night, I was sensible of an absolute stillness. Not even a board creaked. Not a breath stirred the leafless boughs outside, nor rattled the withered vines on the walls. Then of a sudden I grew rigid, tensely alert, and and watchful. From somewhere a breath of icy outdoor air struck upon my face and hands.

Now whatever else might be said of this old house, it was not a place of drafts. Its walls were thick and solid, its doors massive, and the doors and windows were snug-fitting; therefore, the fact that I now felt a perceptible rush of air could signify but one thing—that an outside door or window had been opened.

During a brief pause I hesitated over whether I should rouse Stodger; but so slight a warrant decided me not to. A shout from any part of the house, should he be needed, would accomplish the purpose quite as well.

So I merely stood motionless and listened. The circumstance that my straining ears could now hear nothing whatever was in itself ominous. The hush which had fallen upon the place was the sort that heralds an advance through a forest of the most cautious of hunters. Danger might be creeping upon me from every side and in any imaginable guise; if so, here was my warning.

Then it was that I smiled and reached a decision. With infinite caution I sank to the floor, removed my shoes, and draped a rug over the lantern. Only the dimmest points of light showed through the weave of the fabric; merely enough to serve as a guiding beacon in case I wanted to find it in a hurry. Next, with my revolver in hand, I stole to the hall door, which had been left ajar purposely, and peered out.

The darkness was fathomless, the silence complete. The spacious lower hall was the Dionysius' ear of the house; if there was any movement about the place, here if anywhere it would be detected and its source determined.

The floor was of hardwood, and my feet were soon numb with the cold. Then, too, bravery is a relative term, when all is said and done. A coward may be always a coward, but it is not an inevitable corollary that a brave man is always brave. To know a possible antagonist, to walk boldly up to him in the broad light of day, is one thing; to stand in a hyperborean hall in the dead of night, surrounded by the darkness of the pit, ignorant alike of the nature of your peril and the point from which an attack may come—that is quite another.

So I freely own that my jaws ached with the effort of keeping my teeth from clicking together like castanets.

In the course of a long and not uneventful career, I have been in a good many tight places and under all sorts of conditions where I had to hold myself to the matter in hand with every grain of will power that I could muster; but never since that night in the old Page hall have I experienced precisely the same unnerving feeling that possessed me then. I came perilously close to an ignominous retreat—and before ever I had an idea of what I was running from!

Fortunately for whatever status I may hold in this chronicle, the movement was checked at its inception. In a flash my momentary panic was forgotten. I caught a sound that I recognized and, moreover, located on the instant. It was the long, unmistakable creak of a loose stair plank such as follows the gradual shifting of a person's weight from one foot to another. Somebody was slowly and cautiously ascending the rear stairs.

I could smile once more and breathe normally. Instead of retreating, I was in the next few seconds stealing up the front stairs. Nor did I move very slowly, either. I knew by experiment that its steps were all solid, and that I need not fear the betrayal of any complaining board.

At the stair head I became cautious again; I did n't want to risk a collision with the étagère. What must I do, however, but stumble against the topmost step and plunge headforemost right into the thing.

The ensuing crash that filled the house was like an explosion. It also drowned my comments. To make matters worse, in my efforts to keep from falling, my revolver shot from my hand and through the balusters, and went clattering down to the landing with the noise of a falling brick.

I recovered myself on the instant, however, and with a final malediction, darted toward the bath room. There was a sound of scurrying behind its door; but I paused not for doors. Fortunately it was a trifle ajar, and it went open before me with a thud. Also from behind it a most unmistakable human grunt emanated, the sort of involuntary notice a person gives when he has the wind suddenly knocked out of him. Then right in my ears there sounded the most weird, unearthly cry that I ever heard; it was positively uncanny. A cold chill went through me from head to foot.

Event thereafter moved with such electric swiftness that the details are all blurred.

I remember that I heard Stodger shouting encouragement, and his stockinged feet patting bare floors as he ran. As the bath room door shot open and the strange cry shrilled forth, some object fell to the floor near me. There was also a sound of running feet up the rear stairs; which would indicate that my enemy was a host, and that the main body was returning to accomplish a rescue.

In a flash I had reached forth my arms and grappled with the unknown behind the door. That struggle would have been short, for he was like a child in my grasp. But instantly I was seized from all sides at once, it seemed. It was as if a dozen hands were feeling over me, to distinguish friend from foe.

Into what had I rushed so blindly? Who was opposing me? How many were there?

At least twice I was borne to one knee by sheer weight and the number of my assailants. Both times I succeeded in shaking myself free and rising again to my feet. I was warm enough now, heaven knows, and I had the satisfaction of knowing that I was inflicting far more damage than I was receiving.

I knew when Stodger unhesitatingly threw himself into the thick of the fray. Good old Stodger! And there we fought, silently, furiously, in the restricted space of the bath room, enveloped in a darkness that one could almost feel. Again and again I collided with the porcelain tub. More than once when I secured a firm grasp upon one of my unseen adversaries, I picked him up bodily and hurled him with all the force of which I was capable toward where I fancied the tub to be. But in the riot and frenzied confusion of being jerked first this way and then that, how could mortal distinguish the location of anything!

The struggle ended abruptly. Stodger and I were at a disadvantage, for he dared not shoot on my account, and I had no weapon but my two bare hands.

Not so our antagonist, however. Of a sudden one side of my face felt as if some one had quickly drawn the tip of a red-hot poker from the corner of my eye to my chin. At the same instant a crushing blow caught me above one ear.

The blow did not render me unconscious, but it more than staggered me. For an instant such strength as was left me was needed to keep from tumbling headlong. I was on my knees and one hand, while the other arm was hooked over the rim of the tub.

To be continued.

THE NEW OPERA BAG.

Trimmed Reticule Important Part of Costume.

A VANITY OR OPERA BAG.

The up to the minute woman carries to evening affairs, the theater and the like, a very picturesque bag slung on long cord handles. Such a bag is pictured, and it contains fan, opera glass, vanity outfit and all the little belongings a woman likes to have at hand. It is made of rose silk embroidered in gold soutache and matches the cap of macrame lace over rose silk with trimmings of gold fringe.

First Aid to Silver Bag.

"Where's your lovely silver bag?" asked a keen eyed woman of the friend who had come to meet her.

"Oh," was the plaintive answer, "I have had to stop wearing it. It leaves a dirty mark against all my light dresses, and, besides, I'm afraid of wearing it out. My keys and things poke holes in the links so."

Any possessor of one of those very desirable silver bags will have experienced these troubles, but there is really no need to put the pretty things away except for dark clad occasions, when nothing more serious than a handkerchief and a notebook are carried. Silver bags certainly get very dirty, but they have the advantage over leather and suede ones of being easily cleaned.

When your bag is dark and dull looking simply drop it into a bowl of hot water to which a little ammonia has been added. You will be surprised at the dirt that will roll out. A good brushing with soap and a soft nailbrush will finish the cleaning process. The bag should now be rinsed in clear hot water and rubbed with a soft towel while it is still warm.

Delmonico Chicken Salad.

Bone a boiled chicken, cut the clear meat into small pieces and put them into a deep salad bowl. Dress it with a tablespoonful of vinegar and a few white celery leaves cut into small pieces. Season also with pepper and salt, using twice as much salt as pepper. Mix well and pour over it half a cupful of mayonnaise dressing. Decorate the top with a chopped hard boiled egg, a tablespoonful of capers, twelve stoned olives and two hard boiled eggs, cut into quarters. Arrange six small white lettuce leaves around the dish and serve. It is well to boil the chicken or the fowl, whichever it is, in soup stock to give it an extra richness. If it is a fowl it should cook about an hour and a half or an hour and three-quarters. After it has been cooked let it get thoroughly cold. It is a good plan to let the bird cool in the water it was cooked in. Six leaves of chopped lettuce may be used instead of the celery and makes a change.

A Common Mistake

A common mistake, and one that is quite excusable, is that so many people between the ages of 40 and 50 feeling the need of glasses either refuse to wear them or continue putting it off.

There is no greater mistake than the common saying that "so-and-so" had such strong eyes, lived to be 80 and never used glasses to read. It is a physiological fact that at the age of 45 years the crystal line lens looses some of its elasticity; it looses more as age advances, so that even under accommodation it can not become convex as it did before; consequently, this convexity (needed for reading) must be supplied artificially by means of glasses.

The above is taken from the Family Doctor a large American publication.

WE RECOMMEND GLASSES ONLY WHEN ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY.

SERVICES AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

Nebraska Clergyman Was Heard Morning and Evening

The anthems sung yesterday by the choir of St. John's were well rendered. The morning anthem was Steindale, Bennett's unaccompanied number from the "Woman of Samaria," "God is a Spirit." In the evening Gounod's "Send Out Thy Light," was given.

Notwithstanding many good voices having left for other spheres of work, new voices are being steadily introduced o keeping up the high standard of the services.

The Rev. W. H. Bayley, of Omaha, Nebraska, preached both sermons yesterday, his discourses being highly appreciated. An informal discussion was held at the rectory after evensong on the subject of "Prayer Book Revision," and a meeting of the congregation will shortly be held, when the Rev. Canon Davidson will bring the matter up so that as far as possible all Anglicans shall be in a position to understand the position of the General Synod on the most important matter.

HUNDREDS WERE TURNED AWAY

Hundreds had to turn away from the S.O.E. Hall yesterday afternoon long before the announced time of commencing the meeting at which Rev. Patrick Morgan spoke on the Sacadotal system of the Roman Catholic church. Again at the evening service in Park street church, many could not get into the church for the service.

To-night, Rev. Mr. Morgan will speak in Park street church, on the subject of Rome's attitude to the Bible.

REV. PATRICK MORGAN AT PARK STREET CHURCH

"Our Attitude Towards Roman Catholics—Love the Important Factor."

"I have not come to Peterboro in order to create religious prejudice against any religious organization, and my attitude ever has been one of love to my former brethren. I do not want to create enmity, but rather it is to my interest to create friends."

The remarks quoted above prefaced the utterance of Rev. Mr. Morgan at the morning service in Park street Baptist church yesterday, who preached both morning and evening to immense congregations.

The speaker made a very favorable impression by his sane and thoughtful discourses, which were at no stage tinged with the slightest evidence of personal animosity towards his former brethren. Rather he preached the doctrine of love, genuine whole souled love as the only method to be used in the matter of religious tolerance.

His sermon was based upon the text found in Cor. 1st, 13—8th, "Charity never faileth," which, as he explained literally means "Love faileth never," the word love being substituted for charity.

"It is natural for a man in his natural state," said the speaker, "when wrong is done to him to retaliate. There is in every man's heart, antagonism to his enemies, and he has in his nature, envy, malice and hatred. Man in his natural state is alienated; he is not a child of God, nor a member of the family of the Lord Jesus Christ. Just so soon as he repents, however, and exercises his changed nature, just so soon does love permeate his heart. He becomes a new creature in Christ Jesus, and is prompted by love; love propelling him to a divine acceleration."

"This morning," he continued, "I would like to speak on "Our attitude to the Roman Catholic church, and as a coin has its face and reverse, so has the question summed up in my theme.

"Therefore in order that we might see more clearly our attitude to Roman Catholicism, we must necessarily view the attitude of Papal authorities towards Protestantism. I will refer to experiences that have positively occurred, at Durham, England in the seminary where I was educated for the priesthood. Men leave Durham, in order to start missions that ther promulgation of Roman Catholicism in communities may be effected. These men are sent out without means, and must to use a colloquial expression, "by hook or by crook" establish Roman Catholicism.

How does a priest effect this? First, for instance, in a very ordinary way. Choosing a leading Protestant in the community, they call at his place with a smaller or greater sum of money, claiming that it properly belongs to him, but that as it is restitution, they are incapable of telling, who in the first place took the money from him. Of course the man is loath to accept it, but the priest will remark "of yes it belongs to you, it is all right." At last the reluctant ones takes it. Afterwards, he thinks the matter over in the quietude of his home, discussing it maybe with his wife, explaining to her the peculiar visit of the priest, who declared it was restitution; that some one had stolen it from him. Naturally the Protestant begins to talk of the honesty of this particular priest. He begins to think that maybe he has been too hard on Roman Catholicism. The priest is perhaps invited in for supper or to spend the evening, and he insinuates himself into the family life. He persuades the father and mother to have their children receive a Roman Catholic education and thereby obtained a finished culture, and speak French possibly in a most polished manner, learned in Roman Catholic institutions. Finally his insistence eats its way into the family, and the boy is sent to the ecclesiastical seminary, or the girl to the convent. The father and mother are told by the Mother Superior, that the Protestant training of their children will not be interfered with. They believe them and give them over."

FAITH AND HERETICS

"Now Rome in its moral theology," continued the ex-priest, "emphatically and plainly states that no Roman Catholic organization need keep faith with Protestantism. The Roman Catholic authorities reiterate that it is not necessary to keep faith with a heretic. So the promises of the Mother Superior are easily broken. The daughter has Romish doctrines instilled into her education and is instructed in the Romish deceptions. When the child comes home again, none of this deception is revealed and it is as likely as not, that the child eventually becomes a Roman Catholic."

Another phase of Roman Catholicism is the practice of trying to get those born in Roman Catholicism to marry Protestant wives: and by these means they would break down the citadel of home influence, and swell the ranks of Catholicism.

NE TEMERE DECREE

"The 'Ne Temere' decree, has already caused havoc in many families," said the speaker. He quoted a case of a certain medical doctor, who came to him for advice, as to how to deal with a priest who referred to his (the doctor's) wife by her maiden appellation despite remonstrances.

"This is frightful," he continued, "it is something we must stamp out, and as Protestant people we must have our heel on it quickly."

This then is the reverse side of the coin.

"To combat all this, love is necessary. We see love exemplified in the lives of Luther, Knox and others in the past, who have left religious organizations, we observe the principle of love dominating their actions. We must therefore, entertain love for our Roman Catholic brethren.

TRUTH TRIUMPHANT

"While we view the Papal octopus with his slimy tendons, sapping the life of communities, love will have its way and truth will be proclaimed to ring triumphant.

"It Roman Catholicism has received a permanent blow, it has been the result of men who were enthused with Protestant principles, but even behind this is love divine.

"The Roman Catholic organizations received a tremendous blow when the United States constitution was formed, because Godly men sat on that board. If then we are to win Roman Catholics to Protestantism, it will be because love will eat its way into the very vitals of Catholicism.

"From a Protestant sinner and a Roman Catholic sinner I fail to differentiate. As soon as a man accepts Christ, and gets in the right attitude to God, then the love of Christ will constrain him. Let us take the words of our text to heart and be enthuised with the charity that avails.

"Oh we have suffered greatly from this cruel, tyrannical system, with its excruciating anguish, and yet love toward our separated brethren is what Jesus commands."

Rev. Mr. Morgan is a man of good pulpit presence and his bearing in the pulpit and his clear, even manner of delivery, creates a very favorable impression.

PROSPEROUS YEAR FOR ROYAL BANK

The forty-second annual statement of the Royal Bank of Canada, which appears elsewhere in this issue, affords another indication of what a remarkable year 1911 was for the larger banking institutions of the country.

Statement shows liquid assets equal to 49 1-2 of total liabilities, to the public. Net profits for year crossed million dollar mark.

Deposits increased over $10,000,000 which brings the total up to $88,294,000. Liquid assets amount to $47,738,000 being 49 1-2 p.c. of the total liabilities to the public. Actual cash on hand, balances on deposit with other banks, and call loans in New York and London, England, exceeds 32 p.c. of the total liabilities to the public. Total assets increased during the year from $92,510,000 to $110,528,000. Net profits amounted to $1,152,249, showing an increase of $200,912 over the previous year, equal to 18.58 p.c. on the capital stock of $6,209,000. Commercial loans amount to $59,646,000, being 67.55 p.c. of the deposits.

As will be seen from these comparisons, the bank has experienced a wonderfully prosperous year.

LITERARY TREATS AT THE Y.W.C.A.

It has been the purpose and endeavor of the Educational Committee of the Y.W.C.A. to arrange for and offer to their members the strongest possible program of classes.

This has only been made possible by the generosity of our men and women of ability, who have given so generously of their time and talents to the Association.

The Literature Class has ever been considered one of the strongest of the educational schedule, and the mid-winter term program is certainly no exception to the high character of the past programs. Instead of one teacher conducting the weekly class, ten of the Association's literary friends have been asked to take a Tuesday evening.

The first evening will be given on January 18th by Dr. Marsh, "A Night on the Caribbean Sea," illustrated by some seventy-five beautiful pictures, shown by Mr. H. O. Fisk.

The second evening will be held on January 23rd, when we will enjoy with Judge Huycke, "Readings from Tennyson."

Jessie Alexander

Miss Jessie Alexander, who is to appear in a high-class concert at the Conservatory of Music, held this evening will give the following four selections:

1—A Bridge Problem.
2—A Scene from Henry VIII.
3—Hyde Park Orators.
4—Coronation Crowds.

PIPES CAME TUMBLING DOWN

Worshippers at Bensfort Methodist Church Were Disturbed

The Methodist church at Bensfort was the scene of quite an unusual experience, during the morning service of yesterday, when the stove pipes fell.

The hat of one young lady was somewhat disturbed from its pedestal by the falling pipe, but otherwise no damage was done.

A temporary halt was called in the services while the pipes were erected.

DROWNED IN ICY WATERS AT NASSAU POWER HOUSE

Tragic Death of Henry Ivan Fairweather — Body Not Recovered.

While chopping-ice at the sluiceway of the C.G.E. power house at Nassau, yesterday morning about 11 o'clock, Henry Ivan Fairweather slipped into the icy waters and perished in spite of the desperate efforts of a companion to rescue him.

The victim was a young man only twenty-six years of age. He was in charge of the power house yesterday, having with him as assistant Mr. Bert Lockington.

The circumstances resulting from the tragic occurrence are particularly sad, as the young man leaves a young wife and a week-old child, the father meeting his death just one week from the birth of the child.

Yesterday morning Fairweather was engaged in removing some ice in the sluiceway at the power house, where the current is rather swift. He slipped in some manner and was precipitated into the water. Mr. Bert Lockington, who was close by, jumped down into the sluiceway to give him assistance. The man in the water commenced to swim to shore, but was unable to breast the swift, cold current, and was swept down. He came to the surface only once after. Owing to the position of Lockington, the latter was unable to get near him, and Fairweather failed to appear again.

Operations to recover the body were immediately instituted, but so far without reward.

All day yesterday following the accident, and throughout last night the work of searching continued, the operations being directed by Mr. R. Cotton, who is in charge of the two power houses. The stop-logs have been closed and a raft built at the foot of the dam. The water in the vicinity varies in depth from about 25 feet to 6 feet, being abbout 15 feet deep where the victim was drowned.

The late Mr. Fairweathers' parents reside in Sussex, N.B., and his wife, who was formerly Miss Edna Rogers, eldest daughter of Mr. R. B. Rogers, East City, is on a visit to her late husband's parents. Mr. Rogers is also strenuously assisting in the search for the body.

The late Mr. Fairweather was an electrical engineer. He made many friends here, and his death will be sincerely regretted. He had been attached to the 57th regiment, and had also been connected with the 14th regiment, Brunswick Rangers. His father is Lieut.-Col. C. H. Fairweather. He has one brother.

PUSH PETERBOROUGH

Its Central Situation, Shipping Facilities and Manufacturing Sites.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—A good reputation of a city should be based upon facts that will sustain it. Peterborough's good reputation has a solid basis of facts.

This city is admirably adapted for manufacturing and consequently for continuous growth. It is centrally situated and this is an advantage. It is between the two great commercial centres, Montreal and Toronto, and these markets are readily reached. Both the great railways pass through the city, and the Grand Trunk branches out infour directions. Besides being on the main line of the Canadian Pacific railway, it is on that railway's new line to the Georgian Bay, so that Peterborough is on the direct route of both railways to the great markets of the Northwast. It has direct railway connection with all parts of the continent, and its situation makes it an advantageous point from which to ship to any part of Canada.

Peterborough is a good point at which to secure cars for shipping when they are wanted—something that at times gives trouble in other places. The large quantities of raw material brought in, as for instance to the Quaker Oak Mills, means that a number of cars are brought here every day, and cars are available for out-going shipping. Then the grain route through Peterborough, leads to empty cars passing through to the west for which the railways are glad to get freight.

quick despatch are excellent, and adng business here, the facilities for which rapid transit is required. vantageous for shipping articles for

With two express companies doi

The Trent waterway is navigable for 160 miles. The work required to complete it to Lake Ontario is all under contract, and when that work is completed, there will be water communication with all ports by way of the Bay of Quinte. This will be of great benefit to the city, and it is so close to completion that the benefits should be realized now. And with the thirteen miles at the north end made navigable there will be water communication from Lake Ontario to Georgian Bay, and Peterborough will be on the shortest and most rapid route of navigation from the east to the west, as well as on the direct railway route of navigation from the east to to the west, as well as on the directrailway routes. One way to push Peterborough is to hasten the completion of this waterway. Large industries having heavy freights want water communication. The minister has anoouced that the plans for the northern outlet will be completed as quickly as possible and the work constructed.

Anyone driving around the city is impressed with the number of times a railway track must be crossed. This, for manufacturing, is an advantage, for a factory located in any part of the city can easily and cheaply secure siding accommodation. In the South Ward, where the larger number of industries are located, direct connection with both railways can be secured. In the northwest and north, and also in the northern of central part of the East Ward the Grand Trunk railway is at hand, and in the sourhern part of the East Ward both railways are accessible. In all these districts there are good manufacturing sites, and railways. The interswitching arrangements between the two railways are satisfactory and facilitate shipping.

In talking up Peterborough, bear in mind its central situation, good manufacturing sites and admirable shipping facilities.

Yours truly,
CIVIS SUM.

TWO MORE INFORMATIONS IN THE LAKEFIELD LIQUOR CASE

Before County Magistrate Edmison on Friday, the evidence in a liquor case was taken, which hinges upon the recent Lakefield case, in which A. G. Lawless, proprietor of the Lakefield House, was assessed $100 and costs.

License Inspector Elias Williams, of Lakefield, laid information against Sidney Manning, charging him with purchasing the intoxicating liquor for A. G. Lawless, namely the three cases of whiskey which were stated in the Lakefield trial to be intended for the Turtle Lake Hunt Club. Another information was laid by Inspector Williams against Manning, calling on him to show cause, why he claimed to be the owner of the liquor which was seized at Lakefield, and his reasons why it should not be confiscated and destroyed.

The cases were heard on Friday and all the evidence taken. His Worship reserved judgment pending the outcome of the motion to quash the conviction of $100 against Lawless, which will come up in High Court in Toronto on Jan. 23rd.

CHANGED PLEA TO GUILTY AND GOT FOUR MONTHS

Edward Tighe Sentenced by Judge Huycke to County Jail.

Edward Tighe, the young man accused of the seduction of a girl of fourteen, pleaded guilty this afternoon of the charge before Judge Huycke, and was sentenced to four months in the common jail with hard labor. His Honor scathingly addressed the prisoner, pointing out to him the seriousness and enormity of the crime.

Tighe changed his previous plea to "guilty" through his counsel, F. D. Kerr.

"You have pleaded guilty to a serious charge," said Judge Huycke, when addressing the prisoner, "and of an offence against a law framed purposely for the protection of young girls. Had the young girl been under fourteen, you might have stood in a much more serious position. The crime at present is punishable by two years' imprisonment, but had the girl been under fourteen the punishment might have been imprisonment for life and lashes.

"I hope the punishment I am about to inflict upon you will serve as a warning to all young men and young women, and also to parents."

WANDERER AT 70 YEARS OF AGE

Aged Vagrant Had Feet, Hands and Ears Frozen

George Hayward, an old man 70 years of age, wandered into town last evening and asked the chief to be locked up. He was without money or friends, and had been wandering about the country for days. Both feet, hands and ears were badly frozen, and the old fellow was almost in a state of collapse. He cheerfully pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy, and when the magistrate sentenced him to 30 days in the counties' jail he asked to have the term extended to 60 days. His request was granted and the chief took him over to Cobourg this morning.—Port Hope Guide.

BIG BATTLE AT LINDSAY

Large Crowd of Rooters Will Accompany the Juniors for the Invasion of Scugogville To-night -- Belleville Intermediates Here To-morrow.

Dreamy Lindsay will be invaded by the juniors and a big crowd of supporters to-night, for the return game, which will have a big bearing on the result of the district. The season is early yet, but whichever team loses to-night will have a rocky road to travel to the goal—district champions.

Full grown fans will be granted transportation for 75 cents. For children the price is 40 cents. The weather is all to the good, and the trip to-night should be a popular one. The train leaves the G.T.R. station at seven o'clock.

Dennison, of the Lindsay juniors, played for the intermediates against Trenton Friday night, and was responsible for four of his team's tallies.

The Trenton team is: Goal, Rourke; point, Reynolds; cover, Croft; rover, Burtt; centre, Armstrong; right, Cummings; left, Palmer. This is somewhat of a change from last season. Armstrong is taking the centre ice, in place of young Fletcher.

Belleville will be here to-morrow night to meet Captain Park's seven and the locals deserve to play before a packed house.

Port Hope juniors play at Cobourg to-morrow night and Lindsay intermediates go to Trenton. There will be two Waterloos. With Trenton watching Pete Spratt on the large rink and making him be good, it will be a cricket score.

In the Trent Valley League this week Marmora plays at Madoc on Wednesday night Tweed is at Stirling. Friday T.A.S. meet All Saints' at Brock street on Thursday night, while Havelock goes to Campbellford.

Fred Dennison will not be put in commission with the juniors to-night. Stan Cook will work at right, but otherwise the team is the same.

Every intermediate is wanted out to-night for practice.

ROYAL COMMERCE WON THE STICKS

By Defeating the Toronto-Nova Scotia Septet

Another Bank League game was played on Saturday at the Brock street rink, when the Royal-Commerce combination defeated the Toronto Nova-Scotia team by the score of 3-1. The game was a fast one, and was characterized by some fast work by Heard, who scored two goals for the winners. Harper scored the other counter for the Royal-Commerce, and Fitzgerald was the only one to find the nets for the losers. The Royal-Commerce are particularly elated over this victory because they also won the seven hockey sticks, given by Mr. Banks, the popular local sporting goods dealer.

Fred Kelly refereed satisfactorily, cleaning up on all the rough stuff.

DEEP SEA FISH.

If They Come Too Near the Surface They Will Explode.

Ordinarily one would think that a fish in the sea could go where it wished in the water—that is, that it could go as far down or come as close to the surface as it desired. As there are definite natural laws that prohibit this, of course it is not possible.

Take a deep sea fish. It is under enormous pressure at its proper depth. Let it stray too high, however, and on the pressure lessening the fish gets larger and consequently lighter per unit volume and in consequence is propelled upward at an enormously increasing rate by the buoyancy of the water until at last it has to be expelled from the surface of the sea with great force. In the meantime the fish has suffered an internal explosion, as it were, and its eyes have popped out of its head, and its insides have expanded and made holes in the body. This is why there are no perfect specimens of deep sea fish in any museum. The difficulty could be partly overcome by hauling the fish up gradually, but a heavy weight would have to be attached to the line to overcome the buoyancy of the fish.

On the other hand, take a shallow water fish. It dares not stray too far down, for the increasing pressure would tend to make it heavier if it was at all compressible, but as it is not much so it would remain practically the same volume and would find no difficulty in propelling itself to almost any depth. The increasing pressure, however, would make it harder for the fish to move its organs, and its eyes would be pressed into its head.

For all these reasons there are well defined strata of water in which certain fish are found and no others. This is one method of determining the depth of a former sea where fossils of fish are found on the land. The depth of the sea at that place can be told within certain limits by the fossils.—New York Tribune.

Thirty Miles of Soda.

Forty million tons of the best washing material, supplied and manufactured by nature, are waiting to be carried from Central Africa to the European markets, and an extension of the Uganda Railway is to be built from Ulu to Lake Magadi in order to effect this. Lake Magadi is not really a lake, but an area of thirty square miles of soda deposit situated in the heart of Africa.

Two expeditions have gone out into this soda lake region, which though hot in the middle of the day, is declared to be quite healthy. It is in the midst of one of the finest big game shooting areas in the British South African Protectorate. In ordinary times the lake has a perfectly level, hard, and dry surface, like that of a gigantic mass of Fen ice, if a thirty-square-mile area can be imagined.

It appears that in the past it has been left to the Indians to remove soda from the lake. They cut out blocks, and what is called "Mother Liquid" spurts up and re-forms into solid soda, which they cut away next season. This is evidence that the soda in the lake is being continually augmented.

In addition to the many surface-springs discharging considerable quantities of soda into the lake, there are indications of large springs in the lake itself. On the removal of the soda already crystallized the "Mother Liquid," which takes its place at once, starts to re-form the crust.

It looks as if washerwomen can sleep comfortably in their beds for some years to come. So long as washing is provided for them, their soda shall be sure.

The C.P.R. payroll at Revelstoke is $140,000 a month.

A SHIP'S BAND.

Have Long Hours, and Do All Sorts of Other Work on the Ship.

Probably few men lead a stranger life than those who ship as bandsmen-stewards on long-distance liners. I have worked for some years as leader of sea-orchestras, and cannot recommend it as a pastime.

As a rule, the band consists of about five performers, and our working day totals sixteen hours, or perhaps more. We are only musicians, incidentally, having signed on as "bandsmen-stewards," we have to fill up our odd hours with various duties, which might be anything from cleaning boots to assisting in coaling the ship.

The band plays to the steerage-passeners, the first and second saloon passengers in turn, in all kinds of weather, and it is not the easiest thing in the world to balance youreIf on a high stool, scraping on a bass fiddle, while the ship is tearing her way through a monsoon.

So long as the passengers are not sea-sick, and want to hear music, it is understood that we have to do our best. This leads to trying situations sometimes, especially as the piano has to be lashed firmly to prevent it toppling over on the top of the man who is playing it. When performing under these circumstances in the first dining-saloon, I have known the bass fiddler to be shot head-over-heels half a dozen yards away.

Before he could pick himself up another lurch of the boat sent the violinist with a heavy cannon into the flute-player, landing them both on the floor, while I was struggling to uphold the honor of the band with one hand, using the other to hang on with for all I was worth.

Once I took part in an unrehearsed scene which caused shrieks of laughter and cost a broken leg. We were homeward bound in the Bay of Biscay, and I was accompanying the violinist, who was playing a solo. There was a heavy sea running, giving the ship that awkward motion known as the "corkscrew." Suddenly she lurched sideways and backwards violently, and the violinist was pitched against me.

He fell clear, and was not hurt, but, owing to an oversight, the piano had not been lashed, and it crashed forwards on the top of me. Not noticing at first that I was under the piano, the passengers roared with laughter after they had recovered their own balance. The wreck of the orchestra must have looked very funny, but I was in hospital for several weeks after it.

Sometimes the passengers insist on having a dance when the ship is rolling, and I must admit that it gives the orchestra a certain grim form of amusement when the ship gives a sudden jerk, to see two or three couples roll over together in the scuppers. The band would rather die than be forced to stop playing on these occasions.

Twice in my life I have known a harsh, grating sound to interrupt the music, showing the vessel had hit something, but on both occasions we got a quiet signal not to stop. The first time the ship actually sank two hours later. It is somewhat thrilling to go on playing in order to keep the passengers from being alarmed, when a situation like that arises.

Scotland's Water-Power.

It is a well-known fact that the annual rainfall is very considerable in Scotland, Wales and certain parts of Ireland, all of which countries are mountainous and thereby offer as good opportunities for obtaining water power as can be found in other countries, at a cost which promises quite satisfactory returns for any capital which may be invested in their development. Scotland especially has advantages in this respect which few other countries can show. Compared with Switzerland — which is often called the country par excellence for water power—with an extensive and highly developed industry, Scotland has, says The Engineering Review, the great advantage of its geographical situation, enabling the almost exclusive use of cheap water carriage for the raw material as well as the finished industrial products to the places of consumption, whereas Switzerland has to obtain practically all raw material from abroad, and to pay heavy railway rates on them and on the manufactured goods.

All the Year Bathing.

Although, according to his own confession, Sir Henry Poland, K.C., was never very strong and far from being an athlete, he was accustomed, when living on the Thames at Twickenham, to have a plunge in the river every morning all the year round. "The great thing to attend to," he says, "is to take your header directly you are out of bed, and to take care to keep warm until you plunge. For this purpose you should put on a coat lined with flannel, with a thick coat over that, trousers lined with flannel, slippers lined with lamb's wool, and warm gloves. You should stand on a piece of carpet and throw your clothing off like a quick-change artist, and on coming out of the water you may stand in the open and thoroughly enjoy the east wind for the first time in your life, and the snow, sleet, hail, or rain will only be a diversion."

Big Bells of the World.

Some of the old world bells are heavy indeed. "Great Paul," of St. Paul's Cathedral, weighs nearly 17 tons, and is nearly 30 feet around. The first "Big Ben," of Westminster, was cast a little more than fifty years ago and weighed about 14 tons, being about 28 feet around. But "Big Ben" had a crack and was made over, losing some weight, and the clapper was made smaller, being now 600 pounds instead of about a ton. "Peter of York" cost $10,000, weighs 12 1-2 tons, and is 22 feet in diameter, or thereabouts.

The New Zealand Government have introduced a bill to provide pensions of $65 annually for widows with one child, or with more than three children $150. It is estimated that the project will cost the Dominion $165,000 annually.

CANADA'S NAVAL COLLEGE.

School For Training Cadets Outgrows First Plans.

The new naval policy to which the Dominion Government is committed by Act of Parliament, 1910, has necessitated considerable re-arrangement and re-organization in His Majesty's Dockyard at Halifax, says L. R. Richardson in Canadian Courier. The Dockyard, built and operated by the Imperial Government and used for many years as the headquarters of the North Atlantic Squadron of the British Fleet, was taken over nominally last year, and officially April 1, 1911, by the Naval Department of the Dominion Government. The old Naval Hospital has been remodelled and enlarged to serve temporarily as a home for the Royal Naval College of Canada. Class-rooms, laboratories and work shops have been fitted up and the first class of cadets, who joined in January of this year, are now receiving instruction that will fit them for commissions in the Canadian navy. Some of these will be our future captains and admirals. At present the cruiser Niobe is commanded by officers of the royal navy loaned by the Imperial Government, although the commander is Canadian-born, so that the present midshipmen and cadets will be the first Canadian-trained officers in our navy.

From the day a cadet enters the college, he is under the control of naval officers, under whom, after leaving college, he may find himself serving aboard a man-of-war at sea. The command of the college is vested in a captain. Under him come three lieutenants, the senior of whom controls discipline, gives instruction in seamanship, arranges the recreation of the cadets, and sees to the routine and cleanliness of the college. Another lieutenant is a specialist in physical training, and the third is an engineer lieutenant, who supervises the engineering instruction and the workshops. Those three officers live in the college and one of them is always on duty out of school hours, guiding the cadets in their recreation.

On the teaching staff there is a Director of Studies, who is an honor graduate in mathematics from Cambridge, and ranks with a commander in the royal navy, a Naval Instructor and two Masters, who are specialists in mathematics and physics respectively. A professor of languages attends twice a week to give instruction in French and German. The Director of Studies arranges the scheme of instruction and supervises all school matters subject to the approval of the captain. The Masters are civilians, but the Naval Instructors are naval officers, with the relative rank of lieutenant, wear uniform and take their turn of sea service when called upon for the instruction of midshipmen afloat.

There are also a paymaster and a naval surgeon; the former in charge of the commissariat and secretary of the college.

The college staff comprises a crew of about thirty men. Four are chief petty officers who, in addition to their special instructional duties, such as physical drill, seamanship, and boat-sailing, look after the cadets when in the college. They bring before the first lieutenant any cadet reported for misbehavior. The rest of the crew are the workshop mechanics, boats' crews, college stewards, waiters and cleaners.

The cadets make their own beds, get their soiled linen ready for the laundry and keep their uniforms clean. They rise at 6.30 a.m. winter and summer, and every minute of the day is occupied until 9.30 p.m., when lights are out in the dormitories. The first hour of the day is devoted to physical drill. School hours are from 9 a.m. to 4.30 p.m., with the exception of Wednesday and Saturday, which are half-holidays, and the remainder of the day is devoted to sports. The cadets are encouraged to spend all their spare hours in outdoor sports, such as hockey, cricket, football and boating. Rowing boats, a small yacht, and a steam cutter are supplied. In summer they occasionally go off on a week-end cruise with one of the officers, or compete in sailing or pulling races.

The present college has accommodation for 45 cadets, but it is proposed to build within a year or two a new college with better facilities, larger grounds, and accommodation for 100. The Canadian Government intend to keep the expenses low and to assist the traveling of cadets living west of Montreal. It is anticipateed that for his two years at college a boy will cost his parents not more than eight hundred dollars.

A Rising Educationist.

Dr. Merchant's successor as chief inspector of Public Schools in Ontario is Mr. R. H. Cowley. Born in Carleton County, he attended both Ottawa and Queen's Universities, specializing in literature, history and natural science. He went back to his own county to teach and soon earned an appointment on the model school staff of the Ottawa Normal. Later he was science master in the Collegiate, and finally inspector for the county. This is the typical routine for a successful pedagogue.

One of Mr. Cowley's enthusiasms has been "continuation schools," the school which fills up the space between an ordinary public school and an ordinary high school. He introduced them into Carleton County and about five years ago became inspector of continuation schools for the province. When Dr. Merchant was promoted, Mr. Cowley was naturally chosen as his successor, and he is likely to continue his predecessor's good work—perhaps improve upon it.

A Strong Argument.

In Canada the average load drawn by one horse over level dirt roads is 1,400 pounds and over hilly roads 1,000 pounds. In France and Germany, where they have more improved roads, the average load for one horse is 3,300 pounds. This is one of the reasons why bad roads increase the cost of producing farm crops, and it is a strong argument in favor of improving the roads.

Sir W. E. Smith's Career.

Sir William E. Smith, who succeeds Sir Philip Watts as British Director of Naval Construction, lived in his youth among seamen. He joined the Portsmouth Dockyard when 11 years of age. His first work was as rope-house boy, when as such he came in contact with all the mysteries of the old sailing ship era. In 1865 he was apprenticed as a shipwright at Woolwich. In the following year he was transferred to the Portsmouth Dockyard. Having spent four years' apprenticeship, he joined the South Kensington School of Naval Architecture in 1869, and the Royal Corps of Naval Constructors in 1873.

Not Tied to Them.

The Archbishop of York was a great favorite with the royal family, and a princess upon one occasion told him he ought to marry, as a wife would be of more use to him than a dozen curates.

"But supposing we didn't agree?" he asked.

"Well, you don't always agree with your curates, do you?"

"No; but then I can always send them away! I can't do that with a wife."

Acute Dyspepsia

Restoration of Stomach Power Comes Quickly With the Right Medicine.

"My food seemed to decompose in my stomach," writes Mr. Ralph Clemmons, of Newbridge, P.O. "I had a stomach that failed in some way to perform its work. Digestion seemed more or less arrested and I grew thin yellow, nervous. The stomach became distended and impeded apparently the action of the heart, for often at night it would do great stunts. At times I would vomit a mucous mass, and at these times my head ached most terribly. A friend, who had been cured of a similar condition, advised me to take Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly, which I did. The result in my case was simply marvelous. Dr. Hamilton's Pills removed the cause, strengthened the stomach, excited the liver to normal action, the kidneys were released of excessive work. Health soon glowed within me. I can now eat, sleep, and live like a live man."

Be advised—Use Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they are sure to do you good. 25c per box, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

MEMBERS AT PRAYERS.

It Is a Means of Securing a Seat In British House of Commons.

Ever since Stuart days the Commons have had their own chaplain to open their daily proceedings with a simple and impressive service.

The prayers are read daily by the chaplain immediately after the Speaker enters the House; the Speaker himself giving the responses as he stands at the table. During the brief service the doors are closed, and no strangers or reporters are allowed to be present. Members of the Press Gallery are not allowed to take their seats during prayers.

It is a noticeable fact that, however crowded may be the House during this service, the Treasury and the front Opposition benches are always empty.

The House of Commons, unfortunately, only provides sitting accommodation for about half of its 670 members; and it is a rule of Parliament that a member who is present at prayers is entitled to retain the place he then occupies against all comers until the House rises. Thus, if a legislator is anxious to listen to or take part in an important debate, he can only make sure of a seat by claiming it at prayer-time.

To make quite sure of the seat he has thus secured he takes from a box on the table a small card bearing the words "At prayers"; he writes his name on it, and places it in a slot provided for the purpose at the back of his seat. This done, his seat, for the rest of the day, is as inviolable as the crown itself. He can leave the House when he pleases and for any length of time; others may occupy his seat during his absence; but the moment he returns the interloper must vacate it in his favor.

For Cabinet Ministers and ex-Ministers seats on the front benches are always reserved. There is no need to establish a right to them from day to day. And thus it is that these benches are deserted; and that many a man who attends church but seldom is to be seen in his place during prayers, as apparently devout as any of his more piously-minded fellows.

In addition, however, to the daily religious service in the House of Commons there is a meeting for prayer held weekly in one of the rooms of the House.

ACTS AS DEPUTY KING

PRINCE ARTHUR OF CONNAUGHT PERFORMS FUNCTIONS.

As Only Male Adult of the Royal Family In England at Present, the Son of Canada's Governor-General Is Acting as Monarch Just Now — Is Very Popular In Great Britain and Is Envoy Extraordinary.

How the functions of the King are being exercised in the United Kingdom during His Majesty's absence in India is as follows:

Provisions have been made by Order in Council for delegating the exercise of certain of the executive functions of the crown during the King's absence. The language of the order is necessarily wide, but as His Majesty during his absence is in daily telegraphic communication with his Ministers, all matters of gravity and importance are in ordinary course submitted to him.

The persons named in the Commission are:

H.R.H. Prince Arthur of Connaught.
The Archbishop of Canterbury.
The Lord Chancellor.
The Lord President of the Council (Lord Morley of Blackburn).

No legislation is needed for the purpose.

The practice of appointing a Regent during the absence of a Sovereign abroad has been in abeyance since the reign of Henry III. The appointment of a Regent would involve the passing of a special act of Parliament, as a Regency Act applies only to the death of the Sovereign when the heir to the throne is under age.

That the precedent of 1821 is followed, that when His Majesty in Council declares his intention of going out of the kingdom he will nominate as his Commissioner for the exercise of certain executive functions the persons named by the Prime Minister.

The appointments specify the powers to be exercised, and are made under the Great Seal, so that the assent of Parliament is not necessary.

The power delegated to the Commissioners are not so wide as in former days, when facilities of communication were more limited. But they cover a multitude of duties, such as issuing of warrants and letters patent, the making of appointments, and the granting of licenses and dispensations that require the King's authority.

With his father, the Duke of Connaught, now in Canada, Prince Arthur was the only adult male member of the royal family left in England when the King sailed for India. He will ceebrate his twenty-ninth birthday on Jan. 13 next, before the King's return.

Prince Arthur is a favorite with the public. Crowds know well his open, handsome face, with its clear blue eyes, and his tall, straight figure—he is the tallest member of the royal family—and they keep a special cheer for him. He has always been popular at Eton, at Sandhurst, in the regiments to which he has been attached, and during his many royal missions abroad. He is a sportsman, interested in all athletics, a fine "shot," and an excellent horseman. He has proved his worth as a hunter of big game during visits to Canada, East Africa and Russia. In Canada he won golden opinions; the people there quickly found that he had "no side."

To be a watch and clock maker was his ambition when a child, but any desire in this direction was checked by his father, who made the boy go round with a man who wound the household clocks at Bagshot Park. Prince Arthur found that the occupation lacked excitement, and his ambition turned elsewhere. After Eton he passed through Sandhurst, and was gazetted to a second lieutenancy in the 7th (Queen's Own) Hussars in May, 1901, during the South African war.

When the regiment was ordered to the front Prince Arthur, as the youngest subaltern, was left, to his intense regret, at the cavalry depot. In 1903, when a full lieutenant, he went out to join his regiment in South Africa in charge of a draft of recruits. His service in the Transvaal was cut short by a severe attack of dysentery, which necessitated his being invalided home. To make himself a thorough efficient officer he has undergone instruction courses at the signalling and musketry schools. He has served with the Royal Horse Artillery and the Scots Greys.

As representative of the Sovereign, Prince Arthur has played many parts. During the illness of King Edward in 1902 he was deputed to show honor to the Shah, who stated that the kindness, tact, and courtesy of the prince would be one of his happiest recollections of Europe. Prince Arthur's first foreign mission was in December, 1904, when he represented the King in Rome at the baptism of the infant heir to the Italian throne. In quick succession he acted as the King's envoy at the funeral of the Dowager Duchess of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, and at the opening of the new Protestant cathedral in Berlin. On that occasion the prince was invested by the Kaiser with the Order of the Black Eagle. He also went to Berlin as the royal envoy at the wedding of the crown prince.

One of his most interesting missions was to Japan in 1906, as the bearer of the Order of the Garter to the Emperor, who personally invested him with the Order of the Chrysanthemum, although never before had the Emperor invested a recipient. As a compliment to the prince six chosen geishas of Kyoto performed the famous Cherry Dance out of its due season. Prince Arthur was amused when one said to him in quaint English, "You very nice."

Prince Arthur had a great success as a special pleader in the cause of science when, as chairman of the appeal committee, he raised $125,000 to purchase the site for new chemical laboratories for University College, London.

Australia's Cows.

ONE OF NATURE'S MARVELS.

New Zealand's Curious Sea Volcano and Its Sulphur Vapors.

Among the most curious phenomena of New Zealand is its sea volcano. This is a great mountain of black scoria 830 feet high, from the top of which, with much force, rise white clouds of vapor to a height of fully 2,000 feet. It is not easy traveling on the island, for in places the black pebbles of the beach are all astir with water boiling up through them, water so hot that a misstep might scald the foot seriously.

At this point the crater wall has been broken down almost to the sea level and one may look into the great hollow island. The crater is circular, a full mile in diameter and hemmed in by walls many hundred feet high and very precipitous. The crater floor is an uneven plain of volcanic ash and scoria, with many little fumaroles or blow holes, through which hot sulphur vapors come wheezing out, while every few minutes there is a smart trembling beneath the feet and a low, dull, rolling roar.

The vapor begins to thicken as the traveler proceeds, and he very soon finds the cause. He is stopped short by a great lake of steaming water, quite filling this end of the crater and being, as can be seen when the clouds lift, nearly half a mile from either side. The water is too hot comfortably to apply the hand to it and is insupportable either to touch or to taste because of a strong infusion of alum and sulphuric acid. On the farther border of the lake is a row of violent salfataras (chimneys). They have built for themselves little pillar-like cones from ten to thirty feet high and a yard or two in diameter at the base, and through these open chimneys they trumpet steam and roaring sulphuric gases with a violence frightful to contemplate. A demoniacal screeching and din afflict the traveler's ears, even at a considerable distance.

The water of the lake is of a milky, opaque cast, not more than ten feet deep. Lines upon the shore show that it daily rises and falls slightly with the tide of the sea outside. In many spots the water boils furiously with much froth and foam, while still its heat is much below the boiling point of 212 Fahrenheit. These are dangerous places for boats; the abundant air in the water diminishes materially its buoyancy, and a boat sinks alarmingly low in crossing them.

One expedition landed across the lake at one of the salfataras nearest the beach and proceeded to demolish it with oars. It was a chimney about two feet in diameter, clay without, while within it was lined with crystals of sulphur of a beautful straw yellow splashed with vermilion spots. Pushing in the top of this chimney, the fragments would first fall down its throat and then come flying out into the air with explosions that were startlingly like a prolonged stentorian cough.

Superstitions Up-to-Date.

All of us are superstitious, more or less, but it is doubtful if there are many who would regard a piece of a suicide's rope as a luck-bringer. Yet it was only the other day, at an inquest, that a man asked to be allowed to keep a portion of the rope with which a fellow-worker had hanged himself, "for good luck." It reminds one of the curious belief which exists among many people that to wear any article of clothing, or to carry a piece of an article of wearing apparel, which belonged to a dead relative is sure to bring good luck.

In the west of England the superstition that green clothes bring trouble is still believed in, and one often hears the saying quoted, "Wear green, wear black."

And how many people there are who still consider that to walk under a ladder brings bad luck; that seven years' misfortune will follow the breaking of a mirror; and that disaster is sure to follow the spilling of salt, unless three pinches are immediately cast over the left shoulder.

In the east end of London particularly it is a popular belief that misfortune is bound to befall a baby who gazes into a mirror before it is twelve months old, while it is very few people, however much they may laugh at superstitious beliefs, who will sit down at a table where there are thirteen guests.

To the Manner Born.

Max Muller, the famous Sanskrit scholar, was fond of recalling that he had once seen Queen Victoria and the Empress Eugenie enter a Paris theatre together. The audience cheered itself hoarse, but what interested Prof. Muller was the contrast in the conduct of the two royalties.

Both bowed in answer to the plaudits, and then sat down, but whereas Eugenie glanced behind her, much as you or I would do, to make sure of the chair being there to receive her, Victoria kept her eyes to the front and took the chair for granted.

That was the difference between being born into the purple and marrying into it.

Dickens at the Sea Shore.

For fourteen years Dickens made Broadstairs his principal summer home in England. London alone held a superior place in his affections. He felt his powers at their amplest when he was at the little channel coast town. Dickens has given the best picture of himself at his summer routine at Broadstairs: "In a bay window in a one pair sits from 9 o'clock to 1 a gentleman with rather long hair and no neckcloth, who writes and grins as if he thought he were very funny indeed. At 1 he disappears; presently emerges from a bathing machine and may be seen, a kind of salmon-colored porpoise, splashing about in the ocean."

If He Was Careful.

A quaint paragraph appeared in the will of Mrs. Julie Hall of Brighton, England. At the reading of the will the other day it was found that she had bequeathed $500 to her coachman, provided he is in her service at her death and "if I do not die through or from the effects of a carriage accident when he is the driver."

Drunkards' Patron Saint.

What has come to be known as St. Martin's Summer consists of a few lovely days about the second week of November. We hear a great deal about St. Luke's Summer; but St. Martin's Summer and his name-day, November 11, suffer neglect—possibly because the saint was French, and not English.

Perhaps, too, the knowledge that he is the patron saint of drunkards has not added to his reputation. That office came to him by accident. The reason he had thus doubtful honor thrust upon him after his death was rather curious. The Vinalia, or Feast of Bacchus, was always celebrated on November 11. Later, when the Christians decided to merge Bacchus into St. Martin, the reputation of the former was unfortunately handed on to the saint, although quite unmerited by him.

Before his conversion he was a military tribune, stationed at Amiens. When one day, so the story goes, in midwinter, at the city gate of Amiens a miserable beggar appealed to him for help, the soldier drew his sword, and, dividing his cloak, gave half of it to the wretched beggar. At night, so it is said, Christ in person appeared to the astonished soldier, clad in the very cloak he had divided with the beggar a few hours before.

Another legend is that the saint, having been annoyed by the behavior of one of the geese in his poultry-yard, ordered it to be slain and served up for dinner. He died immediately after partaking of it, and the anniversary has ever since been observed in France by the eating of goose on that day, November 11.

Morris' Dream Poem.

Coleridge was not the only great poet who sometimes dreamt in song. I was talking, says a correspondent, to William Morris about Coleridge and his wonderful dream fragment. Morris was eloquent in its praise, and I inquired of him if he, too, ever wrote poems in his sleep. Morris sat down promptly in a seat—we were walking in his big garden at the back of Kelmscott House—and broke into one of his big laughs. "Oh, yes," he said. "One night I had been reading 'Kubla Khan' again and wishing that I could dream anything half as fine. And I did dream a poem that moved me to actual tears by its beauty." "And did you remember it when you woke up?" I asked. "Yes," said Morris grimly, "one line. And the line ran:

The moonlight slept on a treacle sea.

"And then I ceased to weep," he added, "and haven't wished to dream poems again."—London Standard.

INDIAN RIVER

Bachelors' Club Loses One of Its Members

Special Correspondence.

Indian River, Jan. 13.—Owing to the recent snow storm roads were completely blocked for awhile. Mayor Walker and Councillor David Kidd spent the greater part of the week in attending to sidewalks here.

Mr. Morris O'Leary has sent in his resignation to the chairman of the Bachelors' Club. Mr. O'Leary will not attend the meetings in future.

Mr. W. J. Allan, of Vancouver, B. C., is visiting at the home of Mr. James Hall, drygoods merchant of this village.

The public will be pleased to hear that Mr. Munn, who has been indisposed for the past few weeks, will now be able to resume his position as station operator.

The members and their friends, of Indian River Baptist church enjoyed a very sociable evening an an oyster supper held at the Parsonage last Wednesday night. Among the many friends were Mr. Usher, Elbow, Sask.; Miss Halliday, Peterborough; Miss Nellie Borland, Rochester, and Alfred Cox, B.A., Winnipeg. The last mentioned, before sitting down to the supper, gave a toast to Mr. and Mrs. Wood, host and hostess of the occasion, which was very heartily responded to by the former. After supper the evening was very enjoyably spent, by playing games, giving conundrums and by discussing various topics, etc. Those who were invited from a distance, and who were unable to attend because of the roads, will undoubtedly regret it very much.

Mr. Albert Mace, of Apsley, made his annual visit to this part again.

Miss Ada Elmhust was in Peterborough last Saturday.

Mrs. James Hall and Mrs. T. Breckenridge, of this village, visited at the home of their sister, Mrs. J. Breckenridge, of Hastings, last week.

Mr. Fred Fife, who has been in Toronto for a few months, has returned home.

Mr. William Foster Thornloe, New Ontario, who has been visiting his friends in thois vicinity, has returned home.

SERMONETTES from OLD SAWS

BY TABITHA

"AN ASS LADEN WITH GOLD OVERTAKES EVERYTHING"

Money in itself is not wrong, the wrong comes out of the abuse of it.

A few days ago, while listening to a brilliant address on changes in the times, I was greatly impressed by this remark: "A man corners the market in wheat, makes a fortune, and immediately, he becomes an authority on everything."

Just the money-worshipping age, just the ass laden with gold, that is all. Now is the ass to blame? Or is it the worshipping horde who at one consult him, write him up in newspapers, approach him with bated breath, who whisper as he passes, "the millionaire," the horde which surround him as it were, with a golden hedge?

Immediately his money comes he is approached by philanthropic societies, church, and missionary organizations, until he suddenly finds, that in exchange for his money before which men grovel, he can obtain honors, fame, and all this world has to give.

So the poor ass, laden with gold, adds to his burdens day by day. He truly overtakes everything, but his privacy is gone, and that greatest of all builders of character, the need to strive, is taken from him, and too late he must realize, that there are things above gold which only gold alone deprives him of.

BOUGHT PROPERTY FOR $2500; SOLD TO SYNDICATE FOR $25,000

The Vancouver World has the following to say of Mr. Joseph Reynolds an old Peterboro boy—

Mr. Joseph Reynolds, Vancouver's pioneer musician has just disposed of his residence on Homer street. The growth of the city's business district has crowded him out, and a Winnipeg syndicate required the property for a large apartment house, that is to be erected on the site in the spring. There was just one cypher difference between th epurchase price paid for the lot over 15 years ago and the figure at which he disposed of it yesterday—but that cypher made a big difference, for it was on the right end. The lot was bought for just $2,500. The Winnipeg syndicate paid Mr. Reynolds $25,000 for the property—and they were getting it cheap at that."

Mr. Reynolds went to British Columbia over fifteen years ago. He was always in demand locally, for dances being as he was, a violinist. He also played a cornet and was a member of the old Frire Brigade Band.

THIS MAN HAD DIAMONDS TO BURN

Old Table Concealed Gems and Flames Caused Investigation

(St. Paul Dispatch.)

Yesterday, Oscar Callahan of Le-Seur consigned to the flames in his fireplace a heavy oaken centre table that had been in his family for more years than any of them can remember, but which finally had become so rickety as to be of no further use.

It was supported on one heavy centre post, and as this was of solid oak it looked as though it would make a good back log, and was placed in the fireplace when the family gathered around it for a cosy evening visit.

After it had been burning with a fine, steady glow for about half an hour and had burned an inch or so from the outside, there appeared suddenly on one side of it a small, intensely white hot jet of flame shooting out two or three inches from the surface, which continued to glow with great brightness for fully three minutes and then died away. While they were wondering what could have been the cause of the flame, another appeared at the same place, just as brilliant bur not so large nor lasting more than a third as long.

This aroused Mr. Callahan's curiosity so much that he removed the rest of the stick from the fireplace, extinguished the fire that was on it and looked at the place from which the bright flames had come to see what made them. He found that a hole had been bored into the wood, reaching to the centre, and in the hole he found, packed in sawdust and glue, five fine diamonds of different sizes, the smallest at the bottom and the largest at the top. The brilliant flames had been made by the burning of the first two diamonds reached and it makes Mr. Callahan groan in spirit to think what must have been the size of the first diamond that burned three minutes.

They have no records to show wehre the table came from or how long it has been in the family, but they know it was brought from Ireland many years ago.

ELECTRIC LINE IN THE COUNTRY

Would be Built Between Lindsay and Fenelon Falls

The Lindsay Warder says:—Mr. J. H. Delamere, of Minden, was in town for a few hours this morning, passing through from Toronto. Mr. Delamere is representing a large number of English and Canadian capitalists in the promulgation of the new electric railway through from Lindsay to Fenelon Falls.

In a short conversation with a Warder man Mr. Delamere stated that it was his intention to build a distinct new line, independent of all other railways, so that through competition the freight rates and passenger rates would be materially lowered for the people of the north.

The proposed route, starting at Lindsay, will pass through Ops to Victoria Junction, thence to Cambray and through the vicinity of Islay, on to Glenarm through Eldon and on to the village of Kirkfield. Here the proposed road will branch off to Victoria Road in the township of Bexley, through Laxton, Digby and Longford, along Deer Lake and Talbot Creek to Lutterworth. From this point the route passes through Anson township to the Village of Minden, and thence through to Mountain Lake.

The line will give tourists access to one of the finest tourist and summer resort territories in the Dominion, as nothing surpasses the beautiful Highlands of Haliburton for scenic beauty, fishing and hunting.

The Warder will have more to say about the new line at some future date.

G.T.R. SPREADS OUT.

It Intends to Build Railway Line Into Boston.

Boston, Jan. 15.—The Grand Trunk Railway yesterday petitioned the general court for authority to construct lines into Boston and Worcester, and to own and operate steamships within the jurisdiction of the commonwealth.

In a general way the road desires to come into Boston by two routes. One is from Blackstone, Mass., on the line of the Southern New England Railroad, which the Grand Trunk has secured authority to build into Providence from Palmer, where connection is established with the Central Vermont, a Grand Trunk subsidiary. The other route to Boston desired is from Bellows Falls, Vt., on the line of the Central Vermont, across New Hampshire and through Middlesex County in Massachusetts.

In addition the petition asks for authority to construct a line connecting the Southern New England road with Worcester by a branch line beginning at Douglass.

No details are given in the statement issued last night by a representative of the Grand Trunk as to the towns through which it is proposed to run the new lines. The action is declared to be taken in response to the unanimous invitation extended to the Grand Trunk last year by the Massachusetts Legislature, by the municipal authorities of Boston and by a large number of commercial bodies and generally by the people of New England.

No authority has been obtained in New Hampshire for the building of the line through that state and no proceedings to that end have been begun as yet.

A Central Vermont official, discussing changes, especially the extension of the Central Vermont lines into New England manufacturing districts, said that the changes would be of great value to the Grand Trunk and Canada. The trend of traffic being largely east and west on this continent, it is evidently the desire of the Grand Trunk-Central Vermont management to capture as much of this trade as possible, to carry it through Canada, employing Canadian labor, Canadian cars and locomotives, and wearing out Canadian rails, instead of allowing it to pass between the east and west through the States.

A goodly percentage of the products of the mills of the east goes to the western states, while a great deal of western products go to the New England states. It is stated that with its splendid double track line from the southern boundaries of Quebec to Chicago, the Grand Trunk is physically able to handle considerably more traffic than it now receives, and these extensions and expansions in all directions are with a view to providing traffic for the entire system.

Should First Cousins Marry?

The seriousness of the risk run by first cousins who marry is emphasized by Miss Ethel Elderton, a co-worker with Prof. Karl Pearson at the Galton Laboratory for National Eugenics, London University. Marriages between near kin, such as uncle and niece, aunt and nephew, or grandparent and grandchild, are forbidden mainly on the principle of resemblance. Miss Elderton therefore determined to see whether cousins are as much alike as any of these pairs of relatives. She studied the cases of no fewer than 6,000 pairs of cousins, with a view to endeavoring to measure the degree of resemblance in health, intelligence, success, temper, and temperament.

The conclusion she came to was this—that the general resemblance between cousins is about half that between brother and sister, and practically the same as that shown by statistics of uncles and nieces and of aunts and nephews.

"If the undesirability of marriage within certain degrees is founded on the closeness of resemblance," says Miss Elderton, "the law which forbids the marriage of uncle and aunt with niece and nephew should also restrict the marriage of first cousins."

CONSTRUCTION OF HUDSON BAY RY.

Hon. Mr. Cochrane Says it Will be Proceeded With at Once

Information Regarding Location of Harbor Very Meagre.

Ottawa, Jan. 16.—Hon. Frank Cochrane last evening, in response to the challenge of Hon. Frank Oliver and other members of the Opposition, declared definitely that he had ordered the contractor for the Hudson Bay Railway to proceed with the work, and that the Government would push the construction of the line to a speedy conclusion.

Incidentally he intimated that the information gathered by the late Government with regard to the country, the road, the harbor and what they would do with the wheat when they got it to the bay, was of the most meagre kind.

An alternative route from the end of the line, if navigation of the Hudson Straits was proved impracticable for grain carriers, was before the Government. This was to put on a line of boats from the terminus of the Hudson Bay Railway to the Mattawa River in Quebec, whence the grain could be hauled over the National Transcontinental.

Hon. Frank Oliver declared it was only in recent years that any doubts had been raised as to the navigation of Hudson Bay, and F. L. Schaffner (Souris) cited the fact that, of 750 ships the Hudson Bay Co. had sent through the Straits, only two had been lost.

Hon. F. D. Monk hinted at a reform of the civil service law, which would place most of both the outside and inside service out of the range of patronage.

The Minister of Finance, in answer to a question, stated that the mint would begin the production of $5 and $10 gold coins in about a month.

J. A. M. Aikins provoked a rather tedious debate by moving for a copy of orders-in-council and all correspondence between the Government and the Winnipeg and Hudson Bay Railway Co. and its successor, the Winnipeg Great Northern Railway, now the Canadian Northern Railway, relative to the proposed route of said railway to Hudson Bay, with all accompanying plans and reports; and several other items.

Western Canada, he said, had been laboring under disadvantages that did not obtain in the east. They were paying high freight rates over the long distance necessary to get their products to the Liverpool market. They had not the home markets and industries of the east, but these were being established, notably in the city of Winnipeg.

It was better for the west to find markets in Eastern Canada or in otherwise British countries.

Dr. Clark (Red Deer) in a wittey speech congratulated Mr. Aikins on his heretical utterance (from the Government standpoint). He was also delighted to hear him advocating for western products the shortest route to the markets of the world. He had thought that all the Government supporters were in favor of the longest route through Eastern Canada.

Hon. Frank Oliver declared that there was ample evidence to warrant the Government to open a new route by Hudson Bay to Europe for western products. If they did not carry out the policy of the late Government in this regard, he warned them they would receive the fullest condemnation of the people of the west.

"If Hudson Bay were open only one month in the year," he declared. "it

Flour Mill Burned.

Ethel, Jan. 16.—About 6.30 yesterday evening fire broke out in the office of the flour mills here owned by I. M. Heney and in less than half an hour the whole building was in flames. The building was only partially covered by insurance. The loss is estimated at about $7,000.

HAVE FILLED 650 JOBS

Big List of Appointments Since the Change of Government Took Place.

Ottawa, Jan. 16.—A partial return brought down in the House yesterday, in response to a motion by Dr. Edwards of Frontenac, gives a list of 650 appointments to Government positions during the interval between the dissolution of the last Parliament and the resignation of the Laurier Ministry.

Most of these appointments were to lesser offices in the outside service, but one or two do not fall under that classification. For example, the appointment of the Waterways Commission is given as having been made by an order-in-council, dated Aug. 11, the appointees being Sir George Gibbons, Alex. P. Barnhill and Aime Geoffrion, commissioners, and Thos. Cote, secretary.

On Aug. 29, the former Government by order-in-council, appointed Prof. C. H. McLeod, W. J. Gear, C.E., and Arthur Surveyor, C.E., as the St. Lawrence River commission.

British Election Coming.

London, Jan. 16.—Talk is reviving in connection with a possible general election this year, in consequence of the admitted differences among the members of the Cabinet on the question of woman's suffrage, together with Governmental defeats at recent bye-elections and the difficulties besetting the Ministers in framing measures of home rule which shall be acceptable to the Irish Nationalists.

The insurance business against the recurrence of a general election is increasing at Lloyds, and yesterday the rate jumped up to 31 1-2 per cent., compared with 10 1-2 per cent. last week.

REVOLUTIONISTS BADLY ORGANIZED

So Says Herman Who Went to Rescue People From China Inland Mission.

Pekin, Jan. 16.—The conditions in the interior of China are described in an interview with Adolph Herman, who went to Tai Yuan Fu, in the Province of Shensi, to rescue the women and children of the China Inland Mission. He says:

"The impression I got from the rebels was far from favorable. There was no responsible head, and some twenty men, in various kinds of uniforms, had possession of the railroad station at Ching Hsing Hsien. On showing my passport and papers from the United States legation, written in Chinese, I was escorted to the commander nearby. This officer had several hundred soldiers, with no two uniforms alike, and various kinds of rifles.

"I traveled on a military train to Tai Yuan Fu. The cars were stripped of everything which could be removed.

"The city of Tai Yuan Fu showed row after row of empty stores, in what were the best business quarters of the city."

Rebels Mobilize.

Shanghai, Jan. 16.—Three cruisers and three transports conveying three battalions of revolutionary infantry, eight machine guns and three mountain guns, sailed from Shanghai yesterday for Chi Fu.

A large force of revolutionaries is reported to have concentrated 70 miles south of the Suchow-Pukow Railroad.

FIVE YEARS FOR MONETTE

North Bay, Jan. 16.—Ernest T. Monette, the young man with several names, and a penchant to make money quickly via the forgery route, who was committed for trial from Mattawa for obtaining money from merchants on forged checks in change for small purchases, was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary by Judge Mollet. He also made a vicious assault on Chief of Police McElroy of Mattawa, the officer being in a serious condition for some time.

DYNAMITERS HAD A CODE SYSTEM

McManigal Tells the Grand Jury How Things Were Worked.

Subpoenas Issued for New Witnesses as Result of Revelations.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 16.—Telegrams and letters signed "Ping" and purporting to contain a code system for giving instructions about viaducts, bridges and buildings that were to be blown up, were read before the federal grand jury yesterday in connection with Ortie E. McManigal's confession as to who was implicated with him in the dynamite conspiracy.

This signature, according to McManigal, was not that of the McNamaras, but was used by another person whom he named. In June, 1910, at Cincinnati, McManigal said, in response to a telegram from "Ping," he went to Cleveland and there blew up a viaduct, for which he received $125, paid him by "Ping" in Toledo. The dynamiters' movements to Pittsburg and his arrangement to have a supply of nitro-glycerine stored in an old shop at Rochester, Pa., also were arranged by this person.

The feature of the investigation having to do with the movements of men who, McManigal says, accompanied him to various cities where "open shop" work was to be destroyed, received an impetus by the issuance of subpoenaes for new witnesses yesterday.

The witnesses were ordered called after Oscar Lawler, special assistant to the Attorney-General, arrived from Washington and conferred with U. S. Attorney Miller, who is conducting the enquiry.

P. W. Murphy, a merchant of Springfield, Ill., is expected to testify to-day concerning the dynamiting of his plant on March 8, 1911, six weeks before J. J. McNamara was arrested. C. M. Ruddell, a railroad engineer, and George Wright, also are expected to testify about the destruction on the same night of a viaduct south of Springfield.

All the indictments against W. J. Burns, the detective, and James Hosick, a special officer from Los Angeles, charging them with kidnapping John J. McNamara last April, were dismissed by the County Criminal Court yesterday.

Pity Poor Packers.

Washington, Jan. 16.—That the past year has been the most unprofitable to the packing house industry in a decade was the assertion made in the report of the executive committee to the American Meat Packers' Association, which assembled here yesterday for its annual meeting.

"The uncertainty which prevails in many lines of business as to just what the Governments considers legitimate operations," is given by the committee as the reason.

CONDEMN THE GOVERNMENT

London, Jan. 16.—A resolution protesting against the British Government acquiescing in the Russian action in Persia, was passed by acclamation at a crowded meeting in the opera house last night, called by the Persian committee of the House of Commons.

James Ramsay Macdonald, M.P. for Leicester, the chief speaker of the evening, declared that W. Morgan Shuster, the American treasurer-general of Persia, who was recently dismissed from office—the man who stood between Persia and dissolution — had been thrust out because the British Foreign Secretary, Sir Edward Grey, could be pushed, twisted, flattered or elongated, just as the Russians wished.

The Americans, said Mr. Macdonald, were beginning to ask whether all these international arbitration treaties were to be made between strong nationalities so that weak nations might be crushed out of existence.

STANFIELD FOR THE SENATE

Ottawa, Jan. 16.—The translation of John Stanfield of Colchester to the Upper House is looked upon as one of the likely things of the next few days. They want Mr. Stanfield to stay in his present position as chief Ministerial whip, but they also want to recognize his services to the party by appointing him to the Senate vacancy in his district, and the last desire seems to be winning. The chief whip entered Parliament in 1907, when he carried a bye-election in Colchester, breaking the ranks of the solid 18 "brought in from Nova Scotia by Hon. W. S. Fielding in 1904."

ATTEMPT TO ASSASSINATE THE CHINESE PREMIER

Six Men and Horses Attached to Premier's Carriage Killed---Bomb Was Thrown

Special to the Review.

Pekin, Jan. 16.—Premier Yuan Shi Kai narrowly escaped assassination at noon to-day when a bomb was thrown at him, just as he left the Imperial palace. The Premier's horses and six men were killed, but Yuan himself escaped uninjured. It is understood that the premier had just closed an agreement with the royal family whereby all authority of government was delegated to him.

FOOTPAD SHOT LONDON WOMAN

Robbed Her Then Fired at Her Back as She Turned Away

Special to the Review.

London, Ont., Jan. 16.—An armed footpad late last night held up Mrs. S. M. Fraser, 508 English street, and took her money and watch and chain and then shot her in the back as she turned away. A corset steel deplected the bullet and the wound is not serious. A young domestic was also robbed, but not hurt, apparently by the same man.

Canalejas Will Stay.

Madrid, Jan. 16.—Premier Canalejas, after announcing Sunday that he would resign his office, reconsidered yesterday and notified King Alfonso that he would continue as Premier.

Canalejas said he would retire when King Alfonso, in opposition to his recommendation, commuted the death sentence of the ringleader of the Cullera rioters, who murdered a judge and wounded several high officials last September.

The King had been deluged with petitions that the chief rioters be spared and he decided to risk Canalejas' retirement rather than oppose popular opinion.

Premier Canalejas, during the course of an interview yesterday, said that the Cullera affair would logically result in the abolition of capital punishment in Spain, except in the army and navy.

MOTHER AND [illegible] SON FREEZE

Biggar, Sask., Jan. 16.—James Sidney and George Stock, a brother of Mrs. Sidney, were found guilty of criminal negligence by a jury in the inquest which was held here yesterday afternoon in the case of Mrs. James Sidney and her son, Samuel, who were found frozen to death near their homestead, twelve miles northwest of here, last Thursday. It was shown that Stock was the cause of Mrs. Sidney leaving her home, and neighbors say that Sidney did not make any effort to rescue the unfortunates from their impending fate, and that no effort was made to locate them for two days.

PITTSBURG CLERGYMAN MISSING; SERIOUS CHARGE AGAINST HIM

Said to Have Been Implicated in Death of Young Girl Who Acted as His Secretary.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 16.—Rev. W. D. McFarland, former head of the academic department of the Pittsburg high school, and well known as an educator, is being sought by the Pittsburg police to-day, in connection with the death in a local hospital of Elsie Dodd Coe, aged 28, who died last Friday. Miss Coe had been Dr. McFarland's secretary, and before her death she made an ante-mortem statement to a deputy coroner, in which she implicated Dr. McFarland and one Rollin McConnell, who is now employed in the Westinghouse offices in Chicago.

All Against Socialists.

Berlin, Jan. 16.—The Liberals and Radicals are now tending to steer different courses in the re-balloting. The Radicals are still planning to co-operate with the Socialists against the Conservatives and Centrists, but the Liberals, hating the Socialists more than they do their old enemies of the right bloc, have declared against the Socialists.

Other re-ballots are expected not only to cut the Socialist gains, but to result in co-operation in the Reichstag, which will give the Government its desired majority.

Brantford Pioneer Dead.

Brantford, Jan. 16.—William Ham, a pioneer of Brantford, died here yesterday in his 90th year. He came to Brantford in 1860, where he has since continuously resided. A family of two daughters and three sons survive.

Rev. H. F. D. Woodcock, curate of Grace Church here, has announced his acceptance of a call to the pastorate of the Anglican Church at Oakville.

FATAL COLLISION ON THE G.T.R.

Hamilton, Jan. 16.—R. J. Harper, a G.T.R. fireman, was fatally injured in a collision between two locomotives in the G.T.R. yards yesterday morning about 7 o'clock, and died four hours after at the City Hospital, to which place he was rushed soon after the accident. The engines which collided were one that was pulling a freight train, on which Harper was the fireman, and a yard engine which was standing on the track on which the freight was moving at a good rate of speed. Both engines were badly wrecked, but the crew of the yard engine escaped without injury.

In spite of the strike 24 buildings were erected in Passburg this summer.

LEADING BOSTON HOTEL IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

It is Feared That Several Lives May be Lost--One Fireman Dead.

Boston, Jan. 16.—Boston's most famous hostelry, the Revere House, in Bowdoin square, took fire shortly before two o'clock yesterday morning. The fire started in the grotto, a dining room on the street floor, and quickly spread up through the entire six storeys. Many guests were carried down ladders by firemen and others rushed from the building through the smoke, scantily clad.

From the Revere House the fire spread to the hall of the National Lancers on Bullfinch street, and then to the house of engine company No. 4, on Bullfinch street. Hotel Rexford, another of the older hostelries, is in danger and the guests have been ordered out.

One fireman is dead.

Police officers who went into the Rexford and were driven out by smoke, assert that a dozen or more persons are still in the hotel and it may be that at least a few of these may lose their lives.

UNION LABEL

ANOTHER CABINET RESIGNS

The Spanish Cabinet is the latest to do the resigning stunt. It was brought about by the King, who commutted the death sentence of a striker, who had murdered several people. The premier had recommended that this man be executed, but later, owing to the clamour of the people had to go back on his advice and ask the King to commute the sentence. Seven strikers were sentenced to death at the time, but the Ministry recommended that six of them get off with life imprisonment and that the seventh be executed as an example and warning to others.

The people couldn't see why one man should suffer, and he soon became a martyr in the eyes of the public. Stories of the most brutal cruelty to the prisoners were circulated by the Radicals, who stirred up bitter feeling against the government.

Serious trouble was brewing and the Premier saw that the best way to avert it was to have the sentence of the striker commuted and himself resign. King Alfonso protested most heartily against this move as he has learned to depend much on Premier Canalejos, who is recognized as a very able statesman and diplomat. All his fellow Liberals have been urging the prime minister to reconsider his decision. It is understood that he and his ministers have agreed to return to office.

TERRITORY GRABBING

Russia is making a bold bid to assume control in Northern Persia, where the capital, Teheran, is situated, and is already treating the Persians as a conquered nation in many parts of that country. Then the Russian bear has just assumed practical control over Mongolia, a Chinese possession and Chinese—Turkestan seems destined to become Russian-Turkestan. The question naturally arises where is Russia going to stop in this territory grabbing game. These latest grabs, if they are consummated will mean additions to Russian territory of an area nearly equal in extent to that of the British Empire. Russia in Asia and Russia in Europe at present include 8,647,657 square miles of territory. Mongolia covers 1,367,6000 square miles, and Chinese Turkestan 550,340 square miles. The total area within the extended boundaries would be 10,565,697 square miles. The British Empire now has 11,467,294 square miles, which happens to be very nearly the area of the entire African continent, namely 11,531,579 square miles. China has but 4,277,170, and the United States, including insular dependencies, 3,756,884 square miles. Japan, with Formosa, covers 147,655.

No wonder that Japan realized the necessity of a foreign alliance to protect her interests against the Bear. The construction of the trans-Mongolian railway will no doubt be proceeded with by Russia and will considerably lessen Japan's sphere of usefulness in Manchuria. Russia has been trying for three centuries to secure Chinese Turkestan, but the Chinese have held it up to the present time, and may yet prevent Russia from wresting it from them. The Russian bear is having her inning, but the powers may take a hand before the game is concluded.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Empress of China handed over a few hundred thousand dollars to continue the war against the Republicans and the Premier who got the money says no more fighting now. He's a modern financier. It was a shame to take the money.

"Canadian husbands are kinder, more generous and more considerate than English husbands," says an Englishman residing in Toronto in writing to a paper in the Old Country. A good reputation and Canadian husband should try to live up to it.

Hamilton has made a substantial grant towards entertaining the visiting Scottish curlers when they are in that city and will entertain the men from the land of the Heather in grand style. Citizens generally should join hands in welcoming the visitors when they reach Peterborough.

Four and a half million voters cast their votes in favor of the Socialists in Germany, which can really be looked upon as a vote against social conditions. Socialism is making big gains in Europe and with some able statesman at the head of the party, would be a power in the land.

The keel plate of another great battleship has been laid for the British navy. It will be the most powerful ship of the kind in the world. It will be specially protected against torpedo boat attacks, which have been the greatest danger to modern battleships. Britain will possess thirty-two dreadnoughts or super-dreadnoughts, when this latest ship is completed.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucuous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you may have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucuous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

McMaster, recently Grand Trunk Pacific Agent at Prince Rupert, has been appointed General Agent in charge of Passenger and Freight Traffic of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, the Grand Trunk Pacific Coast Steamship Co., Ltd., and the Grand Trunk Railway System in Western British Columbia, North of Rivers Inlet, and including Queen Charlotte Islands. Chilman May Appeal.

Hamilton, Jan. 16.—Another chapter yet remains to be written in the express robbery case. The conviction of Chilman Saturday on the charge of receiving the money supposed to have been stolen from the express company has been the topic most discussed in Hamilton yesterday. Most people here seem to regard the verdict as unjustified by the evidence in the case, and the general opinion expressed is that Chilman was convicted on suspicion, and not on evidence.

The Herald, in an editorial, headed "A Jury's Aberration," strongly disapproves of the jury's finding in the case, and suggests that an appeal be made against the verdict. Similar sentiments are freely voiced wherever the case is talked about. Taken all in all, the verdict in the Chilman case is probably the most unpopular ever rendered by any jury in Hamilton.

The case is not ended, however, for to-day George Lynch-Staunton and C. W. Bell, the defence counsel, will ask for a stated case before Justice Teetzel, and if this is refused, still other efforts will be made to have Chilman's conviction upset and the matter will be fought out to the bitter end.

THE MARKETS

Latest Quotations in Grain Dairy Products, Live Stock Etc.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—Revised estimates indicating that, despite heavy crop damage, the Argentine would have an exportable surplus of 3,500,000 bushels larger than ever before, resulted to-day in breaking the back of the market for wheat. Ideas that the price had been pegged to stay at $1 a bushel were sent to the scrap heap. Closing figures showed a decline of 3-8c to 5-8c from Saturday night. Corn finished a shade lower to 3-8c up, oats unchanged to 1-8c off and hog products varying from 2 1-2c down to a like advance.

The Liverpool market closed to-day on wheat unchanged to ½c lower than Saturday, and corn ½d to ⅞d higher. January wheat, in Buenos Ayres, was 2c lower; February, ⅞c lower. Paris wheat closed ¼c to ⅜c higher, Antwerp unchanged, Berlin ½c higher, and Budapest ⅛c higher.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Jan. 15.—Cables on Manitoba spring wheat this morning came stronger at an advance of 1½d, but the afternoon ones were weaker and noted a decline in prices of 1½d to 3d. The demand was much quieter and no new business was done. There is a good demand from foreign buyers for oats, and, as the prices bid showed a good profit, sales of 120,000 bushels were made for May-June shipment. The local demand is good and prices are firm.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Union Stock Yards.

TORONTO, Jan. 15.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 82 cars, consisting of 1456 cattle, 712 hogs, 736 sheep and lambs and 21 calves.

Exporters.

Alexander McIntosh bought 100 export steers for J. Shamberg & Son, 1200 lbs. each, at $6.30 to $6.60; also 8 bulls, at $5.25 to $5.75.

Butchers.

Choice butchers' cattle sold at $6.75 to $7; good, $6.50 to $6.75; medium, $6 to $6.40; common, $5 to $5.90; cows, $3.50 to $5.50; bulls, $4 to $5.

Milkers and Springers.

Milkers and springers were scarce, and sold from $40 to $70 each.

Veal Calves.

Receipts of veal calves were light with prices firm at $4 to $8 per cwt.

Sheep and Lamps.

Prices for sheep and lambs were firmer. Sheep, ewes, sold at $3.50 to $4.25, and some selected lots up to $4.85; rams, $3; lambs, $6.75 to $7.55.

Hogs.

Selected hogs sold at $6.60 to $6.65, and $6.25, f.o.b., cars, at country points.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Jan. 15.—At the Montreal Stock Yards west end market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Jan. 13 were 2000 cattle, 1625 sheep and lambs, 3750 hogs and 345 calves. The offerings on the market this morning were 1000 cattle, 1200 sheep and lambs, 2300 hogs and 150 calves.

A feature of the trade was the two carloads of 44 head of prize steers, which averaged 1385 pounds each. These steers were bought on the farm of a well-known local breeder at 7c per pound, delivered on the above market, and they were resold to a butcher at 7¼c per pound. It was reported that this butcher sold seven head of them to another butcher at 7¾c per pound.

A few other loads of really choice steers were also offered on the market, for which a leading packer bid $7.15 per 100 pounds for one load, which was refused, and later in the day it was sold at $7.25. Sales of some choice bulls were made at $5.50 to $6 per 100 pounds.

The supply of common and inferior cattle was ample to fill all requirements, and in consequence this class of stock did not share in the advance in prices to the same extent as the better grades. As butchers and packers were well out of supplies, the demand was good and an active trade was done.

A weaker feeling developed in the market for sheep and lambs, and prices declined 25c per 100 pounds on account of the increased offerings and the fact that the demand is somewhat limited. The supply of calves was small, for which the demand was good and prices for good to choice stock rule higher.

Owing to the more liberal supply of hogs than was generally expected by packers, a weaker feeling prevailed in the market, and prices, as compared with those realized last Wednesday, show a decline of 10c to 15c per 100 pounds. At this reduction the demand was good and sales of selected lots were made at $7 to $7.10 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars, while sows sold for $1 and stags for $2 per 100 pounds less.

Butchers' cattle, choice, $7 to $7.25; do., medium, $5 to $6; do., common, $3.50 to $4; canners, $2.50 to $3.50; butchers' cattle, choice cows, $5.25 to $5.50; do., medium, $4.50 to $5; do., bulls, $4.50 to $6; milkers, choice, each, $75; do., common and medium, each, $50 to $60; springers, $30 to $40.

Sheep, ewes, $4.50 to $4.75; bucks and culls, $3.75 to $4.25; lambs, $6.50 to $6.75.

Hogs, f.o.b., $7 to $7.10.

Calves, $4 to $20.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

The Paternoster Ruby

By Charles Edmond Walk.

Supplied exclusively in Canada by the British & Colonial Press, Limited, Toronto.

The fight had ended. I could hear a patter of feet on the rear stairs; I could hear some one near me on the floor, breathing heavily; then fell silence.

I tried to yell to Stodger to be up and after them, but the result was only a painful wheezing in my throat. Then the gasping form on the floor groaned, and I managed to get dizzily to my feet.

We received the worst of the fight in more ways than one. When I managed to find a candle and light it, I discovered that Stodger was the one who had groaned. He was sitting up, not badly hurt, and staring dazedly at the candle. His mouth hung ludicrously open. But in a moment he struggled upright.

"Good God, Swift!" he gasped. "You've been butchered!"

Then I recalled the red-hot poker. I put a hand to my cheek; it came away covered with blood. From the shoulder down, my clothes were saturated with it, and I had left a crimson trail to mark each of my movements since the keen-edged blade had laid my face open.

But enough of the wound. The white pucker of scar which to-day disfigures my face will be a lifelong momento of that spirited combat in the dark.

After we were in condition to do so, Stodger and I set about an inspection of the scene.

First of all we didn't find a trace of our adversaries, or how many of them there might have been, until we came to the snow outside. An open dining-room window indicated their method of ingress, the trampled snow beneath their number. There had been five.

"Why the bath room?" Stodger demanded, in deep perplexity. "Why should everything that happens in this house be pulled off there?"

Why indeed?

"Let's go back there and try to find out," I returned, stiffly, for my cheek was paining under the mass of plaster that Stodger had piled upon it.

Carefully and systematically, we went over every inch of space—I don't know how many times I had done so since the murder—but found absolutely nothing that was not already familiar to me. It was miserably aggravating that every search I undertook in this house of mystery should prove fruitless. Yet, we could find nothing whatever to serve as a reply to Stodger's pertinent question.

It was before the bath room door that Felix Page had met his death; it was the bath room that had been designated on the chart found by me in the snow; it was to this point that both Alexander Burke and Alfred Fluette had turned with a glance of ardent eagerness; it was to the bath room that Geneveive had pursued the mysterious yellow face—always the bath room. It would seem to be the converging point of the tragedy's every moving current.

We were about to give it up in despair, when I started forward with a wordless cry. The bar of yellow soap was gone!

On the instant the import of this discovery flashed into my mind. How blind and dull I had been!

During the struggle Tuesday night, between Page and—shall I say Fluette?—in the hall, Burke had in some way secured the ruby, and with diabolical cleverness had pressed it into the bar of soap! A bit of manipulation under the water-tap had removed all traces. Think of the brain that could light upon a hiding-place like that in the stress of such a moment! And I had paused by that very bar of soap, philosophizing and moralizing—it made me sick to think of it. No wonder they were all so interested in the bath-room!

This revelation left my mind blank for a second. Then came a rush of mingled feelings—bitter chagrin and disappointment, mortification because I had been outwitted, and blind, hot resentment against those who had bested me.

Recalling the object I had heard drop to the floor at the moment I dashed the door open, I dropped to my hands and knees and began a feverish search for some sign. Yes, there it was—a small smear of soap, where the bar had struck.

For a while Stodger thought I was crazy, and perhaps I was. I fumed and raved at him for not entering into the search with a frenzied zeal equal to mine. At last he too understood.

But our pawing over the floor and the stairs, and even in the snow outdoors, availed nothing. We were beaten, confounded, made a laughing-stock.

The bar of soap was gone.

CHAPTER XIX

Belle.

It was a very crestfallen detective that presented himself at the Fluette home early Friday morning. I had counted so much upon unearthing the ruby myself, assured that through it I must certainly succeed in drawing some betrayal from the murderer, that its loss amounted to a thwarting of all my hopes. My feeling was that of one who has striven and failed—failed through a solitary act of gross carlessness.

But if I was dejected, I was no less determined. Only a little more than two days had elapsed since Felix Page met his untimely death; the body had not been interred yet; and I knew that I held in my hands the ends of a net which enveloped all the actors. One of them was guilty. My determination was to be no longer considerate through fear of wounding the innocent. I meant to draw in the lines of the net until everybody's position stood clear and unequivocal; but to that end I must be fortified with one more fragment of information. And here it was that I looked to Geneveive.

A neat-appearing maid admitted me, who seemed to be expecting my arrival, for she conducted me at once up-stairs, above the second story to the third, and to a room in the rear of the house. I wondered a bit at this; but I was more surprised than ever when the open door disclosed Miss Fluette instead of Genevieve. A good many startling experiences were in store for me that morning.

The maid closed the door and left us immediately. I began muttering some words expressive of my pleasure at seeing Miss Fluette able to be up and about; but something in her manner checked the speech. She had not even looked at me. In fact, I quite suddenly realized that she was studiously keeping her eyes averted from mine.

And again, she presented the appearance of one who has recently undergone a strenuous exertion. Her rich, red-gold hair was in disorder; she was breathing deeply, and her cheeks were flushed, though her movements were direct, and full of purpose. Then, too, if a man may hazard the guess, I would have said that lacey, beribboned dressing gown she wore hid her nightdress. The situation was most unusual.

When I entered the room she was standing on one side of the door, precisely as if she had moved aside to make way for me, meaning to depart as soon as I had entered. But she did not. Instead, the instant I crossed the threshold, she advanced quickly to the door. She turned the key, then withdrew it from the lock, and hastened to a chair on the side of the room farthest away from me.

I could not repress a smile—depite my amazement at these proceedings—when I realised that the chair was placed between us as an object of defence. She stood, very erect, behind it, her hand tightly holding the back. She was prepared with a weapon of offence, also. For now her right hand appeared, for the first time, from a fold of her gown; I was startled to see that it held a small, shining revolver. For the first time, too, her hazel eyes met mine, and they burned with a light which, considering the manner of my reception, I was not slow in ascribing to a state of mind bordering upon irresponsibility.

"So I am a prisoner," I said.

"You are," she replied. She clipped the words in an uncompromising way which promised that I was in for a bad quarter of an hour. Where in the world was Geneveive? I wondered. But Miss Belle went on at once, eying me steadily with a hard, stony look.

"I shall get to the point at once. It all depends upon you, whether or not you leave this room alive. It will be for you to choose, and I think you'll choose the wiser course. I'm in dead earnest."

She was, whatever her purpose; there was no gainsaying that. I was profoundly curious to learn what that purpose was.

"May I sit down?" I asked, calmly.

She made an impatient gesture with the hand that clutched the chair-back—the hand that held the door-key. But there were two keys in her grasp, I observed. The flowing sleeve of her dressing-gown disclosed a momentary glimpse of white, rounded arm.

"It's useless—useless for you to play for time. I want to know why you have permitted Royal Maillot to be railroaded to jail"—she flung the word at me—"and permitted a snake like that creature, Burke, to go scathless.

"But, no, I don't care for your motives. You know Royal to be innocent. Between the two who were in that house Tuesday night—Royal, open, frank, and manly; Alexander Burke, sly, secretive, and a coward if ever there was one. What sort of intellect have you that it should make such a choice between these two? Bah! You're either base—in league with the criminals—or a fool."

She stopped for sheer lack of breath. She stood staring at me with all the dignity of an outraged queen, and for once in my life I was so astounded that I was at an utter loss for words. I sank into a nearby chair—without her permission—and for the second or so of the pause, my thoughts flew like lightning.

When Miss Fluette was carried from the Page library the previous day her condition promised a long siege of illness; Dr. De Breen had confirmed my own surmise with a declaration to that effect. Why, then, was she not at this moment in bed, with Genevieve caring for her? I had an engagement with Genevieve; she was expecting at eight o'clock. Miss Belle's appearance indicated that she had prepared for this meeting with the utmost haste—she had probably risen and donned dressing-gown and slippers after I had rang the doorbell. What, then, had she done with Genevieve?

I was not in the least frightened by her display of the pistol. To tell the truth, it was only with much difficulty that I kept from laughing. Still, I did so. The girl was plainly so overwrought that she was fairly frantic, and it would require the utmost circumspection on my part to keep her from precipitating matters before somebody came. The women folks, I fancied, would then need the assistance of a man; but for the present her condition demanded that I be at least considerate.

SHOULD OWN LINES.

U S. Postmaster-General Hitchcock to Recommend Big Deal.

New York, Jan. 16.—Announcement from Washington that Postmaster-General Hitchcock is about to recommend Government ownership of telegraph and telephone lines, was received with surprise by officials of the big telegraph and telephone companies here.

"It is a bolt out of a clear sky," declared Theodore N. Vail, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and of the Western Union.

"Whether the Government could run the telegraphs economically or not is very doubtful," continued Mr. Vail. "The experience of Great Britain is not favorable."

Mr. Vail said that there had been no conference on the subject and that not even a suggestion had been made to the companies he represented that such a proposition was being considered by the Postmaster-General.

Clarence H. MacKay, being asked in regard to the proposition of Postmaster-General Hitchcock that the Government take over all the telegraph lines, said: "This would lead to taking over the telephone lines also. * * * * The British Government found this to be so, and two weeks ago it took over the telephone lines in England at an enormous expense. The telegraph and telephone lines in this country are worth from $2,000,000,000 to $3,000,000,000. This would include the independent telephone companies, owning nearly $500,000,000 of property and having some 450,000 stockholders. I venture to say that they would be operated by the Government at great annual loss."

An African Concert.

Mme. Ada Crossley, the well-known contralto singer, has just returned to England from a visit to South Africa, and has been narrating some of her experiences, which included, among others, the shooting of crocodiles. Referring to her glimpses of native life, she remarks that among the Rhodesian mines "we were treated to a thrilling war-dance and a concert with a native orchestra of forty musicians. Their instruments were chiefly drums and a strange contrivance much like a xylophone, only a great deal larger. Weird but real harmonies were somehow beaten out of these crude instruments, and at times the effects were quite dramatic. Their favorite tune was 'Tarara-boom-de-ay,' which they played eternally, but so differently that it never grew monotonous."

Collector Sentenced.

Berlin, Ont., Jan. 16.—Melvin Wicklum, former collector and messenger of the local branch of the Bell Telephone Co., was sentenced to four months in the common jail yesterday by Magistrate Weir after having previously pleaded guilty to two charges of theft, amounting to $31,85.

"We are only little ones, but we know Zam-Buk eased our pain and cured our sores. Perhaps it would cure you, too, if you tried it?"

Isn't this sound advice from "babes and sucklings"? Take it! The speakers are the children of Mrs. E. Webster, of Seigneurs St., Montreal, and the mother adds weight to their appeal. She says: "My little girl contracted scalp disease at school. Bad gatherings formed all over her head, and not only caused the child acute pain but made her very ill. The sores discharged, and occurring on the scalp we feared she would lose all her hair. She was in a pitiable plight when we tried Zam-Buk, but a few days' treatment with this balm gave her ease. Then the sores began to heal, and we continued the Zam-Buk treatment. In a short time she was quite healed.

"My little boy sustained a serious scald on the neck. It set up a bad sore, and quite a few things we tried, failed to heal it or give him ease. Once more we turned to Zam-Buk, and we were not disappointed. It acted like a charm in drawing away the pain, and soon healed the wound."

Zam-Buk is "something different" in the way of balms. It contains powerful healing herbal essences, which, as soon as applied to skin diseases, kill off the germs and end the painful smarting. Other essences contained in Zam-Buk so stimulate the cells that new healthy tissue is speedily formed. Eczema, itch, ulcers, cold sores, abscesses, festering sores, blood poisoning, chronic wounds, cold cracks, etc., are healed and cured in this way. Use it for all skin injuries and diseases. It is also of great service for piles. All druggists and stores at 50 cents box, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

A Common Mistake

A common mistake, and one that is quite excusable, is that so many people between the ages of 40 and 50 feeling the need of glasses either refuse to wear them or continue putting it off.

There is no greater mistake than the common saying that "so-and-so" had such strong eyes, lived to be 80 and never used glasses to read. It is a physiological fact that at the age of 45 years the crystal line lens looses some of its elasticity; it looses more as age advances, so that even under accommodation it cannot become convex as it did before; consequently, this convexity (needed for reading) must be supplied artificially by means of glasses.

The above is taken from the Family Doctor a large American publication.

WE RECOMMEND GLASSES ONLY WHEN ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY.

JESSIE ALEXANDER SCORES A SUCCESS

Excellent and Enjoyable Concert at the Conservatory of Music

A very enjoyable and high-class concert was rendered in the spacious Conservatory of Music Hall last evening, when Jessie Alexander, the popular and talented reader and elocutionist of Toronto, was most cordially welcomed back in her annual appearance here. A capacity audience filled the hall, and the program was of an unusually meritorious character. Besides the visiting artist, was Mr. Barnaby Nelson, the well-known Toronto tenor, and the Conservatory of Music orchestra. These three combined provided an evening of genuine pleasure to all present. Encores and applause were given to every number, and the liberality of the artists in responding was greatly enjoyed and appreciated. About Miss Alexander's work it can truthfully be said, that it shows continual improvement. Possession a sweet, well-trained and musical voice, and a most pleasing personality, Miss Alexander is splendidly equipped for her particular and chosen field of work. Her star number last evening undoubtedly was "A Bridge Problem," with "Hyde Park Orators" a close second. "Scene From Henry VIII." was also very dramatically rendered.

Barnaby Nelson's voice has rarely, if ever, been heard to better advantage or effect, than last evening.

The Conservatory orchestra as usual played in their customary high-class manner.

Miss Pearl McKee was a very capable accompanist.

GOD ALONE INFALLIBLE

Large Audience Heard the Rev. Patrick Morgan at Park Street Church

With the text of Psalm, 13, 31, "Lighten mine eyes lest I sleep the sleep of death," Rev. Patrick Morgan spoke to a large and interested audience at Park street last night.

His subject was "Rome's Attitude to the Bible." Infallibility, he said belonged to God alone, not to the Pope. According to Rome, no man had a right to judge for himself the meaning of the Scriptures, but Jesus said to his church, "Search the Scriptures, for they are they which testify of me."

The subject for to-night is the "Confessional."

MANY REQUESTS FOR ASSISTANCE

The requests to the City Relief Officer for charity, still continue to be very heavy.

Many of the calls for aid come from people who are comparative strangers to the city, and of whose presence and low poverty-stricken state the office was unaware. He investigated a case last night of a family who were in very low circumstances as far as material things go, and where the father has been unable to secure work and the mother is ill.

The churches with their various philanthropic organizations are doing much to aid the sufferings of unfortunately situated families, besides which many generous-hearted citizens contribute freely of money to assist in providing the necessities of life, whenever called upon.

SHE WAS SURPRISED

When Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills Cured her Chronic Liver Complaint

Mrs. R. Smith, of Winnipeg, Man., tells an interesting story of relief from almost intolerable sufferings:

"I can hardly tell you how great my sufferings have been. Chronic liver complaint accompanied by biliousness were a daily source of trial to me. Every day I experienced the sickening effects of these ailments. I longed for some medicine that should permanently drive them away.

Hearing of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, I thought they were worthy of a trial. My surprise was indeed great. From the very first I experienced relief. Continuing with them I found my troubles were slowly but surely leaving me, and before long I once more knew what it was to be free from the harassing effects of the ailments that had long sickened and weakened me. So great is my faith in Dr. Morse's Indian Pills that I shall never on any account be without them."

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills cure Bowel and Kidney as well as Liver troubles, and keep you healthy. 25c a box at your dealer's. 14

PETERBORO IS BOOSTED; CITY COMES INTO ITS OWN

Street Railway Extensions Made, New Bridge Erected, Cedar Swamp on George Street Removed and Pavements are Laid—The Mayor Dines the City Dads and City Officials.

Peterborough looked her best last night. The macadam roads were at rest under a good substantial pavement, the cedar swamp had disappeared; it was just like New York, that brilliant white way; street cars of the big palace coach kind whizzed past each other on the double tracks, carrying passengers from the east, north, south and west parts of the city; signs on some of the cars gave directions as to how to proceed to the municipal and public buildings and works of the manufacturing concerns. The whistles had long shrieked for the finish of the day's toil ,and workmen from the southern part of the city wended their way to their homes in the east across the recently built bridge connecting Little and Big Peterborough. Others caught a car and were soon speeding across the viaduct at Hunter street and were taken to within a short distance of their various homes. It was a good meal that was spread on the table, the "public abbatoir" had done its work and the housewife wore a contented look. She had been to market and found the prices on the mend; the farmers' wives had relented because they couldn't help but appreciate the comforts of a good, warm and up-to-date market hall. So was it with the farmers on the market square. Now they did not have to remain for hours unsheltered from the elements. Busy policemen dodged about here and there. One luckless chap was nabbed and hustled away to the new police station and placed in a cell, where he had nothing but his conscience to fight. And he had been arrested in the west end, where Hydro-Electric light made him easily extinguishable to the blue coat. On a billboard a notice read that on and after June 22, the water rates would be reduced. On all sides prosperity was to be seen. Babies looked healthy, for they were fed pure milk. There were no houses placarded; the garbage by-law was in force.

And strung across the streets leading to and from the railway station to the clear view of all, the banners read, "Boost Peterborough," and "We Believe in Our City."

The dinner given to the members of the City Council, Water Commissioners, Police Commissioners, City Street Commissioner and other city officials at Hooper's last night by His Worship Mayor Bradburn was a big success. The bill of fare was a choice one in fact all that could be desired, and the after dinner speeches enthused one with the feeling that, while Peterborough had progressed in the years gone by, still greater success would be met with in the future. His Worship the Mayor and the speakers in proposing and responding to the toasts, congratulated each other and referred to ways and means by which the city could be improved. Kindly remarks were made to ex-Mayor Morrow and his efforts on behalf of the city as alderman and mayor, and also to ex-Ald. Metheral, the late chairmaan of the Board of Works.

The toast list was:

The King—proposed by Mayor Bradburn, and honored by the singing of the National Anthem.

City Trust Commissioners—proposed by Mayor Bradbburn, responded to by Mr. W. H. Moore, K.C.

Water Commissioners—proposed by Ald. G. N. Gordon, responded to by Mr T. F. Matthews.

The Press—proposed by Mr. T. A. S. Hay, responded to by representatives.

God Save the King.

LINDSAY JUNIORS BEATEN AT HOME

Petes Had Them Tied at the Half and Won Out With 10-9 Score.

Peterboro deserve a hearty hand for their splendid victory in Lindsay last night, when they had the Scugogville youths tied at the half and won out with 10-9.

The Review pointed out on its report of the game at Brock street that while Jerry Coughlin played a great game, he was not by any means the whole team. Without the doughty right wing of the Intermediates the locals had the game well in hand all the time and were 10-7 when referee Sproule banished Hall, Clancy and Weir to the coop. This was in the closing stages and Lindsay scored twice. With the forwards back in the game again, the game was held tight and Lindsay was beaten right on their own rink.

About 130 fans accompanied the team on the special. Art Hall was the big noise in the scorign columns and the line playing, and beating their opponents through their combination work. Callaghan did not play for Lindsay.

BELLEVILLE HERE TO-NIGHT

Rollie Glover was out to practice last night, but will not break into the game for a while. Fred Denison is shaping up well, but will not be asked to take any chances. Belleville will be here to-night for their return game. The local line-up is unchanged. The game is the only O.H.A. fixture of the week for Brock street rink.

HOCKEY

Since the withdrawal of the St. Michael's hockey team from the senior O.H.A., there is a possibility that Jack Spratt, the fast rover, will figure on the Lindsay intermediate line-up. Jack would be a tower of strength to the local septette, and the Lindsay fans would be delighted to see him doing hockey stunts in this town.—Lindsay Warder.

THE BROWNITES WON

The P.C.I. girls indulged in some fast hockey yesterday, when Miss Mabel Patterson's seven clashed with Miss Mabel Brown's team, in the Brock street rink.

Finally after some spectacular rushes by Miss B. for the Brownies, and considerable ice sweeping by Miss Patterson's cover point, the game closed with the score 5—2 in favor of the Brownies.

Mr. Ferguson of the Collegiate Institute staff, refereed. The teams were:

Pattersonites.		Brownites.

NEW DAY FOR OLD MEN.

"Too Young at 60!" the Slogan Now In London.

"Too young at 60!" is the slogan that sent a rejuvenating thrill through the elderly men of London. The words stood out in stalwart letters in the bill of contents of a morning paper, the editorial page of which presented a "middle-aged philosopher" assuring the world that the recent rule of young men is passing and that the "old man triumphant" is returning to his ancient mastery of the earth.

"The new Lord Mayor of London," says the philosopher, "is 81. The winner of a swimming race in the frigid waters of the Serpentine the other day was an athlete of 75. Dorchester is rehearsing a new play by Thomas Hardy, who is nearly 72. The man chosen to save the Unionist party, the Earl of Halsbury, is 86.

"The young man who is dreaming in his fool's paradise must bestir himself or he will awake with a shock to find himself struggling among the debris of the flimsy throne on which he has perched since the closing years of the last century.

"To some of us who are neither exactly young nor definitely old, the question whether youth or old age shall possess the twentieth century is only of philosophic interest. If youth wins we have only to do a few bathroom exercises, part our hair in the middle and be as young as one may safely be without being considered callow; if age wins we have only to wait patiently a few years to have our place among the victors.

"What gave the old men of the latter day a setback? The typewriter, the telephone and the motor car wrought wonderful changes. The old men, conscious of their great power, pooh-poohed these inventions. The young men seized them and flew past the graybeards. 'Too old at 40!' they cried. 'Get on or get out.' The young men in their arrogance thought that they and not their machines had conquered. Now the old men are climbing back into the sea of power. Young men no longer monopolize the machinists; the old men have them, too, and put more force behind them.

"Ten years ago the automobile was associated with extreme youth. To-day witness the gray old boys swishing along the highways. The increasing age of the taxicab drivers is one of the most marked phenomena in the street of London. In every line of life the aged one is resuming his rightful pre-eminence."

LOCATING A MOUNTAIN.

It Took Dr. Merzbacher Two Years to Find the Base of Khantengri.

For two years a curious sort of game was played in that little known region of Chinese Turkestan among the great mountain ranges of Tian Shan. The chief participants of the game, which was of the scientific sort, were Dr. Merzbacher, an Alpinist, and Khantengri, the highest peak of the country.

This part of the world was long enveloped in obscurity, and until Dr. Merzbacher's survey no good maps of it existed. The mountains are wild and picturesque and cover ground four or five times as great as the Alps.

Many of the peaks measure over 20,000 feet in height. Khantengri, the highest of all, exceeds the rest by some 4,000 feet. The region is regarded as very difficult of access, and old Chinese travelers have left many thrilling stories of its dangers.

Khantengri never having been definitely located, Merzbacher undertook the task. For nearly two years he searched before he could pin the elusive mountain down to topographical accuracy. It was a veritable game of hide and seek between a man and a mountain, and the curious and interesting part of it all was that often and again the mountain was in plain sight. The route to it, however, was most difficult to trace, and the seeker realized that until he was actually at the mountain's base he could not show its relation to the rest of the range. After months of toil and disappointment the mountain was finally trapped and the riddle solved.—Exchange.

HIGH UP IN A BALLOON.

Effects of the Intense Cold, Rarefied Air and Strong Sunshine.

Drs. Steyrer and Fleming, who made a prolonged ascent in the balloon Berlin, conducted a series of experiments at great altitudes with special reference to the physiological effects of exposure to intense cold and to hot sun rays in extremely rarefied air.

Both professors were equipped with oxygen masks. At a height of 16,500 feet they were obliged to inhale oxygen at intervals of from one to two minutes; otherwise they suffered from headache, heart palpitations and defective respiration. As they reached greater heights those symptoms increased and oxygen had to be more frequently inhaled. At a height of between 25,000 and 27,000 feet Fleming fainted on removing the mask for an instant.

The effects of strong sunshine, intense cold and insufficiency of air gave the face a terrifying aspect, but the aeronauts felt apathy rather than any severe pains. Another effect was a feeling of cramp in the muscles.

The sun's rays acting in the rarefied air produced a swelling and reddening of the skin, accompanied by fever, and these symptoms reached their height forty-eight hours after the descent.

Among the experiments made was a test for the presence of micro-organisms. Of three tests, the highest, made at 15,000 feet, showed micro-organisms in the small proportion of from 0.2 to 0.5 a liter (1.76 pints) of air. The fourth test was made at an elevation of nearly 27,000 feet and revealed no germs.—Harper's Weekly.

Tubular Coiled Springs.

Tubular coiled springs have been made by a French engineer, Francois Ernoult, and have given quite astonishing results. A Paris laboratory tested two steel springs of exactly the same appearance, one of solid wire and the other of tubing with a wall a twenty-fifth of an inch thick. A pull of 660 pounds stretched the tubular spring nearly three inches, the solid spring yielding less than one and one half inches, and the permanent deformation of the tubular spring was only one-twenty-fifth of an inch, while a stretch of two and one-half inches left the solid spring permanently lengthened one-quarter of an inch. Besides being more flexible, the tubular spring is much stronger for like weight.

Manufactured Milk.

Cows are not numerous in Japan, but the Japanese are fond of milk, and to meet this demand in the face of a natural shortage they long ago put their wits to work and evolved a product that the average person cannot distinguish from the regular dairy article. The artificial milk is derived from the soja bean. The beans are first soaked, then boiled in water. Presently the liquid turns white; sugar and phosphate of potash in proper quantities are added and the boiling continued until a substance the thickness of molasses is obtained. This fluid corresponds very accurately with ordinary condensed milk and when water is added cannot be told from fresh.—Exchange.

London's Old Clothes Lady.

London has an old clothes lady who comes and goes to the houses of the rich and those in moderate circumstances. She takes garments from the homes of the rich and sells them to others. She does not solicit, but is so well known that her services are requested and appointments may be made with her. She looks at the goods offered her and makes but one offer. If it is not accepted Mme. Chose bows herself out and the incident is closed as far as she is concerned.—Milwaukee Journal.

A MEDIAEVAL CEREMONY.

Seigneurial Investiture Smacks of Ancient Chivalry.

A most interesting ceremony took place on the banks of the Chateauguay River, a little over 40 miles from Montreal, on Sunday the 16th of July. It was the feudal investiture of the descendants of Louis Hebert, the first Seigneur of Canada (1626); of Couillard, Seigneur de L'Espinay, of Louis Jolliet, Seigneur of Anticosti (who discovered the sources of the Mississippi, and of Godin, Seigneur de Beausejour de Bellefontaine, with the Dorchester Decoration of the Empire and with the Sword, Sash and Button (octofoil) of rank in the Aryan and Seigneurial Order of the Empire in America and College of Arms of Canada.

These descendants were accompanied by over 150 members of their respective families and guests from Montreal to participate with the Herald Marshal and the Commissioners of the College of Arms of Canada in the ceremonies.

In the temporary building, erected on an island of the Chateauguay, a throne was decorated at one end with the yellow colors of the Order with the black two-headed eagle displayed thereon. From a side entrance into the large hall the procession of those who took part entered to the music of The Imperial Mass. At that part where is written the Imperial Hymn it was sung in Latin by some little girl descendants of the above Seigneurs of New France, their clear, sweet and thrilling tones recalled the days of old Norman Chivalry.

There marched first in this procession the bearer of the Sword of State, he was followed by one carrying the Sceptre of Dominion, then came the Banner of the Order of the Empire carried high and emblazoned on its yellow field with the black two-headed eagle of the Emperor Charles V., who founded this Order in 1540. Under a canopy, on a litter borne by four beautiful girls, reposed the Crown of Empire with the Scroll of Laws tied with the yellow, blue, red and green ribbons of the various degrees of the College of Arms.

Then marched in twos, with their sashes, swords and octofoils as marks of distinction, fifty members of the Seigneurial and banneret families.

When they had all arrived at their places the Crown, Sceptre and Scroll were deposited in the great seat of the throne. The officers and commissioners of the College of Arms arranged themselves about it. The audience stood while "God Save the Empire" was sung in Latin. At this all drew their swords and gave the first, second and third movements of the Seigneurs' Imperial Salute, and at the close of the hymn, by the fourth movement, the swords were returned to the scabbards. After further interesting and instructive historical ceremonies, those who were to receive the Sword, Sash, Octofoil and Decoration of the Order of the Empire stood in line facing the throne. One of the Commissioners of the College of Arms put on the Sword and Sash, another pinned the Octofoil while the Herald Marshall affixed the Decoration.

Among the officers of this Order, besides the Duke of Veragua, who has the first fief of the Empire in America, is the Baron de Longueuil, Chancellor and President of the Seigneurial Council of Canada; the Viscount de Fronsac, Herald Marshal, the Hon. Thomas Scott Forsyth, Registrar-General; Sir John Calder Gordon, Solicitor-General; Dr. Joseph Gaston Baillie Bulloch, Presuyvant; William Armstrong Crozier, F.R.S., Deputy Commissioner; Rev. John Burke Pyke, M.A., 1st Commissioner; Henry Black Stuart, C.E., 2nd Commissioner; the Marquis de Puvigny, representative in London; Louis Denys de Bonaventure, representative in France.

The estate at Huntingdon on the Chateauguay, where these ceremonies had taken place, was once the property of Laird Anderson of Scotland, and had been honored in 1860 by a visit from H. R. H. the Prince of Wales (late King Edward VII.) when he was in Canada, and one of the ladies present—Madam Bertram Pinel de L'Espinay, had visited the present King George V., by Royal Appointment in September, 1910.

Who's Fault?

What is the matter with Canadian Museum men? The American Museum of Natural History in New York has just stolen a march on them.

For two seasons, Prof. Henry T. Osborne, president of the New York institution, has led parties of distinguished geologists and ethynologists into the valley of the Red Deer River, Alberta.

These men have made big finds according to report. They have shipped an early world monster's remains—sixty feet in length—to their museum.

It is rumored that they have got their hands on a dinosaur, one of the earliest and most valuable historically of the big animal life, which used to run loose before man made his bow to the world.

These Americans, who are taking specimens from Canada to place in the New York Museum, have the permission of the Canadian Government to carry on their work along the Red Deer.

Canadian scholars know of the existence of the prehistoric remains in the Alberta valley. Lawrence M. Lambe, the paleontologist of the Canadian Geological Survey, was up in the Red Deer country in 1897, 1898 and 1901.

He told the Royal Society of Canada about the vertebrate remains in Alberta. He has published monographs on the subject.

Yet New York Museum men are taking our museum objects.

Why?

Here is a chance evidently for a Canadian with some spare cash to investigate the Red Deer country, send up an expedition to rival the American one, and save what dinosaurs, etc., there are up there for the museums of Canada.—Canadian Courier.

REFUSED TO WRITE A LIE.

Incident In the Rise In Life of Rockefeller's Confidential Man.

An incident is related of the rise in life of Frederick T. Gates, the confidential adviser, almoner and private business manager of John D. Rockefeller. Gates' first employment was that of letter writer or secretary for a banker. One day the banker dictated a letter to him in which he sought to evade a certain responsibility by making his communication appear to have been written some days previous. He instructed the boy to antedate the letter, and the latter respectfully requested that he do it himself. The banker bade him do as he was told, declaring that he (the banker) was responsible for the letter and for its date as well. But young Gates refused, although he felt that it would cost him his position. "I can't make my hand perform a lie just because you are responsible, sir," he said. "As well ask me to steal from a safe for the same reason." To his surprise, he was not discharged. Instead, on the first of the month following, his wages were doubled, and the banker ever after trusted him as he had never before trusted any one in a matter of business. Thus truthfulness was the foundation stone of what has turned out to be a successful business career.—Christian Herald.

OTTUMWA WOMAN CURED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Ottumwa, Iowa.—"For years I was almost a constant sufferer from female trouble in all its dreadful forms; shooting pains all over my body, sick headache, spinal weakness, dizziness, depression, and everything that was horrid. I tried many doctors in different parts of the United States, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than all the doctors. I feel it my duty to tell you these facts. My heart is full of gratitude to you for my cure."—Mrs. HARRIET E. WAMPLER, 524 S. Ransom Street, Ottumwa, Iowa.

Consider This Advice.

No woman should submit to a surgical operation, which may mean death, until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

This famous medicine, made only from roots and herbs, has for thirty years proved to be the most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women residing in almost every city and town in the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

AT GRAY'S INN.

How the Grand Night Is Observed by Benchers.

Mr. Winston Churchill, the new First Lord of the Admiralty, was, on Nov. 16, the guest of the evening when the treasurer and masters of the Bench meet for their Grand Night at Gray's Inn, and then had an opportunity of witnessing a quaint custom which has been observed on such occasions from time immemorial. Grand night at Gray's Inn is one of the most distinguished and exclusive legal gatherings, and the invitation card always bears the pleasant announcement, "No speeches," an announcement made in accordance with the ancient custom of tht Inn. But though there are no speeches on Grand nights at Gray's, there are three toasts, the submission and acceptance of which are exceedingly quaint.

On the withdrawal of the cloth, three raps resound at the head table, and the voice of the treasurer, who presides at the feast, is heard saying, "Mr. Junior, I give you a toast to the King!" From the other end of the table Mr. Junior repeats, in a sonorous voice, "The King!" whereat all the company stand and drink His Majesty's health.

After a short pause there are three more knocks on the table. "Mr. Junior," says the treasurer, "I give you the Prince of Wales and the Rest of the Royal Family!" "The Prince of Wales and the Rest of the Royal Family!" echoes Mr. Junior from the other end of the table.

Another interval, three more knocks, and then again the voice of the treasurer, "Mr. Junior, Domus!" "Domus!" repeats Mr. Junior. "Domus! Domus! Domus!" is cried from every table; and so the last toast is drunk.

Canaries Cross Ocean.

A remarkable scene was witnessed at the Halifax (Eng.) railway station recently, when 2,000 canaries of various breeds, comprising Yorkshire, Norwich, Border, Fancy, Lizard and Lancashire were despatched to America.

At Liverpool the canaries were shipped on the White Star liner Baltic, which sailed on a Thursday. Special arrangements were made to feed the many mouths on the ocean trip. All the birds were bred in the west riding of Yorkshire, and the exportation is by far the biggest on record from the district.

Crystallized Cranberries.

Take large fine cranberries for crystallizing, selecting those that are of good shape and color. Place a pound of them in a sieve and dip the whole into a pan of simmering water. Leave in for a minute and then take out the sieve and stand on something to drain. Weigh out a pound and a half of sugar. Place a pint of water in a clean pan and add to it a quarter of a pound of the sugar. Boil up till the sugar has dissolved. Remove all scum and after placing the cranberries in a basin pour the liquid boiling hot over them. Stand all aside till the next day, when drain off the sirup and boil up, adding another quarter of a pound of the sugar. Skim well and pour over the cranberries.

Continue this process till the sugar is all used up. The last time boil the cranberries in the sirup until they look clear. Drain well, and when almost dry roll in the granulated sugar and dry in a cool oven.

Or the cranberries may be placed in small jars and the sirup poured over them. These jars may be covered up like jelly. The contents will keep for years.

Large quantities of mink and beaver skins are being brought into Hazleton this winter.

Cheap Electric Power and Other Essentials for Manufacturing Industries Which Will Come This Way

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—One of the natural advantages that Peterborough has is abundance of power. There are water powers within the city and many more close to it. Water powers developed and undeveloped are within easy reach of Peterborough. If it is required 20,000 to 40,000 hydro-electric horse power can be furnished here as quickly as it is called for. And it is supplied at a price lower than in most cities on account of the proximity of the water powers. Compared with a number of places in western Ontario that are bidding for factories, the price is lower here, and this is an advantage that should be effective. The companies offer power for industrial purposes for twenty horse-power or over at $20 per horse-power per year for a continuous service for the power actually consumed as determined by test at the factory when in operation, allowing a ten minute peek; or, if preferred, $12.00 per horse-power per year for the rated capacity of the motors installed plus one-quarter of a cent per horse-power hour for the current used. The latter rate is an advantageous one in a factory where all the machinery is not in continuous operation. To illustrate. Suppose the maximum demand in a factory is 100 horse-power and motors are installed to supply that demand, but the average load factor is sixty per cent of that—that is, owing to the machinery not being in operation continuously, the amount of power used averages sixty per cent of what the motors will furnish. The yearly account in that case will be $1200.00 on the basis rate of $12.00 per H.P. plus 600 H.P. hours per day at one-quarter of a cent per H.P. hour, and counting that for 300 days in a year, this will amount to $450.00, making the whole charge for the year $1650.00 or $16.50 per horse-power. Even these rates might be shaded in special cases. I do not now wish to discuss in any way the question of the city obtaining power from the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission. If it does, I assume it will be to lower the price and the advantages will be greater. But as matters stand now, Peterborough can furnish all the power that can be required and at attractively low prices. This is another factor with which to push Peterborough.

Manufacturers looking for a location for industries always enquire about labor conditions. They want to locate where mechanics will come to them and where there is good feeling between employees and employers. In this, Peterborough meets the conditions. It has the conveniences and many of the attractions of a larger city, and at the same time expenses in some particulars are less, and people like to live here. This is evidenced by the large number of workmen who own their own homes here and are among the most permanent and public-spirited citizens.

We have now seen that Peterborough possesses the essentials for a manufacturing centre, namely:—

Central situation,
Cheap electric power;
Excellent shipping facilities.
Good labor conditions.
And most suitable sites.

These advantages have attracted industries: they should continue to attract them, and will do so. We should all endeavor to make these advantages known and to spread the reputation of Peterborough as a manufacturing centre and one where manufacturers will find all the essentials and accessories for successful manufacturing.

Yours truly,
CIVIS SUM.

SHAREHOLDERS OF LITTLE LAKE CEMETERY COMPANY

Mr. W. H. Moore, K. C., Re-Elected President—An Increase to $1000 for Superintendent Frank Wise.

W. H. Moore is president of the shareholders of the Little Lake cemetery company for another year. The appointment was a popular one, at the annual meeting held in the city council chamber at three o'clock yesterday afternoon. The same Board of Directors were also placed in office for another year, namely W. H. Moore, Charles Stapleton, B. Shortly W. G. Morrow, J. J. Lundy, Dr. George Burnham, E. H. D. Hall, T. A. S. Hay, Arthur Stevenson and E. H. D. Hall.

The managing committee for last year were also continued in office namely, Messrs. T.A.S. Hay, B. Shortly, W. G. Morrow and W. H. Moore.

Frank Wise was granted an increase of salary on motion of B Shortly, seconded by T.A.S. Hay. The shareholders felt that the services of Mr Wise were too valuable to be lost and increased his salary to $1,000 a year, providing he will contract to remain as superintendent of the cemetery for three years at that stipend.

Those present at the meeting were E. A. Peck, M.P.P., Frank Wise, T. A.S. Hay, B. Shortly, A Stevenson, W. G. Morrow, Charles Stapleton and W. H. Moore.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

To the President, Directors and Shareholders of the Little Lake Cemetery Company:

Although the year has been a very busy one at the cemetery, very little new work has been undertaken within the cemetery grounds.

The fences and hedges ordered removed have all been taken away, excepting three cedar hedges, which will be removed early next spring.

A new stable and shed has been erected on the corner of Ware and Haggart streets, costing about $1,500.00. This will allow the removal of the old sheds inside the grounds, which for a number of years have been an eyesore to the entrance of your cemetery. This work is being proceeded with as quickly as possible

Now that the old buildings are being removed from near the entrance gates I would like to see an attempt made at replacing them with a good substantial stone and iron structure, as the old gates and fence are gone beyond repair.

Your greenhouses were able to supply the demand for plants and flowers, of which there were over 20,000 disposed of. These were distributed between 4468 urns and 226 beds and borders. This is over and above the vases and beds supplied by the several florists of the city.

About one half the lots whereon the old receiving vault stood has been disposed of, and I expect in short time they will be all sold, as this is in a very desirable location.

Respectfully submitted,
FRANK WISE,
Superintendent.

DIRECTORS' REPORT

To the shareholders of the Little Lake Cemetery Company—

The Directors present their report for the past year as follows—

It having become evident that a great source of danger existed in the possible happening of fire to a number of wooden buildings that occupied a part of the cemetery grounds, and were used for barns, stable, shedding and ice house, that had been erected for more than thirty years, and had become dangerous to occupy, and in which if fire occurred would do incalculable damage to the beautiful grove of pine trees near where they stood, your Directors decided to pull them down and to build a new stable with sheds and ice house on the Company's property fronting on Ware street, one hundred and fifty feet south of the superintendent's residence. This they have done by the erection of a brick stable 22 feet by 40 feet on a concrete foundation with sample loft room for hay, etc., and a cellar underneath. The whole is well built, of lasting materials, and most of the old buildings have been taken down, and all will son be removed. The cost of the new stable and sheds has been $1500.00. The ground recovered when put in condition, will on sale more than repay the expenditure on the buildings.

By the removal of a number of hedges in the cemetery during the past year and the improvement of the lots they enclosed, and the levelling up of many sunken graves, the general appearance of the grounds has been rendered more attractive, and your Directors are gratified to learn that this action has received the commendation of lot owners.

At the close of the year 1911 the Company owned city debentures to the value of $12,917.31 as an investment for the perpetual maintenance of the cemetery. There was also at the same time in Bank to the credit of the Company $3,369.38. A new debenture for $1000.00 bearing four and one-half per cent interest has been purchased. There remains on hand over $2,000.00 for which probably another debenture may be obtained, and will make a total of $15-913.71 held in reserve for future care of the cemetery.

There will also be laid before you the reports of the secretary-treasurer and the superintendent, from which it will be seen the Company has had, in a financial sense, a most prosperous year. Your Directors also believe it has been one in which continued advance has been made towards rendering the grounds more worthy the name of "God's Acre."

All of which is respectfully submitted,

W. H. MOORE,
President.

The old princes and monarchs of Europe sometimes ruled not wisely but too much, but they all drank the best beer brewed — when they could get it.

"Salvador" BEER

was by all odds the best brewed in Europe for centuries and is the best to-day.

The Reinhardts' secured the secret formula for this famous brew and they alone have the sole right to make it on this side of the Atlantic.

"Salvador" Beer is brewed scientifically from choice Bavarian Hops, selected Barley Malt and pure sterilized spring water. Do you wonder that it has become Canada's most famous beverage?

CONSTRUCTION OF HUDSON BAY RY.

is worth while for this country to undertake the construction of the Hudson Bay Railway."

F. L. Schaffner (Souris) declared that the building of the Hudson Bay Railway was the greatest issue in Canada to-day. The late Government had humbugged the people of the west on this question for fifteen years.

There was no question of the safety of Hudson Bay navigation. The Hudson Bay Co. had sent 750 ships through and had only lost two.

Hon. Frank Cochrane was applauded by both sides of the House when he announced that he had ordered the contractors to proceed with the work of construction of the Hudson Bay Railway and that the Government would push the work through to completion as quickly as possible.

Quite a number of private bills were put through their second readings. Several regarding certain patents were sent back to the standing orders committee, to make sure than no "jokers" had been slipped in.

In answer to a question by J. B. Hughes (Kings, P.E.I.), Hon. Frank Cochrane announced that the Government would establish a car ferry between Prince Edward Island and the mainland within two years. This would not prejudice the claim of the islanders for a tunnel at a later date. The guage of the P. E. I. Railway would be widened to correspond with that of the Intercolonial as soon as practicable.

Plum Pudding.

Wash and pick the currants, stone the raisins, chop the peel and suet, put them in a basin with all the other ingredients, the eggs well beaten, the brandy and milk. Pour into a well buttered mold, cover with buttered paper and steam gently for five hours. Turn out carefully and serve with hard sauce.

Hard Sauce.—Quarter of a pound of sweet butter, two heaping tablespoonfuls of sugar, one tablespoonful of sherry wine or brandy, three ounces chopped almonds. Beat the butter and sugar to a cream, add the brandy or sherry and almonds, mix well.

Prescriptions In Latin.

The following ludicrously illustrates the necessity of a reform in medical nomenclature.

Dr. Doane was very much confounded, a few years since, by a remark of one of his patients. The day previous the doctor had prescribed that safe and palatable remedy, syrup of buckthorn, and left his prescription duly written in the usual cabalistic characters—"Syr. Rham. Cath." On inquiring if the patient had taken the medicine, a thundercloud darkened her face, lightning darted from her eye, and she roared out:—

"No! I can read your doctor-writing. And I ain't a-going to take Syrup of Ram Cats for anybody."

A Military Hospital.

Serlby Hall, near Retford, Eng., the stately home of Viscount and Viscountess Galway, possesses the distinction of being the only military hospital established in England by authority of the War Office for the reception of wounded in the event of the invasion of that country.

MODERN POISON TESTS.

Make the Path of the Poison-Giver Thorny and Lead to His Conviction.

Most of our deadly poisons are comparatively modern discoveries. In the middle ages arsenic, which is still the favorite weapon of the commonplace poisoner, was almost the only poison commonly known.

Tartar emetic, a tartrate of antimony and potash, which is used in medicine, may be called the first of the modern poisons. It was discovered about the middle of the seventeenth century, and there are many cases of people being done to death by its means. The latest was the infamous Chapman, who was hanged some seven years ago for poisoning three women with this metallic drug.

The scientific poisoner is careful to avoid arsenic of antimony, or any other metallic poisons, because they remain in the body for almost any length of time, and are easy to detect by simple chemical tests.

As a proof of the astonishing way in which metallic poisons cling in the human body, the following case is worth quoting.

In the year 1883 a wealthy country farmer who had lived in Yorkshire died and was buried in the same tomb in which his father had been interred thirty-five years earlier. The old coffin was accidentally broken, and it was noticed that certain small particles of bright metallic substance were clinging to the bones which it contained. These were collected, and analysis showed them to be oxide of mercury. The deceased had taken this poison during his life time as a medicine.

Strychnine was the poison employed by the infamous Dr. Palmer, of Rugeley, in the terrible series of murders which he perpetrated in 1856, yet although strychnine is not a mineral but vegetable poison there are now tests which will betray its presence in the body of a victim.

Before modern tests were discovered, the alkaloid poisons could be used almost without fear of detection. Aconitine, for instance, which is a terribly deadly drug, was without a test until comparatively recent times. It was the poison employed by Dr. Lamson, who was executed in April, 1882, for the murder of Percy M. John.

Poisoners who are ignorant of the effects of poisons are apt to make the most ghastly bunders in the doses which they administer to their victims. Fraulein von Haussler, Lady Superior of the Royal Maximilian Chapter, who was tried at Munich in 1903 for the attempt to murder a young nurse girl, Minna Magner by name, was said to have put muriatic acid in the girl's coffee cup. The burning qualities of this poison would leave effects plain to the eye of any doctor.

In another and more recent case a French girl was arrested in London for sending to another young woman sweets which were simply saturated with perchloride of mercury, better known as corrosive sublimate. But this poison gives itself away by its horrible taste, and no creature in its senses would dream of swallowing such a mixture.

The commonest of eastern poisons is powdered glass, though not in itself a poison, sets up irritations in the stomach ending in death.

In Burmah the powdered hairs of the bamboo are employed in similar fashion.

A curious superstition prevails in Morocco. If a man has a grudge against another he procures some human bones and grinds them into fine flour which he mixes with his enemy's bread or other food. It is universally believed that the man who eats this horrible compound will begin to fade away, and eventually die.

If a doctor wishes to commit suicide he almost invariably has recourse to prussic acid, which kills instantly and quite painlessly. Some, however, prefer to use one of those numerous drugs such as veronal or chloral which induce a sleep ending in death.

Municipal Enterprise.

Many British holiday resorts have gone extensively into the entertainment business for the purpose of attracting visitors. Among them is Margate, which twenty years ago had no municipal enterprises in the shape of concerts, shelters, band stands or pavilions or bathing facilities. All these were later provided and the total revenue for last season from all sources totalled up to $75,000, as against $55,000 in 1910. Some of the revenues are remarkable. The new Forth Pavilion opened in August, drew on the average $1,500 a week, while two concert parties attracted $2,500 a week and were paid by a percentage on the profits. The municipal orchestra produced $1,750 a week on the average at its open-air concerts. An older pavilion, the Westonville, has already been paid for out of the profits. Margate's record has been surpassed in extent and results in other watering places in England, but it is an excellent example of the way in which a municipality can both boost itself and improve its revenues.

Pat Quirck, the founder of Cranbrook, will be 90 years old upon his next birthday.

Several men have been put to work at the Golden Chariot mine, near Oroville.

A despatch to the Rome Carriere d'Italia says British troops destroyed bridges to prevent 3,000 Turkish troops crossing the Suez canal to reach Cyrenaica via Egypt.

STIRRING SCENES ARE PROMISED

Churchill, Redmond and Devlin to Speak at Belfast —Trouble in Prospect.

Belfast, Ireland, Jan. 17.—Events are shaping themselves in connection with the home rule campaign in Ireland so as to give the expectation of a lively time on Feb. 8, when John Redmond. leader of the Irish Nationalists in the House of Commons, and Winston Spencer Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty in the British Cabinet, are announced to speak here on the same platform in behalf of home rule.

The Ulster Unionist Council met yesterday afternoon under the presidency of the Marquis of Londonderry, a former viceroy of Ireland, and passed with acclamation a resolution expressing astonishment at the challenge thrown out by Winston Churchill, John Redmond and Joseph Devlin, the Irish member of Parliament for the west division of Belfast, who is also taking part in the demonstration on Feb. 8. The participants in the Unionist meetings promise that adequate steps shall be taken to prevent the home rule meeting being held.

Hurting Ireland, Says Prelate.

Dublin, Jan. 17.—In connection with the campaign of resistance to home rule, the primate of All Ireland (Church of Ireland), the Most Rev. John Baptist Crozier, after consulting with the Archbishop of Dublin, the Most Rev. Joseph Ferguson Peacocks, and other bishops, has resolved to call a special meeting of the general synod of the Church of Ireland, at Dublin, on March 21, to consider the crisis. The general belief is that before this date the Government will have presented the home rule bill in Parliament, so that its outlines will be in the hands of the synod.

The primate, during the course of an interview yesterday, said that the prospect of another home rule bill was doing incalculable injury and has practically divided Ireland into two hostile camps. It has also accentuated religious differences. he said, to an extent unknown in recent years.

PROBE WILL BE TOO THOROUGH

To Suit the Members of the Federal Opposition.

Amendment by Hon. Mr. Pugsley is Rejected.

Ottawa, Jan. 17.—In Hon. C. J. Doherty's bill to amend the Inquiries' Act, which passed its second reading and went into committee yesterday, the Opposition seemed to fear, as the mover of the bill put it, "some Machiavellian machinery" to prevent the poor Government employe from obtaining justice when Hon. A. B. Morine's investigating commission begins to get busy. The Government's idea of a self-propagating broom in the Departmental housecleaning in the shape of sub-commissions appointed by the commissioners especially struck terror to their hearts.

An amendment by Hon. Wm. Pugsley for investigations on petition of forty members of Parliament was rejected and two other amendments held over for further consideration.

Hon. F. D. Monk painted an alarming picture of the hordes of lawyers, which would overrun the commission if every employe who might suspect that his conduct might be impugned were given the right to be represented by counsel. He had no objection to any civil servant, whose conduct was actually called in question before the commission being so represented.

J. A. M. Armstrong (North York) burst forth into a psalm of thanksgiving over the abandonment of the Newmarket Canal, which he described as a political octopus, which had saved Hon. A. B. Aylesworth's political scalp in 1908.

Substantial progress was made with the estimates, about $2,500,000 being voted for public buildings at the capital and in Quebec and Nova Scotia.

Rt. Hon. R. L. Borden introduced a bill to authorize the transfer of public records, documents and other historical material from the various Departments to the public Archives, to be placed in the custody of an officer to be called the Dominion Archivist, with the rank and salary of a deputy head; to provide for the purchase of records, documents and material, and for expenses in connection therewith; and to provide for the appointment of such officers and clerks as are required for the proper care of the Archives.

When the House was in committee on the bill of Hon. C. J. Doherty to amend the Inquiries' Act by conferring on commissioners the power to employ such experts to take evidence for submission to the commission, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. Wm. Pugsley urged that parties who might be investigated by such commissions, be given the right to be represented by counsel, and Mr. Pugsley moved an amendment to attain this end.

The Premier did not think this necessary, as it was at present within the discretion of commissions to hear counsel.

Hon. C. J. Doherty saw the difficulty in the amendment that if a Department were to be investigated, every employe of that Department might be said to be subject to or

ARE WORRIED OVER CUBA

U.S. May Intervene to End the Political Unrest.

Washington, Jan. 17.—The attitude of the United States toward Cuba is shown in the following note, presented yesterday to the Cuban Government:

"The situation in Cuba, as now reported, causes grave concern to the Government of the United States.

"That the laws to safeguard free republican government shall be enforced and not defied is essential and obvious to the maintenance of law, order and stability indispensible to the status of the Republic of Cuba, in the continued well-being of which the United States has always evinced and cannot escape a vital interest.

"The President of the United States looks to the President and Government of Cuba to prevent the threatened situation which would compel the Government of the United States, much agaist its desires, to consider what measures it must take in pursuance of the obligations of its relations to Cuba."

Sensation In Havana.

Havana, Jan. 17.—The news of threatened intervention by the United States in Cuban affairs, which was published in the late editions of the Havana afternoon papers, coming without the least warning, created intense excitement in the clubs and cafes, and in all places of public gathering it was the absorbing topic of conversation. Astonishment and resentment against American interference were mingled with very general incredulity.

Later, as the news was fully confirmed, the impression became general that the suggestion of intervention would probably have a good effect in calming the existing agitation and in quieting political excitement.

Two Killed In Wreck.

Halifax, N.S., Jan. 17.—An I.C.R. locomotive, on board of which were nine men, yesterday collided with the head of a train of 29 new cars from the Nova Scotia Car Works, which were being run down from the works to the freight yards of the Intercolonial at Halifax. Of the nine men seven were workmen returning to their homes at the end of the day. Two were killed in the collision, Arthur Lilley, aged 25, and Leo Mullins, aged 28.

James Robicheau of Moncton, a lineman, had his leg broken in two places, probably necessitating amputation. The other men on the engine escaped unhurt.

Superfluous.

Toronto, Jan. 17.—Anglican Bishop Reeve and Rev. Dr. Burke, Roman Catholic, both stated yesterday that they did not consider the use of the word "obey" of any great importance in the marriage ceremony. It is not used in the Roman Catholic ceremony. Rev. C. O. Johnson, Methodist, stated that he did not use it.

Box-Packing Schools.

Toronto, Jan. 17.—Schools to give instruction in packing fruit in boxes will be started next week to Prince Edward, Hastings, Northumberland and Durham counties. The schools will be under the supervision of W. F. Kidd of Simcoe.

To Spend $5,000,000 on Hotels.

Montreal, Jna. 17.—It was announced yesterday that the C.P.R. will spend $5,000,000 in extensions on its hotel system this spring. The hotel in Banff is to be increased in height to 14 storeys.

RAILWAY RECORDS ARE RECOVERED

New York, Jan. 17.—Anxiety of the officials of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific Railways was relieved late yesterday when a steeplejack scaled the falls of the burned Equitable building and found the record books of the two railway companies intact in the vaults of the companies' offices on the third floor. Fortunately the vaults of the company were located in a portion of the building which did not get the worst of the fire, and although the floor itself was a mass of debris and wreckage, the vaults had held the railway records safe from the slightest damage.

A bankers' committee yesterday made known the intention of acknowledging its appreciation of the work of the fire department in saving the rest of the financial district which was threatened by the Equitable fire, by the establishment of a permanent fund for all emergency relief purposes of the fire and police departments. It is announced that subscriptions have already amounted to $72,250.

SIR JAMES WILL HAVE TO DECIDE ON NE TEMERE DECREE

Evangelical Alliance Will Bring Matter Before the Ontario Government

Toronto, Jan. 17.—Sir James Whitney, Hon. J. J. Foy, Attorney-General, and the Ontario Government, will shortly be asked by the Evangelical Alliance to take the ne temere decree to the courts in a test case, and if necessary the co-operation of the Dominion Government will be invited. The case is to be carried to the foot of the throne by taking it through to the Privy Council if the ne temere decree is continued in Canada, and the legality of the civil marriage imperilled.

The petition to be presented to the Ontario Government reads as follows: "To the Hon. the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, in Council:

"The undersigned residents of the Province of Ontario, in view of the present uncertainty regarding the law relating to marriage, would ... request that all the necessary steps be taken to obtain at the earliest possible date a considered opinion from the courts as to the extent of jurisdiction of the Legislature of the Province of Ontario and of the Parliament of Canada respectively upon the subject of marriage.

"We regard it of the greatest consequence that an authentic pronouncement upon this important question be procured without delay, and request that all the constitutional questions involved be immediately referred for decision to the Court of Appeal of Ontario, pursuant to the powers vested in you in that behalf, or that whatever other course may be deemed necessary for that purpose, may be promptly taken, and your petitioners will ever pray," etc.

Lower Stores of Knickerbocker Trust Building Badly Damaged—Big Warehouse Destroyed With Loss of $1,500,000.

THOUGHT HE WAS DROWNED

Brockville, Jan. 17.—Barton S. Cruickshank, who disappeared from his home across the river, on the night of June 27, 1910, and who, it was thought, was drowned, was located yesterday in New York.

Cruickshank was establishing a summer school for boys on the opposite shore. On the night mentioned, he disappeared after leaving Morristown, where he had been for his mail. The next morning his canoe was found floating near the shore with one oar missing and the other broken. Cruickshank always rowed in the canoe.

Mrs. Cruickshank and his brothers never let up in their search, and a message received here yesterday afternoon stated that he had been located by the adjutant-general of the United States army in New York. He is preparing a statement to his wife as to his movements since his disappearance.

ASSASSINS CAUGHT; UPRISING PLANNED

A GOOD ONE

Mr. Dunbar, the local horse-buyer, shipped a car-load of horses to Toronto on Friday last, among them being a 3 year-old Clydesdale colt, weighing 1650 lbs., which he purchased from Daniel Moloney, of Douro, for $275. This colt considering his age, was the best in the county, and was not only a credit to his owner, but to the township in which he was bred and raised.

30,000 PEOPLE ARE HOMELESS

City of Osaka, Japan, Swept by Fire-- Thousands of Buildings Destroyed.

Osaka, Japan, Jan. 17.—A series of fires which broke out at one o'clock yesterday morning swept unchecked across the southern half of this city, fanned by a strong wind. The conflagration was not under control until late in the afternoon, when, according to official figures, 5,298 buildings had been destroyed and 30,000 persons rendered homeless. During the first four hours the flames consumed more than 1,300 houses.

Potatoes on Free List.

Washington, Jan. 17.—A suspension for six months of the tariff duty of 7 cents per bushel on potatoes was proposed in a bill introduced yesterday by Rep. Ayres of New York. THE ENGINEER IS BLAMED

Montreal, Jan. 17.—A coroner's jury yesterday found Engineer J. C. Hamilton criminally responsible for the wreck on the Canadian Pacific Railway, which resulted in the death of six people.

Hamilton was engineer on the first engine on the double-header from Quebec which crashed into the train from Montreal, which was standing at St. Vincent de Paul station, expecting the train from Quebec to take a siding.

Hamilton was not present in court, as he is still in the hospital, suffering from two broken legs and internal injuries, the result of the collision; but his deposition was read by the coroner.

It pays to advertise in the Review.

Bomb Factory Discovered and Several Arrests Have Been Made.

Premier Being Congratulated on His Fortunate Escape.

Pekin, Jan. 17.—Further details of the attempt to assassinate the Chinese Premier, are herewith given.

Premier Yuan Shi Kai's assailants were three well-dressed Chinamen, who are stated to be prominent revolutionaries.

They were standing on the sidewalk when the Premier's carriage approached. As the vehicle reached within a distance of about 30 yards from the spot where they were standing, one of them threw a large bomb in its direction, but his aim was so bad that the missile exploded at a distance of twenty feet from the carriage.

The vehicle rattled and shook from the shock of the explosion, but Premier Yuan Shi Kai escaped unscathed. He appeared, in fact, not to be greatly perturbed by the attempt.

The havoc caused by the explosion was immense. Immediately around the carriage, a policeman, a soldier and two horses were struck dead. Twelve other soldiers and several civilians, with a number of horses were also badly wounded.

Without waiting to see the effect of their deed, the perpetrators rushed toward a neighboring tea house. Soldied and police, however, were close on their heels and they were arrested before they were able to make their escape by a rear door. The other men who are suspected of being accomplices in the attempted assassination, have since been arrested.

Congratulations from all quarters, including the legations, have been pouring in on Yuan Shi Kai throughout the day. The attack made against the Premier apparently has removed doubts in the minds of the Manchus as to his loyalty. The foreign residents declare that Yuan Shi Kai's death would throw North China into a state of lawlessness, demanding immediate intervention by the powers.

The belief is general that Yuan Shi Kai is necessary to the transition from the old to the new order; otherwise, a change would make a shambles of Pekin. The bomb-thrower, who is a native of Kwei Chow, it is expected, will be executed to-day.

Rising Was Planned.

London, Jan. 17.—The bomb-thrower who attempted the life of Yuan Shi Kai has confessed that the assassination of the Premier was to have been the signal for a general rising in Pekin, says a despatch. The whole southeast portion of the city is now picketed with troops, and a house to house search resulted in the discovery of a bomb factory and the arrest of several men having bombs in their possession.

There are persistent rumors of an attempt to poison the Empress Dowager, who, however, becoming suspicious refused to partake of the fatal cup.

SHOT HIMSELF AT STATION

Kingston, Jan. 17.—A man about thirty years of age, unidentified, but believed to be Charles E. Herow of Ottawa or Chicago, committed suicide in the waiting-room at the Kingston and Pembroke Railway station at three o'clock yesterday afternoon by shooting himself in the head with a revolver.

Ticket Agent John Welch was in his office at the time and was the only one in the station. Startled by the shot, he ran out. The man had shot himself in the left temple and was dying. The revolver with which he committed the deed was clutched in his hand.

The doctor was called and he was rushed to the Hotel Dieu, but he died an hour later, never regaining consciousness.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD IN BED

Toronto, Jan. 17.—Lying in her bed in a room adjacent to one raided on account of the disorderly conduct of the inmates, the body of Mrs. Larry Hatt was found at 14 1-2 Terauley street, yesterday morning by her husband. The husband says that she was alive at 4 o'clock yesterday morning and that she must have died in her sleep. He discovered that she was dead at 7 o'clock.

John Nagle, Mrs. Sheehan and May Dynes were taken in the raid of the adjoining room. Mrs. Sheehan and Nagle were charged with keeping a disorderly house, and the Dynes woman as a frequenter. The man was sent down for thirty days, and the woman for ten days, while May Dynes was allowed to go.

Real Government In France.

Paris, Jan. 17.—A Ministerial declaration setting forth the policy of the new French Cabinet read in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday by Premier Poincare and in the Senate by Minister of Justice Briand.

The declaration is a dignified document, covering a variety of subjects, but especially inciting that France intends to remain faithful to her allegiances and friends, and that to be strong and respected she must have a Government that really governs.

OVER-WORKED KIDNEYS

Cause. Rush of Blood, Fulness, Dizziness.

J. T. Chetland, the well-known railway engineer of Hamilton, found the strain always resting upon men of his occupation vastly intensified by a tendency of the blood to rush to his head, and often at times when clearness of vision and great steadiness were demanded. Finding some difficulty in bending—a stiffness with pain having settled in his back, it occurred to him that his kidneys might be at fault. "This was a happy idea, for by it I not only got rid of the pain but many other troubles as well. I took a full dose of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and was glad to note that some obstruction of the kidneys, which I had lately noticed, was at once relieved. The flushed appearance of my face gave way to a more rational color and there was a perceptible improvement in my appetite. Dr. Hamilton's Pills certainly act splendidly upon the blood, removing heat and fulness and that sort of dizziness that makes a man at the throttle wish when it siezes him that he were elsewhere."

No medicine gives such unquestionably good results for stomach, liver and blood troubles as Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are mild, certain, and always curative. Refuse any substitute. All dealers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills 25c per box, or The Catarrhozone Co. Kingston, Ont.

30,000 PEOPLE HOMELESS

Japan has experienced another disastrous fire, leaving 30,000 people homeless. The sympathy of the whole world will go out to those poor unfortunates. It is reported that 5268 buildings were destroyed. With the type of buildings that predominate in Japan it is hard to check a fire once it gets a good start. Most of the buildings are of bamboo or wooden structures and very inflammable. Osaka is called the "Venice of the East," being one of the most beautiful cities in Japan. Several bad fires have occurred in this city. One of the problems that Japan will have to face is buildings of a more solid type and better methods of fire protection.

FIRE WASTE IN CANADA

There was a slight decrease in Canada's fire waste during the past year, the figures for the twelve months just ended being $21,459,575 as compared with $23,593,315 during 1910, and $18,905,538 for 1909. The average monthly loss during 1911 was $1,788,298. The loss per capita was $2.98. There were 286 fires at which the reported damage was $10,000 and over.

The following are the monthly totals of the losses by fire in Canada during 1911, with 1910:

	1910.	1911.
Jan.	$1,275,246	$2,250,550
Feb.	750,625	941,045
March	1,076,253	552,380
April	1,717,237	1,317,900
May	2,735,536	2,564,600
June	1,500,000	1,151,150
July	6,386,674	5,384,300
Aug.	1,667,270	920,000
Sept.	894125	1,123,550
Oct.	2,195,781	580,750
Nov.	1,943,708	1,506,500
Dec.	1,444,860	2,866,550
Total	$23,593,315	$21,459,575

The following is the fire record for European countries:—

Country.	Annual average fire loss.	Loss per capita.
Austria	$ 7,601,000	$0.29
Denmark	660,924	.26
France	11,669,000	.30
Germany	27,655,000	.49
Italy	4,112,000	.12
Switzerland	999,364	.30
U.S. and Canada	151,026,000	1.76
Canada	21,459,575	2.98

Surely the situation demands more earnest efforts on the part of the federal and provincial governments to educate public opinion regarding prevention of fire and to pass legislation that will tend to reduce fire waste. Statistics show that the fire waste in Europe is only about one-tenth per head of population of what it is in the United States, while Canada shows even worse in the comparison. The suggestion made that each province should have a fire marshal, with power to appoint a number of deputies if necessary, is a good one and would, we believe, do away with much of the present fire waste.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Now that they are going to abolish the four dollar bill, why not get rid of the 20 cent piece also. The latter is just as troublesome as the former.

Its a safe bet that the London prophet who predicts that the world will be consumed by its own heat in 1912, never experienced any of the 30 below weather that hit this neck of the woods a short time since.

They lose no time in handing out justice in China. An attempt was made yesterday to kill the Chinese Premier and the marauders were captured. The public executioner was at once summoned to behead the prisoners.

The Turks fired on two British steamers by mistake in the Red Sea. No damage resulted. Its a good thing the Turks fired at the vessels or they otherwise might have struck them by accident.

The strike record of the Labor Department shows that there were only eight trade disputes in existence during December, being six less than in November, and two less than in December, 1910. About ten firms and slightly over fourteen hundred employees were involved. The loss in working days amounted approximately to forty thousand. The new disputes of the month were of only slight importance. There were only four disputes unsettled at the close of the year.

That the woman suffarge question is likely to cause a division in the British government is believed by many people, but this is not at all likely, in fact is highly improbable. While some of the ministers do not agree in the matter, there is no danger of them making it an issue and going out of office on that point. Mr. Asquith and Mr. Lloyd George have held opposition views on the question for years, but they have never let it interfere with them working as colleagues in the same government.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucuous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you may have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucuous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

THE PATRICIA ON LONG TRIP

Will Travel 15,000 Miles and Take up Thirty Days

Special To The Review.

Montreal, Jan. 15.—Starting on her long 15,000 mile trip around Cape Horn to Victoria the Canadian Pacific Railway's new steamship The Princess Patricia, formerly the Queen Alexandria, has left the yards at Greenock, Scotland. C.P.R. officials expect that the boat will arrive at Victoria about the end of March. She is to call at St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, Montevideo Punta Arenas, Soronal, Callao and San Francisco, to take on coal. Eighty days will be required for the long run. The Princess Patricia will be one of the fastest vessels on the Pacific coast. She is a turbine and gained much fame for her speed. She has maintained a speed of over twenty two knots for a long course and her speed will make her a valuable addition to the Canadian Pacific Railway's aPcific coast fleet. According to announcement made at Vancouver, some time ago "The Patricia" will be operated on the Vancouver-Nanaimo run and she is expected to cut down the time for the trip from three to two hours.

Fate of a Duchess.

We have had excellent morals drawn from the substantial waist of the Venus of Milo for the admonition of the fashionable woman. But what can we say about the Duchesse de Mazarin, who (G. Duval tells us in "Shadows of Old Paris") "died in 1775 from tight lacing, although she had posed for a statue of Venus?"

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Jan. 16.—Owing to renewed unfavorable crop news from the Argentine there was an improved demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat, at an advance in prices of 1½d to 3d per quarter, and sales of a few loads were made. There was also a better demand for ocean grain room for May-June, and engagements were made to London at 2s 6d and to Bristol at 2s 9d. The demand for oats from European sources continues good, and further sales were made to Belfast and Dublin. The local trade in oats is fairly active at firm prices.

There was a fair enquiry from European sources for spring wheat flour, but, as the bids in most cases were 3d per sack lower than a week ago, only a small business was worked. A fair business is doing on spot at firm prices. Demand for bran and shorts is good, of which supplies are small. Cheese is firm, but business is quiet, as the bulk of the stock on spot has been disposed of. Demand for butter is good, and the market is fairly active, with a strong upward tendency. Eggs active and strong.

The Paternoster Ruby

By Charles Edmond Walk.

Supplied exclusively in Canada by the British & Colonial Press, Limited, Toronto.

So I concluded to humor her.

"What is it you wish me to do?" I inquired, not forgetting my dignity.

She waved the insignificant weapon toward a writing desk.

"There are pens and ink and paper," she said, her voice tremulous with suppressed passion. "I want you to write down a plain, straightforward declaration that Royal Maillot is innocent, and then follow it with the reasons why you know him to be innocent—for you have those reasons. Doubtless it will included an exposure of the guilty; very well, this is the time for such a disclosure."

The amazing effrontery of the proposal made me gasp. Suppose I were to tell her that I believed her father to be the guilty man? Heavens and earth! Here was a pretty pass!

"Miss Fluette," I said at length, very gravely, "such a declaration from me would have no more weight than the sheet of paper itself. The matter is entirely out of my hands. Further than to procure the evidence necessary to convict the guilty, I have no influence whatever."

"So!" Her lip curled and her eyes flashed. "You would weave a rope about Royal's neck!"

"I would not," I emphatically disputed. "If Royal Maillot was instrumental in Folix Page's death, he was so innocently. He don't know now—"

She broke in, leaning with intense eagerness across the chair-back.

"Then why is he in prison?" There was a note of triumph in her voice, as if she had me cornered.

"Miss Fluette," I replied earnesttly, "will you listen to me for a few minutes? Believe me, there is no occasion for this desperate manner—"

"I am desperate."

"Perhaps. I understand your feelings; you and Mr. Maillot have my deepest sympa—"

She cut me short with a rap of the pistol upon the chair-back; I looked to see the thing go off.

"We don't want sympathy," she said through her teeth. "We want justice And justice we'll have. Go over the and write!"

She imperiously indicated the desk. Was man ever caught in such an absurd predicament! I was truly sober now. I was resolved not to commit myself to anything that would only make me rediculous; but this passionate, high-strung girl had told only the truth when she warned me that she was in dead earnest. My dilemma was most perplexing—and irritating, too. Could she be made to understand that if I exposed my hand now, before the issue was ripe, that the disclosure might work irreparable injury? Would she comprehend that such a course would immediately drive the guilty inside their defences? Could she be made to see that it was better for her lover to endure a temporary inconvenience, than to be left in a position where he could never be freed from reproach? Perhaps so, but only by showing her where her father stood. I scarcely need point how impossible such a choice was. And in her present mood!

"Where is Miss Cooper?" I asked at last.

She abruptly clutched the hand that held the keys, so that they clicked together.

"Never mind," she flared at me, with a stamp of her foot. "Obey me."

"And if I don't?"

And now she levelled the pistol at me. She threw back her head and her lips curved.

"I'll shoot," she announced, in a tense tone. "So help me, I'll shoot."

For a moment we confronted each other, I utterly nonplussed, every line of the girl's figure breathing relentless determination.

"Miss Fluette," I tried to reason with her, "you are beside yourself. Pray don't do anything you'll regret."

But she stopped me. Her voice was harsh and strained.

"Get up out of that chair. Do as I say."

Should I continue to humor her?—for further parleying was wholly out of the question. And if I wrote anything at all, it would doubtless have to pass her critical inspection—and also into her possession—before she would yield an inch.

I had to decide quickly. I started to shake my head, and bang!—the pistol blazed right into my face.

Heaven knows where the bullet went; I only know that it missed me. Next instant I was too busy to think about how narrow had been my escape. I sprang up agiley enough now, and was only just in time to catch the drooping figure before it fell. As I passed a supporting arm round her, her hair tumbled about her face and over her shoulders. Her eyes were closed, her brow was gathered in a frown, her lips were pinched and livid.

I acted rapidly. She had not fainted—was not wholly unconscious—for she was still putting forth a feeble effort to help herself. I eased her into the chair, behind which she had been standing and into which she now sank limp and silent. Her chin fell forward upon her bosom, and now and then her shoulders rose in a racking, gasping sob.

She let the still smoking pistol drop into my hand. Somewhere below I could hear Genevieve calling wildly and some one pounding away upon a door.

Next I got the keys from Miss Belle's yielding fingers, and soon had the door to the room open. The cries and pounding had ceased, and I surmised that the troop of maids and other servants chattering on the lower stairs and in the second story hall had been attracted to their source. Then a hope came to me that the shot had passed unoticed.

Well, it transpired that Genevieve was locked in a room on the second floor, much to the amazement of the servants, none of whom, I was thankful to learn, had heard the shot. Genevieve had, though, or I was very much mistaken in the cause of her vigorous effort to attract attention and her present frenzied appeals for some one to break down the door.

"Oh, please, please don't wait for the key," she was importuning them. "Break in the door—only hurry!"

"Everything's all right, Miss Cooper," I called. A little cry of relief came from beyond the closed portal. "I have the key," I added.

The second key which Miss Fluette had held was the one, and I had the bolt shot in a jiffy. Genevieve ran straight to me and threw herself into my arms.

Whatever it was she meant to say in her first overjoyed transport, remained unsaid; for I unceremoniously clapped a hand over her mouth, picked her up and carried her bodily back into the room, and slammed the door upon the gaping servants.

"They don't know," I said. "Go upstairs to Belle; she has fainted. The explosion was accidental, and no one was hurt." I was still holding her in my arms. "God bless you!" I whispered at her ear. And then—

Well, even the exigencies of a memoir do not require that I should set down what occurred then. Genevieve, her cheeks aflame, broke from my embrace and ran out of the room. I heard her light steps upon the stairs, and then the door to the room which had come near being the scene of a tragedy, opened and closed.

CHAPTER XX

Genevieve's Mission.

Almost at once a summons came from the up-stairs room for Miss Belle's maid. The rest of the servants were dismissed, and Genevieve signalled over the balusters for me to wait.

A very old man, cheerfully garrulous, who announced that he was the butler, took me downstairs.

"The drawing-room—living-room—or if you're of a mind to smoke, sir, Mr. Fluette's study." He indicated each of the rooms mentioned with a little flourish of the hand.

Although I am not a smoker, the word "study" arrested my attention. I indicated my preference. The old man instantly clapped a hand to one ear, and, leaning toward me, shouted into my face, "Hey?" So I decided the matter for myself by striding down the hall to where a door stood invitingly open.

Now perhaps you may consider it to have been the first duty of a traditional detective to take advantage of this opportunity, and perhaps you may be right. However, I believe I can assert, with some measure of authority, that a man in my profession may be a man of principle and honor and still succeed. I believe I may go even further: honest, straightforward conduct and upright dealing, by winning the confidence and respect of those with whom he holds intercourse, will carry a detective farther along the road to success in a given undertaking than any other means he may adopt. Honesty, in my calling as in all others, is the best policy.

But there are certain subtle impressions, often difficult to define, which are more poten than foot-prints and thumb-prints. A man's words, for example, are often of far less importance than his manner of uttering them. A man's personality is the stamp by which he declares his status among his fellows, and everybody is entitled to scan it that he may weigh and consider and judge. Hence a man's surroundings bear a thousand tokens of his character; for him to try to obliterate them, to keep them hid, is not to be frank and open, and that in itself invites suspicion.

My sole object in entering Alfred Fluette's study, therefore, was prompted by a hope that I might absorb something of its atmosphere. I did not know the man. Here was the place where he spent his leisure hours, where he unbent and became his normal self. It were indeed strange if I failed to gain some concept of his character.

I leaned against a window-casing, and surveyed the room with much interest. From the appearance of the books on the shelves—they were worn from use, but their coating of dust evidenced neglect—I gathered the idea that the master of the house had once been a bookish man, but that of late he had grown away from such pursuits. Here and there on the wide-topped writing-table were letters and papers in neat piles, while other letters and papers were heaped up and scattered about in the most careless disorder. The ink-well and blotting-pad were scrupously tidy, but he never troubled to clean his pens after using them, or even to place them in the pen receiver.

To me, all this argued a man whose moral forces were undergoing a slow but certain deterioration; and with a man in Alfred Fluette's position, and with his responsibilities, the possibilities were manifold and ominous. His conscience still had a voice to raise in protest against meddling with his niece's heritage; but he remained deaf to the voice. He could stoop to villainy; but he was not so callous to wrongdoing but that the stooping hurt. Alfred Fluette needed a jolt—somebody to bring him up with a short turn—and I resolved, having the means, to be the one to do it.

As my glance roved hither and thither about the room, it was suddenly arrested and held.

To be continued.

Two new army corps and a new high seas squadron of ships are proposed for Germany.

Mock Turtle Soup.

Two quarts of good stock, one carrot, one turnip, one teaspoonful of whole peppers, two ounces of lean bacon, two heaping tablespoonfuls of butter, two tablespoonfuls of flour, one cod's head, four stalks celery, one onion, a bunch of herbs, one blade of mace, one bay leaf, six cloves, strained juice of one lemon, salt and pepper to taste.

Clean and split the cod's head and put it in a suacepan with cold water to cover it. Bring it to a boil and boil for fifteen minutes. Remove from the fire and put aside. Put the butter in the soup pot, allow it to get hot and brown, add the flour and fry it till yellow, stirring all the time. Add the stock, bacon, sliced vegetables and spices. Boil slowly for one hour, then strain. Return the soup to the pot with one and a half pints of the water the cod's head was boiled in, add the lemon juice, salt and pepper to taste. Cut the glutinous part of the cod's head in neat pieces, add them; also some small forcemeat balls made as follows:

Forcemeat Balls.—One ounce suet, two ounces breadcrumbs, a little grated lemon rind, salt, pepper, a grate of nutmeg and egg to moisten, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, thyme and marjoram. Chop the suet very fine, mix all the ingredients with as much raw beaten egg as is necessary to moisten. Roll the mixture into small balls, drop them into boiling water to poach for five minutes, add them to the soup and boil again for five minutes.

Useful Christmas Offerings.

A Christmas grab bag will make the day bright for some friend who is ill. It can be made to suit any purse. That is its chief appeal to the donor. It lasts all day, and that is its greatest attraction to the recipient.

Make the bag to suit the age and tastes of the person who is to open it. In it pack ten or a dozen gifts, tied separately in tissue paper with gay cords or colored ribbons. Fasten a card of direction to the outside of the bag. It might read: "Merry Christmas. As each hour strikes shut your eyes, thrust in your hand and pull out the first package you touch."

THE NEWEST DESIGNS IN WORKBAGS.

One attractive bag for a grown person might be made of Japanese crape and filled with any of the knickknacks which are to be picked up for 25 cents—or as many dollars—in any Japanese bazaar. Some appropriate gifts are a package of orris root, sachet, a print in soft tones of some oriental maiden or snow capped mountain, a painted fan, a teacup of thin china, a tiny carved bone or ivory charm.

A child's bag could hold a picture book, some Christmas stories, a doll or woolly lamb or bear, a small Santa Claus, a reindeer, a holly figured hair ribbon for a girl or a penknife, which suggests happier days to a boy.

The workbags seen in the illustration are two of the newest designs in this useful article.

Canaries Cross Ocean.

A remarkable scene was witnessed at the Halifax (Eng.) railway station recently, when 2,000 canaries of various breeds, comprising Yorkshire, Norwich, Border, Fancy, Lizard and Lancashire were despatched to America.

At Liverpool the canaries were shipped on the White Star liner Baltic, which sailed on a Thursday. Special arrangements were made to feed the many mouths on the ocean trip. All the birds were bred in the west riding of Yorkshire, and the exportation is by far the biggest on record from the district.

A Common Mistake

A common mistake, and one that is quite excusable, is that so many people between the ages of 40 and 50 feeling the need of glasses either refuse to wear them or continue putting it off.

There is no greater mistake than the common saying that "so-and-so" had such strong eyes, lived to be 80 and never used glasses to read. It is a physiological fact that at the age of 45 years the crystalline lens looses some of its elasticity; it looses more as age advances, so that even under accommodation it cannot become convex as it did before; consequently, this convexity (needed for reading) must be supplied artificially by means of glasses.

The above is taken from the Family Doctor a large American publication.

WE RECOMMEND GLASSES ONLY WHEN ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY.

OBITUARY

The Late William Eyres

The late William Eyres, whose death was announced yesterday, was born in Cavan in 1830. For forty years he resided in that township, and during that time he became a class leader and local preacher in connection with the Methodist church. At the age of forty he moved to Mariposa, Victoria County, where he lived for twelve years. While in Mariposa he took an active part in municipal and political affairs, being president of the Liberal Association, and holding for years the position of reeve of that township. He was a prominent member of the Grange Society and was sent to England as a representative of this organization. In 1872 he retired to Peterborough for educational purposes, and since coming to this city he has engaged in the lumber business, and has been interested in land, both in the Northwest and in Victoria and Durham counties. He was a member of the Quarterly Official Board of the George street church.

He is survived by his widow, three sons, W. T. R. Eyres, Alberta; Fred and Chas., Saskatchewan, and three daughters, Mrs. J. H. Might, Mrs. G. C. Defoe, Calgary, and Mrs. J. C. Ruels, Gainsboro.

The funeral will be held to-morrow morning, the remains being taken to Millbrook for interment.

LABORATORY IS A MONEY SAVER

Dr. McPherson Reports on Condition of the Water

All Tests Are Now Being Made at Laboratory

The following is a report submitted to the Water Commissioners by Dr. McPherson:

To the Chairman and members of the Water Commission:

Gentlemen,—I beg to make a short report on the work done in the Laboratory during the year 1911.

About midsummer I furnished you a report dealing with the work of the previous nine months, so that it will not be necessary to go into the same details. During the year the city water has been tested regularly from two to three times a week and a record kept. Each month a report has been furnished you showing the condition of the water during the previous month.

These reports show the chlorine to average between three and four parts in a million with very little variation in the different seasons. The presence of organisms producing gas, and a change of color was not in evidence from Oct., 1910, until May 28th, 1911. During June the signs became more marked, but the amount of gas produced in the first twenty-four hours was not sufficient to warrant any suspicion of the color bacillios. From the beginning of July until 10th of October the water was not free from suspicion, but at no time did the water show signs of marked infection. Typhoid organisms were apparently absent, as shown by the absence of any cases of typhoid among those who were using the city water supply. Since Oct. 10th the water has been free from dangerous organisms.

The presence of these gas-producing germs cannot be laid down to any one cause. There are many conditions in and around the waters above the pumping station that might be responsible. These I dealt with in my previous report, and I will not mention them again, but I hope that you will keep urging the provincial authorities to take action during the winter to have the conditions changed on the rivers in and around Stony Lake.

Before closing I want to refer to other work done in the laboratory. As you know it was established for the purpose of examining the city water supply. But it has already been found very useful in connection with the health work of the city. Prior to the establishment, all specimens of water, milk and suspects of diptheria from the city were sent to Toronto for examination. Now they are done in the laboratory. During the year, samples from about twenty wells and three sets of samples of river water taken below the city, as well as weekly samples of milk, and a number of diphtheria specimens were examined. This is a matter of saving as well as of convenience to the city. For example, in cases of diphtheria, we can get a report the same day, or if a culture is made, the day following. Thus we could have a report on a swab before th eother would leave the city, and in case of a culture before the specimen would reach Toronto. With the milk and water we save time and allow the expense connected with the packing and express to and from Toronto.

I just mention this to let you know that the laboratory is serving a good and useful purpose and justifies its establishment.

Respectfully yours,
A. W. McPHERSON,
City Bacteriologist.

"THE ROSARY"

A modern play to be presented at the Grand, for matinee and night, on Saturday next, January 20, is titled "The Rosary." It was written by Edw. E. Rose, is produced under the management of Monte Thompson with the well known young Canadian actor, John Meehan in the role of "Father Kelly."

Quietly and modestly, with no blare of trumpets, the play projects a quiet word into our turmoil of opinions, which many believe will revolutionize our ethics of marriage and divorce as an illustration. "The Rosary" takes you into the heart of an American home, such as our homes are to-day. It shows peace and happiness—then suddenly trouble comes—lack of faith in the husband. Slowly, little by little, is seen the devastating power of atheism, how it says the strength and breaks the will, so that when doubt and suspicion creep in they find fertile soil for the descendants—hatred and revenge. Then comes the spiritual power of a great man a priest, whose life is given to mankind. Slowly he analyzes the situation, and leads the husband and wife, whom he loves out of the darkness to happiness and peace.

The seat sale opens Thursday, Jan. 18th, at 9 a.m.

Peruna Secrets You Should Know

Golden Seal, the root of the above plant, is a very useful medicine. Many people gather it in our rich woodlands during the summer. Few people know how valuable it is in dyspepsia, catarrh, and as a general tonic.

Many thousand pounds of this root are used each year in the famous catarrh remedy, Peruna. This fact explains why everybody uses Peruna for catarrh.

GOOD PROGRESS MADE AT Y.M.C.A. IN ALL DEPARTMENTS OF WORK

Four New Men Elected to Board of Directors—J. W. Bennet, Hon. President.

That the Y.M.C.A. has had a successful year was evidenced at the annual meeting last night when reports were made by the General Secretary and Physical Director.

Mr. J. W. Bennet was elected Hon. President, and four new men, Messrs. J. H. Connal, R. F. Downey, W. E. Conway and Jno. Rothwell were elected to the Board of Directors.

The report of the physical department outlined the work done during the year in gymnasium classes and outside sports.

PHYSICAL DEPARTMENT.

There were 121 men and 260 boys enrolled in the classes and the number of class sessions held was 605, with a total attendance of 9630. In exercising outside of the regular classes 866 men and 417 boys took part. The approximate number of baths taken without using other privileges, was 1540, while the total attendance for all physical privileges was 15,157.

A. McFarlane, chairman of the Property Committee, reported on improvements made to the building and recommended that a liberal grant be made for more improvements this year.

CHARACTER BUILDING.

The general secretary reported good progress for the year in the spiritual life of the association. The report in part says:

We have also given the citizens of Peterborough to convert money into character. This is of no means importance. The contributors have put $3,600 into character building in this work and though they may not see the results so evident as in other investments they have made, yet the results are more lasting and more worth while.

The whole work of the association is in that condition where foundations are being laid for a broad and permanent work being done in the future. The citizens are supporting the association as never before and the opportunity for adaptation of the work to the needs of the men of the city are daily increasing. There is needed now a hearty participation by the active members in associated effort to make the association a mighty factor in the development in Peterborough of strong and efficient Christian manhood.

For the religious department while one meeting was held for men, there was an attendance of 84. Nine meetings held in theatres were attended by 767, while 40 shop meetings had an attendance of 938.

For Bible study 69 classes were held.

In the boys' department, 9881 boys attended the rooms. Six hundred and one boys attended Bible Class; 625 attended swimming classes and 49 non-members were taught to swim.

The statistics of membership were: Full members, 261; limited members, 21; boy members, 121; total members, 403; active members, 136; associate members, 146.

The annual meeting of the directors will be held within two weeks.

Civic Services, Finances and Rate of Taxation

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—Some of the advantages for manufacturing that Peterborough possesses have been pointed out. There are other matters that promoters of industries look into. They wish to locate where there are good civic services and where the finances of the municipality are in a sound condition—that is promoters of substantial industries, and not promoters who are looking principally for an opportunity to pull something for themselves out of the flotation.

Sanitation is an important matter, and in this connection a system of sewers is requisite. The city has over twenty-eight miles of common sewers with about 2400 services. It has fifty-five miles of concrete sidewalks, and in sewers and permanent sidewalks has expended over $400,000. The waterworks, owned by the city, is adequate and complete, the new dam pumping station and machinery furnishing an excellent system. There are nearly forty miles of water mains, on which are set nearly 250 hydrants for fire protection and from which there are 3,000 services.

A competent fire brigade, continuously on duty, with a complete equipment in a commodious station, furnish protection from fire, and the department, along with the waterworks system is recognized as being so efficient that low fire insurance rates are given.

The common schools, of which there are nine, have a reputation of being among the best in the Province, and in addition there are the Collegiate Institute, and Normal School, for teacher training. A reference to the hospitals, parks, churches, etc., would complete an attractive list of public conveniences and institutions.

The municipal finances are in an enviable condition. The surplus of assets over liabilities amounts to the tidy sum of $354,386. Of these assets, the waterworks and valuable real estate owned by the city are revenue producing. In the sinking funds there is a surplus of $35,000.

The question of taxation is a tender one with the average citizen and an important one for the prospective citizen. A comparison of the taxation here with other cities is an educative one for the citizen and prospective citizens alike. There are eighteen cities in Ontario. A recent Government return gives the sums raised in 1910 in these cities for municipal and school purposes. Taking these returns of the sums raised, using the Dominion census to ascertain the population of the cities, it is found that the amount of taxes levied per head of population for municipal (apart from school) purposes varies from $5.83 to $18.80. If one heard comments made in Peterborough at times he would imagine that the highest rate is in this city. But it is not—far from it. The lowest rate is in a city where the ownership of a steam railway, operated by the C.P.R., gave returns that reduced the taxes, and I understand that an oversight of obligation also assisted, and that now the rate has been raised so that in a recent letter in a paper in that city there is the familiar reference to an "already high rate of taxation." So this city might fairly be left out of the comparison.

Counting this particular city in, however, Peterborough stands third lowest among the eighteen cities in the rate of taxation per head for municipal purposes, with a rate of $6.97 per head. Only two cities have a lower rate, and fifteen have a higher rate. The rate per head of taxes for school purposes is higher than in the majority of the cities, but taking the combined taxation for all municipal and school purposes, per head of population, there are only four cities with a lower rate than Peterborough, and thirteen with a higher rate. Peterborough's rate is $3.54 higher than the lowest (the railway-owning) city, and $13.67 lower than the highest.

In civic services and conveniences, in sound financial condition, and in low rate of taxation, Peterborough offers intending citizens and manufacturing establishments attractive conditions.

Yours truly,

CIVIC SUM.

PETERBORO ALL THE WAY; BELLEVILLE WAS SWAMPED IN BURLESQUE EXHIBITION

Visitors Scored First Goal While the Petes Took the Next Thirty, Fifteen of Which Were Gathered by Captain Parks.

Had "Curly" Maguire of "Jack" Marks of the once famous Belleville O.H.A. Intermediates dropped into the Brock street rink last night about ten o'clock, and become acquainted with what was going on they would have turned their heads in anguish and hiked it for the nearest joy counter. And perchance while there, they might have deliberated on the relation of the Belleville hockey team of 1912 to the still and silent hamlet from whence they came.

The score was 11-1 at half time and 30-1 when the agony was over. If ever a bell pealed forth, gladsome news, it was last night about 10.15 and the big crowd shared to some extent, the happiness of the six representatives from the burg adjoining Corbyville.

The attraction was billed as some game, but a word was missing. The proper adjective to apply would keep a jailbird guessing during a seven year sentence and then he would have to pass the riddle on.

Belleville looked good for about ten minutes and then they finished, probably quit would fit in better. And the strangest part of it was the Peterboro seven wasn't playing the game. Perhaps the company had something to do with it. Let it go at that anyway.

A few of the facts are that captain Park of the local aggregation placed the puck just 15 times behind Laflair. Bud Kelly did the trick on six occasions. Coughlin pulled the string for a quintet, while Giroux and Bearrs had doubles. Cruel fate butted in on Percy Bond and he had to be content with stopping the other fellows.

In the second half, several of the Belleville players got with recognition distance of Leonidas Derocher, and Wallace at point, almost met with that success. Almost is the word. Still some point players will tell you that it is better to stay at your position, and the Belleville gent is one of these. He was a sticker. So were also some of his companions, and the result was almost a battle of fists.

Simmons at centre, was hurt in a rear end collision just before the half was called and Giroux went off with him. Neither reappeared, and the game was finished with twelve men. It is unnecessary to state how the locals collected 30 goals, but the statistics below may be interesting.

1	Belleville	Ford	.30
2	Peterboro	Park	f.00
3	Peterboro	Park	2.00

The teams were—

Harry Bourgoyne of Toronto made his initial bow and made the best out of a bad job.

And while the locals were having things easy, Lindsay was putting it over Trenton at Trenton. It looks like a battle royal between Lindsay and Peterboro for district honors.

The Juniors go to Port Hope tomorrow night. May they keep up their good work. Whoever told Josh Craig to call them Bear Cats ought to be sent to Belleville.

Derocher, besides having a good team in front of him, is playing a stellar game. He has only allowed 3 to dribble in during the three games.

Their All Round Good Work Against Lindsay Midgets

Lindsay Warder — Peterboro at times were inclined to group in centre, but they were pretty much all over the Midgets, and it didn't much matter. Their style was fast clever, individual play in magnificent stick handling, especially Hall at centre, until the puck was worked outside the Midget line, and then the oatmeal lads swung into line to bear down on the unprotected and easily drawn-out defence. And these lads could shoot hard and fast and notched goals.

The Midgets were up against a stiff proposition and no mistake. They have petered out, but not without putting up an argument that to say the least was fast and classy. The Midgets, further, if they decided to remain in the conflict, look good to defeat Cobourg, not only at Lindsay but also at Cobourg, and could thus tie at Peterboro.

Lindsay Post—The teams were pretty evenly matched although the visitors had it on the locals in weight Condition and training told, however, and the Petes excelled in this respect. The kiddies have been handled by "King" Dillon and Gene Hurtubise, the two rugby veterans, and they were trained to the minute. They had the stamina and staying powers and were on to all the tricks of the game. They also followed up splendidly, checked back nicely and took advantage of every opening.

LINDSAY WON

Lindsay Intermediates defeated Trenton last night by 7-1, leading at the half by 4-1. Dennison played at centre for the winners.

Flattery either makes friends or breaks them.

PROBE WILL BE TOO THOROUGH

about to be investigated, and it might result in a formidable army of counsel before anything were suggested implying any imputation on employes He had no objection, however, to give to anyone whose conduct was impugned before the commission, the right to be represented by counsel. That would only be justice.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier objected to the wide powers granted to commissioners to deput power to sub-commissioners, and moved to strike out that provision in the bill.

Hon. C. J. Doherty declared that they were only giving back to commissioners powers which they formerly held. Commissioners and sub-commissioners alike were moreover subject to the control of the courts of the land.

A. K. MacLean (Halifax) objected to the provision for the employment of "any qualified person" to take evidence, not in regard to any technical point, but with regard to the subject matter of the enquiry in general. It would permit commissioners to delegate their entire powers to others.

Hon. C. J. Doherty said, he was willing to insert a provision that all delegation of powers under the act be with the approval of the Governor-in-council.

Hon. Mr. Pugsley moved an amendment providing for minority investigation on the appeal of forty members.

The Premier declared that he could hardly believed his ears when he heard that the leader of the Opposition was sconder of this motion. In former days, when not forty but eighty members of the House had petitioned, he had said: "There will be no investigation" and "The Government should investigate its own Departments."

Hon. Mr. Pugsley's amendment was lost and the other amendments were allowed to stand over and the committee reported progress.

The Loving Cup.

The host and hostess drink first from a loving cup, then the guest of honor, after which the cup is passed around the table to the other guests. Each person is expected to give a toast or a sentiment.

If the dinner is given for the guest of honor the cup is passed first to this guest and then to the host and hostess. After this it is passed around the table. It is always passed at the close of the dinner. Wine, claret cup, fruit punch or even cider may be used.

In five minutes I was well and my stomach derangements disappeared entirely."

"LABBY" PASSES AWAY.

The Celebrated Editor of Truth Dies In Florence.

Florence, Italy, Jan. 17.—Henry Labouchere, the editor and proprietor of The London Truth, died at his villa here yesterday morning.

Owing to failing ill-health he had resided in Italy since 1906.

Henry Dupre Labouchere was during his long life one of the best-known of English journalists and members of Parliament. Born in London in 1831 and the inheritor of estates which left him free to follow his own bent, his earlier life was full of incidents of a highly romantic character. Educated at Eton, he entered the diplomatic service in 1854 and for a part of his term was stationed at Washington.

Labouchere left the diplomatic service in 1864 and three years later was elected a member of Parliament for Middlesex. He sat for one year, and was again elected for Northampton in 1880, which constituency remained staunch to him till his final retirement in 1905.

Labouchere, although a very wealthy man, was throughout his Parliamentary career the exponent of advanced Radicalism and in 1889 placed himself at the head of its advocates. Refusing all offers of office, he was one of the most influential private members of the House of Commons, and his catching of the Speaker's eye meant a full audience, delighted with his wit and humor, however obnoxious were the opinions he advocated.

Perhaps, however, Labouchere was most widely known through his own journal, Truth. This was an offspring of The World, founded by Edmond Yates, with which Labouchere was at first associated as city editor. On their later separation not only London, but the country waited every week for the lambasting the rival editors gave each other every issue while retaining their personal friendship.

As editor of Truth Labouchere was the determined foe of all social, financial and administrative fakers. No man defended more libel actions, and in exceedingly few cases was he found in default. As a journalist he ranked with the best and his letters to The London Daily News during the investment of Paris by the German forces were and are of great historic interest. As member for Northampton he had Charles Bradlaugh as his colleague, from 1880 till Bradlaugh's death in 1891.

Bottle Crossed Ocean.

New York, Jan. 17.—The adventures of a whisky bottle, which drifted with the ocean currents all the way across the Atlantic are told in a letter received from England by J. S. Lavin, a New York engineering expert. Mr. Lavin threw the bottle over the rail of the houseboat off the Long Island coast in August, 1909. He left a card with his name and address inside, and has just received, a response from Merionetshire, Wales, saying that the bottle was picked up there on Dec. 20. It took the bottle nearly two years and four months to cross the ocean when picked up.

The odor of whisky was still strong, according to the Welsh preacher who found it.

Starving, Sell Children.

London, Jan. 17.—A telegram says that the starving peasantry in the Government of Orenburg, on the River Ural, Russia, owing to not having received any assistance from the authorities to relieve famine, are selling their children to the Khirgese Nomads in the Government of Saratov.

More than 70 per cent. of the children are stricken with a fearful epidemic in some of the villages.

Youthful Skater Drowned.

Brockville, Jan. 17.—Clarence Fraser, aged 18 years, skated into an air hole while crossing from Grindstone Island in the St. Lawrence to the main shore after dark. Searchers found his skate sail frozen in a treacherous spot at the foot of the shoals known as Eagle's Wing. There the body was found in forty feet of water.

NATIONAL LAWS.

Precious Documents Not Properly Guarded Against Fire.

Statesmen tell us that this is a government of laws and not of men, but if a fire should sweep through the library of the state department on the third floor of the state, war and navy building the United States would not have any laws, so far as the original copies go. All the laws of this country, from the days of George Washington's administration down to the newest of all statutes, are in that room. They are written and printed on parchment and bound in volumes, being numbered in the order in which they reach the state department.

There are no fireproof cases in the library. Neither is there any fireproof vault. These unique documents are stored away in wooden cases which would readily make food for flames. There never has been a fire in the state department library, and no laws have been destroyed. There never was a fire in the capitol at Albany until it was swept by flames almost from top to bottom. While the state, war and navy building itself is considered to be a pretty good piece of fireproof construction, its office furnishings and equipment could readily be burned. Other departments of the government take better care of their documents than the state department does of its precious laws.—Washington Letter to Brooklyn Eagle.

RADIUM EXPERIMENT.

To Treat Disease Without Drugs and Without Surgery.

Although radium is no longer the world's wonder it was a few years ago, the opening in London of the Radium institute as a public hospital free to the poor merits attention as another mark in the progress of civilization. The institute owes its origin to the initiative and the patronage of the late King Edward VII. and in a measure stands as a monument to commemorate his prompt symypathies with all the news movements of his time. But its essential worth lies in the part it is to play in advancing the science and the art of curing the thousand ills that flesh is heir to.

The new foundation is to treat disease without drugs, without surgery and also without mental suggestion or faith cure. All that can be done there, for awhile at least, will be largely in the nature of experiment. It is said that of the thirty persons who applied on the opening day only a few were given treatment. Evidently the new remedy is not to be rashly ventured. The very fact of caution exercised is, however, a promise of big results in future. The time may be not far distant when the new institute now so tentatively at work may be established among the foremost of the world renowned hospitals of the great city.—New York World.

Magnifying Sound.

The "telacoust," as lately patented in England, is a curious new instrument—a kind of sound telescope that catches a faint noise and magnifies, extending the range of the ear to four times the usual distance. The cup shaped receiver can be pointed to any direction. The sound waves from the distant source are brought to a focus by a parabolic reflector and are passed through a flexible tube to ear pieces. The volume of sound as thus concentrated is claimed to be twelve times as great as would reach the unaided ear. The instrument is expected to be especially valuable at sea, as it will not only pick up foghorn and other sounds, but can be made to show their direction by turning the receiver until the noise is strongest.

The Restored Campanile.

Venice's famous campanile has been restored. It collapsed nine years ago. It was originally a watchtower before the Christian world was yet in its teens. In the work of reconstruction one man has worked for years piecing together the 2,000 fragments of the figure of the Madonna and the Child. The figure of St. John was originally part of the group, but it was shattered to atoms in the fall. Fous of the five bells have been recast, and their first peal was recorded by a gramophone, which was sent to Pope Pius X., who expressed his delight at their clear tones.—Argonaut.

The New Postage Stamp

The postmaster general has approved a new design for the two cent foreign single postal card, which will be placed on sale about Jan. 1, 1912. The subject of the stamp is a likeness of General U. S. Grant at the age of forty-seven, about a year after he became president. This portrait has been pronounced by General Frederick D. Grant an excellent likeness of his distinguished father.

Krupp Firm's Progress.

It is often stated that the great Krupp concern is little more than a department of the German government. How much truth there is in this assertion is shown by the announcement that the great ordnance factory recently delivered its fifty-thousandth cannon to the state authorities. Its first order of this sort was for a muzzle loading three pounder, made in 1847.—London Standard.

Smart Gowns In Buenos Aires.

European visitors who do not know South American conditions are surprised at the extravagance of many of the women's toilets in that part of the world. The most extravagant of French confections are often scarcely elaborate enough for Buenos Aires, and firms in Paris create specially expensive fashions for the South American trade.

Good Form

Concerning Courtesy.

Small courtesies of life seem to be entirely lost in the rush of big things. The leaving off of the little things that go to make living worth the while is a well known and recognized fact to women who crave those graceful attentions, so easy in the giving when the thought is right.

Many men no longer consider it necessary to rise when a lady enters the room. If they proffer a chair it is seldom done with the old time alacrity, and a few trips on a city car will be sufficient to convince the veriest skeptic of the truth of courtesy's decadence.

Be it said in favor of man, continually on the rack regarding these omissions, that he is by no means the greater offender. Women who entertain will tell you of scores of invitations to which they have never even received the courtesy of an acknowledgement. "R. S. V. P." at the end of a card or note means nothing to a woman too thoughtless or too ill bred to take five minutes for a reply. Such treatment of a social courtesy is an offense garish enough to cause the offender's name to be struck from the social list of the hostess.

The small courtesies of woman to woman are fully as important as those from man to woman or woman to man.

The Finger Bowl.

A finger bowl is the final service of a fruit course and usually terminates a dinner. The bowl should be half filled with water and set upon a plate holding a small dolly.

When the plate upon which the bowl is carried to the table is intended to receive the fruit the bowl and doily are placed at one side of the dish. Tips of fingers of each hand are dipped in turn into the water and rubbed together gently until all traces of the fruits are removed. They are dried on the napkin, which should remain on the knees and not be used as a towel after a hand bath.

If the water in the bowl is scented, the odor should be very faint indeed. A better plan is to place a single fragrant blossom or leaf to float on the surface of the miniature lake. The host or hostess may set the example by taking the blossom from the bowl and drying it on the napkin and pinning it on as a favor. Pansies are particularly pretty for this purpose, and nasturtiums make gay little craft for sailing in the finger bowl.

Etiquette of Wedding Gifts.

Though persons in mourning may not attend either the religious ceremony or the reception following a marriage, they send wedding gifts the same as if they expected to be present.

Should the wedding invitation be sent to a friend who is traveling or who lives at a distance the recipient sends a bridal gift and is careful to forward it so that it will reach the bride before the ceremony if possible.

In case the recipient does not know the bride or her family, but has received either social or substantial favors from the groom, the present is sent to the bride the same as if she were an acquaintance.

An invitation extended to those who know the bride and groom only slightly and are in no way obligated to either does not demand a gift. While it is considered good form to respond with a present, it is quite as proper to send to the bride on her wedding day a box, basket or bouquet of flowers with a card of congratulations.

Points to Remember.

At an informal dinner custom has decreed that the hostess be served first. She looks over the dishes as they are served and suggests any changes to be made before the guests are served.

The hostess gives the signal for leaving the table by quietly rising, first seeing that all the guests have finished.

Courtesy demands that any introduction receive recognition, no matter if it is undesirable, but the acquaintance can be dropped afterward by a failure to recognize the undesirable party when next you meet.

When a young man invites a girl to a dance he sees that her program is well filled, asking her if there is any friend in the room she wishes to favor.

It is quite as necessary for a girl or woman to give her seat to an older woman as for a man to extend the same courtesy.

In accepting an invitation marked R. S. V. P. an immediate answer should be given, as a "last minute" acceptance may inconvenience the hostess.

BEAUTIFUL EYES

are made beautiful by long, silky lashes and well defined, lustrous brows. Eyes, like diamonds, depend on their setting. The beauties of the face are lost is the eye brows are thin and scanty, and the lashes are thing and scanty. Parisian Lash Lustre grows beautiful, soft, silky lashes. It has done so for society women throughout Europe, and it comes here well recommended to do the same for you. Parisian Lash Lustre is not a dye or colorator, but a scientific preparation for beautifying the eye lashes and brows. Our guarantee goes with every box of Pariaisn Lash Lustre. A two weeks' treatment will bring beauty to your eyes that you have never before possessed. By mail, prepaid, in opal boxes on receipt of price, fifty cents. B. V. Minister and Judge.

Judge Rentoul, who made a rapid recovery from his alarming illness in the City of London County Court the other day, has had a peculiarly varied experience of public life. He has been minister, barrister, and member of Parliament, and achieved success in all three robes. For some years he was a Presbyterian minister at Woolwich, and, according to the rules of his Church, is still a minister as well as a judge. While at Woolwich he found leisure to study for the Bar, and for a time he practiced as a barrister and carried out his ministerial duties contemporarily. Possessed of a fine, rich Irish brogue, Judge Rentoul is a welcome and humorous after-dinner speaker.

Among the many anecdotes which Judge Rentoul retails is one which has reference to the acoustic properties of the Central Criminal Court. These are not so perfect as they might be, and there is a decided echo from the walls. Some time ago, Judge Rentoul sentenced a prisoner to six months' hard labor. When the judgment was passed "six months' hard labor" was echoed from the back of the court. Taken aback, the prisoner turned to the warder by his side and enquired anxiously, "Are these 'ere sentences to run concurrently?"

No Words Wasted.

A couple of Quakers hold the record for brief letters. One of them, wishing to learn if a correspondent in a distant town had any news to communicate, posted to him a sheet of paper on which only a note of interrogation was written. The reply came in the form of a blank sheet, indicating that there was nothing at all to communicate.

Actors seem to carry off the palm for brevity in letter writing. Quin had a misunderstanding with Rich, the manager of Covent Garden, which resulted in Quin's leaving in an unceremonious manner. He soon regretted the hasty action, and wrote to the manager: "I am at Bath.—Quin." Rich did not think this a sufficient apology, and accordingly replied: "Stay there, and be hanged."

Everybody remembers the letters that passed between Samuel Foote and his mother. "Dear Sam," wrote the lady, "I am in prison for debt.—Your loving Mother." Foote's answer was even shorter: "Dear Mother,—So am I."

Smoke and Business

A paper on smoke abatement was read before the British Association for the Advancement of Science, whose annual meeting was held recently in Portsmouth. The paper advocated a new standard of smoke emission for factory chimneys. The existing standard permitted the pouring forth of smoke that polluted the air, injured health, disfigured buildings, and cut off sunshine.

Commenting on this, Sir William White agreed that there should be a proper standard. However, there was a feeling in manufacturing districts that the more smoke there was in the atmosphere the better the business was. The people there got accustomed to smoke, and did not take as much notice of it as others.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

The armistice between the Imperialists and Republican forces in China has been extended to Jan. 29.

Four trainmen are dead and two perhaps fatally injured as the result of a railway collision at Long Run, 18 miles east of Louisville, Ky., yesterday.

John Elliott, a farmer, living one mile from Tweed, Ont., was killed yesterday by a tree which he was cutting down falling on him and killing him almost instantly.

William Wood Preston, baby son of W. B. Preston, business manager of The Brantford Expositor, was instantly killed in a runaway accident yesterday in that city.

George Bradbury of Selkirk is introducing a bill for the protection of the flag. He proposes that the defacement of cuts of the national bunting be prohibited and made illegal.

Sixty cents a pound for butter is to be the price which retail dealers in Chicago look forward to. Quotations yesterday afternoon reached 47 cents, the highest in the city's market history.

The hold-up wave still bothers Vancouver. Hon. Nelson Hood, a young Englishman, was relieved of $218 on Monday night on Denman street by two masked men who escaped on bicyles.

Little John White of Chatham was the victim of an accident Monday which may cost him the sight of his eye, as a result of the discharge of a small toy pistol containing a blank cartridge.

Because of family troubles, James Lambert Petworth attempted suicide at Kingston. He went in to the woodshed, and tried to put an end to his life by striking himself in the forehead with the back of an axe.

What's in a Name?

The late king of Siam had for a full name Phra Bat Somdeth Phra Paraminor Maha Chulalongkorn Phra Chula Chum Klo Chow Yu Hua, and this does not include his titles. A wag in Bombay saw it in the paper when the ruler was visiting that city and was being received by the British officials and passed it over to a young Irish subaltern with the challenge that he pronounce it. The young fellow looked at it a moment and then handed it back. He said he was not long enough winded, but he was sure he could play it on the garrison club piano if the instrument were a couple of octaves longer. The king's uncle, however, who was also a prince high priest, had for one name alone the following collection of letters: Pawaratsawarlyalongkaun. Any one who can get through this and not flat one of the notes has lived a long time where he can look out of the window and see the gilded peak of a temple shimmering in the equatorial sun.—Christian Herald.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Starve a Cold.

Nature, as a rule, takes the appetite away when one is coming down with a cold or other infectious disease, and nature is wise. Don't coax Mary to eat when she has a cold. Don't allow the neighbors to tempt Johnny with calf's foot jelly or other dainties. When suffering from a cold the digestive organs are in no condition to care for food. The digestive juices are altered or entirely absent. One or two days' comparative fast will often assist in averting a severe siege of cold. A more convenient and enjoyable form of fasting would be to subsist for one or two days upon fruit or fruit juices perhaps, with the addition of a little toast. An exclusive fruit diet has all the practical advantages of complete fasting, while it satisfies the appetite and supplies sugar from which the liver can manufacture glycogen to sustain the white blood corpuscles in their continuous warfare against microbes.—William S. Sadler in Designer.

The Cobbler in the Library.

One of the rooms in the New York Public library is a cobbler shop. The trustees have ordered that all the employees in the new library must wear rubber heeled shoes, and since there is a small army of these employees it was decided to establish a shoe repairing shop in the building. The proprietor of this shops says he has plenty to do, for when there are no rubber heels to be renewed he is given odd jobs, principally on leather, in the library.

A Fragment of Ancient Greek Art.

A peasant at Mondragone, in the province of Caserta, Italy, discovered recently in the remains of an ancient Roman building the fragments of a marble statue, which he sold to a dealer. When pieced the fragments revealed a headless and armless Venus which is attributed to the chisel of Praxiteles. It is said that the statue belonged to the temple of Sinuessa. It is now in the Naples museum.

HAPPENINGS AT OMEMEE

Cold Weather—A Wedding—Entertainments

Special Correspondence.

Omemee, Jan. 15.—Mr. Isaac Richardson, of Millbrook, king of hog buyers, is back to business at the Commercial House, after a rather severe illness. We are glad to welcome him back.

Two or three sleigh loads of people went out to Mount Pleasant on Monday evening to the Presbyterian tea and concert. Some of the Omemeeites taking part in the program were: Misses Parsons, Miss A. W. Ivory, Miss Ingram, Miss Wilson, Messrs. Weir and Brown and Mrs. White. A splendid outing is reported.

Rev. Jas. Rollins, BA.., of St. Andrew's, Peterborough, conducted the services in the Presbyterian church on Sabbath morning. His sermon was a masterly exposition and was much appreciated.

For the first time since her marriage Mrs. Robert Williamson will receive on Tuesday, Jan. 23rd, at her residence, King street west, from 4 to 6 o'clock p.m.

Remember the meeting of the Farmers' and Woman's Institutes on the evening of January 19th in Coronation Hall. Miss Hotson's address on "educational matters" should attract many trustee boards.

Last week Mr John McGhie returned from the Ross Memorial hospital at Lindsay, and is convalescing nicely.

In many places the country roads are blocked with snow and the fields are used for travel.

On Friday evening Mrs. D. Blaycock returned home from the Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, and her many friends are rejoiced that he recovery has been so rapid.

Last Saturday all records of low temperature in Omemee were broken ,when the mercury showed 40 degrees below zero. A good deal of a good thing may be good for good people, but the freedom and continuity of this frigidity is nauseating.

On Wednesday evening a grand free concert was given in Coronation Hall under the auspices of Court Nebbo, 1316 ,I.O.F. The auditorium was packed to its capacity, and the lengthy program was enjoyed immensely. The artists of the evening were Toronto people, Miss Lillian Dillon, pianist; Miss Maud Bigwood, soprano; Mr. Harvey Lloyd, comedian, and Mr. George A. Mitchell superintendent of field work. The latter delivered a stirring address on fraternal organizations, and, of course, eulogized the order of which he is superintendent.

A very pretty house wedding was solemnized Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. McConnell, when their youngest daughter, Maud, became the wife of Mr. Wm. Gilbert, of Chinook, Alberta.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. R. Burns, Ph.B., of Omemee. Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert took the evening train for Toronto and St. Thomas before leaving for their home at Chinook, Alberta.

The out of town guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. R. Irvine, of Saskatoon; Mrs. and Mrs. W. Jackson, of Bobcaygeon, and Mr. and Mrs. E. McConnell, of Lindsay.

The following officers were elected by Lorne Lodge, A.F. and A.M.:

I.P.M.—Dr. Sutton.
M.—R. A. Allan.
S.W.—J. A. Lowry.
J.W.—Rev. H. Earle.
S.D.—J. Hart.
J.D.—P. Pogue.
I.G.—H. Bradley.
D.C.—T. A. McPherson.
Sec.—W. J. Thorne.
Treas.—R. Paterson.
Chap.—T. C. Icory.

Appeal on Wednesday

The appeal of G. A. Lawless against the recent conviction made against him, by Magistrate Edmison will be heard at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, before a judge and chambers on Wednesday, January 24. Mr. G.N. Gordon is acting for the appellant.

LORENZ ITEMS

Special Correspondence.

Lorenz, Jan. 16—Mr. and Mrs. Perks are spending the winter at Mr. Adam Lancaster's.

The municipal election was a topic of much interest to the residents of this section, the majority of whom are well satisfied with the result of the poll held on January 1, when reeve Waterman was re-elected by a substantial majority over Mr. John Buckham. Politics played an important part in the campaign and the Conservative party played no mean part, when driven to battle by their Liberal adversaries, as was shown on January 1st, when but one Liberal was left on the municipal board.

Many were disappointed by the weather conditions on Tuesday night last when the opening dance of the season was to be held at Mr. Welford Dawson's. The blockade of the roads during the recent storms compelled a postponment will Thursday night when a large assembly gathered to partake of the hospitality of his hostess. A very enjoyable evening was spent in games and dancing. The crowd dispersed in the small hours of the morning. Music was provided by Mr. Bateman, and we hope that other Methodist households may follow the example of the Dawson's, in providing the amusement which they are now at liberty to enjoy.

Mr. O'Hara of Millbrook, proprietor of our cheese factory was in the neighborhood recently.

Mr. Howard Fallis, one of our enterprising farmers had a sawing bee recently.

Mr. James Lucy was unable to get through with the mail, on Tuesday last owing to th econdition of the roads.

Mr. James Thompson's telephone connection was severed for a few days the wire being broken, it is supposed by coming in contact with trees during the recent storms.

BURLEIGH NEWS

Special Correspondence.

Burleigh, Jan. 17.—Mrs. C. Lauder, of Mt Julian, was the guest of Mrs. C. Hales.

Mrs. R. Hales and daughter spent Sunday evening at Mrs. H. G. McIlmoyl's.

Miss Annie Coones and Miss Josephine McIlvena were the guests of Miss Annie McFadden on Sunday.

Miss Bessie J. Hales was the guest of her sister, Mrs. H. G. McIlmoyl, on Sunday last.

Mr. Howard Reid is home from the camp, where he had the misfortune of freezing his feet.

Mr. "Dinnie" Hendley spent Sunday with Mr. Bruce Coones.

Mr. T. Wilson and family are visiting relatives in the neighborhood.

ELDERLY LADY MIGHT HAVE PERISHED

Met With Mishap While Carrying Pail of Coal

Special to the Review.

Warsaw, Jan. 17—Mrs. James, an old lady residing in Warsaw, met with a serious accident the other night. While bringing in a pail of coal she fell and was unable to arise She lay for two hours and a half in the cold, before her invalid partner could rescue her.

WOMAN FACES CHARGE OF VAGRANCY

Childrens' Aid Society Takes Action Against Her

High County Constable Cochrane went out to a house in the vicinity of Lakefield last night, and after a little trouble took a woman into custody charged with vagrancy. With her was a girl of seven, who is at present in the Children's Shelter. The woman enjoyed considerable notoriety around the country and was a familiar figore as she wandered around in charge of three children, one of whom is in Lakefield now and the other in Warsaw. She has been in this country less than a year, and is reported at one time to have kept a disorderly house near Lakefield. She was living with a strange man at the time of her arrest, when she resisted the officer tooth and nail when he first sought to bring her away.

The attention of E. L. Goodwill was directed to the state of the children as the woman was obviously an unsuitable person to be in charge of the children.

It is the intention of the authorities to have her deported.

CANADIAN CLUB

The Canadian Club will hold their next meeting on Thursday, Feb. 1st, when E. F. B. Johnston, the eminent Toronto lawyer, will be the speaker. The club is assured of a splendid address by Mr. Johnston. Two weeks ago he spoke to the Canadian Club at St. Catharines, and his address is reported to have been one of exceeding interest and pleasure.

CURED ACHES AND PAINS LIKE MAGIC

When He Used Dodd's Kidney Pills for Rheumatism

Saskatchewan Man Tells of Quick Relief After Three Years of Suffering.

Holbeck, Sask., Jan. 16.—(Special)—Among the many on the prairies who are shouting the praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills none speak with more enthusiasm than Mr. Matt Syverson, a well known resident of this place.

"I suffered from rheumatism for three years," Mr. Syverson says, "and I was also troubled with an acute pain around my heart. My case was a severe one and several times I doubted if recovery was possible. But seven boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me completely.

"I can truly and honestly recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills as a remedy for cases like mine. They surely cleared out all my aches and pains as if by magic".

Lost His Hair, Beard and Mustache

Terrible Plight of a Pennsylvania Man Reported by a Prominent Citizen:

"About two years ago my hair, beard and mustache started to come out in spots. These spots were entirely bare of hair.

Seeing PARISIAN SAGE advertised, I purchased four bottles and after using two of the bottles, the hair came in until now I have as good a head of hair as I had before this trouble started.

I can truthfully recommend this preparation to any one for what it is recommended for. Sam Galder, Jamison City, Col. Co., Pa. Oct. 11, 1911."

Please bear in mind that PARISIAN SAGE is not guaranteed to grow hair on bald heads.

OLD AGE PENSION SYSTEM FOR CANADA

Finance Minister Favorable to Mr. Burnham's Motion for Investigating Committee.

Ottawa, Jan. 18.—Old-age pensions formed the principal subject of discussion by the House of Commons yesterday afternoon. The matter was brought up by J. H. Burnham (West Peterboro), who moved a resolution calling for a special committee of enquiry. He stated that only 30,000 persons would be under the provisions of such a scheme in Canada.

Hon. W. T. White was sympathetic towards the object, but doubted the wisdom of the inauguration of such a system at the present time. He offered Government annuities as a substitute.

"If you reject old age pension in Canada," said Mr. Burnham, in introducing the matter, "you reject a modern, progressive, scientific substitute for indiscriminate charity and poor relief." The children's aid movement had met with all sorts of objections of similar character to those which were being urged against old age pensions. They said: "Why not let the people alone?" and complained that it meant spending a vast amount of money. This objection ignored the offset of relief from the enormous burden of indiscriminate charity which now rested on the people.

In Canada, said Mr. Burnham, no more than 30,000 persons would come under an old age pension scheme. There were, of course, more than that number over 70 years of age, but no old age pension system would contemplate payment to persons who were not in need of it.

Such a scheme, he urged, could only be worked adequately and without waste by the Government. In Germany, England and, he believed shortly in the United States, Canada had examples which she could not afford to set aside.

Hon. W. T. White expressed sympathy with the object of Mr. Burnham's resolution. There was no spectacle which appealed to their pity more than that of impoverished old age. The real question, as far as Canada was concerned, was whether the conditions warranted legislation of that sort and whether public opinion was sufficiently educated to it. So far as he was aware there had been no agitation in the press or elsewhere for old age pensions in Canada. In Great Britain the establishment of old age pensions was preceded by an agitation extending almost over a generation.

There was much to be said in favor of that legislation in England where employment was very precarious and where sweated industries and excessive drinking also were frequent causes of impoverishment.

"I think," said Mr. White, "that if we admit that a pension should be given to the man who had served the state on the battlefield, that man who has lived a sober, honest, industrious life should be made an allowance sufficient at least to meet the necessities of existence, if the conditions warrant it."

In Canada, however, there was little or none of non-employment, the old were well cared for by their sons and daughters, there were very few sweated industries, and, with reasonable thrift, a sober and honest artizan could raise his family and provide for his old age. In case of sickness he was well taken care of by provincial and municipal charity.

The rate of aid in Britain, 1 to 5 shillings, would not support existence in Canada.

He did not think that old age pensions had operated, in countries where they had been tried, to impair thrift. He drew the attention of the House, however, to the Government annuities system, which he thought might render the proposed pension unnecessary.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux: "How many persons have availed themselves of these annuities?"

Hon. Geo. E. Foster: "A very fair number."

Alphonse Verville (Maisonneuve) was for pensions always. Judges and civil servants, who were paid high salaries, received pensions. Why should not the poor man receive old age assistance?

W. F. Nickle (Kingston) made his maiden speech in the Commons yesterday. He did not hold with the argument of the Minister of Finance, that there had been no agitation in Canada for old age pensions, such as had taken place in England. In regard to this economic question. Owing to the movement from the country to the city and the establishment of great centralized industries with the striving for cheapened cost of production, the man who could no longer do a fair day's work was turned out.

To Investigate Postage.

Ottawa, Jan. 18.—A. H. Clarke (S. Essex) has given notice of motion that, on Friday next he will move for an order of the House for a copy of all orders and directions of the Government, or other officers of the post-office department, relating to the rate of postage upon newspapers sent out during the recent Dominion election campaign, and paid for by persons other than those to whom they were addressed; also a copy of all correspondence between the Government, or any Department thereof, and newspaper publishers relating to the same matter.

LEGISLATURE OPENS FEB. 7

Hoyle Expected to be the New Speaker—Development of New Ontario.

Toronto, Jan. 18.—Wednesday, Feb. 7, is the date of the official opening of the Ontario Legislature. Sir James Whitney made the announcement yesterday afternoon. The Premier did not give any intimation as to who the new Speaker will be, but it is expected that the mantle will fail upon William H. Hoyle, M.P.P. from North Ontario. Mr. Hoyle's home is in Cannington, and he has been a member of the Legislature since 1898. A lot of interesting legislation, or would-be legislation, will be under discussion at the coming session. Red-hot arguments and rapid-fire passages-at-arms are anticipated. The political issues before the two parties in the recent election will be comparatively fresh topics for debate on the floor of the House. Among the questions that are to be threshed out will be: Bilingual schools, the daddy of em 'all; the Hydro-electric policy, the Ne Temere decree, temperance issues, immigration, good roads and colonization roads, and the bill to provide compensation for injured workmen. Looming up larger and larger as the days go by is also the big question of the development of New Ontario, a proposition second to none in importance. To deal adequately with this question there will have to be more than politics. It will require statesmanship of the highest order.

LOSS WILL TOTAL ABOUT $15,000,000

Osaki, Japan, Jan. 18.—Fire broke out again Wednesday evening in the southern districts of the city, but the outbreak was of a much less serious nature than that which occurred in the morning. The flames were extinguished before midnight.

The damage occasioned by Wedday's conflagration, when nearly 6,000 buildings were destroyed, amounted to 30,000,000 yen (approximately $15,000,000). The thirty thousand persons rendered homeless are being provided with shelter in the public buildings of the city.

German Trade Booming.

Berlin, Jan. 18.—Germany's foreign trade for last year established new records in imports and exports. The imports reached a total value of 9,950,000,000 marks, a mark being equivalent to about 25 cents. This is an increase over the previous year of 614,000 marks. The exports reached a total value of 8,101,800,000 marks, an increase of 627,200,000 marks.

PARDON FOR THE McNAMARAS

Would Have $500,000 When Liberated From Prison

Somewhat of a sensation was caused at the meeting of the Trades and Labor Council held last night in their rooms when Mr. W. Madison Hicks, President of the Independent Labor League of Canada and formerly a member of the Parliament of the Commonwealth of Australia, declared he held absolute proofs that the McNamara Brothers, principals in the famous Los Angeles dynamiting case, are to be pardoned within two years of the date of sentence. He also stated that the McNamaras would have $500,000 when they were released.

Mr. Hicks stayed over in Galt while on his way from Chicago to his home in Brantford. He enjoys the distinction of being one of the most noted orators in the Empire. — Galt Reporter.

LADY LAURIER GOES ASHORE

Halifax, N.S., Jan. 18.—The Dominion Government steamer Lady Laurier is ashore at Perry Point, about 25 miles from Barrington. The steamer had been on the western shore on lighthouse work for the Department of Marine. She entered Barrington harbor Tuesday and several hours later started for Halifax, when she struck bottom. Soon the engine room was flooded so that it was decided to beach the steamer, and she was headed for Perry Point, where she was grounded on a muddy bottom with six feet of water in the hold.

Couldn't Rejoin Army.

Glatz, Prussian Silesia, Jan. 18.—The commandant of the fortress here is reported to have declared that Capt. B. F. Trench, who attempted to commit suicide on Jan. 15, has explained his attempt by asserting that he had received notification from his superiors that he would not be allowed either to enter the army or navy after his release.

Capt. Trench was serving a four-year term of imprisonment in the fortress, having been convicted of espionage upon the German fortification at Borkum in 1910. After the escape of Capt. Lux, the French officer, who was imprisoned in the same fortress on a similar charge, Capt. Trench's guards were doubled, but, despite this, he contrived to make a rope, and nearly succeeded in ending his life.

MR. JOS. FELS

Mr. Fels is the multi-millionaire of London, Eng., who will give an address to-morrow evening before the Brotherhood of St. Paul in St. Paul's Presbyterian church on the need of "Taxation Reform. He contends that poverty is due mainly to unjust taxation. In Toronto this week Mr. Fels offered to give dollar for dollar against all other agencies that may contribute to this movement. He is said to have been mainly instrumental in inducing Lloyd George to adopt the measure of land taxation reform that was recently carried by the people of Great Britain. The lecture to-morrow night will be free and ladies are invited. This will be the only opportunity to hear Mr. Fels in Peterborough.

MARRIAGE HELD TO BE VALID

Judgment Given in Usher Marriage Case — No Cause to to Nullify the Marriage.

London, Jan. 18.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Dublin matrimonial court yesterday gave judgment in the Usher marriage case, Judge Kenny holding that the marriage was valid. Usher, a Galway landlord, was married late at night in his bedroom to his housemaid by a Roman Catholic priest, in presence of one witness only.

Justice Kenny said that though the marriage was invalid in the eyes of the Catholic Church, yet it was capable of being validated at any time. It was, however, already absolutely valid according to the marriage laws of Ireland. It would have been invalid by the penal law up to 1870, because Usher had been a Protectant within the previous twelve months, but that law was repealed in 1870; the petition therefore was dismissed with costs.

The judge said he found nothing in common law or church law nullifying a marriage between Catholics by a Catholic priest because of the absence of witnesses except the decree of the Council of Trent, which had no legal effect in Ireland. The result of granting such a petition would be to make a child illegitimate and degrade the mother, but that was their present position in the eyes of the Church of Rome, which had the decrees of Trent and the Ne Temere against clandestine marriages.

Britain's Y.M.C.A. Campaign.

London, Jan. 18.—With the close of the campaign to raise £100,000 in aid of the Young Men's Christian Association five days off, energies have been redoubled. The total now is 38,347 pounds, but there is an air of confidence among the collectors, due to hints of large donations to come. The stock exchange has taken up the matter, and large subscriptions are expected from a body of man noted for their generosity.

FIVE THOUSAND MEN TO HOLD HALL

FRANKFORD HAS NEW POST OFFICE

Belleville, Jan. 18.—On the recommendation of E. G. Porter, M.P., for West Hastings, Mr. B. B. Ostrom, of Frankford, has been appointed postmaster of that village in place of Dr. J. U. Simmons, removed on account of alleged offensive partisanship.

NOVA SCOTIA HERO HONORED

Rescued Drowning Man From Icy Waters at Risk of His Life

Pittsubrg, Jan. 18.—One Canadian's name appears in the list of heroes and heroines who receive medals and substantial cash donations from the Carnegie hero fund as announced last night.

The recipient is Henry S. Moore, who is honored with a silver medal and $2,000 for the education of his children.

Moore, aged 44, hoist operator, saved Neil F. Campbell, aged nine, from drowning, Sydney, N.S., Feb. 7, 1911.

Moore broke through the thin ice on Sydney harbor as he crawled toward Campbell, who, unable to swim, had broken through where the water was over ten feet deep.

Breaking the ice for a distance of fifteen feet, Moore swam to Campbell, who was beneath the surface. He caught hold of Campbell, who by this time was unconscious, and swam to the edge of the hole, but as he tried to support himself the ice broke several times. Finally an overcoat was thrown to him and he and Campbell were pulled to solid ice, and out of the hole. Moore suffered no ill-effects. Campbell was revived.

BRAKEMAN IS CRUSHED TO DEATH

Toronto, Jan. 18.—William Deacon, 40 years of age, a brakeman on the G.T.R., whose home was in Stratford, Ont., was crushed and killed between an engine and a freight car at a switch at the foot of Portland street at eight o'clock last night.

Deacon had come down with his train from Stratford and after the passengers had been let off at the Union Station it was being hauled back into the yards. As it approached the switch, Deacon was standing on the side of the engine. The car, which stood on a track, which also ran into the switch, was sufficiently into its own track to let the engine pass, but not the man who was crushed between it and the engine.

The body was removed to the morgue where Coroner J. M. Cotton will hold an inquest.

TWO KILLED IN WRECK

Martinsville, Ind., Jan. 18.—Two men were killed and six others injured, one probably fatally, when a limited interurban car, outbound from Indianapolis, on the Indianapolis and Martinsville line, ran head-on into a work train four miles out of Martinsville, yesterday afternoon.

The dead are: Thomas Weddle of Martinsville, section foreman of Interurban line; Merle Apple of Martinsville, conductor on work train.

B. Caldwell, Brooklyn, motorman in the limited car, had his back and head injured and will probably die.

The exact cause of the collision is not known. The work train was standing on a siding at Riverside curve when the limited, which was trying to make up lost time, ran into it.

MEN IN FAVOR OF A STRIKE

Coal Miners Vote Overwhelmingly to Walk Out on March 1st Next

Special to the Review.

London, Jan. 18.—The result of the coal miners' vote as announced today shows 445,801 in favor of a strike and 115,921 against. This means that a nation-wide strike will be called for March 1st next unless a compromise can be arranged in the meantime.

To Prevent Churchill Speaking in Favor of Home Rule —Will Admit Nobody on Night of Speech.

Belfast, Ireland, Jan. 18.—Arrangements made by the Unionists to freeze out Winston Spencer Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, at his intended demonstration in favor of home rule, which is to take place here on Feb. 8, include the bivouacking of 5,000 stalwarts inside Ulster Hall some days in advance of the meeting. They will have orders to hold the hall against all comers.

Anti-home rulers are to be brought in the city on special trains on the day of the meeting and it is anticipated that 75,000 of them will be available for picket duty in order to block all the approaches to Ulster Hall or any other possible meeting place.

Blocking Tactics Condemned.

London, Jan. 18.—The decision of the Ulster Unionists to prevent the home rule meeting at Belfast, Feb. 8, has placed the Unionist party in something like a dilemma. Even in Ulster a large body of the loyalists agree that the decision was ill-advised, while several influential Conservative papers condemn the attempt thus to stifle free speech as calculated to do the loyal cause more harm than good.

They admit that thus challenged it would be cowardice on the part of Mr. Churchill to draw back now, and since it can only be supposed that serious rioting would be the outcome of the meeting at Belfast, they hope the promoters of the affair will withdraw their invitation to Mr. Churchill and thus avert serious danger.

IRISH PLAYERS WERE ARRESTED

Philadelphia, Jan. 18.—Warrants for the arrest of every member of the cast of "The Play Boy of the Western World," were served yesterday afternoon and bail entered for a hearing before a magistrate. The players are charged with "Taking part in a theatrical performance of an immoral character, or which might tend to corrupt morals." The warrants were sworn to by Irishmen, who were opposed to the production.

WILL TESTIFY AGAINST PACKERS

Chicago, Jan. 18.—New interest was added to the trial of the Chicago packers yesterday when Walter A. Wall, formerly an employe of Morris & Co., arrived here, prepared to take the stand against the defendants as one of the Government's witnesses.

Wall was former branch house manager for Morris & Co., at East St. Louis, Ill., and St. Joseph, Mo., and is said to have an intimate knowledge of the details of the packers' business methods.

Hockey Spectator Hurt.

Barrie, Jan. 18.—While watching a hockey game last night from the penalty box, John Barr, manager of the Barrie Carriage Co., was knocked to the ground by a blow under the left eye from the puck, which inflicted an ugly wound and necessitated his being taken to his home.

CAMPAIGN FOR RECIPROCITY

New Pact Proposed Between the U. S. and the British Empire

Special to the Review.

New York, Jan. 18.—H. J. Crowe, Newfoundland's lumber king, is starting a campaign here for a larger reciprocity pact to include not only Canada and the United States, but the entire British Empire. Crowe has letters from public men on both sides of the Atlantic endorsing the proposed alliance, which is principally aimed against Germany and Japan.

Quebec's Road Plans.

Quebec, Jan. 18.—Yesterday afternoon at the sitting of the House, Hon. Mr. Taschereau, Minister of Public Works, outlined the system of public highways upon which the Government propose to guarantee a loan of $10,000,000, which sum will be available for the towns and municipalities of the province, on payment of half the interest rate of two per cent.

The Minister declared that the project included the macadamizing of four highways between Montreal and Quebec, two on the north and two on the south shore, of a highway from Quebec to the United States boundary by way of Sherbrooke and Beauce County, of a highway from Quebec to Gaspe, and of a highway from Quebec to Tadousac.

Mr. Taschereau added that they contemplated a macadamized roadway from Montreal to Sherbrooke, one from Montreal to Ottawa, and another roadway from Montreal in the American border. He declared that the $10,000,000 which was to be placed at the disposal of municipalities of the province would enable them to construct 3,300 miles of roads.

LUNG TROUBLE

Mrs. Biny Brown, of Tenecape, N.S., Was Cured by Catarrhozone of Lung Trouble and Catarrh, After Hundreds of Other Remedies Failed

If your lungs are weak; if there is consumption in your family; if Colds, Catarrh, and Bronchitis bother you, be sure to use Catarrhozone. It is especially adapted for these diseases and cures every time.

Mrs. Brown took cough mixtures, but they made her sick. Then she used an atomizer, but, after resorting without benefit to poultices, she tried Catarrhozone.

"I used Catarrhozone Inhaler," writes Mrs. Brown, "five minutes every hour, and soon recognized that it was going to cure me. I could feel the soothing medicated air spreading through the air passages of the throat, and it touched the sore spots in the lungs that other remedies failed to reach. Catarrhozone seemed to go just where it was needed most, and soon put a stop to my cough. It restored me to perfect health, and I am convinced that no cough, cold, or catarrh can exist if Catarrhozone is used."

No treatment is so clean, so pleasant, so certain to cure as Catarrhozone. By means of the Inhaler, the local symptoms, such as coughing, inflammation and congestion are speedily corrected. Ferrozone tablets which are taken after each meal purify and cleanse the blood of all poisons, and build up and strengthen the system.

This local and constitutional treatment is always effective, and cures cases that have been given up as hopeless. Money can't buy or produce anything better, and to get cured it is absolutely necessary to use Catarrhozone.

THE CONSUMER PAYS

Retailers in Chicago anticipate a price of sixty cents a pound for butter. They offer as an explanation the recent severe weather. The real cause is more likely that the commission agent wants to get a little larger rake-off. It is strange that with the art of cold storage perfected, swift transfer and distribution, that butter should soar so high every winter. A lot of butter that is purchased at a small figure in warm weather and which has been lying in cold storage for months, is now handed out as the real fresh article at a price about three times as much as was paid for it. All the mechanical and commercial devices which should tend towards a more uniform level of prices, don't seem to help the consumer any. They have a system of regulating prices at times of plenty, but at times of a shortage excessive prices always rule.

DISMISSALS IN THE SERVICE

The Liberals are reported to have made 660 appointments to the civil service after the government was defeated on September 21st. Not much wonder that there are dismissals now These eleventh hour appointments were no doubt given to party workers for services rendered in the campaign and not because they had any special qualification for the positions. Then previous to the election, every branch of the outside service had been loaded up with extra help in order that these men would vote right on election day. This is a regular move when every every election rolls round and it must be said is worked by both political parties. All this outcry about dismissals by the Liberals is just to create a feeling among the people that the new government is busy slaughtering the men in office to find berths for their friends. The greater part of the dismissals made by the Borden government have been in the outside service, and many of them, only temporary employes, while others were for glaring cases of offensive partizanship. After the commission get through with its enquiry there will likely be more dismissals in the service, as there are many positions created to make way for party workers, etc., that have no good reason for existing.

THE RICHESON CASE

Twelve leading Boston clergymen were asked to express an opinion as to whether Rev. Mr. Richeson, who confessed to the murder of his former sweetheart, Avis Linnell, should suffer the death penalty. Only three out of the number answered "No," and they did so because they are opposed to capital punishment. Nine thought the death sentence should be carried out. There is no question of the execution of some unfortunate who kills in a fit of passion or while in a drunken state. He is sentenced and pays the penalty without any talk of commutation of sentence. Then why should a man of culture who deliberately plans and kills a trusting young girl be extended any sympathy? It would be a travesty on justice for this man to escape just punishment.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Looks like as if our old friend, the January thaw, had arrived.

Vice-President Bury makes the announcement that the C.P.R. is bout to spend $20,000,000 in the west. This is certainly Canada's growing time.

A formal declaration is made by the new French Cabinet to the effect that it is intended France should remain faithful to her alliances and friendships and should have a government that will govern. The Chamber of Deputies by a vote of 440 to 6, voted confidence in the new cabinet. This is a splendid beginning for the new Ministry.

Eighty-two fatal and one hundred and ninety-four non-fatal accidents to workpeople were recorded by the Department of Labor during December. This record shows a slight decrease compared with the preceding month and is much less than in the same month of last year. In November there were 286 accidents, fatal and non-fatal, to individual workmen, and in December, 1910, there were 351 accidents. There were eleven killed in the railway service, and fourteen in mining. The largest number of non-fatal accidents occurred in the metal trades, in which forty-two were injured. Nine men were killed and thirty-one were injured in the building trades, an unusually high number for the month of December.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucuous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you may have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucuous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

A Lucky Loss

(Philadelphia Post)

Jimmy Traddles was a laborer. Noon sounded one day, and he sat down and felt in his pockets for his lunch. But the pocket was empty. "Boys" said he, "I've lost my lunch," Then he gave a cheery laugh. "It's a good thing I've lost it, too," he said.

"Why so, mate?" a man asked.

"Because," said old Jimmy, "I left my teeth at home."

Deserves No Sympathy

Montreal Star

No sooner does the Rev. Clarence Richeson confess that he took advantage of his sweetheart's supreme confidence in him to give her a deadly poison, when she thought it medicine, than certain soft headed and wobbly-spined degenerates begin to talk of "an easier sentence" for him. Why, in the name of all that is manly and chivalrous!

Paying on the "Water"

Cotton's Weekly

Before the U. S. Steel Trust was formed, the cost of producing pig iron was figured at $8 per ton. The trust was formed, $500,000,000 of watered stock was issued and now the experts figure it costs $14 per ton to produce pig iron. You can't pay millions of dollars as interest on watered stock without these millions coming out of the incomes of other people.

Not Like Americans

New York Tribune.

There was a knock on the door in the midst of the packing, and the little globe-trotter opened it to behold John Chinaman with his laundry bundle. "I'll not need you again John I'm going away to China," was the smiling explanation. "Me go back some day, too" he replied. "Got wife an' 'lil' boy in Canton. No see now 5 year."

The Manhattan girl who was to accompany the little globe trotter on the Oriental tour became interested at this juncture. "Aren't you afraid your wife will run off with some other Chinese while you are away, John?" she asked.

Without so much as vouchsafing a glance at his inquisitor he picked up his bundle and when he reached the door retorted; 'My wife, she no Melican woman; she Chinese lady."

THE MARKETS

Latest Quotations in Grain Dairy Products, Live Stock Etc.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Jan. 17.—There was a decided improvement in the foreign demand for Manitoba spring wheat, there being orders in the market for fully 1,000,000 bushels, at an advance in prices of 3d to 6d per quarter; but owing to the higher prices ruling in the Winnipeg market and the small offerings the volume of business worked was small. Sales of tough wheat were made on spot at 72½c to 73c, ex-track. Cables on oats were stronger, and bids 3d per quarter higher, which sellers would not accept. The local demand for oats was good, and sales of round lots of extra No. 1 feed were made at 46c track, with sellers now asking 46½c. The export trade in flour was quiet, as bids were generally out of line, but the local demand is fairly good and prices were firm. Demand for millfeed is good. Cheese is quiet, but the demand for butter is good, and prices have a strong upward tendency. A good trade is passing in eggs. Demand for provisions is fair.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Jan. 17.—At the Canadian Pacific live stock market the receipts for the week ending Jan. 13 were 1100 cattle, 720 sheep and lambs, 1680 hogs and 250 calves. The offerings on the market this morning for sale amounted to 650 cattle, 250 sheep and lambs, 1800 hogs and 200 calves.

There was an easier feeling in the market for cattle, and prices were about 25c per 100 pounds lower than on Monday for the common grades, on account of the supply of such being in excess of the requirements of the trade. Good to choice beeves continue scarce, and values are firmly maintained, with a good demand from both butchers and packers, but they found it difficult to fill their wants; in fact, there was nothing on the market to suit the latter.

One or two loads of good steers and heifers were sold at $6.50 per 100 pounds, which was the top price realized for the day. There was some demand for feeding bulls, for which $3.60 per 100 pounds was paid, but the trade on the whole was slow. There was also an easier feeling in the market for milch cows owing to the more liberal offerings.

The condition of the market for small meats was unchanged, prices for all lines being steady on account of the small offerings, for which there was a good demand, and an active trade was done. Choice calves were scarce and wanted, a few good ones selling as high as $12 to $15 each. The tone of the market for hogs was steady, the demand being good for selected lots at $7 to $7.10, and some lots that were contracted for last week were delivered at $7.25 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars.

Butchers' cattle, choice, $6.75 to $7; do., medium, $4.25 to $5.50; do., common, $3 to $4; canners, $2.50 to $3.50; butchers' cattle, choice cows, $5.25 to $5.50; do., medium, $4.75 to $5; do., bulls, $5.25 to $5.50; feeding bulls, $3.60 to $3.75; milkers, choice, each, $70 to $75; do., common and medium, each, $45 to $55; springers, $30 to $40.

Sheep, ewes, $4.50 to $4.75; bucks and culls, $3.75 to $4.25; lambs, $6.50 to $6.75.

Hogs, f.o.b., $7 to $7.25.

Calves, $3 to $15.

The Paternoster Ruby

By Charles Edmond Walk.

Supplied exclusively in Canada by the British & Colonial Press, Limited, Toronto.

On the writing-table, among a thousand and one odds and ends, was a memorandum calendar. It was in nowise different from scores of other calendars; the date displayed was today's, and in the blank space below, written in a large, firm hand, appeared a notation.

But this memorandum contained a most peculiar word. Somehow, as my eye encountered it, a thrill ran through me. I could not define it; the thrill was without perceptible meaning, but I felt that the odd word should tell me something. The word was odd, in fact, that I feared I could not remember it. So I copied it upon the back of an envelope, thus:

TSHEN-BYO-YEN.

Immediately under it had been written: "10 o'clock."

Further speculation on the matter was interrupted by Genevieve coming down-stairs. I stepped into the hall when I heard her, and she at once joined me. We went into the living-room.

Her beautiful eyes were round with wonder, her sweet face filled with concern; but before I entered into any explanations, I turned to her and held out my arms.

"First," I whispered, "I want to know whether it is real."

She caught her breath sharply; the color came quickly to her cheeks, a tender light to the blue eyes. She put her hands confidently into mine.

"What has happened to you?" she asked, standing away from me and staring with perplexed solicitude at the testimony of Stodger's barbarous surgery. I had forgotten all about the red-hot poker.

"A mere scratch—a nothing," I made light of it. "I'll tell you all about it when the time comes. There are too many other things to be disposed of first."

"But—you have been wounded," she persisted, now thoroughly alarmed. And so I had to tell her about the night's adventure, which I did, for the most part shamefacedly enough.

It was a delight to watch the different expressions flit across her lovely countenance, to see them mingle and blend and give away to others—wonder, amazement, awe, horror, terror—I can't begin to name them all. A score of times she interrupted me, but it was always a welcome interruption.

"Stodger's a trump," I concluded. "Think of him jumping up from a sound sleep and throwing himself into the thick of the fray, without one second's hesitation."

"Y-e-s," she agreed, but there was no enthusiasm in her tone. Then she turned warmly upon me.

"I'm thinking, though, that you've been gifted with mighty little sense, Knowles Swift, to have acted so recklessly. The very idea of a sane man creeping through that dark hall and up those dark stairs, and plunging into he knew not what!" She eyed me severely.

"But I did know," I protested meekly. "It was the étagère."

There was a solemn rebuke in the slow shaking of her head. "A man swears so," she sighed, "when he does anything awkward, like that."

I remained discreetly silent

However, she was too much exercised over my "wound"—as she persisted in calling the scratch on my cheek—and the loss of the ruby to encourage any levity. Honestly, at that moment I cared not a whit for the ruby. Besides, there were consolations which I need not record. It was real—very, very real; and I was the happiest man in the world.

Genevieve was curious to learn—very naturally so—what had transpired between Belle and me.

"How is she now?" I parried. I had concluded that when Miss Belle was again her normal self, she would rather have our little episode forgotten.

"Calm as a graven image," was the reply. Grief and anxiety trembled in Genevieve's voice. "But it is a stony, deathlike sort of calm that gives me the creeps. The poor girl is distracted. She wants to be alone; she sent me to you."

"She sent you," said I, with quick interest. This struck me as being rather curious.

"Oh, I know Belle," said Genevieve. "She probably said some very bitter things to you; now she's sorry."

I trusted that the impulsive young lady was experiencing some pangs of remorse; but before I confided anything, I learned how Genevieve came to be locked in Belle's room.

Early in the morning Belle had grown quite tranquil, but insisted upon talking. To humor and soothe her, Genevieve, during their talk, asserted that I could be depended upon to save Royal. She also mentioned that I was expected to call.

After breakfast Genevieve had fallen asleep, through sheer weariness. Belle must have risen cautiously, determined to treat with me herself. Her impulsive decision was manifestly arrived at after I rang the bell, because she had had no time to dress.

Soon after, Genevieve had awakened with a start, to find herself locked in and the bell-button dug out of its socket. She could not summon the servants without creating an uproar. She soon surmised something of what Belle had in mind, but never, until she heard the muffled report of the pistol, had she dreamed that the frenzied girl contemplated anything so desperate and rash.

Well, I softened the matter as much as I could for Miss Belle, making it very clear that I realized from the start that she was not responsible, and that I had been most of the time engaged in calming her and trying to persuade her to return to her room. I even stretched a point about the shooting; I feared that Genevieve would never forgive her for that. I said it had occurred—without intent—while struggling with her; which, after all, was perhaps not far from the truth.

"Why should Miss Belle have any reason for despising Alexander Burke?" I asked during our conference, for the girl's patent abhorrence of the fellow stuck in my mind.

Genevieve's expression became all at once very grave. For a moment she sat silent, toying with a plait of her skirt; then she looked up at me, saying soberly:

"It is one of the things that I should'nt talk about. Still—I don't know," she faltered. "It is Burke alone who has arouse her resentment." Then she decided.

"I will tell you this much: She overheard a conversation between him and her father. It filled her with loathing for the fellow—that and—and something else."

"I shall not try to force your confidence, my dear girl," I said. "Tell me only what you think you ought."

"Belle trusts me implicitly," she said simply.

"And I want her to continue to. The something that makes her loathe him—are you free to speak of that?"

"It's nothing; it's ridiculous." She laughed nervously. "He has tried to make love to her. Ugh! She shuddered at the idea.

"The dickens he has!"

Such a thought had never entered my head; it was impossible to imagine that slippery rascal in the role of an ardent lover. His blood was as cold as a fish's. But now I understood the fellow's animus toward Maillot; his hatred was inspired by jealousy. Belle had never spoken of the matter to Maillot—mortification was potent to hold this confidence in check—but he had instinctively distrusted and disliked Burke in return.

I could not bring myself to confide in my lovely coadjutor my convictions respecting her uncle. I learned that he had left the house that morning at an hour unusually early for him, and I thought at once of the queer memorandum on his calendar. He was still very much worried, declared Genevieve, and when at home kept more and more to himself as time went by. Mrs. Fluette was asleep after the night's ordeal with her daughter.

"If Royal were free to come after her," said Genevieve, not without some bitterness, "he could carry Belle away this very minute; there would be nobody to say him nay. Poor boy!"

"It is more than likely that he shall soon," I offered in dubious comfort.

"Do you know where your aunt and uncle were married?" I asked.

"Yes. It was in a little town in Ohio—"

"Merton," said I.

"That's it! But how did you know?"

I smiled at her surprise. "It's Felix Page's birth-place; the rest was inference."

She waited with ill-concealed curiosity for what was to follow. I found it necessary to hold her hands—both of them—while I told her.

"Would you mind making a journey there?—at once—to-day?"

Her eyes opened wide; even her sweet lips parted; but she waited.

And now I found it really essential to put my arm around her and draw her to me—she was too agitated to hear otherwise what I had to say. I hastened to explain how impossible it was for me to leave the city just at the time, what with my anxiety to recover the ruby and the necessity of keeping in close touch with Burke.

"I require only one more piece to complete the answer to our riddle," I affirmed,—I really thought so at the time,—"and you can get it for me. Don't bother your aunt; she will keep back all essentials, anyway. Your uncle and aunt and Felix Page all came from the same town, and there you can find plenty of old gossips who can—they'll be only too willing to—give you all the information you want. They'll give you more; but we can winnow the wheat from the chaff after you get back. Do you feel equal to such an undertaking?"

The proposal appeared to overcome her. She considered for a time, then turned to me, her eyes dancing, her cheeks flushed.

"Yes," she said, with bated breath. "I can't do Belle any good; she only wants to be alone. What do you want me to do?"

"Dig up every scrap of family history that you can—the Page's, the Fluettes', and the Coopers'; especially as they affect one another. Being a Cooper yourself, the task should be easy for you; you are compiling a family-tree, you know."

Genevieve gave me a sly look, and retorted:

"'When first we practice to decieve'—"

"Oh, no," I assured her. "If you do your work thoroughly, you certainly will have a complete family-tree. So there's no deception about it."

Well, it was finally settled that she would go, and that she would report the result of her journey to me as soon as possible.

She then elicited a confession of my inability to solve the cipher—which confession was yielded up to the accompaniment of an exceedingly sour smile.

"That old house is a hoodoo," I said bitterly. "I have failed in everything I ever undertook inside its walls. The rest of the chase will be pursued on the outside."

"And you did'nt even find the little daisy what-you-may-call-'ems — the originals, I mean?" She meant the crazy designs on the cipher.

"I did not."

It is likely that a bill will be introduced in the Commons this season providing for stringent regulations in regard to pure food.

A caucus of the Quebec Government was held yesterday, at which it is understood the question of provincial elections was discussed. Nothing is expected before 1913.

U. S. READY FOR SERVICE.

If Intervention In Cuba Is Necessary Officers Are Equipped.

Washington, Jan. 18—While officials of the army do not expect actual intervention in Cuba as a result of the message sent Tuesday, they are ready.

As a result of the painstaking work of American officers during the last period of occupation in Cuba almost every inch of the island has been surveyed and explored; every road and trail is known and mapped and it would be quite impossible for any guerilla force to operate successfully against American soldiers as did the Cuban patriots against the Spaniards. Outside of that special work the general staff has not found it necessary to prepare any plans for the despatch of a military expedition with Cuba as its sole objective.

Transportation service for a preliminary invading army of approximately 4,250 men is available for immediate use in the United States army transports Meade, Kilpatrick, Sumner and McClelland. These vessels are now lying at Newport News in readiness for immediate service.

In addition to the regular transports, it would be necessary to charter merchant vessels for the transportation of horses to be used in a campaign. But officials of the army declare that they do not anticipate any trouble in obtaining ships for this purpose.

Giving Him Carte Blanche.

A few years ago John Kendrick Bangs, the humorist, told a number of his Broadway literary confreres that he felt particularly elated over an order he had just received from Henry W. Savage, the theatrical producer, for the libretto of a musical comedy. The play was produced a few months later. During the long period of rehearsals so much of Bangs' material was eliminated and so much other material inserted in its stead that when the curtain went up on the first night not more than half a dozen of the original lines remained.

About a week later a friend, meeting Bangs, asked him if he was writing any more plays for Savage.

"Yes," replied Bangs. "Only an hour ago I sent him 500 blank sheets of paper and told him to go as far as he liked."—Irvin Cobb in New York Tribune.

Anthony Trollope's First Earnings.

A literary man recalls Anthony Trollope's little gloat over the first fruits of his pen. "I send you a copy of 'The Warden,'" he wrote to Lord Houghton in 1866, "which Mr. Longman assures me is the last of the first edition. There were, I think, only 750 printed, and they have been over ten years in hand. But I regard the book with affection, as I made £9 2s. 6d. by the first year's sales, having previously written and published for ten years without any such golden result. Since then I have improved even upon that." Trollope, of course, "improved upon that" in no uncertain fashion.—West-

A Common Mistake

A common mistake, and one that is quite excuseable, is that so many people between the ages of 40 and 50 feeling the need of glasses either refuse to wear them or continue putting it off.

There is no greater mistake than the common saying that "so-and-so" had such strong eyes, lived to be 80 and never used glasses to read. It is a physiological fact that at the age of 45 years the crystalline lens looses some of its elasticity; it looses more as age advances, so that even under accommodation it cannot become convex as it did before; consequently, this convexity (needed for reading) must be supplied artificially by means of glasses.

The above is taken from the Family Doctor a large American publication.

NEW PRESIDENT TO BE ELECTED

Many Matters Before Peterboro Industrial Fair Officials

A meeting of the Peterborough Industrial Fair directors is called for tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock in the city council chamber. Considerable business of an important nature will be discussed. The appointment of a new president will be made, to succeeds the late R. H. Leary. A new board of directors will also be elected.

One of the most important matters to be brought up will be the discussion of how to make the annual field crop competition more successful than it has proven in past years.

NEW COMPANY MAY MEAN SOME OPPOSITION IN COAL BUSINESS

Peterborough is to have a new coal company and one shipment has already been disposed of at a price below that of the other dealers, of whom it has been stated a combine is in operation. The men behind the new company have nothing definite to announce at present as the organization is not altogether complete. Whether the company will continue to sell under the standard prices is not decided.

The question of what action the other dealers would take in the event of the new company dropping the prices, was discussed to-day by a Review representative and a local coal dealer. The latter ventured the opinion that no action by the coal dealers as a body would be taken even if the new-comers did operate their business on a lower price basis.

He furthermore considered that it would be practically impossible for a dealer to sell the same quality of coal as is now being sold, at a price lower than is being at present asked, and yield any measure of profit.

The reigning high price of coal, however, is thought by a large number of citizens to be an expense to be reckoned with, and should a movement for the reduction of such a scale of prices be forthcoming, it would be generally welcomed by householders of the city.

LOADED BAGS USED IN ENDEAVOR TO LOCATE BODY

Although a diligent search has continued since last Sunday, the day of the drowning accident at Nassau, no trace of the body of the late Mr. Fairweather has been found.

A large number of men and two divers have been at work.

Yesterday a number of heavily loaded bags were dropped in the river where the unfortunate man fell into the water, and these were carried down the river and into an eddy. The same experiment was held today and the bags were discovered in the same place, but no sign of the body was found.

The divers are preparing to search the river to-morrow below the dam to the east of the power house, the body having possibly been drawn to that point.

GROWTH OF CITY IN TEN YEARS

Population Has Been Doubled in in That Time

To illustrate the city's assessment and tax growth, the following figures are given for the years 1901 and 1911. In 1901, when Mr. J. W. Green took the office of tax collector, there were four wards only, East City not being annexed to Peterborough until 1904. The corresponding increase in the rate of taxation will be also interesting to note—

	Assessment	Amt. Taxes
1911	$9,707,955	$223,218.01
1901	$4,533,735	$83,733.15
Increase	$5,174,220	$139,484.86

Rate 1911—22 mills public school 24 mills Separate school.

Rate 1901—18 mills.

Ashburnham assessment in 1902 was $416,703; total taxes $795.601; rate 17 mills.

The population of Peterboro in 1901 was 10,985 and for 1911, about 20,000 showing that the city has doubled in numerical strength.

Penitentiary terms for tax dodgers is the remedy proposed in Germany.

KNOT IS TIED WHEN YOUNG COUPLE MEET AFTER SEVENTEEN YEARS

A Saskatoon, Sask., despatch says: That truth is stranger than fiction was clearly demonstrated here the other day when Miss Hannah Bonabe, of Walkerton, Ont., and Wm. Francis Rothwell, now of Prince Albert, met and were married after a romance dating back 17 years.

At the time of their first meeting Mr. Rothwell was following the profession of engineer and surveyor, and his duties took him abroad. For a number of years he was absent from Canada, his travels having led him to India, Egypt and South Africa. After a time, however, his love for the land of the maple asserted itself, and he returned to Canada and located in Prince Albert, where he is now in the employ of the brewery of that place as a commercial traveller.

It is supposed that during his nomadic career as a surveyor he never gave a thought to his friend of younger days, but on New Year's day the Prince Albert knight of the grip was in Saskatoon, and during the course of his was agreeably surprised to encounter the friend of his youth, and they shook hands and exchanged greetings appropriate to the season of the year, just the same as any old-time friends might do after a prolonged absence. What followed is not known except that the two young people paid a visit to the manse of Knox church, and emerged from the portals as husband and wife a short time later. The romantic nature of the marriage has been closely guarded, but as usual in such cases at least one loophole was left unguarded.

Besides speaking on the reason of why he left the Roman Catholic church, Rev. Mr. Morgan told of the attacks made upon him and the attempts to disprove his stated connections with the Roman Catholic Church.

CEMENT MAKING IN THE FAR WEST

Within a very short time Prince Rupert, the Pacific Coast terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway will not have any occasion to import its supply of cement from England, Germany, China or even Victoria. During the past summer there was located near Shames a large deposit of limestone, that is considered perfect for the manufacture of cement. Accordingly the locators staked the property, awaiting an examination by an experienced mining engineer.

The world is a great, big junk heap of broken promises and wasted opportunities.

MIDNIGHT CALL FOR THE FIREMEN

Lots of Smoke But No Blaze at Hunter's Store

Midnight wayfarers joined the fire department at the corner of Brock and George street last night, after 23 was rung out in the fire hall. P. C Kidd's eagle eye had detected smoke in several parts of the block and when the firemen reported the trouble was found to be in the rear of Hunter's grocery store.

Plumbers had been working at the premises during the day with troublesome pipes and it is thought that a stray spark was the cause of the whole trouble. There was no blaze. Some damage was caused by the smoke.

ELECTRIC POWER COMPANY IN FAVOR OF DEAL

Would Rather Sell Out to Hydro-Electric Commission

Montreal, Jan. 17.—When spoken to this morning about the decision of the Hydro-Electric Comission to fight the Electric Company, Limited, over the Trent Valley power business, T. B. Macaulay, president of the Electrical Company, Ltd., said that if the commission wanted a fight it would be accommodated. He further said that his company was willing to accept the valuation of its property fixed by an arbitration board of experts, the Hydro Commission to select one representative, the company to choose one, and the two to select a chairman.

Mr. Macaulay said if the board fixed the value of the company's property at $4,000,000, well and good, the company would accept the price. The commission would, however, have access to the books of the company, and would find that its bonds alone were valued at $4,000,000. After this came the stock and the value of the properties added to the business since it started operations.

Mr. Macaulay said his company was not afraid of competition, as the Hydro-Electric Commission could not do anything for two years anyway.

TEAMSTER BROKE HIS LEG IN TWO PLACES

Load of Logs Upset and Caused the Injury

Lindsay, Jan. 18.—Mr. John Kerr, who has been employed as teamster by the John Carew Co. Ltd., had the misfortune to break the bone of his right leg below the knee in two places on Tuesday afternoon. The accident happened on the first quarter line, immediately in front of Mr. John Shannihan's home, and was caused by the upsetting of a large load of logs, upon which he was seated and conveying from the Kennedy limits to the Scugog river.

The injured man was at once taken to the home of Mr. Shanahan, who telephoned for Dr. Waite, who after arriving 'phoned for the ambulance, by which he was conveyed to the Ross Memorial Hospital, where the injured member was set and he is now resting peacefully.

CANADIAN CANOE COMPANY IN THEIR NEW FACTORY

One of Peterboro's best known and most progressive industries, the Canadian Canoe Company, has commenced operations in a fine new building in the south part of the city. The new factory has been in use since New Year's, but not until the end of last week was it in full working order, and giving its full output.

The new building is a handsome structure, built of white brick and is situated on Rink street, not far from George street. The building, in which there are three stories and a basement is 114 feet long and 32 feet wide. This gives the company four new floor spaces of 3,648 sq. feet to work upon, or a total new floor space of 14,592 square feet.

It is a well known fact that the business of the Canadian Canoe Company is already large, and it gives a fair idea of the amount of work that will be done in the new building when it is stated that the present output and capacity of the company is double that of last year.

Thirty men will be employed in the newly erected factory, and the nature of the works and the product of the new building will be the same as that of the old one—the manufacturing of canoes, skiffs and boats of all kinds.

The machinery is situated in the basement. Here the lumber is prepared for use and before it reaches the second floor, it is ready to be used in the construction of the boats. On the first floor the canoes are made, and the second floor is devoted to the manufacturing of skiffs. The paint and varnish department occupy the third floor.

The offices, which are neat and splendidly equipped, occupy the west portion of the first floor. Directly north of the offices is a metal clad storehouse which will be used for storing the finished article until the day of shipment.

The interior of the building is finished in basswood, and the floors throughout are hardwood and of double thickness, the surface layer being maple. The walls and floors, as well as doorways, staircases and well-holes are of double thickenss to give added safety against fire. The building is steam heated and electric light and power is used throughout.

Both the Canadian Canoe Company and the contractors Fitzgerald and Padgett, are to be congratulated on this well equipped modern factory, which has been in the course of construction for six months and which is such a first class building.

The erection of this building is a practical illustration of the success of one of Peterborough's most successful industries. The Canadian Canoe Company commenced operations for the first time in the year 1902, on the corner of Brock and Water streets. Later their increased business demanding a chance, they went into their George street premises at the corner of Dalhousie st., and the last step in their successful business career is the construction of the new building, which is not only a mark of the company's prosperity but a recommendation to other industries of the advantages of Peterborough as a manufacturing city.

PUSH PETERBOROUGH

Industrial Advancement and Growth of the City.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—In the letters I have written I have indicated some of the advantages that Peterborough possesses. Let us now look at some of the things that must have been accomplished—at the advancement that has been made.

In the past ten years this city has grown faster than in any previous decade, although its growth has always been steady. The assessors' figures show an increase of population in that time of 70 per cent; the census returns show 63 per cent. The increase of population in the Dominion was 32 per cent., and in the Province of Ontario 13 per cent., so Peterborough with 63per cent. seems to have got its share.

Of the cities of Ontario, only four showed a more rapid growth than Peterborough during that period. One of these was Toronto, with 80 per cent; two others were Fort William and Port Arthur, in which the circumstances were exceptional, and the fourth is Niagara Falls, where amalgamation accounts for part of the addition. When Peterborough has grown more rapidly than Hamilton, London, Brantford, Windsor, Guelph, Galt and the other western cities, it has nothing to complain of. In eastern Ontario urban growth was slower than in western Ontario. Kingston's increase of population was only 5 per cent., and Belleville's 8 per cent.; showing that Peterborough outstripped the other western cities by great strides.

The building permits record gives similar evidence of advancement. Building permits were not issued in Peterborough until 1907, and the record during the past few years has been:

In 1908	$238,963
In 1909	343,489
In 1910	517,958
In 1911 (eleven months)	344,35[illegible]

Her factory buildings and additions to others are erected and some of them scarcely noticed by the people generally. Within a short period several such buildings have been constructed. Among these, last year, the Canadian General Electric Co. put up a large building, the Quaker Oats Co. two buildings, B. F. Ackerman, Son & Co., a large addition, the Peterborough Canoe Co. a substantial building, the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Co. an addition, and Adam Hall a new factory building.

Within the year the Canadian Canoe Company has erected a large new building, as has also the Canadian Chicle Co., and the Peterborough Creamery and Adam Hall have put up additions. The Bonner-Worth Co. erected a building for their new industry, and the Model Foundry and Pump Works and the Diamond Wire Mattress Co. occupied premies with new industries.

Other enlargements are contemplated and will probably be proceeded with in the spring. I do not profess that this covers all that has been done in the line of new concerns or factory enlargement, but it shows very creditable progress in manufacturing. When a citizen of another city tells of what has been done there, one is apt to consider it good progress, and may mentally compare it with what has been done in his own city to its disparagement, but does so because he does not know what the names of concerns in the other places represent, and because he has not kept himself informed or has not borne in mind what has been done in his own city.

How many of us, if asked, could give a fair idea of the number of factories in operation in Peterborough? A count brings to mind over fifty, and some of these are among the largest in the Dominion.

The number of factories, and the industrial advancement, the building record and the increase in population in recent years are very encouraging, and should be an incentive to the citizens to work together to have this rapid progress continue, for it demonstrates that Peterborough is admirably situated for manufacturing.

Yours truly,
CIVIS SUM.

PETERBORO MEN FIGURE IN CASE OF LOST MONEY

George MacGregor, a Farmhand Lost His Roll of $15

Toronto, Jan. 18.—A rather peculiar case of theft was reported to the police yesterday and resulted in the arrest of Frank B. Clark, who gives his home address as Peterborough, and his business address as 86 King street, east, Toronto. The complainant is Geo. MacGregor, a farm hand, living near Peterborough, who lost $15.

It appears that Clark and MacGregor found themselves on the same train a couple of days ago. MacGregor was flashing his money recklessly and Clark took it from him, giving him a card with his business address. Subsequently, MacGregor went to Clark's offiese, but could not get his 15, the explanation being that Clark had given it to another man on the train, who claimed to be the complainant's friend. The accused deposited $15 with the police, after his arrest, and was then granted bail.

Some men sell themselves to the devil, and others just rent themselves out by the day.

WELL LOOK WHO'S HERE

Lindsay Juniors Kick the Bucket and Will Play no More This Season.

Lindsay Warder — This morning, Secretary Butler, of the Lindsay junior hockey club called up the manager of the Cobourg Juniors and notified him that the Lindsay Juniors would default the game here to-morrow night and the return game at Cobourg to the eastern septette.

Besides the loss of Capt. Callaghan, which greatly crippled the team the Midgets also lost the services of their speedy centre, Dennison, who has joined the intermediate ranks. Dennison has played two games with the intermediates and has made good, materially strengthening the senior Midgets.

The Midgets looked good at the opening of the season and had the material, but were up against the O.H.A. who refused to let Callaghan play with the home team.

"JIDDY" MILLER PLAYING GREAT HOCKEY FOR NEW GLASGOW

The Evening News of New Glasgow, Nova Scotia, has a splendid reference to the work of Walter Miller, who works at left wing for the New Glasgow team, which is in the Maritime Provinces League. In the last game New Glasgow won from the Halifax Socials with a score of 8—4.

The News says:—In Miller New Glasgow has a great wing man. Miller was as conspicuous a player as there was on the ice. He played Murphy off his feet as he did in Halifax, and in so doing he received a lot of punishment, but he never quit. He followed the puck continually. There was no let up to Miller. He is not a selfish player. When he takes the puck along the boards instead of trying to score himself he invariably passe to Scott. Miller, however, got a score last evening on a clever pass from Gaul.

ALL SAINTS' AND T.A.S. TO-NIGHT

Trent Valley League Game Promises to be Warmly Contested—Madoc Beat Marmora—Juniors go to Port Hope.

Plant in Full Operation in Fine Brick Structure on Perry St.

Fans who like to witness a red hot argument should be on hand at the Brock street rink when All Saints' and T.A.S meet in a Trent Valley League game. The Saints' lineup is lighter than that of the Abstainers, but their railbird supporters claim the team is faster and will give their opponents a hard tussel for first honors. Manager Grady is sending his regular team into action and the game to-night should be a hummer.

The Juniors left at noon for Port Hope, where they play to-night. Stan Cook was able to get away and the team is the same as played in Lindsay.

The All Saints'-Havelock game, postponed on Friday night last, will be played on February 2nd.

The funny part of this district race is that Lindsay claims to have the team to land the honors. The latest is that the team has a new mascot in the shape of a Newfoundland dog. Bingo is his name, and, according to the Lindsay Warder. Bingo cut quite a dash at Trenton. The local rooters' club should secure the services of one of George Gauthier's bull dogs to put the kibosh on Bingo in the same manner as the intermediates will hand it out to Bill Staddard and company in Mudville on Jan. 30.

In a game at Brock street rink last night the G.T.R. seven defeated the C.P.R. team by the score 7—4. The G.T.R. boys played a winning game all through, but the checking of the losers bothered them considerably. Jamieson, of the C.P.R. bunch, would certainly make good among the players in Buck Irving's Trolley League, now buried.

Norman H. Armstrong, of Trenton, is said to be one of the best hockey players in the east. He plays cover-point for the junior team, and is a fine skater and stick-handler, with a most effective shot. Chaucer Elliott says that he is another Fred Taylor, whom he resembles very much.—Toronto Star.

Madoc, Jan. 17.—In a Trent Valley League hockey match played here tonight Madoc defeated Marmora by a score of 10 to 4. Mr. Burrows, of Belleville, gave entire satisfaction as referee.

CAPTAIN CROFT LEFT THE ICE

The Lindsay Intermediates Were Helped Some at Trenton

From Trenton comes a story the particulars of which partly explain the one-sided score in the intermediate game on Tuesday night.

It appears that Croft at point, who is also captain, didn't play the game to the liking of Lawson Whitehead, the club's coach, the latter taking Croft to task for his individual work, which played havoc with the forward line.

Croft got mad and made for the dressing-rooms and divested himself of his uniform, being away from the battle for fifteen minutes, during which time, his team played against Lindsay with a man short. The visitors took advantage, of course, and secured enough goals to win any game.

Some of the Trenton supporters induced Croft to return to the ice and he consented. He was placed at rover for the balance of the game.

STILL ANOTHER WHITE HOPE FAILS

Jim Flynn Failed to Show Class at Toronto

Toronto, Jan. 18—Jim Flynn, who has signed up to meet Jack Johnson in July for the heavyweight championship of the world, met Al Williams of Cleveland before a large crowd of National Sporting Club members at the Riverdale Rink last night in what had been announced as the nearest thing to a heavyweight championship battle that Toronto would ever see; and to say that the fans are not enamored of near-championship bouts is putting it extremely mild. The men boxed under straight Queensberry rules, and the mill was over before the crowd could get a line on Flynn; but, from what could be seen of his work in the round and a half that the bout lasted, if he is the pick of the white hopes, the championship is likely to stay with the colored race for some time to come.

NO WONDER THE WEATHER CHANGED

The intermediate game at Peterborough last night was made a burlesque by Lafleur, the Belleville goalkeeper. After twenty minutes' play, the score then being 1 to 0 in favor of Belleville, Referee Burgoyne credited Peterborough with a goal, which Lafleur disputed, and thereafter refused to defend his goal, standing outside the posts and making no move to stop the puck. Under these circumstances the score of 30 to 1 is not to be wondered at.—Belleville Intelligencer.

BASEBALL

The Scottich Curlers, who come to Peterborough Sunday morning, will attend the morning service of Knox Presbyterian church, accompanied by members of the local curling club. An interesting service is being arranged for, with the pastor preaching.

PLUCKY PITCHING.

Vedder Sitton's Feat That Landed a Championship Pennant.

In the greatest finish that ever marked a minor league race New Orleans and Nashville, Southern league contenders, had come to the wire neck and neck. On Sept. 19, 1908, they met in the final and decisive game of the year upon exactly even terms. The entire fighting of the past five months had centered in that lone contest, five months packed into two hours of play, with the result to tell the story of the year's success or failure. Manager Frank of New Orleans, unwilling to run any needless risk, selected the veteran Theodore Breitenstein of St. Louis and Cincinnati fame to battle for his people in the box. Manager Bernhard of Nashville, passing by his veterans, selected young Vedder Sitton, an ex-collegian, to face the $10,000 wonder of another day.

For six innings so perfect was the defensive play of both nines that neither team was able to score. In the seventh inning Nashville scored one run, and in the play involved young Sitton slid headforemost into the plate and fell over unconscious from the blow received just above the eyes. With the situation as tightly drawn as it was, disaster looked to be imminent. Bernhard immediately rushed his entire remaining staff back of the clubhouse to be ready for the call, while two physicians worked above the unconscious Sitton. He came to life again just as the Nashville team was taking the field for the eighth inning with another in his place.

Staggering to his feet, Sitton insisted upon finishing the contest, and Bernhard, against his better judgment, gave way. The heavy batting end of the New Orleans team was up in order. With bandaged head, his face still white and drawn from the shock, in no condition to stand, still less to lead a desperate charge, Sitton electrified the crowd by striking out two of the first three men that faced him. In the ninth he added two more victims to the list in bringing home the victory by the score of 1 to 0, winning the pennant by the margin of one point. And then he collapsed. It was over two weeks before he recovered sufficiently to be up and about, and yet New Orleans batsmen relate that in those last two innings he had shown more "stuff" by a wide margin than at any other stage of the battle.—American Magazine.

The Customs Man Got Him.

"You won't catch me again." This little threat was hurled at a Customs officer on board the return C.P.R. train from Buffalo at 7.30 o'clock recently by a young economist of Toronto who had taken advantage of the cheap rates on Thanksgiving Day to journey to Buffalo for a new pair of shoes. As the train pulled into Niagara the officer boarded it. The Toronto youth opened his suit case with an air of "I'll show you," and there in full view was a pair of old shoes. "Did you buy anything in Buffalo?" asked the officer. "Yes, I bought a pair of shoes, but I'm wearing them." "How much did you pay for them?" queried the officer. "$4.50," replied the man. "Then you can just pay me $1.50," said the officer very politely. He did.—Toronto Globe.

PRAIRIE ARCHITECTURE.

Foreign Peoples of the West and Their Quaint Houses.

One of the most interesting things to the prairie tourist is the fact that in the west the influx of foreigners has resulted in the erection of a variety of strange habitations. Take, for instance, the country about Saskatoon, in Saskatchewan. There within a radius of forty or fifty miles you may find representatives of a score of peoples, nations and languages, says Emily P. Weaver in The Saturday Globe.

So close to Saskatoon that that city serves as their chief centre for business are several Mennonite settlements, where it is the prevailing fashion to build the houses and barns under one long roof. We visited one hamlet about a mile from Warman, where half a dozen Mennonite houses stand side by side, and, with one or two exceptions, the cow stable forms a kind of ante-chamber to the living-room of the establishment.

Outside some of the houses are nicely painted; others have paint only on the doors, the window-frames and the wooden shutters. For these trimmings a sky-blue tint is the favorite, contrasting sharply with the dull, weathered grey of the unpainted siding. Most of the houses have gay gardens beside them, along the fences of which quilts and pillows covered with bright-colored print were hung to air; and in the sunshine the little settlement, despite the dingy hue of some of its buildings, showed no lack of color.

Half way from Saskatoon to Prince Albert, near the villages of Rosthern and Hague, on the C.N.R., there is a large district settled almost entirely by people whose mother tongue is not English. Along the high bank of the Saskatchewan there is a settlement of French-Canadians, living, like their compatriots on the St. Lawrence, on deep, narrow farms, with the houses built sociably close together on the waterfront. I was not able to visit any of these houses, but I have little doubt that, being a conservative folk, they have transplanted to the west many of the domestic arrangements practiced by their forefathers in old France.

Not far away are Indian reserves, and scattered through the country are well-to-do German farmers, Mennonites and Doukhobors in their villages, and Hungarians and Galicians on their own farms. Some of the last-named people settled a few years ago on the outskirts of the village of Rosthern, living at first in dreadful little hovels built of poplar poles, filled in with sods. At the best of times the Galicians are not credited with being a clean people, and their tiny sod dwelling-places, which were more like excavations than houses, were so insanitary that at last their occupants were obliged to remove, and they were destroyed.

According to all accounts, the Galicians, in the construction of these places, aimed only at making some kind of shelter and retaining within it as much heat as possible. Ventilation was never thought of, so there was only one door, and the window was not made to open. The consequences would have been more disastrous were it not for the fact that in fine weather grown-up people and children alike almost live out of doors, but during the bitter days of winter the air in these hovels gets so indescribably noisome that those unaccustomed to it cannot endure it.

The dwellings of the Doukhobors, of which there are many within easy reach of Saskatoon, are unlike any other houses I have ever seen. These houses are made, like those of the Galicians, of poles and clay; within are clay ovens of much the same description as that in the Mennonite house, and one man assured us that their houses are much warmer than ours. "Yours too thin," was his criticism, as he pointed out the thickness of the walls of his own abode.

Moreover, I think the outside of these houses is even more interesting than the inside. They have rude little carvings over doors and windows, and their queer overhanging mud roofs are covered with a straggling growth of lamb's quarter or some such weed, which makes the quaint village look like anything but a village.

Edmonton's Park Problem.

A prominent citizen writes to The Edmonton Journal asking Edmonton what she is going to do about it—meaning parks, playgrounds, driveways, and breathing spaces for new citizens. He remarks that Edmonton is years behind other municipalities in Canada in this regard.

Apart from its purely local significance to Edmontonians, the letter is of interest to every Canadian concerned in city building in the newer districts of the Dominion.

When pioneer settlers begin to stake out a town on the prairie, or beside the bush, and gaze across the acres of waste land about their hamlet, they don't naturally bother much with provisions for children's playgrounds and boulevard driveways.

Edmonton was a fur post twenty-five years ago. Now she is one of the big places of Canada, capital of a province.

This modern city wants parks. She needs them.

Had an effort been made years ago to set apart land for park purposes, Edmonton would have no park problems. The park land which she is dickering for now, she would have obtained much more cheaply.

For real estate values in a fur post are somewhat lower than in a metropolis.

A Borden Story.

Mr. Borden is a man of admirable self-control. On one occasion he could not get a hearing at a meeting. "If you do not want to listen to me," he said, during a momentary lull, "you are not compelled to do so. I will dictate what I have to say to the press representatives." With that he walked over to the assembled newspaper men and continued his remarks in an undertone. His quiet nonchalance had the desired effect, and the speech was delivered to a silent and attentive audience.

PLAIN TALK ABOUT PILES

Don't you believe that experience is better than hearsay? If you suffer from piles, just try Zam-Buk. You can do so at our expense. So assured are we of the result that we will send you a free trial box if you send to our Toronto offices full name and address and a one cent stamp to pay return postage.

Scores of people daily acquaint us with the benefit they have derived from the use of Zam-Buk for piles. Mr. F. Astridge, of 3 St. Paul St., St. Catharines, Ont., says; "For five years I have suffered untold agony with protruding piles. The pain was so great at times I would almost scream.

"I lost weight and had no appetite. I tried everything I ever heard of for piles, as I was willing to take anything to get relief. It was useless, however, and I almost gave up in despair.

"One day a friend gave me a sample of Zam-Buk and told me of a friend of his who had been cured. I decided to try Zam-Buk, and the relief I got was encouraging. I used three boxes, and at the end of that time I was completely cured. I wish I could have got Zam-Buk years ago; it would have saved me a great deal of misery."

ENFORCING THE POINT

OBJECT LESSONS BROUGHT INTO PARLIAMENTARY DEBATE.

British Member For Rugby Recently Took a New Miner's Lamp Into the House and Attracted Great Interest —Haldane's Cordite Cane — Two Irish Pieces of Evidence — Sailorman Brings His Ears.

Every school teacher knows that a thing may be described for hours without producing much effect upon a class of children, but if the object be actually produced an impression is made upon their young minds which is never erased. He knows, then, the value of object lessons. Counsel in big cases in the law courts also seldom lose sight of the uses to which a well-constructed model, plan, or map may be put, and everybody knows that it is no uncommon thing for the actual instruments and accessories of a crime to be produced and handed to the judge and jury. Nevertheless, even with those daily examples of the use of an object lesson in illustrating a point, or making evidence clear, the members of the House of Commons very seldom resort to it, and members look upon anything of this sort as quite in the way of being a dramatic episode.

For instance, quite a little flutter was caused in the House of Commons the other night when Mr. Baird, the hon. member for Rugby, in the middle of a speech on the relative merits and different styles of lamps used in mines, suddenly produced a coal miner's cap of the type worn in Scotland, to the front of which a small lamp was attached. This he proceeded to put on his head, and showed how this particular lamp and its attachment made the work of the miner easier and safer. This simple little object lesson impressed the House wonderfully, and the member for Rugby had the satisfaction of learning later that he had brought many opponents to his own view-point.

Long before Lord Haldane was removed to the upper regions of the House of Lords he resorted to what might seem a very daring and dramatic method of enforcing his point. The composition and manufacture of that terrible explosive cordite were to be debated, and the Secretary for War wished to make certain points with regard to it plain to the House. But fire-arms and explosives and such-like dangerous things are not allowed in the precincts of the House. Nevertheless, when the dramatic moment arrived, Mr. Haldane startled his fellow members by holding up his walking-stick—an unprecedented thing in itself—and quietly explained that this innocent-looking cane was really made of cordite.

It will be remembered that the working model of a battering ram figured in an Irish debate some time since. Mr. Swift MacNeill, the hero of many a little scene in the House, was the hero of this one also, for it was he who produced it to show certain methods of eviction employed in this "disthressful counthry." He wanted to give his fellow members a sight of at least one of the wrongs of Ireland. Doubtless this object lesson had its effect. Had Mr. Swift MacNeill merely stated that the police battered down the doors of the peasants' cottages his words might have gone into one ear and out of the other as far as his fellow members were concerned, but when he actually produced a model of the ram with which the battering was done, he produced more effect than a score of fiery speeches would have done.

Even the humble potato has figured in the People's Chamber—quite apart from its daily appearance in the dining-room downstairs. It goes without saying that the potatoes used as an object lesson by the representative of Connaught constituency were neither boiled, baked, nor fried. In fact they were "threaded" on a short piece of string, and were so small and undersized that they looked little bigger than the chestnuts which boys carry about similarly strung. The hon. member explained to an astonished House that these three under-sized potatoes represent the entire product of the potato patch of one of his constituents. He had no difficulty, after dangling this string of potatoes before the eyes of his fellow members, in convincing them that the potato crop had failed and that something must be done.

Perhaps the rule which prohibits the introduction of fire-arms into St. Stephen's without special leave of Mr. Speaker, comes down from the day when Mr. Percival, then the Prime Minister, was shot by Mr. Majoribanks when making an effective display of a magazine rifle which he had brought down with him to illustrate some special point which he wanted to make in his speech. He succeeded in bringing the harmless unloaded weapon into the building, but not in smuggling it into the Commons, so he had to be content with the far less satisfactory method of verbal explanation. His object lesson was spoiled.

But a dagger was once not only brought in the House of Commons, but dramatically produced. The episode occurred, not three hundred years ago, as might be supposed, but barely thirty. An angry M.P. threw a dagger on the floor of the House, declaring dramatically that there had been times, which he rather regretted were not the present, when a man would have been killed for less provocation than he had himself received. The object lesson in assassination fell rather flat, for the House laughed.

In 1738 a merchant captain, named Jenkins, was admitted to the Bar of the House in order to tell his tale of torture by the Spaniards. As he spoke he pushed his long hair aside and showed that he was earless. Then he took from his pocket a piece of paper and thrilled the House with horror when he unwrapped it and held up between finger and thumb one of his own severed ears! This dramatic episode brought on a war which was long threatened between Britain and Spain.

The man who boasts of his ancestors seems to lose sight of the fact that he may be an ancestor himself some day.

DAWN OF A NEW CHINA

Negotiations For Peace Are Approaching Settlement.

Tang Shao Yi Receives a Telegram Saying That the Princes Will Accept the Republican Terms — Sun Yat Sen Is Determined to Resign In Favor of Yuan—Rising Grows In Mongolia.

Nanking, Jan. 18.—It is believed that the negotiations looking to a peaceful settlement are approaching a concluson. The formal document has been drawn up for signature, and Tang Shao Yi has been exchanging telegrams with President Sun Yat Sen. It is understood that they have finally agreed concerning guarantees.

Certain Republicans positively decline to accept Yuan Shi Kai as President of the republic in place of Dr. Sun, but the former may hold the Premiership in the Provisional Government, and, when peace is restored and the constitution drawn up, Yuan Shi Kai may have an opportunity to secure his election. Dr. Sun, however is persisting in his determination to retire.

The President yesterday declared that no loans had been contracted by the Republicans.

Princes Accept.

Shanghai, Jan. 18.—Tang Shao Yi has received a telegram from Pekin that as a result of yesterday's discussions the Imperial princes are unanimously in favor of the acceptance of the Republican terms. The Mongolian contingent raised some difficulties, which, however, are thought to be surmountable. It is reported that the Republicans hope now to raise a loan in the United States on security of various Wu Chang properties.

Five steamers with troops aboard are lying at Woo Sung, above Shanghai, under orders to proceed to Chi Fu.

Unrest In Mongolia.

Pekin, Jan. 18.—The revolutionary movement in Mongolia is making considerable progress. According to consular despatches received here, the seizure of the Manchurian town of Khailar by the revolutionaries and the proclamation of autonomy of Mongols of that region are confirmed. The Imperial troops stationed in the town did not offer any opposition.

The Russian railway guards, who have formed a cordon around the Russian settlement and railway station in Khailar for some weeks past, have permitted some of the Manchus to take refuge there.

Frequent reports reach Pekin that the Mongols have taken cities sometimes with and sometimes without opposition.

The attitude of the Republicans in connection with the loss of provinces hitherto attached to the empire is being watched with considerable interest by foreign observers.

In Russian circles it is contended that there is danger of a great and really modern army being organized by the Republican Government, but doubt is expressed by the military attaches of other foreign nations that the Russian statesmen really fear such an occurrence.

There seems to be a desire on the part of the British and Japanese Governments to prevent any anti-Russian press campaign at the present moment in view of the possibility of a partition of China, but in diplomatic circles here it is generally recognized that China has lost the right to retain vast territories which she has proved herself incapable of developing.

OLD AGE PENSION SYSTEM FOR CANADA

individualism," said Mr. Nickle, "this is the day of a so-called socialism; not the socialism that takes from a man what he has, but which guarantees for every man a chance.

"If men's lives and limbs are to be sacrificed on the altar of cheaper production, then they must also be taken into account in reckoning the cost of production."

Dr. Clarke (Red Deer) denied that individualism was extinct. He was not in favor of pensions, though, if they were to be paid, there was better excuse for giving them to the poor than to the rich.

They should be extremely careful of embarking on this scheme merely because it had been adopted in Great Britain where there were 560 persons to the square mile, as against 1 3-4 in Canada.

BASEBALL ETHICS.

When the Pitcher Has the Right to "Bean" the Batter.

In "The Right and Wrong of Baseball," in the American Magazine, Hugh S. Fullerton gives an interesting account of what is considered sportsmanship and what cheating in the national game. He writes:

"The best batters are those who 'crowd the plate'—that is, who stand as near the plate as the rules or the umpire will permit and lean over the corner of the rubber to make it difficult for the pitcher to pitch across that corner without taking a chance of hitting the batter.

"The players recognize the fact that the lines of the batter's position are obliterated within a few minutes after a game starts and that the umpires practically are helpless to enforce the rules or to tell while watching the course of a pitched ball whether or not the batter steps over the line. So it has become part of the unwritten law of the game that the pitcher may 'bean' (that is, pitch at the 'bean' or head) any batter who 'crowds' in order to drive him back from the plate. It is ethical under the players' code to hit and to injure any player who persists in encroaching upon the forbidden ground, and the batters themselves recognize this danger and accept it as part of the game."

THRIVED ON MISFORTUNE.

A German Peddler Who Insulted the Kaiser and Got Rich.

A German hawker, Hans Bauermeister, retired from business, having amassed a little fortune. According to a Paris contemporary, misfortune was the foundation of his success. The hawker's specialty was the sale of portraits of the imperial family.

His mode of haranguing his audience was something like this: "Buy a portrait of William I., whose motto was, 'I have no time to be wearied.'" "Who'll buy this Frederick II., whose prayer was, 'Teach me to suffer without complaining?'" "Do not fail to complete your collection and buy this portrait of our great emperor, William II., whose favorite phrase is, 'Augusta, you pack your trunks.'"

This last always brought down the audience, and in time the police, in another sense. Bauermeister was sentenced to sixty days for lese majesty. He did his time and on release restarted his business. He sold his portraits with the old formula until he came to that of the kaiser, and then he said, "I have learned to my cost that it is not lawful to repeat what he says so often." The people were just as well pleased, and the portraits sold splendidly.

Verdi Was Right.

When Verdi was putting the last touches to "Il Trovatore" he was visited in his study by a privileged friend, who was one of the ablest living musicians and critics. He was permitted to examine the score and run over the "Anvil Chorus" on the pianoforte. "What do you think of that?" asked Verdi. "Trash!" responded the connoisseur. Verdi rubbed his hands and chuckled. "Now look at this," he said. "Rubbish!" said the other, rolling a cigarette. The composer rose and embraced him with a burst of joy. "What do you mean?" asked the critic. "My dear friend," cried Verdi, "I have been making a popular opera. In it I resolved to please everybody except the purists, the great judges, the classicists like you. Had I pleased you I should have pleased no one else. What you say assures me of success. In three months 'Il Trovatore' will be sung and roared and whistled and barrel organed all over Italy." And so it proved.

One Helped the Other.

A lady was continually accusing her servant of extravagance without any real cause. The servant always bore this accusation patiently.

One day the servant informed her mistress that the coal had all been consumed. This was followed by the usual remarks on the part of the mistress, who finished up by saying:

"You evidently eat them."

The next day the candles were all gone.

"Candles gone!" said the mistress. "Why, I bought half a pound only a fortnight ago."

"Oh, well," rejoined the servant, who could stand this sort of thing no longer, "I can tell you where the candles have gone. I ate them to grease my throat so that I could swallow the coal more conveniently!"—Pearson's Weekly.

The Royal Fish.

Sturgeon are abundant in Russia, where the fisheries are of great value. The flesh is eaten when fresh, but is chiefly smoked or salted. More than 10,000 fish are sometimes caught at a single fishing station. The eggs are removed in quantity from the ovaries and separately prepared as caviar. The annual value of the Russian sturgeon fisheries, including the production of isinglass, or fish gelatin, is estimated at $5,000,000.

A Personal View of Seward.

WARSAW WOMEN'S INSTITUTE IS A LIVE ORGANIZATION

Officers and Members Brave Arctic Weather and Attend the Regular Meeting.

Special Correspondence

Warsaw, Jan. 18.—The regular meeting of the Warsaw Woman's Institute was held on Thursday, Jan. 11th, at the home of Mrs. A. F. Choate. Although it was such a piercing cold day all the officers and twenty-five members were present. The minutes to the last meeting were read and accepted. A splendid report of the Horticultural exhibition in Toronto, was given by Mrs. R. Payne, Miss Beatrice Selkirk also gave a paper on "Dainty meals and how to serve them." A discussion ensued as to the best way of spending the funds on hand as advised by the superintendent. Each member was asked to use her influence with the township council regarding the enlargement of the town hall, as it is so inconvenient in its present state. A small donation was voted to the Children's Hospital, Toronto. The "Clean Mouth League" was discussed and instructions given to the secretary to write to Mrs. Jackson, of Hemptville, for particulars regarding it. Mrs. Albert Batten was appointed director in place of Miss May Davis, who has removed to Peterborough. The meeting closed by singing God Save the King, after which lunch was served by the hostess. Next meeting Feb. 26th, in Mr. Choate's hall. Delegate's subject, "Training of Children in the Home."

A REGRETTED DEATH.

Death occurred on Friday, Jan. 12th, of one of Douro's most respected residents in the person of Mr. Boyd Tighe. He had been ill for some months with creeping paralysis, unable either to eat or speak. Sinking gradually the end came on Friday. He was buried in St. Mark's cemetery on Sunday, Jan. 14th. He leaves a wife and two sons; Robert, of Port Credit, and James on the homestead; also two daughters, Mrs. James Longm of East Dummer, Mrs. William Brown, residing near Peterborough, and a step-daughter, Mrs. Fred Calder, Warsaw.

UNSEASONABLE SPORT.

Bathing in the pond and river is becoming quite fashionable this winter in Warsaw. One woman who keeps a cow and who waters her in the river, doubtless thought there is nothing like enjoying the pleasures of life when one has the opportunity, and that she would have time to have a bath while the cow was drinking, cut the ice with an axe and in she went; but the water was not the right temperature to suit her perhaps, for she was in a hurry to get out again. Motto: keep off the ice until you can swim.

Mr. William Card, of Zealandia, Sask., is the guest of Mrs. S. McIntosh.

BIRTHS.

On Wednesday, Jan. 10th, the wife of Mr. David Drain, of a daughter.

On Friday, Jan. 12th, the wife of Mr. David Rose, of a daughter.

On Saturday, Jan. 13th, the wife of Mr. James Dewart, of a daughter.

SERMONETTES from OLD SAWS

BY TABITHA

"AN ILL WORKMAN QUARRELS WITH HIS TOOLS.

We are inclined to look back and to think that old times and old ways were best. In some things perhaps we are right, but not in the sense of opportunities for workmen.

With the strides which technical education, built up as it is by manual training, is taking, it will only be a few years at most that this phrase will be apt or that workmen will quarrel with their tools.

One of the greatest things in the modern world is the great study which is being made of the child. Almost before he is out of his babyhood he is building or cutting out and making little devices in a kindergarten, which create in him a taste, or it may be, develops a taste already in his little brain, for whatever craft he is suited to.

The baby becomes a rollicking, shouting boy, is sent to school, and there in the workshop of the manual training school he is still a small boy his instructors know that the bent of his mind and modern parents are coming more and more to see the wisdom of allowing a boy to choose his own vocation.

If it is mechanical there is the technical school, if it is business there is the industrial, and if it is nature there is the agricultural school. Now a few generations of this system will make it impossible for a workman to quarrel with his tools.

TO INSURE PURITY OF CANNED FOOD

Minister of Agriculture Holds Conference With Leading Packers

Ottawa, Jan. 18.—Hon. Martin Burrell, Minister of Agriculture, and Dr. J. G. Rutherford, Dominion Live Stock Commissioner, were in conference yesterday with representatives of various large packing establishments, in Ontario and Quebec. The conference was held with a view to securing the co-operation of the packers toward the more effective administration of the law for the inspection of canned food products, and the packers representatives were here at the invitation of the Minister.

The law as it now stands, and as amended five years ago, was put under general review, and a satisfactory understanding arrived at for a tightening up of the administration, with the assistance of the packers themselves.

GALT LIKES THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC

Power is Now Used by Twenty-five Industries

Galt, Jan. 17.—The hydro-electric service in Galt has reached a stage when the town is casting about for examples of the most up-to-date and effective utilization of it for lighting purposes.

To-night, at the invitation of President M. N. Todd, of the Galt, Preston and Hespeler Railway, Mayor Scott, members of the town council, town officials and other citizens, visited Waterloo to inspect the street lighting system of that town, which was pronounced beautiful and serviceable.

President Todd placed a special car at the service of the visitors and the party were royally entertained.

Twenty-five Galt industries now take 36 1-2 hydro horse power and others are preparing to install it. The waterworks will use it. Street lighting is only partially installed, but is satisfactory, and private consumers are satisfied with the light and the price. It bids fair to entirely supersede natural gas in domestic and other uses to which the latter is put.

QUAKER OATS COMPANY HAS UNIQUE PLAN

A chance for grocery dealers or their clerks to realize considerable sum of money in prizes is being offered this month by the Quaker Oats Company, for the best display of Quaker Oats in the various display windows of grocers of the city. Prizes of from $1 to $100 are being offered and the opportunities last all this month. All that is necessary is for the grocer handling Quaker Oats to exhibit the most attractive manner possible, a display of the cereal, and then photograph the window and forward the picture to the Quaker Oats Company before Feb. 5th.

Every merchant making a display of three cases or more gets at least $1.00, but no merchant gets more than one premium.

The object of the contest with its unusual effort and publicity is to enable grocers to sell more Quaker Oats than ever before. The contest along similar lines is taking place this month all over Canada.

Two of the windows in two already stocked with Quaker Oats exhibits are those of P. S. White and G.A. Gillespie, which are most artistically arranged.

KEENE NEWS

Member of Surprise Party, Rescued From Snow Drift.

Special Correspondence

Keene, Jan. 17—Mr. John Read was in the village on business last week.

A surprise party undertook to visit Mr. John McFee a week ago last Wednesday. They agreed that Mr. Spiers should take the load, and this suited him. When the party got to Mr. D Neishe's the people jumped out of the sleigh at the command of Mr. Burley, as the snow was so deep that the horses were not able to draw them. When they had gone about a quarter of a mile, they heard a voice twenty feet behind say, whoa my wife is stuck in the snow. The party immediately turned and went back. When they got there they saw woman almost buried in a snow drift, and Mr. Maclauchlan tugging and pulling to get her out. "Won't one of you fellows help me," Mr. Maclauchlan exclaimed. Mr. Spiers commanded that Mr. G. T. Gall should help him, so without a moment's hesitation George plunged into the snow drift. In a moment after the lady was out of danger. Mr. Maclauchlan helped her into the sleigh and protected her well from the other snow drifts which were passed. When the party reached Mr. McFee's, Mrs. Maclauchlan was helped into the house, doctored and taken care of for the rest of the evening.

Miss Susan Moore who is training for a nurse in Chicago has returned home to visit her parents.

Mr. Herbert Miller had the misfortune of getting his horses into the river while drawing wood from his woods where he has two men employed. Mr. Miller ran down the river fast as he could to give help. He was soon joined by a number of men of the village. The horses were not in a very good condition when taken out of the water.

A surprise party was held at the home of Mr. John Kempt last Friday evening. Mr. Denis McFarlane conducted the music, while Denis Kenealley "called off." Everybody had an enjoyable evening.

We are pleased to see Mr. Skinner back behind the counter. He has just got over a severe attack of the LaGrippe. We are sure that the boys of the village were very lonesome for Mr. Skinner in his absence as he was very good to them with his treats.

It is reported that Mr. James Sydis has invented a new ice boat to run on Rice LaLke, but he has not tried it out yet, on account of unfavorable weather. If anybody wants instructions on how to build an ice boat, Mr. Sydis will be glad to supply them.

The Keene curlers will play a game with the Scotch curlers in Peterboro next week.

Miss Jean Shaw of Regina, Sask., was the guest of Miss A. Sinclair last Saturday.

The Orangemen held their annual district meeting in the Orange Lodge 494 last Tuesday evening. A supper was served to those who attended.

MAY YET AVERT NATIONAL STRIKE

London, Jan. 18—There is little in what has leaked out in regard to the Secret meetings of the Executive Committee of the Miners' Federation at Birmingham yesterday and to-day to encourage the hope of a compromise of the threatened coal strike, which influenced the Stock Market to-day where it was believed the lockout would terminate almost immediately. The certainty that the result of the ballot of the miners, which will be declared to-morrow, will be enormously in favor of giving notice of a strike on March 1 does not preclude a settlement. The councils are still divided, but there is reason to believe that the area represented by the English Conciliation Board of 1893 will favor proposals which are likely to check the radical tendencies of the divisions in Scotland, the North of England and South Wales.

OPPOSITION FIGHT THE DOHERTY BILL

Fear That There is a Plot in the Inquiry Act—Appointment of Deputy Commissioners.

Ottawa, Jan. 19.—The Opposition again got mightily worked up over the bill of Hon. C. J. Doherty to amend the Inquiries Act by authorizing the delegation of the powers of commissioners to various experts "and other qualified persons."

To the phillipics of Hon. H. R. Emmerson, or what he described as the perfidy of the Government, Hon. T. W. Crothers replied that he forgot that a provision had been on the statute books for 25 years, providing for such delegation of authority in a departmental enquiry. The present bill extended this to all investigations.

"The Government has been wasting many millions," said Hon. Mr. Crothers. "I speak, of course, of the late Government. The new Government has not had time (Opposition laughter). When this Government is making an honest effort to constitute a commission with absolutely necessary powers honorable gentlemen opposite from the leader of the Opposition down are absolutely opposed to the very principle of it."

Hugh Guthrie (S. Wellington) described the marine commission as "a highly partisan tribunal." It was a very different matter, he said, for a Minister in a merely Departmental enquiry to depute his powers, and to apply it to a "roving or general commission." He wanted the words "or any qualified person" struck out.

Rt. Hon. R. L. Borden called the attention of the House to the fact that the commission under discussion was founded largely on the terms of one issued some years ago by the late Government.

It was not for the purpose of making charges against anyone, or investigating anyone, except in so far as his or their conduct might be impugned in the course of the investigation.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier remarked that commissions of that kind, though not intended to harass, could harass. All possible safeguards should be given persons whose conduct was liable to be called in to question. The work of the commission should be done by the commission itself.

Hon. Mr. Borden: "The ultimate responsibility is with the governor-in-council."

The bill was reported with minor amendments.

F. F. Pardee (W. Lambton) will, on Monday next, move for a copy of all correspondence, etc., relating to the proposed winter harbor at Sarnia and also with regard to the erection of an armory in the same town.

E. M. MacDonald (Pictou) stirred Hon. Frank Cochrane to wrath by the statement that his political friends regarded the Maritime Provinces as an incubus on the Dominion.

"You've no right to say that," interjected the Minister. Cries of "order" from the Opposition.

"I'm only telling the hon. gentleman what his friends in Nova Scotia have been saying," retorted Mr. McDonald. The Premier, he thundered, had absolutely falsified his promises to the people of Nova Scotia with regard to transportation.

$5,000,000 POLICY FOR THREE HOURS

New York, Jan. 19.—A $5,000,000 insurance policy, the life of which is three hours, was issued yesterday to guarantee a New York banking house against loss by highwaymen during the transfer from the burned Equitable building of a fortune in cash, and securities which must be carried for six blocks through the streets. Although the surety company which issued the policy takes the risk of loss during the three hours which, it is estimated, will be required for the transfer, the actual work of protection devolves upon the city, for a squad of police will be the only guards. The surety company called the police a "hold-up and robbery policy," and receives $500 for the risk.

PROBABILITIES

Fresh westerly winds, generally fair and considerably colder to-day and on Saturday.

Recovered Stolen Goods.

Brockville, Jan. 19.—An Ottawa detective visited Brockville yesterday in search of dress goods, silks and furs stolen by shoplifters in stores of that city and believed to be secreted at the homes of relatives of the guilty parties in Brockville. Two homes were searched on warrants and at both places goods to the value of $150 were recovered. For the original thefts a woman named Mrs. Goff, a former resident of Brockville is serving six months in jail.

GALE COSTS MANY LIVES

London, Jan. 19.—The gale which still continues in some parts of the United Kingdom has been the most severe in a long period. About 100 lives have been sacrificed by shipwrecks and accidents, and it is feared that the tale of disaster is not yet complete. Off the Aberdeen coast the weather has been particularly wild.

A large steamer was seen to disappear yesterday. It may have put out to sea, but it is feared that it has been wrecked. Two other wrecks are reported along that coast, of which no details can be obtained.

Another vessel was seen to founder Wednesday and it is supposed to have been an Aberdeen collier with fourteen hands.

Nothing has been heard of the steamship, which was seen in distress off the Yorkshire coast a day or two ago, and a boat washed ashore at Ramsay, Isle of Man, appears to indicate the wreck of a large trawler.

MINE OWNERS TO BE NOTIFIED

The National Conference Votes in Favor of the Strike

Birmingham, Eng., Jan. 19— The delegates to the National Miners' Conference to-day, voted unanimously to notify the mine owners, that the miners would strike on March 1, unless the minimum wage scales is granted in the meantime.

CUBANS STAND BY REPUBLIC

Havana, Jan. 19.—An official statement was given out yesterday morning regarding the long conference on Wednesday night between President Gomez and prominent political leaders representing all the factions and the veterans. The statement says:

"The meeting terminated with everyone breathing words of patriotism, because he found in his old companions in arms determination to save the republic, as might be expected from those professing their love for the Cuban fatherland."

May Upset Reduction Bylaw.

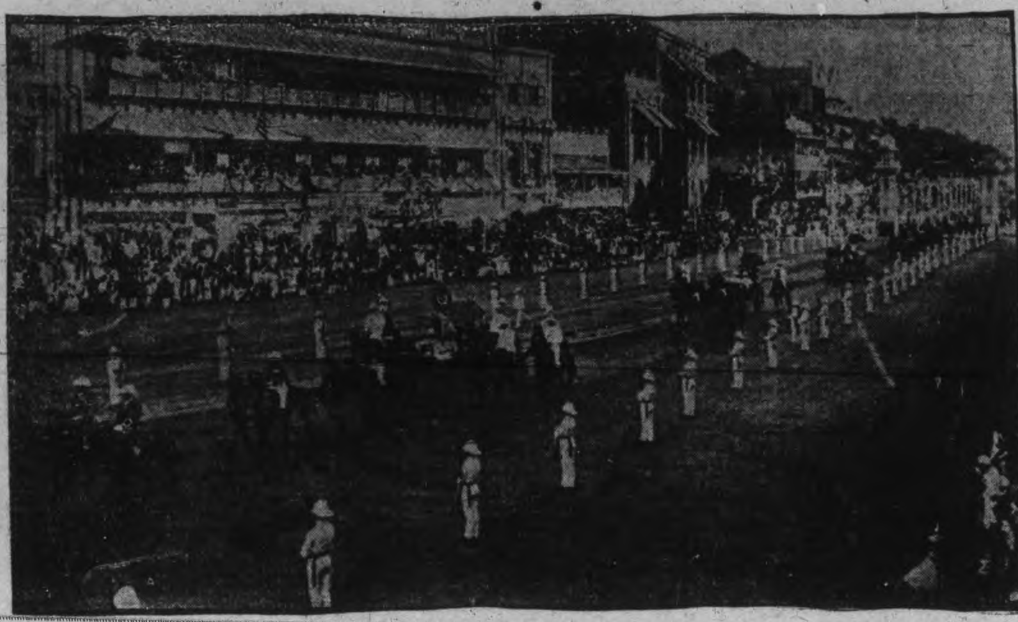
Kingston, Jan. 19.—Hotelmen of Kingston have hopes of being able to quash the bylaw for the reduction of tavern licenses by ten. The first step was taken yesterday when a recount of votes was arranged to take place on the 26th before Judge Price.

The official majority of 105 is known to be incorrect, as the deputy returning officer of the subdivision wrote council that he had made a wrong return, which brings the majority down to 67.

Virginia Wants Roosevelt.

Charleston, W.V., Jan. 19.—Governor W. E. Glasscock of West Virginia issued a statement last night in which he declares that a careful canvass of the political situation in West Virginia, has convinced him that the people of the state are overwhelmingly for Col. Theodore Roosevelt, for the Republican Presidential nomination, and he calls upon the people to elect delegates to the Chicago National convention, who will vote for his nomination.

Rulers of Great Britain in Bombay.



High honors were paid by the princes and potentates of India to King George and Queen Mary during their recent visit to the city of Bombay on the occasion of their being proclaimed Emperor and Empress of India. The accompanying picture shows the imperial procession passing along the Hornby Road in Bombay.

LABOR LEADER MITCHELL WINS

Goes as Delegate to A.F. & L. Despite Bitter Attacks Made.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 19.—Though attacked in a resolution before the convention of the United Mine Workers of America as a "labor leader in the grasp of the capitalists," John Mitchell, former president of the organization, received more votes than ay other candidate for delegates to the American Federation of Labor, according to the report of the tellers to the miners' convention yesterday.

John P. White was re-elected president by a majority of 45,424 1-2 over Thomas L. Lewis.

Antagonists of Mitchell, Samuel Gompers, the Federation of Labor and the National Civic Federation failed in an effort to bring about secession of the miners' union from the Federation of Labor, but they promised to renew the attack when Mitchell addressed the convention.

Former President Lewis, a leader in the campaign against Mitchell, declared in a speech after the announcement of defeat of his candidacy for president:

"Whatever service I enter into I shall not receive wages from employers of labor and stay in this organization. I shall not pretend to be a United Mine Worker in one sense and be something else in another."

BANKER MORSE IS LIBERATED

Washington, Jan. 19.—President Taft yesterday commuted, to expire at once, the sentence of Charles W. Morse, the New York banker serving a fifteen-year sentence in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta. The commutation was granted because of Morse's physical condition, and on the recommendation of Attorney-General Wickersham and Surgeon-General Torney of the army.

Kingston Police Poorly Paid.

Kingston, Jan. 19.—The Kingston police have petitioned commissioners for an increase of pay. They claim they are the poorest paid officers in Canada. They receive $50 per month and ask for $60. On night duty they do eleven hours and on day duty thirteen. There are men on the force who have seen twenty years' service and over.

Rojas Will Fight.

Buenos Ayres, Argentina, Jan. 19.—A despatch from Asuncion, capital of Paraguay, says that President Royas has informed the diplomatic corps that he has withdrawn his resignation. He intends to place himself at the head of the loyalists and regain his lost power.

Bilingual Inspector Quits.

Ottawa, Jan. 19.—A. Belanger, inspector of bilingual schools for eastern Ontario, has sent his resignation to the Provincial Department of Education, and will take up the study of law at Osgoode Hall.

SEIZURE OF STEAMER MAY CAUSE TROUBLE

Ottawa, Jan. 19.—Mrs. C. W. Mitchell, wife of the former proprietor of The Ottawa Free Press, died very suddenly here Wednesday night. She was taken suddenly ill while attending an amateur performance at the Unitarian Church, and succumbed in an ambulance just as she reached home.

She was born in Toronto, the daughter of Alex. Jacques, 63 years ago. She is survived by a large family.

Peace or War With Miners?

Birmingham, Eng., Jan. 19.—At a brief meeting of delegates of the miners' federation yesterday the chairman, Enoch Edwards, M.P. for Hanley, spoke in favor of conciliation and avoidance of a strike, but the federation executive, which remained in secret session until late last night, reported that it was unable to agree on what policy to recommend, and adjourned until to-day.

Seven Fishing Vessels In Ice.

Curling, Nfld., Jan. 19.—While all the eighteen vessels of the Gloucester fishing fleet, which were imprisoned by ice at the Bay of Islands are believed now to be clear of the ice fields and well started on their run home, seven vessels of the fleet are still at Bonne Bay. The latter have little chance of getting clear until the United States revenue cutters Greshan and Androscoggin, which are on the way here, are able to smash a channel through the ice pack.

PRUSSIA SECURES A HUGE LOAN

Berlin, Jan. 19.—Loans amounting to a total of 500,000,000 marks ($125,000,000) were placed yesterday by the Imperial Government and the State Government of Prussia, combined with a group of Berlin banks, headed by the Prussian State Bank, the interest to be at 4 per cent.

The German empire's portion of the loan amounts to only $20,000,000 and is for the construction of railroads and the acquisition of rolling stock, etc.

The subscription list opens on Jan. 29 at the rate of 101.40.

Praises Foster's Course.

London, Jan. 19.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Morning Post eulogizes Hon. Mr. Foster's negotiations with Australia and New Zealand, and says a treaty on broad give-and-take lines should not be difficult. If links between Canada and the Antipodes and between Australia and New Zealand are forged then only the United Kingdom would remain outside the system of mutual preference. There are good hopes now that this step also will be taken in the not very distant future.

Would Pardon M. Lopukine.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 19.—The press is urging a revision of the trial of M. Lopukine, a former director of police, who was sentenced in May, 1909, to five years' imprisonment at hard labor on a technical charge that he was a member of the revolutionary organization.

Quebec Legislature Line-Up.

Quebec, Jan. 19.—After a debate lasting eight days the speech from the throne was adopted by the House yesterday afternoon, the non-confidence amendment of the Opposition being rejected by a strict party vote of 50 to 13.

Miners Reject Socialism.

Indianapolis, Jan. 19.—By a vote of 515 to 155, the convention of the United Mine Workers of America refused yesterday to adopt a resolution committing the organization to the Socialist party, and approved the substitute measure of the resolutions committee, declaring "it would be well if workers would unite on the political as well as the industrial field."

The resolutions committee had reported that it would be unconstitutional for the United Mine Workers to endorse any political party.

France is Very Wrathy Over the Action of the Italians—May Step in and Stop War With Turkey.

Paris, Jan. 19.—France is beginning to show considerable annoyance concerning the seizure of the steamship Carthage by Italian war vessels. It is asserted with emphasis that the arrest of the vessel was entirely unjustified in the first place, because aeroplanes were not mentioned in the list of contraband articles furnished to France by the Italian Government at the outbreak of the war between Italy and Turkey. In the second place the conference of London, in 1909, declared that aeroplanes were only conditional contraband and were not liable to seizure when found on board a neutral vessel, unless it proved they were intended for the enemy.

The aeroplane which was found on board the Carthage was purely for exhibition flights in Tunis, Egypt, and Greece, while the portions of an aeroplane also seized were for purposes of repair.

The third point raised is that the Carthage was a mail steamer, the seizure of which was a violation of The Hague agreement of 1907.

The French Parliamentary group for the promotion of international arbitration, at a meeting yesterday, presided over by Baron l'Estournelles de Consant, voted that incidents like the Carthage affair establish the necessity for bringing the Turco-Italian war to an end. The meetings passed a resolution to ask the French Government to intervene in order to put a stop to the conflict.

Rubbed It In by Airship.

Tripoli, Jan. 19.—An aeroplane sent out from the Italian quarter dropped a manifesto into the Arab camp yesterday announcing the Italian victory in the Red Sea, near the Bay of Kunfida, when Italian warships sank several Turkish gunboats.

Tobruk, Jan. 19.—The Turks appeared in force several times Wednesday, but remained at a distance from the Italian line. They were dispersed with shells from the batteries.

DECLINES TO CHANGE PLANS

Churchill Says He Will Speak at Belfast as Arranged.

London, Jan. 19.—It has been ascertained in official quarters that Winston Spencer Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, declines to modify his plans, and will fulfill his engagement to speak at Belfast on the question of home rule, notwithstanding the threats made against him. Preparations for the meeting, which is to be held on Feb. 8, continue. John Redmond is to speak at the same meeting, and the Unionists promise that steps will be taken to prevent the meeting from being held.

The Rt. Hon. Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Agriculture, speaking at Newcastle last night, said that Lord Londonderry, ex-viceroy of Ireland, was at the head of a conspiracy to prevent free speech at Belfast. If bloodshed resulted, he declared, the responsibility would be Londonderry's.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW.

THE MANCHUS MAKE THREATS

Will Resist the Abdication of the Emperor, it is Said.

Want to Fight it Out With the Republicans.

Pekin, Jan. 19.—The foreign legations are preparing for trouble in Pekin to-day. The question of the abdication of the throne will be discussed by the Empress Dowager and the princes, but it is not thought that Yuan Shi Kai will take part in the conference. A rising in the capital has been looked for many times in the last four months and precautions has been taken in anticipation of it—needlessly, however, and the outbreak may not occur to-day.

But it has been long expected that the Manchu irreconcilables would unite in a measure when all hope for the administration had vanished. A placard posted last night indicated that the Manchu threats may be fulfilled.

It calls upon all loyal Manchus and Chinese to resist the abdication of the Emperor to the death.

The street near the office of the Chinese Foreign Board, at which Yuan Shi Kai resides, is heavily guarded by the Premier's own men, of whom it is said, there are 3,500. Many Chinese who have not yet deserted the city are preparing for flight to-day and prominent followers of Yuan Shi Kai are taking refuge outside their own homes, hoping that in the event of a massacre they will not be found.

The charges that Yuan Shi Kai has been disloyal to the Manchus, although pretending to support them, are attracting the attention of foreigners as well as the Manchus and Chinese. Some of the revolutionaries have long been saying that he was working for the overthrow not the salvation of the dynasty. But it has been thought that this charge was designed to discredit the Premier with the Manchus. Others charge Yuan Shi Kai with working for his own interest, and that he intended to become dictator, if he did not assume the throne.

The Imperialists, who distrust him point out that he has persistently withdrawn his army, although the trained Imperialist troops could easily disperse the untrained rebel volunteers. It is also said that the withdrawal of the army from Nanking was at Yuan Shi Kai's orders.

Whether the suspicion against the Premier are false or true, they are given sufficient credence to cause the organization of anti-abdication bodies, against which Yuan Shi Kai has been compelled to take measures of defence, and it is authoritatively stated that the dynamite bomb against his life was the work of a Manchu faction.

So complex, indeed, is the situation, that the foreign ministers no longer attempt to elucidate it for their Governments.

China Needs Bloodshed.

London, Jan. 19.—Native telegrams report wholesale Republican offensive movements in defiance of the armistice, says The Daily Telegram's Pekin correspondent.

The correspondent adds that all the foreign observers agree that further blood-letting is essential to ease the congested condition of the whole country.

The men arrested for hurling the bomb at Premier Yuan were yesterday morning strangled by the public executioner.

SPIES GET LONG TERMS

Leipsiz, Jan. 19.—Long sentences were imposed on two spies by the Imperial Supreme Court yesterday. Baron Vinogradoff, a lieutenant in the Russian navy, and Lieut. Von Cerno, belonging to the reserve of the Hungarian army, were both condemned to three years' imprisonment. Baron Vinogradoff is to be confined in a fortress, while Von Cerno is to serve his term in an ordinary penitentiary.

The espionage of which they were convicted was connected with naval matters and Baron Vinogradoff was detailed to supervise the operations of Von Cerno and stimulate him to further activity. While he was engaged in this work the German secret service police captured them both.

ANARCHISTS THREATEN THE LIFE OF GOVERNOR FOSS

Guard Watched Over His Home all Night—Executive Department Also Picketed.

Boston, Jan. 19.—A guard that accompanied Governor Foss home on Wednesday night and was on duty at his house throughout the night, because of the rumor at the State House of a threatened attack on his life, went to the State House with him yesterday.

The executive department was also picketed by two officers of the state and an Italian officer from the local force, all in plain clothes.

Because of the calling out of the militia to quell the strike disturbance at Lawrence, and because of the determnation of the soldiers to prevent rioting, certain activities were started in New York by Italian anarchists, who, according to the information furnished, put the responsibility for the situation upon Governor Foss and began to plot against his life.

To Occupy Morocco.

Paris, Jan. 19.—Premier Poincare, before the committee of the Senate on the Franco-German treaty yesterday, urged its quickest possible ratification and outlined how the Government proposed to put it into effect. A special committee has been formed and co-ordinate work had already been done by separate committees of the Foreign Office and the Ministers of War and Finance towards evolving a scheme for the occupation of Morocco.

Brantford's Police Record.

Brantford, Jan. 19.—The annual report of Chief of Police Slemin, submitted to the police commissioners here yesterday, showed an absence of serious crimes in Brantford during the past year. There were 1,815 cases before the police court, chiefly of a minor nature. The foreign born population was given at 2,446, of which fifty were charged during the year. During the year, over $8,000 worth of property was recovered by the department.

Burglars Dynamite a Safe in the Mineral Water Company's Office at Brockville

Special to the Review.

Brockville, Jan. 19.—After dynamitting a safe in the Thousand Isles Mineral Water Co's office last night, burglars secured ten dollars and some small cheques, but overlooked jewellery valued at five hundred dollars belonging to the manager's wife.

Senator Raps Gompers.

Washington, Jan. 19.—A sharp attack on President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor was made in the Senate yesterday by Mr. Heyburn of Idaho, who protested that a communication from Mr. Gompers should not be received by the Senate.

He said that no communication should be accepted from that source after the revelations made in the McNamara case.

FELL INTO TANK OF BOILING WATER; YOUNG MAN MEETS AWFUL DEATH

Was Literally Parboiled, But Managed to Swim and Hold on Until Help Arrived.

Special to the Review.

Bowmanville, Jan. 19.—John Frehher, aged 32, superintendent of the Bowmanville Foundry Company works, died this morning of injuries received last night when he fell into ten feet of boiling water contained in a tank above which he was fixing a steampipe. The unfortunate young man, although literally parboiler, managed to swim to the edge of the tank and hold on until pulled out.

DON'T LET THAT COUGH ROB YOU OF SLEEP

You probably know all too well how it goes. Just as you doze off, the tickling starts in your throat. A gentle cough, still asleep. A harder cough, and then another. First thing you know, you're wide awake, coughing your head off.

A few nights of that and you're so worn out and weakened that the cough takes a tight grip on you.

But why endure it?

Na-Dru-Co Syrup of Linseed, Licorice and Chlorodyne will soothe that exasperating tickling, loosen the phlegm and cure the inflammation of the mucous membrane. It not only stops the cough quickly, allowing you to get sound, refreshing sleep, but it goes to the root of the trouble and drives out the cold completely. Children willingly take Na-Dru-Co Syrup of Linseed, Licorice and Chlorodyne, because it tastes so good. Your Druggist has it or can quickly get it for you in 25c. and 50c. bottles. SUNDAY TOBOGGANING

Quite a stir has been created in Toronto over the fact that a number of the citizens of that city have been tobogganing on Sunday. The Lord's Day Alliance and many of the clergy of Toronto have taken a decided stand against this pastime being indulged in. They claim that a lot of noise is made and that it is a desecration of the Sabbath and have asked the civic authorities to put a stop to the practice. The civic fathers being wise promptly claimed that the matter does not come under their jurisdiction, and is a matter for the police to deal with.

Delegations of citizens have appeared before the civic fathers both in opposition to Sunday tobogganing and in favor of it, and the civic fathers do not want to offend people on either side of the issue. The slides in question are in the parks and thousands of people have been taking advantage of them on Sunday and the police claim that the crowds were orderly and not unnecessarily noisy, while Acting Park Commissioner Chambers says he thinks the crowds were well handled by the police.

Now it is held by those opposed to Sunday tobogganing that if this pastime is allowed in public places, it simply means the inserting of the thin edge of the wedge, which will lead to a general disregard of the Sabbath as a day of rest. They fear that it will lead young people away from respecting the Sabbath as they should and will have a tendency to make Sunday more the nature of a public holiday. On the other hand, those who favor Sunday tobogganing claim that the Sabbath is the only day in which the workers have a chance to get recreation of this nature and should not be debarred from a little healthy pastime. They claim that the tobogganing in no way interferes with the observance of the Sabbath, and hold that it is no more wrong to use the slides on this day than to use motor cars and other conveyances.

In our sister province of Quebec rinks are open, slides are in full swing and amusements of various kinds are in operation, even to professional baseball in the summer on Sundays. In fact Sunday in Quebec is the day of picnics and outdoor sports and pastimes.

The question seems to be one which the individual must decide for himself. Of course, if facts can be produced to prove that the sliding is having a tendency to wean people away from respecting the Sabbath, then it is proper that some action should be taken.

NORTHWEST MOUNTED POLICE

The work of that splendid body of men, the Northwest Mounted Police, is being hampered, it is reported, by the fact that the men have too large districts to cover. There is an insistent demand for more posts, and this demand should be complied with. The annual report of the Comptroller of the Northwest Mounted Police shows the strength of the force to be 50 officers, 576 non-commissioned officers and constables and 566 horses. It is pointed out in this report that in one instance a constable had 2,000 square miles of territory to cover. Many of the constables in the far north have nearly as large a territory under their charge and many hardships to endure, especially in the winter, when the weather around York Factory and Churchill, on Hudson's Bay, is often 60 and 70 below zero.

The Mounted Police have a record of service that is second to none and the government should lose no time in seeing that the force is enlarged, if necessary.

EDITORIAL NOTES

A Nebraska man is applying for a divorce because his wife keeps thirty-five cats. He claims that by the time he winds up the clock and locates the thirty-five cats to put them out before retiring, that it is about time for him to get up again.

The United States is preparing to send troops to Cuba to make the government attend to business. The Yankees want Cuba and it seems only a question of time until they will have it. The Cuban government has shown little ability to govern.

The Quebec Government is going to vote $10,000,000 for good roads in that province. It is figured that 3,300 miles of good roads can be built with this amount. The Quebec government is to be congratulated on its enterprise. Nothing is more valuable to a province that good roadways.

The Democratic National Convention goes to Baltimore, but that city had to guarantee $100,000 in cash for the use of the committee, and further, to pay all expenses incident to the convention. Several other cities offered big figures, but this offer was the largest. Might have paid them better to have paid this amount to keep the politicians away from the city.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you may have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

The Farmers' Golden Age

Vancouver Province.

The passing of the hired man is in sight in Ontario. Next season the farmers of that province hope to be able to do most of their farm work with electric power furnished by the Hydro-Electric. When the farmer can sit on the top rail of the fence and watch the wheels go round he will experience no trouble in keeping his sons on the old homestead.

Cold Weather Cowardice

Montreal Herald.

Definition of an apparent coward: The man who ostentatiously puts his windows 'way up from the bottom and 'way down from the top before he goes to bed these nights, only to sneak across the floor about 2 a. m. to put 'em all the way down at the bottom, and all the way up at the top.

Impossible Marriage Law

Toronto Globe.

A Catholic priest may lawfully marry a Catholic to a Protestant in Quebec. The Church of Rome holds that it is not lawful for a Protestant minister to marry two Catholics, and that a marriage of a Protestant to a Catholic by a Protestant minister is no marriage at all in the sight of God and the Church. That sort of marriage law is impossible in this country. If the Legislature of Quebec can provide no remedy a uniform marriage law for Canada must be enacted making legal marriage a purely civil ceremony to be supplemented by such religious ceremonies as the parties may desire, or by none if they are so minded.

THE MARKETS

Latest Quotations in Grain Dairy Products, Live Stock Etc.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—Nebraska farmers selling out their wheat to elevators caught the attention to-day of the speculative trade. As a result prices here slid off and the close was easy ¼c to ½c under last night. Other leading staples, too, all showed a net decline—corn ¼c to ½c, oats ¼c to ⅝c, and provisions 2½c to 10c.

The Liverpool market closed to-day on wheat ⅜d higher than yesterday, and corn ⅜d to ¾d higher. Buenos Ayres wheat was ⅞c higher, Paris wheat closed ⅜c to 1c higher, and Berlin ⅝c higher.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Jan. 18.—There was a brisk demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat, and as cables were strong with prices 3d to 6d per quarter higher, sales of 50 loads were made for May-June shipment, and if ocean freights for February had been obtainable from any seaboard ports fifty loads more would have been sold. The demand for ocean freights for May-June was also good, and considerable business was done, but there is little now left to any port for that shipment.

The Paternoster Ruby

By Charles Edmond Walk.

Supplied exclusively in Canada by the British & Colonial Press, Limited, Toronto.

"Wait till I get back. I mean to have a try at our crytograph. If the daisies are in the old Page place, I'll find them."

"They're there, all right. I'm sure you're welcome to try—if you'll let me assist in the search."

She wrinkled her nose and sniffed. "Hmf! A lot of assistance I can look from you!" Her tone was emphatically disparaging. "No, I'll find them by myself. But I'd be afraid to stay—for long—alone in that empty house."

I cared not in what capacity I served, just so I might be with her.

After making me promise that I would have the scratch on my face attended to at once, she sent me away.

I had not proceeded far toward town when I discovered that somebody was dogging my footsteps.

CHAPTER XXI

Shadows.

It required some little time for me to determine that my shadow was one of the "Japanese"; for it was a most intangible and elusive shadow. Whatever else I might think of these worthies, I could not deny that their ability to hang on a man's trail, and at the same time keep themselves wellnigh invisible, amounted positively to genius. With all my doubling and lurking in doorways around corners, the fellow never came up to where I could get a good view of him.

Of course it occurred to me that here was a chance to attempt a capture. But was it? The fellow was so slippery and artful that I risked a greater chance of losing him altogether. And then, to capture one of the quintet—or whatever their number might be—would more likely than not merely serve as a warning for the ring-leader of the crowd. Doubtless I could drag nothing at all from the fellow, even though I did succeed in laying hands upon him. If he had been set to watch me he would continue to do so unless I scared him away. I resolved to let him alone for the time being; but the first thing I did after reaching Dr. De Breen's offices, was to ring up headquarters and request the Captain to send a man to get on my shadow's trail.

The doctor gave me a bad half-hour. The instant he was through I hurried to a window to learn how events were progressing in the street. Before I had time to ascertain whether my shadow was still on duty, or whether the Central Office man had showed up, my whole attention was absorbed by the appearance of two familiar figures on the opposite side. They were Mr. Fluette and Alexander Burke, walking along together in the most intimate manner imaginable.

I glanced at my watch; it still lacked a minute or two of ten, the hour Mr. Fluette had jotted on his calendar along with the extraordinary memorandum. Inasmuch as he and his strangely chosen companion were moving rapidly, it was a reasonable assumption that he was even then on his way to keep his engagement.

or a moment I stood irresolute. I was very anxious to follow the twain to the rendezvous, while at the same time I did not want to lose my shadow. I glanced eagerly up and down the street, studying the hurrying crowd on the walk, but could not see him anywhere. Then I hurried out to the elevator, and within the next minute was dropped to the ground floor.

I was obliged to walk fast to get within range of Fluette and Burke again—not an easy thing to do among the crowd—but still I could see nothing of my headquarters man, nor of the Jap. And right then I perceived the last mentioned. He had manifestly only at that instant caught up with the speculator and his companion—though why I had failed to see him before I can't imagine—and he was evidently addressing one or the other, or both of them.

It seemed to me that the fellow was trying to make his presence as inconspicuous as possible. He strode stolidly along, close behind them, looking into shop windows and apparently not noticing the two men at all. Yet I knew that he was talking to them. I could tell by the surprised way with which both Fluette and Burke swung round and stared at him.

I quickened my steps. Yes, the the Oriental was talking, and talking volubly. And, if I might judge by the consterntion and anger reflected in the faces of his two auditors, his message was anything but welcome. That is to say, Alfred Fluette's strong features showed these emotions, while, as always, it was difficult to read what was going on behind Burke's impassive mask. Still it was pretty plain that the secretary was utterly at his wits'-end.

At last the three stopped at a corner, where they moved up close to the building to avoid the rush of pedestrians. I dared not draw near enough to hope to hear any of their conversation; I could do no more than watch from a distance, trusting to their absorption to keep them oblivious of my proximity.

Both were now excitedly questioning the Jap, who seemed to be wholly unmoved by their agitation. Presently Fluette turned angrily upon Burke. From his manner it was not difficult to imagine that he was soundly berating the secretary, who, whenever he could make himself heard, was just as plainly attempting to present some extenuating argument.

The entire episode was perplexing enough, but what immediately ensued caught me unawares. Without the least warning the trio separated, each hurrying away in a different direction. At this critical juncture a voice said right at my ear:

"Shall I stick to Burke?—or follow one of the others?"

I jerked my head to confront Fanshawe, the man detailed to keep Burke under surveillance. I had not observed him before—not surprising, since he had just caught up with me—but I welcomed his presence now.

"Stay with your own man," I shot at him, and turned to look for the Jap. He was gone.

To make the account of this discomfiting episode as brief as possible, I shall say, merely, that out of the three men whom we were watching, two of them walked away from under our very noses without our having the slightest idea in which direction they went. How did they do it The momentary diversion occasioned by Fanshawe's arrival, the brief distraction of our attention, had been sufficient. He lost track of Burke, and I never had so much as another glimpse of the Jap.

We had the assistance of another headquarters man, too. The one for which I had telephoned showed up immediately after Fanshawe addressed me. The last-named skurried away to find Burke, while Pennington, my othed colleague, and I devoted our efforts to catching the Jap.

"One of those Japs has been shadowing me all morning, Pennington," I advised him. "He's as shifty and evasive as a fox. Fall half a block behind me, and if he shows up again give me a signal and close in. I want him."

But he did'nt show up.

It was humiliating to be outwitted by the Oriental—it was the second time for me, too; it would be calamitous to lose Burke. The day dragged along, and when each succeeding minute brought no news of him my anxiety increased by leaps and bounds. Before nightfall, every available man in the department was scouring the city for the ex-secretary.

Subsequent events, however, showed that we might have spared ourselves all the trouble and worry; for one more pertinacious even than Fanshawe clung to Alexander Burke's heels all that day and night.

I found time during my purposeless running to and fro to learn that Alfred Fluette had arrived at his brokers' offices in Quincy Street shortly after ten, where he remained until the Board of Trade closed, and that Genevieve had left on an afternoon train for a brief visit with relatives in Merton, Ohio. Fluette had failed in his engagement; Genevieve had kept hers.

Some time after dark I boarded a Sheridan Park car, and rode out to the Page place; I don't now know why, unless it was because of the disastrous turn affairs had taken, and that I hoped, in this dismal, dispiriting environment, to find a balm for my depressed feelings.

It was only that morning, in the midst of a blinding-snow-storm, thoroughly disheartened by the loss of the ruby, that Stodger and I had left the old house; but as I approached it that night, it bore every appearance of having been abandoned for years instead of only a few hours. No smoke curled from the chimneys; no light gleamed at any of the windows. In its white setting of snow, it loomed silent and spectral.

In the afternoon I had turned the keys over to Mr. Page's lawyer, and how I hoped to effect an entrance—if I had any such intention at all—I have long since forgotten. It may have been because it was here that I first met Genevieve, that I came mooning through the cold snow. She was gone upon a journey; I knew that I could not see her for days; and perhaps I thought to find some companionship in the more intimate associations clustered about the dreary spot. At any rate, here I was. And I saw nothing else for me to do than to turn round and go back to town again.

However, I started to enter the gate. Next instant I stopped short. The snow bore other tracks besides Stodger's and mine—tracks pointing toward the house instead of away from it. They were fresh, made since the snow ceased.

I advanced a little farther into the yard, where the tracks had not been obliterated by pedestrians on the sidewalk, and soon comprehended that they had been made by two men. Were they in the house now? And if so, who were they? What errand could be so pressing that it would bring anybody here on such a night?

My indifference and discouragement fell away from me in a flash. Cautiously I followed the trail up to the front steps, where at first I fancied it disappeared upon the porch. Still I could not see a glint of light, nor did the most attentive harkening favor me with the slightest sound.

It occurred to me while I stood pondering on the porch that, after all, Mr. White—Felix Page's lawyer—might have been responsible for the tracks in the snow. It was possible that he had sent somebody to look after the place; a caretaker, perhaps, who would stay here until a disposition could be made of the property.

But this idea no sooner occurred than it was dismissed. All at once I noticed that one pair of footprints, instead of mounting the porch steps, had turned to one side. They led off to the east, and disappeared round the wing in that direction. The two persons had not come in company; the first, I presently concluded, had carried a key, and the second had been following him. There were no retreating impresses to indicate that either had departed.

I tiptoed to the front door and turned the knob. The door did not yield. Then for the first time I recalled the window which our housebreakers had forced the night before; unless the latch had been repaired during the day, it would be an easy matter to gain access to the dining-room which was located in the western wing.

Jessamine a Paranoiac?

Toronto, Jan. 18.—If T. C. Robinette, K.C., is successful in having the death sentence passed upon Joseph Jessamine commuted to life imprisonment, he will have established a precedent in the abating of the life penalty on grounds of insanity in Canada, for the peculiar description of insanity with which Jessamine is said to be affected is one upon which commutation has not yet been made in this country. He is said to be a paranoiac, which is the case with the notorious Harry K. Thaw, which is to say that he suffers from an irresistible impulse to kill, while conscious of the criminal nature of the act. Jessamine has not been told of the decision of the Court of Appeal that he must die.

Snow Helps Settlement.

London, Jan. 18.—No new developments in the labor disputes occurred last night. The sudden appearance of severe wintry weather, covering the country with snow, is considered a factor on the side of a peaceful settlement of both the cotton and coal troubles. Many operatives in Lancashire were already suffering distress because of the loss of wages, and charitable institutions are busy affording relief.

The severe weather will greatly increase the suffering, but at the same time will dispose the operatives to acceptance of a compromise.

Dislikes Word "Colonial."

London, Jan. 18.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Arthur Hawkes, emigration commissioner, told a Colonial Institute gathering yesterday he had rather be called a German than a colonial. This was in deprecation of the idea sometimes apparent here that there is an inferiority in the overseas Government compared with the Home Government, which was especially resented in Canada owing to the proximity of the United States, where the boast of emancipation used to be heard.

Banks Without Books.

Postmaster General Frank Hitchcock has done what England failed to do—obviated the necessity of thousands of bookkeepers for the new postal savings banks. He was put up against the task of opening 40,000 small banks throughout the country. The bookkeeping problem was a staggering one. He went to England to study conditions, finding 15,000 savings offices, with a staff of 2,000 clerks in London to look after the general bookkeeping. Returning home, he solved the difficulty by abolishing the English system of passbooks and issuing drafts or certificates of deposits, following the plan used by banks and express companies. By this simple method the postmaster keeps no books.—Argonaut.

A Common Mistake

A common mistake, and one that is quite excusable, is that so many people between the ages of 40 and 50 feeling the need of glasses either refuse to wear them or continue putting it off.

There is no greater mistake than the common saying that "so-and-so" had such strong eyes, lived to be 80 and never used glasses to read. It is a physiological fact that at the age of 45 years the crystalline lens looses some of its elasticity; it looses more as age advances, so that even under accommodation it cannot become convex as it did before; consequently, this convexity (needed for reading) must be supplied artificially by means of glasses.

The above is taken from the Family Doctor a large American publication.

WE RECOMMEND GLASSES ONLY WHEN ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY.

WEDDING BELLS

HASKILL—WHYTE.

At "Hillside," Norwood, the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Whyte, a quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized, on Wednesday, Jan. 10th, when their eldest daughter, Beatrice Frances, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Frederick Vivian Haskill, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Haskill, Toronto and formerly of Peterborough. The bride, who was given away by her father, was attired in stencilled chiffon over pink satin, and amber beading, and carried a bouquet of white carnations. After the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. M. Cree, the guests adjourned to the dining room, where the wedding dinner awaited them. The bridal couple left on the 3.56 train for Toronto.

INFERIOR WET GOODS HANDED OVER THE BARS

There Has Been Some Complaints to License Inspector

What Liquor Act Has to Say on the Question

License Inspector Stewart intends to take strictly preventitive measures in his efforts to stop the sale of draught liquors of an inferior quality. There have been some complaints. License holders of the city must govern themselves according to the provisions of the Liquor License Act, and acquaint themselves if they are not informed with the regulations of the act in reference to the matter.

The move is intended for the protection of patrons of the various thirst parlors of the city, and will be the means of making it easy for the "lovers of their glass," to tell at once just what they are getting for their money. License Inspector Stewart promises prosecution in any case that is investigated, where the instructions of the Liquor License Act, relating to this matter, as given below, are not complied with.

The following provisions of the act are given for the information of license-holders and patrons of the bar alike.

Section 12, page 23, of the Liquor License Act reads as follows—

1. Bottled liquors procured by the keeper of a licensed tavern for the purpose of supplying the same to customers or guests shall be kept while on the licensed premises, in the bottles in which such liquors are delivered to such keeper, and in no case shall any other liquor or any substance or liquid be put into any such bottle, and no bottle after being emptied of such bottled liquor shall be refilled either partially or wholly by the keeper of such licensed premises; or any other person on his behalf for the purpose of supplying liquor or any substance or liquid to any customer or guest.

2. No holder of a tavern or shop license shall use or permit to be used any sign or label upon any bottle, cask, or other vessel in which liquor is kept for sale upon the licensed premises, which does not correctly and truly state the nature of the contents of such bottle, cask or other vessel, or which is in any manner calculated to mislead a customer or guest as to the nature, description or quality of such contents.

3. No holder of a tavern or shop license or any other person shall for any purpose whatsoever, mix or permit to cause to be mixed with any liquor sold or supplied by him on the licensed form of methylic alcohol or any crude unrectified or impure form of methylic alcohol or other deletrious substance or liquid.

4. Any person violating any of the foregoing provisions of this section shall be liable upon conviction for a first offence of not less than $20 and not more than $50, besides costs, or imprisonment for a period of three months, and upon conviction for a second offence to a fine not less than $50 or more than $100, or to imprisonment for six months; and upon conviction for a third offence, to an imprisonment of twelve months.

The Inspector, or any special officer appointed by the minister, may at any time take from the liquors kept by such holder of a tavern or shop license, upon the license premises sufficient thereof for the purpose of analysis to ascertain whether or not any of the provisions of this section have been violated, and such special officer shall, if required, before taking such liquor produce the authority under which he acts in writing, signed or purporting to be signed by the Minister.

Section 130 of this act, shall apply to every inspector or special officer acting under the provisions of this section.

The License Inspector has had complaints along the lines referred to, and as the fifth clause of the instructions reads, he may, at any time, drop in at hotels and take samples of the liquor for analysis.

PETERBORO IN ENGLAND

Canadian Mail Had Interview With Mayor Morrow

The Canadian Mail published in London, Eng., and giving news of Canada, contains a two column interview which a representative had with W. G. Morrow, as mayor of Peterboro.

The information asked for and given to the Canadian Mail, tells of the citys growth in population, its industrial development, its opportunities for manufacturers, and other information which would calculate to impress the reader with the fact that Peterboro was a desirable city in which to live, or commence commercial or industrial activities.

A front page advertisement also appears and reads "Peterboro, an Ontario city with a future; openings for industries.

The Canadian Mail has a circulation throughout England, and the article should not be without results.

MUST NOT LOITER IN BAR ROOMS; YOUTH FINED

Authorities Will be on the Lookout for Offenders

A young man named Lavery, who some time ago was in police court for procuring liquor under false statement of his age, was fined $2 and costs this morning, or $4.60 in all, for lingering around a bar-room without excuse, unaccompanied by parent or guardian.

License Inspector Stewart laid the information and for the benefit of young men under age, who are perhaps unaware that it is an offence punishable by law, desires to warn all youths under age that proceedings will be taken in all cases discovered.

The practice of boys frequenting bar-rooms and being exposed to temptation, and involving the bartender in trouble, is one that the liquor license and police authorities strongly object to, and they are determined to deal firmly with all offenders.

Tyranny of Tears

"The Tyranny of Tears," was presented at Brockville under the auspices of the Hockey Club, with Mr. Irving Beers in the leading role.

CALL TO PRAYER

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—Having received a letter from Mr Herbert K. Caskey, the general secretary of the Laymen's Missionary Movement in Canada, and not having time at my disposal to carry out his request, viz., that a special rally for men be held in some central place for the purpose of engaging in special prayer for missions, may I suggest and respectfully ask through your valuable columns, that all the men's Bible classes and brotherhood meetings next Sunday spend the first half hour of their sessions in earnest prayer. I make this request on behalf of the Laymen's Missionary Movement of Canada.

Yours in His service.

PEOPLE BARELY ESCAPED FROM SEVERE INJURY

Ice Fell to Pavement on Hunter Street

Three pedestrians, two of whom were young ladies, had a miraculous escape from serious injury last evening on Hunter street, at the alleyway, east of the Hunter street entrance to the store of H. LeBrun.

Without warning large pieces of ice fell to the pavement, from buildings above, just missing the passersby.

Had anyone been struck with the ice on the head, a fatality might have been recorded.

There are many complaints of a similar character and it would appear that some action on the part of the city authorities is long over due.

THE APOSTOLIC FAITH MISSION will occupy the "Princess Theatre," on Sunday, 21st inst. Meetings at 3 o'clock p m, and in the Evening at half-past seven. All will be welcome.

PROMOTION FOR MR. H. H. GRAY

Is Appointed Superintendent for District of Berlin

Mr. Herman H. Gray, of Port Hope, and son of Mr. Joseph Gray, of this city, who has been connected with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. for the past ten years has the honor of being the leading assistant Superintendent in Canada and the United States for the year 1911 in its ordinary business and as a result of which he has been appointed Superintendent of the Berlin District.

MINSTREL SHOW BY BUGLE BAND

Members of the Bugle Band held their first rehearsal at the Armouries last night for the minstrel show to be put on at a date yet to be arranged.

The initial appearance of the minstrel was in every way successful and an entertainment replete with refined and up-to-date songs, jokes and monologues together with some new features, will be given at the Armouries. Every member of the Bugle Band is wanted at the rehearsals.

Joe Marks' Company

Joe Marks opened up his nine nights engagement at the Empire last evening to a large and appreciative audience with a production entitled "Little Alabama," and the work of the company fully bore out all the good things that have been said of this aggregation. In Grace Marks the company has a leading lady of the first water, her portraiture of the princess last night being a histrionic feat that has not been equalled in the history of stock theatricals in this city. The whole company is strong and clever and there was not a weak spot in the whole performance.

The 'twixt-curtain specialties were all of a particularly pleasing nature, especially the acrobatic and contortion work of the two Sours, which is equal to anything of its kind ever seen here. Miss Marks singing in the principal pill, and the vaudeville turns of Charlie Banks, Joe Vance and Jim Prim were productive of well merited applause.—Fort William Times.

Marks Bros. appear at the Grand Opera House Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 22nd, 23rd and 24th.

PUSH PETERBOROUGH

The Support of Citizens Required—Some Examples From Other Places

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—Peterborough has the essentials and accessories for a manufacturing centre in a superior degree. We have seen that this is true. It has grown rapidly, more rapidly than nearly every city in Ontario in the past ten years. The returns have demonstrated this. What further can be done, in addition to what is now being done, to push Peterborough forward?

At present this work is in the hands of a Committee of the Council on which the Board of Trade has three representatives. A keen lookout is kept for new factories or foreign manufacturing concerns that contemplate entering Canada, and correspondece is continually going on with these, as well as personal interviews. To explain all that is done would probably be injudicious, as it would give valuable hints to other cities, but I am assured, and have been shown evidence to sustain that assurance, that the committee is alert and active.

An alert and active committee, no matter how competent and agressive, must be supproted by the citizens generally. When by-laws are submitted the electors must vote for them in sufficient numbers to satisfy an absurdly drastic law or the committee's efforts may come to naught.

Here are some examples of what has been done recently in some other places in the way of carrying by-laws to air industries:—

In Owen Sound—To loan $15,000 to a knitting factory, to loan $15,000 to furniture factory and to loan $20,000 to a carriage factory. Altogether Owen Sound passed by-laws involving $110,000 for industrial assistance.

In Guelph—To loan $20,000 to the Independent Tire Co. and to give fixed assessment to four factories. Another is being voted on to loan $25,000 to a casket factory.

In Belleville—To guarantee bonds to the amount of $25,000 for and give a fixed assessment to one industry and to aid another concern.

In Dunnville—To authorize a loan of $30,000 to one company and to purchase a site and put up a building for another at a cost of $10,000.

In Wingham—To grant $10,000 and a fixed assessment to a foundry.

In Mount Forest—To loan a carriage company an additional sum of $14,000.

In Drayton—To grant a loan of $4,000, a free site and exemption from taxes to a flax mill.

In Newmarket—To grant a loan of $25,000 to a motor company.

In Port Arthur—To guarantee bonds to the amount of $30,000 to a factory to make interior finishings, and for granting assistance to a match factory. In all, Port Arthur voted to raise $150,000 in five industrial by-laws.

In Aurora—To loan a company $10,000 and grant exemption from taxes.

In St. Catharines—To give a lock factory nine acres of land, free water, exemption for ten years and a fixed assessment for another ten years.

In Merriton—To give a fixed assessment to a tissue paper factory.

In Alliston—To give a fixed assessment and free water to a silverware factory.

In Campbellford—To "assist" a bridge works in that town.

In Windsor—Three by-laws, to grant "the usual concessions" to three different conerns.

In Trenton—Three by-laws to grant fixed assessments to a baby carriage factory, a shirt and collar factory and a button factory.

In Chatham—To loan $40,000.

In Perth—To loan $25,000.

In Sarnia—To grant a bonus of $30,000 to a factory. This industry is one Peterborough had correspondence with.

Fort William—To aid two concerns, in regard to which $102,000 is to be raised by the city.

Milton—To guarantee the bonds of a shoe company to the extent of $12,000, the company to expend $15,000.

Brampton—A loan of $43,000 to a foundry.

Stratford—A loan of $10,000 to a factory for piano accessories.

Thorold—A fixed assessment to a paper and pulp company.

Woodstock—To aid an automobile factory.

Bracebridge—A fixed assessment for a woollen mill.

Deseronto—To aid a canning factory.

Durham—Exemption for a cement factory.

Napanee—To aid a rock drill factory.

Smith's Falls—Concessions in assessment to an agricultural implemetn factory.

Tilbury—A loan to a brick and tile yard.

Kingston—A fixed assessment to a locomotive works and privileges to a box factory.

Ridgetown—Concessions to a canning factory.

Listowel—Exemption and free water for a furniture factory.

This list is not a complete one; it has been made from paragraphs noticed in casual reading of the papers, and in these paragraphs full particulars are not given. It, however, serves the purpose of indicating what other places do in the way of carrying by-laws to assist industries, and our people must support in the same way those engaged more directly in the work of advancing the city industrially in order to secure new industries.

Yours truly,
CIVIS SUM.

LOCAL JUNIORS WON OUT IN OVERTIME AT PORT HOPE

Scored First Four Goals of Game But Were Tied up at Full Time—One Goal Was Not Allowed.

Peterborough Juniors won their fourth straight game of the season last night, when after twenty minutes overtime, they defeated Port Hope with an 8—4 score, taking the extra quartet in the second period of the overtime, Hall, Clancy, Kennealley and Weir doing the scoring.

It is claimed by the locals that the game should have been their's without the extra time as Stan Cook broke the 4—4 tie with a shot that went through the netting from the front. Goal umpire Mark Kenealley gave the goal, but referee Lou Marsh, of Toronto, refused to allow the tally. This with other decisions of Marsh made him very unsatisfactory to the visitors.

The ice was in poor condition and fast hockey was not on the bill-of-fare. Peterborough scored the first four goals and lead at the half by 4—2.

The teams were:

ON TO COBOURG MONDAY

A Win From the Freeman Outfit Gives the Colts Championship of District

The score of the Madoc-Marmora game was twisted somewhat as a later report gives the game to Marmora by 11—4. The Madoc Review hands a beautiful bouquet to Sandy Burrows, of Belleville when it says:

In the interests of good sport, Burrows of Belleville, ought not to be allowed to referee any more games in the league. He is not above partiality.

It is lovely playing in those open air rinks. In a recent Trent Valley League contest one of the players had both feet frozen.

Fred Dennison will in all probability, be given a berth on the juniors in the game at Cobourg on Monday night. The special will carry a big crowd of rooters to the Lakeshore town as with Peterborough winning, the district is their's. The fare is $1.25 for adults and 65 cents for children. The train leaves the G.T.R. station at seven o'clock.

POOR HOCKEY IN TRENT VALLEY LEAGUE GAME

T.A.S. Won From All Saints' in Poorly Played Contest

The T.A.S.-All Saints' clash at Brock street rink last night was a big disappointment, as the game was one of the weirdest ever witnessed at the ice works. The score was 2—0 for T.A.S., with the half ending 1—0.

It wasn't hockey, for except in a very few instances there was't a man who could carry the puck ten feet. Both teams broke even in handing out an assortment of rough house tactics, and a result there were a number of delays, while repairs were made or to quell uprisings.

The line-ups looked good on paper, but somehow or other the game became a farce not many minutes after Referee Rose started the engagement.

Clarence Wilson, the old Strathcona goal tender, for the Saints', and Doc McFadden, in the nets for hte T.A.S., were the only two who put up any kind of an exhibition, the former being particularly prominent as he held down the score against his team in the first half when he had to watch the disc in darkness, one of the lights refusing to glimmer. Bill Rose narrowly escaped a calamity, when later, the heavy shade fell from its place.

The team were:—

All Saints'—Goal, Wilson; point, Elliott; cover, Campbell; rover, Anderson; centre, McPhee; wings, Martin and Hillier.

MR. R. B. GROBB AND ALL SAINTS' CONGREGATION

Social Evening at Which Addresses Were Made

An affair of much interest to the congregation of All Saints' was that held in the parish hall last night for the meeting of the rector, Rev. R. B. Grobb and the members of the church. The attendance was encouragingly and the evening was much enjoyed. Mr. Frank Dawson acted as chairman, and short addresses were given by Rev. Canon Davidson, Mr. George F. Ward, warden of St. Luke's; Mr. Robert McFadden, lay delegate of All Saints'; Mr. John Edgar, Sunday school superintendent, and Mr J. Harris McClellan, while Mr. John Hogan read an address of welcome from the congregation to the new rector. Rev. Mr. Grobb acknowledged the kindness extended to him on his coming to the city and All Saints' church. He expressed his pleasure at the prospects before the church and parish, and asked for the co-operation of his congregation in all departments of church work. Vocal contributions were given by Miss Ruth Dawson, Mr. George Chandler and the Aeolian Quartet of the choir. Mr. Cyril Devey presided at the piano, and the Women's Guild serve drefreshments. The hall was decorated for the occasion by the Guild and Auxiliary.

Was Reid Murdered?

Hamilton, Jan. 19.—At the inquest conducted by Coroner McNichol last night into the death of John T. Reid, at the city hospital last week, rather sensational evidence was brought to light tending to confirm the suspicion of the police that he had met with foul play.

The inquest was adjourned for two weeks, and, in the meantime, the circumstances will be enquired into.

Reid, in an ante-mortem statement, said that he had been struck, but this was not at first believed.

PEAT FUEL

Dr. Haanel's Experiments Full of Promise For Canada.

Dr. Eugene Haanel, in a recent pamphlet, says that the 37,000 square miles of peat already known form, probably, but a small fraction of the amount of this valuable fuel asset in existence in Canada.

He refers to the various expensive experiments made in Canada with new methods of manufacturing peat into fuel and expresses the opinion that it will be better to adopt the methods already proved successful in Europe and "leave experimentation and the development of new ideas to the future, when our peat industry is on a secure basis and peat-fuel in abundance on the market.

He thinks "We will then have gained in the manufacture of peat fuel along lines which are at present commercial the necessary experience to warrant the hope that proposals for modifications and improvements of present processes will be based upon a thorough and practical understanding of the nature of peat and the principles upon which future economy may reasonably be expected."

He goes on to say that to re-establish the confidence of the people of Canada in the value of peat as a domestic and industrial fuel, and to stimulate renewed activity in the development of our peat resources, the Government has acquired 300 acres of peat bog at Alfred, Ont., with an average depth of nine feet, for the purpose of manufacturing peat fuel on a commercial scale by a method which has proven successful in European practice.

The capacity of the Government plant is a production of 30 tons per day. Manual labor is employed in excavating the fuel, but Dr. Haanel says that, for a large commercial plant mechanical excavators should replace manual labor.

The Government plant at Alfred is not intended for the production of peat fuel on an extensive scale, but is to serve as a model of a successful process.

The plant was established after an investigation of peat fuel manufacturing processes in various countries of Europe where peat is extensively used as fuel.

"There is nothing artistic about the appearance of the fuel produced at the Government bog," says Dr. Haanel. "It has not the regular geometric form of briquettes nor their smooth exterior, but it serves the purpose for which fuel is intended as well as briquettes, and has the advantage of being low in cost of manufacture."

It is stated that allowing 140 days for a season's operation, the cost per ton of air-dried machine peat, including interest on capital invested, amortization, oil and repairs is as follows:—

Cost of fuel on the field	$1.40
Cost of fuel stored in shed	1.65
Cost of fuel loaded on car	1.65
Cost of fuel in stock	1.70

It is thought that by the employment of mechanical excavators and the manufacture of peat on a large scale the cost of production per ton should be considerably reduced.

Dr. Haanel says that the endeavor to accomplish economically by artificial means in a short time what has been accomplished by nature in exceedingly long periods of time in the transformation of peat into fuel has so far apparently not been attended by success.

The process at Alfred is simply air drying. The chief disadvantage of this method is that it can only be worked during the summer months and the amount of fuel that can be produced depends upon weather conditions, but the climate of Canada is as favorable for drying peat as the climate of Sweden, Finland, Denmark, Germany, Holland, Austria and Russia, all of which depend for a large part of their fuel supply on the same simply process of pulping peat, forming it into bricks on the field and drying it in the open air as is used at Alfred.

It is stated that peat fuel can be used in any of the common stoves now in use in Canada, but there may be seen at Alfred a model of a Swedish stove specially constructed for peat-fuel, which is said to be very convenient in operation.

Montreal and Toronto.

In comparing the census figures for Montreal and Toronto it should be noted that Toronto has annexed all its contiguous suburbs except North Toronto, whereas Montreal has a number of populous suburbs that have not been annexed, says The Canadian Century of Montreal. In making comparisons regarding the growth of the two cities the suburbs of both should be included as they are merely outgrowths of the city.

Both Montreal and Toronto will very soon be regarded as among the world's great cities, and the probability is that they will show a larger percentage of growth during the next ten years than they ever did before. We believe that the population of Montreal has not been fully counted by the census enumerators, but even the census makes the Montreal urban district, including the city and its contiguous suburbs, over 534,000. It is almost certain that Montreal will have over a million people when the next census is taken. Toronto is also growing wonderfully. Both cities should quickly plan and carry out improvements that will make them compare favorably with other great cities.

IN THE WORLD OF SCIENCE

THE BLOOD AND THE BRAIN

To Get the Best Brain Work the Blood must be Maintained in Healthy Condition.

As all brain action is dependent upon the blood — that is the heart action — we frequently look for an explantion of unhealthy mental conditions in the state of the blood. Unusually low blood pressure is generally associated with the mental states characterising brain-fag, neurasthenia, etc.; anaemia or poorness of the blood quality will produce also mental incapacity and dulness—a man whose blood is not healthy cannot be alert and decisive. Bad food combinations (such as cheese and tea together) and ignorant eating are responsible for much more than indigestion, serious as that is in itself. It is by such mistakes that the blood is rendered less valuable to all the organs of the body, including, of course, the brain. The powers of memory are directly influenced by biliousness and an over-acid condition of the blood. Again vigorous brain action depends largely upon the regular and speedy elimination of the waste products of the body; if these do not get out by way of the bowels and kidneys they are taken into the blood, and this, fouled as it is, is yet sent by the wonderful pumping mechanism of the heart to the remotest corner of body and brain. Simple food, plenty of water to drink between meals, fresh air by night and day, regular exercise and deep breathing will keep the blood at its best, and that in its turn will do good work for the brain.

The Latest in Guns

During the recent extended manoeuvres of the German army there were many night attacks, in which use was made of the newly-introduced illuminating pistols. According to the new regulations, these are to be employed wherever the configuration of the land makes their use preferable to that of the ordinary searchlight. The machinery necessary for the use of the latter device is very inconvenient, and especially in rolling and otherwise difficult country, where the main manoeuvres take place, it cannot be used to advantage. The illuminating pistols have not this disadvantage, as they are easily transported. Further, the searchlight is useless in valleys and deep-lying plains, as their rays shoot over these and leave them apparently in still deeper shadow. For this reason, such valleys serve as excellent covers at night against the searchlights. The illuminating pistols have done away with this advantage of shelter, as the cartridges which they throw light up the deepest and darkest gulleys. There are two different sorts of cartridges, producing respectively white and red light. The white ones serve exclusively for illuminating the country, the red ones for signalling purposes between widely separated commands or divisions, even where the distance between them is several miles. The illuminating cartridges develop a light that makes everything within 650 feet visible, and lasts eight to ten seconds.

Edison's First Invention

The story of Mr. Edison's first invention will bear retelling. One day, when he was a small boy of five, his parents missed him, and after a long search his elder sister discovered him in the fowl-house, where he said he intended to remain three weeks. His clothes were in a terrible condition, being smothered with crushed eggs. "What were you doing that for, Tom?" asked his sister in alarm. "Well, I thought if the hens could hatch eggs by sitting on them I could," was the reply of the youthful genius.

Mr. Edison has often been credited with inventing things which even for him would have been remarkable. Some time ago, an American paper stated that he had invented a wonderful shirt which would last a man for twelve months without requiring to be washed. This shirt, it was stated, was made of 365 layers of material, the composition of which no one knew but the inventor, and all the wearer had to do to restore it to its original spotlessness was to tear off one of the layers, when he would have practically a new shirt. This announcement was reprinted in various other papers, with the result that Mr. Edison received no end of orders for the mystery shirt.
